It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

BOARD OF MANAGERS OF THE NATIONAL HOME FOR DISABLED VOLUNTEER SOLDIERS FOR THE FISCAL YEAR ENDING JUNE 30, 1896.

To the Honorable the Senate and House of Representatives of the Congress of the United States.

GENTLEMEN: The Board of Managers of the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers makes the following report of the institution under its charge, in obedience to law, for the year ending June 30, 1896:

The terms of service of W. B. Franklin, John C. Black, Francis Fessenden, and George W. Steele expired on April 22, 1896, and W. B. Franklin, George W. Steele, Thomas J. Henderson, and George L. Beal were elected in their places for the term of six years from April 22, 1896.

The Board has performed its usual duties to the best of its ability, holding quarterly sessions as required by law, visiting and inspecting as a Board the Branches of the Home, except the Pacific Branch, which was inspected and reported upon by its inspector-general, admitting and readmitting the disabled ex-soldiers, and superintending the contracts for and distribution of supplies, erection of buildings, and other expenditures.

The twenty-five State Homes, the States supporting which have been subsidized by the United States at the rate of $100 per annum for every soldier kept one year, less one-half the amount of pension retained by the State, have been inspected by the inspectors-general of the Home. The report of these officers, appended to this report, show that these Homes are gradually becoming a source of pride to their States, and that they are economically and humanely conducted.

The supplies of the Home have been in general obtained by contract with the lowest bidder, and of the best quality. The clothing and materials for bedding are as far as possible made up by members of the Home and their wives, widows, and children. Some articles of clothing and bedding are, however, purchased ready-made. To these things the above remarks are not applicable.

The table of contents gives a list of the various matters usually submitted with this report, which it is hoped show all things of interest in the management of the Home.

The annual reports of the Branches of the Home give the main matters of interest in the Branches, and proceedings of the Board of Managers for the year are also given.

A table (Table T) showing the cost of maintenance in detail of the State Homes and of the seven Branches of the National Home for the four years commencing in 1893 and ending in 1896, is appended in the report of the general treasurer. This table shows a gradual decrease in the cost of maintenance in the State Homes in general and in all of the Branches of the National Home, and demonstrates the fact that the cost of all these institutions has been lessened by the same cause, viz, the diminished cost of all materials that are required for the maintenance of a Home for soldiers, and economical management.

* Decrease.

This table shows that the cost per member was, in the year ending June 30, 1895, $115.80, and in that ending June 30, 1896, $111.60. That the average number present for the whole year was, in 1895, 16,480, and in 1896, 17,454, an increase in 1895 of 879, and in 1896 of 974. In 1892 this increase was only 265.

The average increase for the eight years from 1889 to 1896, inclusive, was 844, so that the increase for the past year has been 130 above the average increase for the eight years previous. No one can tell what will be the increase for the next few years. At this time (November 30, 1896) the number in the Home is 617 greater than it was at the same date in 1895, and it is kept down to that number only by extreme stringency in restraining admissions. The influence of the pension law of 1890 which, in 1892 and 1893, kept down the pressure for admissions, has now been entirely eliminated, and the applications for admission are more numerous than they have been before.

Barracks increasing the housing capacity of the Home by a little less than a thousand men have been erected at the several Branches during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1896.

The number of deaths in the year 1896 is 1,171. The average age of the number cared for was 60.98 years. The average age of those who died was 65.23 years. The average time of residence at the Home of those who died was 7.40 years.

The number of pensioners at the Home increased 1,467, and the amount paid in pensions increased $159,634.37, being $110.76 per man, against $110.89 in 1895.

The average number of members of the State Homes kept one year was 7,755, an increase of 634 above 1895. The average number kept one year in the National and State Homes was 25,209, and the whole number cared for during the year was, in the National and State Homes, 40,438.

STATE SOLDIERS' HOMES.

In 1888 Congress provided for the payment to each State or Territory which should establish Homes for disabled volunteer soldiers or sailors the sum of $100 for each soldier or sailor kept one year in the Home, and this enactment was modified afterwards by deducting from the sum to be paid one-half of any amount withheld by the State Home for pensions. As thus modified the law is still in force, and in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1896, 7,755 disabled volunteer soldiers and sailors have been paid for under this law.

The State Homes have been inspected during the past year by the inspectors-general of the Home, and the reports are transmitted with this. In general the disabled men are humanely and comfortably cared for, and the Homes are credits to their States. The financial accounts are managed in the Home office by the general treasurer and the required amounts are paid by him. His report on the subject is herewith transmitted, marked Tables G[4], G[5], P, Q, and R.

OUTDOOR RELIEF.

Certain persons interested in the welfare of the Home, and desirous to supplement and extend its action for the comfort and relief of the members, are under the impression that a system of outdoor relief judiciously applied would be advisable. On more than one occasion the matter has been brought to the attention of Congress and the Board of Managers has discussed it often, and in some cases has experimented upon it. Outdoor relief was authorized by section 4833, Revised Statutes, a part of the organic law of the Home, and was at once instituted by the Board of Managers on a large scale. In the early days of the Home large sums were paid to charitable and State institutions on account of disabled soldiers housed in them, and at large, there being no Branches of the National Home where such men could be placed.

In 1868, out of nearly 4,000 men supported by the Home 2,000 were cared for by outdoor relief. But the Board deprecated this method of relief, chiefly on the ground that the men so relieved were not well cared for nor under proper control, and gradually, as the Branches of the Home became available, withheld all subsidies from these institutions and from the men themselves, finally ordering, in 1869, "that support by outdoor relief be not hereafter given to anyone who is not so disabled by sickness as to be unable to be carried to one of the Branches of the Home, but this shall not be construed to prohibit incidental temporary relief." This order is still in force and a few men are relieved under it.

In three of the oldest Branches men gathered in the vicinity and eked out their pensions by drawing a ration in kind, preferring not to enter the Home. They were thus encouraged to establish their households. But their poverty tempted them to take boarders, and thus establishments grew up which finally became prejudicial to the Home, its discipline and morals. The Board has therefore discouraged, and where possible prohibited, this method of relief.

The method of outdoor relief has been adopted in the Regular Soldiers' Home at Washington. In that institution the report of the governor of the Home shows that on September 30, 1895, the number of beneficiaries was 1,002, of whom 622 are inmates of the Home, 312 received outdoor relief, and the remainder are in the Insane Asylum, on furlough or suspension. Of the recipients of outdoor relief, 72 were nonpensioners and 240 received pensions varying from $6 to $30 monthly. The whole amount paid for outdoor relief for the year was $26,677, about $7 monthly, or $84 yearly, to each man relieved. As the number of men entitled to admission to the Regular Home is comparatively small, it is unlikely that this Home will have any material enlargement hereafter, so that the amount paid for outdoor relief, if continued, will not be embarrassing.

The appropriation for the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers, under the direction of the Board of Managers, for the year ending June 30, 1896, amounting to $1,947,925.16, cared for in the Home 26,512 members, 17,454 of whom were supported for the whole year. The appropriation for aid to State Homes, amounting to $753,417.07, helped to care for 13,926 in the State Homes, 7,755 of whom were cared for for the whole year. So that 25,209 disabled soldiers and sailors were cared for during the whole year in the National and State Homes, and 15,229 were partially cared for, making the whole number cared for by all these Homes 40,438.

The whole number of survivors of the war of the rebellion on June 30, 1896 (memorandum of Record and Pension Office, War Department, April 14, 1896), is estimated at 1,125,725. How many of these men will be admitted to the National and State Homes no one can now tell, but the experience of the Board teaches it that under existing conditions the number will still increase for an unknown time. The ages and disabilities of the ex-soldiers and sailors increase in an increasing ratio, so that the pressure for admission continually increases, and scarcely an applicant appears who is not eligible under the law.

To supplement the present method of relief by an appropriation to all worthy and eligible applicants for outdoor relief who apply for it would in the opinion of the Board increase the number who would expect to be cared for by the Home enormously, without any benefit corresponding to the very great outlay that would be required.

The number of survivors of the war of the rebellion diminished, from 1890 to 1896, 157,746, but the number of beneficiaries of all the Homes, National and State, increased during the same period 13,018.

It is apparent from the figures above quoted, from the congested condition of the Home, and from its rate of increase in population, that if it be the intention of Congress to furnish all disabled volunteer soldiers and sailors not otherwise provided for a Home, some additional provision should be made. What form such addition shall take, what shall be its amount, in fact the whole question, is respectfully presented for the determination of Congress.

A letter is appended from Col. F. C. Ainsworth, United States Army, Chief of the Record and Pension Office, on this subject, which gives valuable data and clear information:

RECORD AND PENSION OFFICE, WAR DEPARTMENT,
Washington, D. C., August 10, 1896.

SIR: Since the receipt of your letter of the 31st ultimo I have given a good deal of thought to the subject to which your letter relates, but I can find no ground upon which anything like an unassailable estimate can be based. However, it seems to me that the matter can be presented most forcibly and most fairly in the following manner:

The class from which the beneficiaries of the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers are or may be derived is an enormous one, and comprises all honorably discharged survivors of the war of the rebellion and the honorably discharged volunteer survivors of the Mexican war. On the other hand, the Regular Soldiers' Home derives its beneficiaries from a very small class, which, under existing regulations and practice, comprises only those soldiers of the Regular Army who have served over twenty years, or who have been discharged from service on account of disability, together with a comparatively small number of veterans of the earlier wars who have become disabled since their discharge.

According to my estimate there were, on June 30, 1895, 1,154,810 survivors of the war of the rebellion (deserters excluded), any one of whom may become a beneficiary of the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers, provided he is now or shall hereafter become incapable of earning a living by reason of age, disease, or other cause. The report of the inspector-general shows that on June 30, 1895, 20,858 members, present and absent, were borne on the rolls of the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers, which is a little less than 2 per cent of the survivors of the war of the rebellion at that time.

The last annual report of the Board of Commissioners of the Regular Soldiers' Home shows that on September 30, 1895, there were 1,002 beneficiaries on the rolls, including those receiving outdoor relief and those on furlough, etc. If the ratio between the number on the rolls of this Home and the number eligible to admission to the Home were the same as the ratio between the number on the rolls of the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers and the total number of the survivors of the war of the rebellion, the number eligible to the Regular Home would be 55,572. But of course no such proportion exists, because those who are eligible to admission to the Regular Home are chiefly men who have been discharged for disability or men who served twenty years or more, all of whom become eligible to admission at the moment of their discharge, and many of whom, it is well known, apply for admission or relief very soon after discharge. It is manifestly impossible for anyone to do more than guess at the ratio between the number of eligibles and the number of those who are receiving relief on any given date, but if it be assumed that only one in twenty of all the eligibles had applied for and were receiving on September 30, 1895, the relief to which the whole class was entitled under the law, it would appear that the total number of those eligible to relief from the Rgular Soldiers' Home on that date was more than 20,240.

In view of the fact that most of those who can ever become eligible to admission to the Regular Home are eligible at the date of their discharge and are likely to seek admission soon after leaving the service, while the majority of those who become eligible to the Volunteer Home do not become so until disabled by age or other infirmities, it ought to be clear to anyone that the ratio between members and eligibles should be very much higher in the Regular Home than in the Volunteer Home. It should also be borne in mind that the class from which the Regular Army is recruited differs greatly from that from which the volunteers are drawn, and that the regular soldier is much more likely to apply for admission to a soldiers' home after his discharge than is the volunteer soldier who has been but a short time withdrawn from civil life, who has not become unfitted for civil pursuits and success therein, and who probably has a home of his own awaiting him or is sure to find one among relatives or friends. But while the number of ex-volunteer soldiers who willingly or unwillingly become inmates of soldiers' homes is comparatively small, it does not by any means follow that the number of those who would apply for "outdoor relief," especially if such relief were obtainable in the shape of cash payments at stated intervals, would be comparatively small. On the contrary, it is evident that the number of those who would adopt this easy and not disagreeable method of obtaining a certain amount each year from the Government must, so long as human nature remains what it is, be exceedingly large, and that the ratio between them and those who would become inmates of the Home is very much larger than the ratio between those who receive outdoor relief from the Regular Home and those who become inmates of that Home. It is apparent that, for reasons pointed out above, the experience of the Regular Home in the matter of furnishing outdoor relief has been widely different from what that of the Volunteer Home would be if it should adopt the same practice, and that the number that has applied or that can apply successfully to the former for such relief is almost infinitesimal as compared with the number that could and undoubtedly would make similar applications to the latter if the opportunity to do so were offered.

On June 30, 1895, there were 735,338 survivors of the war on the pension roll, and 116,177 other survivors had claims pending on that date. Should the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers undertake to furnish outdoor relief, under the regulations under which such relief is furnished by the Regular Home, how many of the survivors who are now pensioned, or may hereafter be pensioned, would refrain from attempting to increase their allowance by applying for such relief as might be attainable from the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers? This is a question which each one interested in the subject must necessarily answer for himself, but it seems to be worthy of careful consideration in connection with any attempt to estimate the cost of such a law as that now under discussion. Of course if the law should restrict the giving of outdoor relief to those who are in destitute circumstances, or those who are receiving pensions of less than a certain amount, or should impose several other possible limitations, the number of applicants would not be so large as it otherwise would, but if a law should be enacted requiring that a certain money allowance shall be made to all who are eligible to admission to the Home but do not care to enter the Home it is plain that the number of applications for such relief must necessarily be enormous, because the amount that would be obtained in this way from the Home would surely be looked upon as an additional pension, and in effect it would be nothing more nor less than that.

Very truly, yours,

F. C. AINSWORTH,
Colonel, United States Army, Chief of Record and Pension Office.

INSPECTION AND STORAGE.

By the Rules and Regulations established under act of March 3, 1887, by the Secretary of the Treasury, promulgated September 7, 1893, all expenditures for such clothing, bedding, tableware, and stationery as may be required by the Board of Managers were to be legally made by the general treasurer. By the act of August 18, 1894, the word "services" was added, so that the clause reads "for services, stationery, tableware, clothing, and bedding as may be required," etc.

In making contracts for the above-mentioned articles, inspections of the goods purchased are required before they were received by the Home, in order to insure uniformity and good quality, and these inspections were generally made at the place of manufacture, at small cost to the Home, and the cost of inspection was charged as part of the cost of the article. But the accounting officers disallowed all charges incidental to such inspections, so that the Home was obliged to receive the goods without inspection, causing loss to the Home and saving but little to the appropriation. This decision of the accounting officers was so modified about the close of the last session of Congress as to permit the payment for inspections previously disallowed.

In the sundry civil bill of the last session the Home attempted to get a clause inserted permitting it to ship and distribute all supplies purchased for the general use of the Home as may be directed by the Board of Managers, and appropriations for storehouses, which are necessary under the existing law at several of the Branches, were left off the bill under the supposition that the clause suggested would pass, in which case the storehouses would not be required. But the clause did not pass, and the appropriations for the storehouses were not restored. It would be better, in the opinion of the Board, if the suggested clause had become a law, but under the existing law the storehouses ought to be erected. The cost of the three for which estimates were submitted would have been $26,000.

The requirements of the law of August 18, 1894, that enacts that all "stationery, tableware, clothing, and bedding that may be required for each Branch Home shall be shipped directly from the place of purchase or manufacture to such Branch Home" causes a constant loss and waste to the Home.

The Branches of the Home are not properly arranged for the storage of large quantities of clothing and bedding, nor are the departments organized for properly handling them. The places for storage are small, and in some cases damp, yet a whole year's supply must at times be stored in them.

It would be much better for the goods if they were delivered at the Central Branch when they are purchased, and delivered from there to the Branches on quarterly requisitions calling for the precise quantities of articles needed. The cost of transportation would in some degree be increased, but this would be more than offset by the careful and safe storage of the goods and the impossibility of a large issue except by orders from headquarters, thus avoiding a careless or unwarrantable issue. There would, judging by experience, be absolutely no loss from dampness or moths, or careless packing and storage at the Central Branch, the arrangements there being well fitted for the proper storage, inspection, and care of all such goods.

Notwithstanding the increased barrack accommodation at the Branches, the congestion of the Home still continues, and there is no present prospect that it will diminish. All subsidiary apparatus, such as dining rooms, kitchens, hospitals, apparatus for heating, and water supply in all of the Branches, are taxed to their greatest capacity, and have required constant additions, and must be supplemented in the future.

As there are now seven large hospitals connected with the Home, the necessity for a general technical superintendent of the hospitals becomes more apparent on every account. Such a person should be attached to the staff of the Home, and his salary should be sufficient to command the best talent in the medical profession.

During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1896, the losses of membership by discharges and deaths were 3,956. The gains in the same time by admissions, readmissions, and appointments were 5,654. There is no reason for supposing that these figures will vary much in the near future. There were 489 colored members present at the seven Branches of the Home on June 30, 1896.

The statistics of the cure for intemperance and the morphine habit for the last fiscal year are given below:

Central Branch	14	Pacific Branch	27
Northwestern Branch	61	Marion Branch	48
Eastern Branch	58
Western Branch	96	Total	304

The report of the general treasurer gives the present financial condition of the Home, and also shows that the final accounts of the acting treasurer to October 27, 1894, have been settled by the proper accounting officers of the Government, under settlement 3861, of September 2, 1896.

The following is a statement of the applications for admission and readmission received by Managers, Branches, and agents, from June 30, 1896, to date, and which have been denied, owing to the crowded condition of the Home, viz:

The following statement gives the dates of references to the laws establishing the seven Branches of the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers, the total acreage and cost, and the cost of all buildings and improvements at each Branch to include the fiscal year ending June 30, 1896.

(1) The date of and reference to the law establishing each of the seven Branches of the Home, and the date when each was ready for use:

The four Branches of the Home first established were:

ANNUAL REPORT OF CENTRAL BRANCH, NATIONAL HOME FOR DISABLED VOLUNTEER SOLDIERS, FOR THE YEAR ENDING JUNE 30, 1896.

CENTRAL BRANCH, July 27, 1896.

GENERAL: I have the honor to submit the following report of this Branch for the year ending June 30, 1896:

GENERAL FUND.

The treasurer's report shows the average cost of ration per day per 100 men as $14.26, against $15.10 last year; per capita per year, $104.06, against $113.68 last year; general expenditures, $567,903.15, against $617,393.99 last year. The minimum number of members present during the year was 4,723 on July 1, 1895. The maximum number present was 5,162 on December 22, 1895; minimum number present and absent, 5,644, on July 12, 1895; maximum number present and absent, 5,829, January 25, 1896.

LIBRARY.

During the year 898 volumes have been added to the libraries, Mrs. Putnam having presented 448 volumes to the Putnam Library, and the George H. Thomas Library having received by gift and purchase 450, making a total in the two libraries of 19,794. Eight hundred and sixteen volumes being worn out, and unfit for further use, were dropped. The number of books issued during the year was 46,562, a most gratifying increase over the number issued last year (41,301).

PERMANENT IMPROVEMENTS.

The only new building completed during the year under general fund, was the gas house, which is now occupied, though all of the gas machinery is not yet in working order. Our gas plant, as now arranged, is proving satisfactory, both as to location and service. Repairs to Barrack 10, slop shed and nurses' cottage, have been completed. Alterations and extensions to water-closets in several of the barracks, where they were needed, have been made. New cement flooring has been laid at hospital, property building, and mess hall. Some new boilers, feed pumps, etc., have been put in at boiler houses; alterations and extensions made to lumber shed, and the addition to water plant at the Wagner wells completed. The supply of water at present is abundant. During the year pipe organs have been put in, in both Protestant and Catholic rooms of chapel, and the walls of both places of worship have been extensively redecorated at the expense of the post fund. A new "Assembly and Amusement Hall" (Veteran's Clubhouse) has been built with post-fund money. This building will add greatly to the enjoyment of the members, and is decidedly ornamental in appearance.

HEALTH.

The general health of the members has been comparatively good during the year. The death rate is somewhat higher than last year, but not as high as in some previous years. Total number of deaths, 378; 58 outside of Home.

DISCIPLINE.

The mile-and-one-half-limit law has been enforced during the year, and the immediate vicinity of the Home is free from the old-time dens of iniquity. The methods followed by local politicians here, during political campaigns, result in much injury to the good order and discipline of the Home, and the temptations to which members are exposed at such times is greatly to be deplored. The good effects of the gold-cure treatment continues to be felt in the Home, though only a small number of new cases have been treated during the year. The accompanying tables under head of "Discipline," show that the number of offenses committed during the year was less than last year, while the whole number of members cared for was greater.

Very respectfully,

J. B. THOMAS, Governor.

Gen. M. T. MCMAHON,
Secretary Board of Managers,
National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers.

RELIGION AND SOCIETIES.

The regular religious services have been held as usual during the year by the Home chaplains, and in addition there have been many opportunities for the members of the Home to hear outside ministers in the Home chapel. Last winter a Catholic evangelist held a series of impressive services in the Catholic chapel.

The Woman's Christian Association, of Dayton, have held services at the Home every two weeks, except during the very warm weather in summer, and meetings in the grove were held from time to time during the summer by the Salvation Army and the Christian Alliance. The attendance at the religious services in the Protestant chapel has largely increased during the year. The pipe organ and the choir of young voices have helped to bring this about. The good influence exerted by Drs. Kemper and Light, chaplains, is not by any means confined to their prescribed ministrations in church services and at the sick bed in hospital, but is strongly felt throughout the entire Home. During the year Chaplain Kemper officiated at 104 funerals and Chaplain Light at 209.

ANNUAL REPORT OF NORTHWESTERN BRANCH, NATIONAL HOME FOR DISABLED VOLUNTEER SOLDIERS, FOR THE YEAR ENDING JUNE 30, 1896.

NORTHWESTERN BRANCH, July 14, 1896.

GENERAL: I have the honor to submit the following report of this Branch for the year ending June 30, 1896:

Average present for year ending June 30, 1895	2,230
Average present for year ending June 30, 1896	2,313
Gain	83
Average present and absent for year ending June 30, 1895	2,608
Average present and absent for year ending June 30, 1896	2,695
Gain	87
Average age of members	61.90
Total number of deaths	136
Average age of deceased members	66.45

The average cost of the ration per day for each member was 15.04 cents. The average cost per capita was $116.16, a decrease in the cost as compared with last year of $5.71.

The decrease in the cost of the ration and per capita was owing to the increase in the number of men cared for without any increase in the amount of funds appropriated for their maintenance and to the extremely low prices for provisions and other necessaries which prevailed during the period.

The permanent inprovements have been the erection of a commodious headquarter building at a cost of $9,999.27, and a quartermaster and commissary storehouse at a cost of $3,803.83. These buildings were much needed and the business of the Home has been greatly facilitated by their use.

The discipline of the Home still shows an improvement, and is now about as good as can reasonably be expected.

The Keeley Institute continues in successful operation and has been productive of great benefit to the members of the Home and to its comfort.

Respectfully submitted. CORNELIUS WHEELER,
Governor.

Gen. M. T. MCMAHON,
Secretary Board of Managers,
National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers.

RELIGION.

[Protestant chaplain's report.]

I beg leave herewith respectfully to make my usual report of services and duties covering the year ending July 1, 1896.

Regular Sunday morning services have been kept up in the chapel during the past year, except in the month of September, 1895, when I was absent on my annual vacation. Services have also been held every Friday evening from November 1 to May 31. At certain portions of the year it is safe to say that the attendance of the men has been fully equal to that of any previous year; at others it has been better than formerly. On the first Sunday in every month the holy communion has been administered.

The services have been made especially attractive by the singing of our excellent choir. The great want for many years has been an organ; this want will happily soon be supplied. I feel very sure that the money appropriated and contributed for the purchase of a new pipe organ will be found to be money well invested. In speaking for myself and the congregation, we shall all be truly grateful for this great addition to the beauty and interest of our services.

I have officiated personally or by a representative at 67 funerals during the past year.

I have constantly visited the hospital, administering to the sick and dying as their needs required and as I had the ability.

[Catholic chaplain's report.]

I have the honor to submit the following report from 1st of July, 1895:

It is both a consolation and a pleasure to me to hold religious services in the National Home chapel on account of the interest which our Catholic soldiers take in the practice of their religion, the great number attending, even at an early hour, and the beautiful church music rendered by our choir.

We have two services on every Sunday and holy day of obligation, the last, at 7.30 a. m., always being a high mass with sermon. On Saturdays and evenings before festivals we have an evening service at 7.30 p. m., and on every Saturday afternoon confessions are heard in the chapel and in the hospital.

I visited the various wards in the hospital about three times every week, and it is customary to bring them on Saturday several Catholic newspapers to occupy their leisure moments with useful reading.

During these twelve months I performed the funeral services over 52 members of the Home, who nearly all received the last sacraments. I frequently visited the restraint ward, and about once a month attended the meetings of the Keeley Club to encourage the members thereof in their praiseworthy work.

Our students of the Marquette College of this city have helped us by their afternoon and evening entertainment at the Memorial Hall on February 6, 1896, to defray partly the expenses for the new pipe organ which I hope will soon be ready for the National Home chapel.

I gratefully again acknowledge repeated kindness and courtesies which I always experience from the officers of the Home.

THE KEELEY (GOLD CURE) TREATMENT.

The Keeley treatment for inebriety was introduced at this Branch February 21, 1893. From that date to June 30, 1895, 485 cases were treated, of which, so far as could be ascertained, there were 121 relapses. From June 30, 1895, to June 30, 1896, there were 61 members treated, during which time there were 24 relapses. Total number treated, 546; total number relapses, 143, or a percentage of 26.19.

This treatment has been of great benefit to the members of the Home and to its discipline.

SANITARY REGULATIONS.

Daily inspections are made of the buildings and grounds by the inspector and by the officer of the day. Accumulation of garbage or filth of any kind is not allowed.

Applicants for membership or relief are sent at once to take a bath, and, when necessary, their clothing is fumigated or destroyed and clean second clothing furnished in its stead.

The closets and sewers are carefully watched and kept in as good order as possible, and are generally in a satisfactory condition.

Every member of the Home is required to take a bath at least once each week, records of which are kept by the bathroom attendants. Any failure to comply with this rule is reported by company commanders as an offense.

BARRACKS.

The necessity for additional barrack accommodations has been apparent during the past year, and the failure to obtain an appropriation by Congress for the erection of a building to be used in connection with the hospital as a convalescent ward leaves the Home in a crippled condition with regard to the proper care of the increasing number of men who require constant supervision of physicians and nurses. I would urge the fact that at the present time the Home has 640 members on furlough, with only 90 vacant beds in barracks, while the applications for admission are larger than ever before for this season of the year. It is a serious question how these men can be comfortably provided for during the cold weather.

HEALTH.

The statement below, from Dr. W. E. Elwell, in response to my request for information in relation to the health of the members during the past year, presents a clear idea of the increasing number of veterans who require hospital treatment, and also raises a question whether there should not be more stringent regulations with regard to allowing men to go on furloughs during the early spring, with the variable, harsh weather, especially during the months of March and April. Not only is the mortality increased by the death of members absent from the Home on furlough, but those who return are generally debilitated from exposure and dissipation, many of them fit subjects for the hospital. The change from the constantly warmed and comfortable barracks to the cold and unhealthy places they occupy often results in sickness and death.

DR. ELWELL'S STATEMENT.

I have the honor to transmit herewith my annual report for the year ending June 30, 1896, and to call your attention to certain important facts connected therewith. By comparing this report with those for the previous five years, the constantly increasing proportion of members requiring treatment in hospital is clearly shown. Thus, the ratio for 1891 was 17 per cent of the whole number cared for; 1892, 18.2 per cent; 1893, 22.7 per cent; 1894, 23 per cent; 1895, 25.1 per cent, and for the year ending June 30, 1896, 27.1 per cent. If the proportion of sick members continues to increase at the rate indicated by these figures, the necessity for more hospital space to properly care for them will soon be imperative.

The death rate is slightly larger than that of the previous year, but this increase is wholly in the number who died while absent from the Home. The number of such deaths was 15 for the year ending June 30, 1895, and 27 for the year just closed, while the number of deaths occurring in the Home was 31.86 per 1,000 for 1895, and 31.32 per 1,000 for 1896, which shows a slight decrease in our internal death rate during the past year.

Although we have been free from epidemic diseases, the number of cases of phthisis, pneumonia, bronchitis, and chronic Bright's disease has been unusually large, and the number of new members whose condition necessitated their immediate admission to the hospital at the time of their arrival at the Home has greatly exceeded that of any previous year.

PERMANENT IMPROVEMENT.

A new barrack was erected during the fall of 1895, which accommodates 125 men, and is the most comfortable and convenient building for the purpose on the grounds. It is built of wood at a cost of $6,983. The greenhouse has been moved to a new location adjacent to the main boiler plant, which supplies the heat at a much less expense than formerly. An addition for propagating purposes has also been provided and our supply of plants this season has been ample. The old wooden storehouse, which occupied the site of the present boiler plant, was taken down and rebuilt in another location. A pleasant driveway has been constructed through the woods from the deer park to the cemetery.

Respectfully,

LUTHER STEPHENSON,
Governor.

SANITARY REGULATIONS.

There is practically no change in our sanitary regulations over previous years. Members are required to bathe at least once each week, and constant supervision is exercised over sewers and drains, which are kept clean at all times.

RELIGION AND SOCIETIES.

The Protestant religious services during the past year have been performed by the following clergymen: Rev. R. M. Plant, Episcopal; Rev. C. S. Cummings, Methodist, and Rev. C. E. Newbert, Unitarian. The attendance has been large, and the services of the different clergymen seem to be appreciated by the worshipers.

Rev. John P. Nelligan, Catholic, has conscientiously attended to his duties, and the attendance at the Catholic service has been very large. There has been no decrease in the usually large number of Catholic members of the Home, who regularly conform to the requirements of their faith.

The organizations composed of members of the Home are the Cutler Post, No. 48, Grand Army of the Republic, Department of Maine, with a membership of 187, and the Keeley League, No. 2, of Maine, with 127 members.

ANNUAL REPORT OF SOUTHERN BRANCH, NATIONAL HOME FOR DISABLED VOLUNTEER SOLDIERS, FOR THE YEAR ENDING JUNE 30, 1896.

SOUTHERN BRANCH, August 8, 1896.

GENERAL: I have the honor to submit the following report of this Branch for the year ending June 30, 1896:

MEMBERSHIP.

Aggregate number present June 30, 1895	2,797
Aggregate number present and absent June 30, 1895	3,890
Average number present year ending June 30, 1895	3,000
Average number present and absent year ending June 30, 1895	3,953
Aggregate number present June 30, 1896	3,129
Aggregate number present and absent June 30, 1896	4,448
Average number present year ending June 30, 1896	3,131
Average number present and absent year ending June 30, 1896	4,148

The figures above show the strength of membership at end of last fiscal year, viz, June 30, and the number present at that time was 3,129; whereas, on the 16th of June (at time of making quarterly pension payment) the number was 3,381. The difference between these figures shows the number of furloughs granted after said pension payment. At date of making this report (August 8) we have a present membership of 3,349, or within 32 of the number present before the June exodus began.

Our absentee membership at this date is 1,231.

I desire to call special attention to the fact that with the large number present and the large number of absentees and with no provision made for the accommodation of an increase of membership, we will be taxed beyond our capacity if further admissions and transfers from other Branches are not stopped. All that we can be expected to do is to provide for the absent members returning. This, I think, we shall be able to do by reason of those receiving furloughs, but for no new admissions.

Special attention is also called to the fact that we still have 49 members in tents who will have to be provided with barrack quarters, as the tents are old and will not last through the coming winter. It is therefore evident that if steps are not taken by the Managers to remedy this condition they will be required to approve an application for more tents to provide for the excess beyond our present membership.

CONSTRUCTION.

Two barracks have been constructed during the year, with a total capacity for 425 members. For cheapness and convenience they are the best ever constructed at this Branch, and my only regret now is that our estimate for $31,000 to duplicate these barracks was disallowed by the

SANITARY REGULATIONS.

The Home is in a good sanitary condition. There has been no epidemic or contagious disease during the year. The buildings, kitchens, dining rooms, and closets are daily carefully and systematically policed, and a rigid inspection of each building and its appurtenances is made daily. We have a bath house for salt-water bathing, of which the members eagerly avail themselves. Ample facilities for bathing are also furnished in hospital and quarters. The hospital is in good condition, and the sick are ably cared for; the wards and surroundings are kept pure and clean.

RELIGION.

Rev. William Price, Protestant chaplain, reports as follows: "During the past year I have held preaching service each Lord's Day, at 3.30 p. m., and service of song and prayer each Lord's Day evening, and also on each Thursday evening. In the month of June I held a series of meetings for several days, and had the assistance of an efficient evangelist. We had large congregations and many evidences that much good had been accomplished. I spend much time visiting the many sick we have in our hospital. I have attended 127 funerals, and in a few years our great army of the late war will have passed away."

Rev. John F. Purcell, Catholic chaplain, reports number of masses celebrated at Home chapel, 308; funerals attended at national cemetery, 56; number of visits to the sick at Home hospital, 80; number of extra visits to Home chapel for services, 24.

SOCIETIES.

The same military societies as reported last year are kept up by the Home members, viz, 5 Grand Army of the Republic posts, 1 Union Veteran Legion encampment, and 1 post of the Union Veteran Union.

ANNUAL REPORT OF WESTERN BRANCH, NATIONAL HOME FOR DISABLED VOLUNTEER SOLDIERS, FOR THE YEAR ENDING JUNE 30, 1896.

WESTERN BRANCH, June 30, 1896.

GENERAL: I have the honor to submit the following report of this Branch for the year ending June 30, 1896:

POPULATION.

Aggregate number present June 30, 1895	2,165
Aggregate number present and absent June 30, 1895	3,039
Average number present year ending June 30, 1895	2,261
Average number present and absent year ending June 30, 1895	2,908
Aggregate number present June 30, 1896	2,318
Aggregate number present and absent June 30, 1896	3,211
Average number present year ending June 30, 1896	2,340
Average number present and absent year ending June 30, 1896	3,124

The highest number present during the year was 2,531 on February 21, 1896, while the lowest number present during the year was 2,211 on July 1, 1895. The Branch is now crowded to its utmost capacity, and admissions have necessarily ceased. This is the first instance of the cessation of admissions at this Branch during the summer months.

GENERAL FUND.

The treasurer's report shows the average cost of ration per day 14.88 cents against 15.54 cents last year; average cost per capita per year, $114.79 against $120.49 last year; general expenditures, $290,497.75 against $295,122.78 last year. The average present last year was 2,261; this year it has been 2,340. Saving in cost per capita is $5.70.

PENSION FUND.

Number of pensioners members of Branch, June 30, 1895, was 2,177; number of pensioners members of Branch June 30, 1896, is 2,456; net gain, 279. The amount paid to pensioners during the year was $212,502.90, $13,196.69 more than during the preceding year. The amount paid to families during the year was $108,727.89, $19,052.84 more than during the preceding year.

IMPROVEMENTS AND REPAIRS.

The present boiler capacity is insufficient for the proper heating of the Branch during extreme cold weather, and it is deemed essential that three additional steam boilers of 200 horsepower each be put in, making 600 horsepower to take the place of three 50-horsepower boilers in use since 1886 and now obsolete. There is a limit to the economical consumption of coal in making steam, and when this limit is exceeded the additional coal consumed is out of proportion to the results obtained.

During the year the quarters for the bandmaster, a neat cottage, have been completed under an appropriation from the post fund.

Also, under an allowance from the post fund, a room has been fitted up in the tower of the chapel for use of the Catholic chaplain.

Brick-tile floors have been placed in two rooms in the basement of the hospital used as sick-call and wound-dresser's rooms.

General repairs to barrack, hospital, and other buildings have been made at a total cost of $8,689.09.

A frame workshop, 16 by 50 feet, for members who wish to do little odd jobs for themselves, making trinkets, canes, souvenirs, etc., has been constructed from the post fund at a total cost of $247.04.

FARM.

The farm was leased during most of the year, and vegetables were purchased by the Branch from the lessee, subsistence head paying for them. It was not until March, 1896, that the farm was practically again in possession of the Branch, when sowing was commenced. The report of farm products really shows but little more than two months' transactions.

RELIGION AND SOCIETIES.

[Report of Rev. W. J. Gillespie, Protestant chaplain.]

I have the honor to present this my tenth annual report of my work at this Branch Home, as follows:

During the last year religious services have been held every Lord's day in our beautiful Immanuel Church.

Our weekly meetings for prayer and conference have been held without interruption during the entire year. Besides, by order of the governor, the church has been open every day for the convenience of the men who wish to report there for quiet meditation.

Visits to the hospital and to the sick in quarters have been frequent.

Service proper to the occasion has been conducted at 99 funerals.

Many letters have been written, at request, to their relatives, of the sick and dying.

I beg to bear renewed testimony to the beneficient results which continue to flow from the medical treatment for alcoholism administered here for more than four years. Having seen more than 1,100 men seek and receive this remedy, I am glad to testify for the encouragement of any comrade who may need its aid that it is no longer an experiment. Every day I meet in my round of duty men at work in various departments who took the treatment four years ago, and have ever since been free from the craving for strong drink. I sincerely hope, for the sake of my unfortunate comrades who have contracted the disease of drunkenness, that Governor Smith may long be able to continue this treatment, which has brought health, happiness, comfort, joy, and heavenly benediction to so many hearts and homes, and offers hope to the hopeless victim of the relentless destroyer, alcohol.

[Report of Rev. Thomas H. Kinsella, Catholic chaplain.]

The past year has been one of contentment on the part of the men to whom I have the honor to administer. I am pleased to be able to note this fact, and I record it as a proof of the worthy management of this Branch Home.

The disturbing influences that have been at work in Congress and outside of it in regard to the affairs of the Western Branch Home have not materially affected the peace and happiness of the members. They have displayed a most praiseworthy spirit toward their superior officer in the trying ordeal through which he has passed, and they have by this won the admiration of all good citizens.

I am pleased to be able to report a reasonable share of success in my work among the men. The attendance at divine worship is all that can be desired, and the devout fervor of these venerable soldiers is something very edifying indeed.

Besides the usual Sunday services, I have added services on Monday and Friday of each week. The old custom of saying night prayers in the chapel continues, and the prayers are largely attended; in fact, the men seem never to tire of our beautiful little chapel. It is a most restful spot.

A two weeks' course of sermons was given to the men during the past winter by two distinguished priests, and the result was very gratifying.

The hospitals are beginning to demand my constant attention, as old age and infirmity conspire to keep the wards well filled.

As a casual observer, I am favorably impressed by the uniform kindness displayed toward the sick and infirm in this hospital. The matron and her efficient band of women nurses are a source of great comfort to the ailing men who seek relief at their hands. The physicians are always present and their strict attention to duty has won for them the esteem and confidence of the entire camp.

I take great pleasure in testifying to the continued good results obtained through the Keeley treatment for alcoholism. It must be said, however, that the best work along this line has been accomplished. The large number cured, on the one hand, and the increasing age and infirmity of the men, on the other, leave but little now to be attained. The society known as the Keeley League has a flourishing branch at this Home. Its influence is of the very best, and its open meetings each Sunday morning are simply delightful.

The music and song, together with the speeches, render this feature of Sunday life at the Home very agreeable. I hope this remarkable society will continue to flourish, for it has wrought great things during the past four years, and it is capable of doing still more in the years to come.

ANNUAL REPORT OF PACIFIC BRANCH, NATIONAL HOME FOR DISABLED VOLUNTEER SOLDIERS, FOR THE YEAR ENDING JUNE 30, 1896.

PACIFIC BRANCH, July 1, 1896.

GENERAL: I have the honor to submit the following report of this Branch for the year ending June 30, 1896:

POPULATION.

Aggregate present and absent June 30, 1895	1,651
Aggregate present and absent June 30, 1896	1,936
Maximum present during the year, June 18, 1896	1,522
Maximum absent during the year, June 27, 1896	433
Minimum present during the year, July 5, 1895	1,253
Minimum absent during the year, September 20, 1895	323
Average number present and absent, year ending June 30, 1895	1,505
Average number present and absent, year ending June 30, 1896	1,770

PENSIONERS.

Number of pensioners year ending June 30, 1896	1,620
Total amount of pensions for one year	$168,037.30
Average pension per month per pensioner	$10.37

GENERAL FUND.

The treasurer's report shows the average cost of ration per day per 100 men as $15.97, while in the year ending June 30, 1895, it was $16.54. The cost of clothing per man this year is $17.92: last year, $20.82. The per capita cost for the year is $120.16; last year, $140.21.

PERMANENT IMPROVEMENTS.

During the year some important additions have been made, including a new kitchen of ample dimensions, equipped with cold-storage annex and ice-making plant, and an additional barrack of same capacity as those previously built.

An electric-light plant has been completed and is in successful operation.

THE WATER SUPPLY.

The failure of rain last winter left the Branch with no storage supply. This was, of course, unexpected, and has been and is the occasion of some anxiety.

Provision for an ample supply of water entirely independent of the winter rainfall demands early consideration, and it would seem that this can only be secured by pumping from the valley. Permanent works of sufficient capacity are respectfully urged as most important.

HEALTH.

The report of the surgeon shows that health conditions have been satisfactory during the year. The hospital force has been vastly improved by the employment of women nurses, through whose expert management and ministration there has been a perceptible change for the better in the care of the sick and the condition of the wards, and the equipment and methods generally.

DISCIPLINE.

The percentage of offenses is much less than shown in last year's report. Out of a total of 2,182 members only 114 are registered as offenders. The treatment for the drink habit has continued with not as many patients as heretofore, but with usual good results.

J. G. ROWLAND, Governor.

SANITARY REGULATIONS.

No epidemic of contagious or infectious diseases has appeared at this Branch during the past year, and the sanitary condition of the barracks and other buildings, as also of the grounds of the reservation, is good.

The completion of barrack No. 7 has prevented the overcrowding which for a time caused inconvenience and discomfort.

A bath record is kept by captains of companies, and members are required to bathe at least once each week.

RELIGION AND SOCIETIES.

Services have been held with regularity by the Protestant and Catholic chaplains, and ministers of other denominations preach at stated times. The Christian Endeavor Society of the Home, a strong and useful organization, holds frequent meetings, where ministers, residents of adjacent cities, are invited to officiate.

The Sun lay school and weekly prayer meeting are still maintained.

The small assembly hall, used for religious meetings, is not adapted to the purpose.

There are two Grand Army posts, John A. Martin, No. 153, with 200 members, and Uncle Sam, No. 177, with 70 members. The Union Veteran Legion has 70 members, and the Association of Naval Veterans 35 members.

KEELEY LEAGUE.

Twenty-seven new members were treated during the year, making the whole number of graduates since establishment of the league 215. ANNUAL REPORT OF MARION BRANCH, NATIONAL HOME FOR DISABLED VOLUNTEER SOLDIERS, FOR THE YEAR ENDING JUNE 30, 1896.

MARION BRANCH, June 30, 1896.

GENERAL: I have the honor to submit the following report of this Branch for the year ending June 30, 1896:

ADMISSIONS.

As in former years, the demand for admission to the Branch exceeded our capacity, making it necessary to discontinue admissions and readmissions on September 1, 1895. From that date to February 15, 1896, 273 applications for admission were received and filed.

NEW BUILDINGS AND PERMANENT IMPROVEMENTS.

Barrack No. 9 was completed and occupied November 6, 1895. This is the largest and best equipped barrack in the Branch. It has a capacity of 139 beds when not crowded. All through the winter we had 207 beds in this barrack.

The standpipe and connections were completed and accepted April 25, 1896. The standpipe is 18 feet in diameter, 125 feet high, and contains 238,000 gallons of water.

The seven gravel wells that formerly furnished our entire supply of water have become almost exhausted. We now depend on the one deep well for about all the water used in the Branch.

By attaching a "Downie" deep-well pump to old well in garden, our pumping facilities would be doubled. We are now testing the capacity of the well.

Stinson Memorial was completed and opened December 15, 1895, with the play of The Black Flag. This opportunity for recreation and pleasure is greatly enjoyed by the members. During the winter plays, concerts, lectures, etc., were frequently given. Religious services are also held here on the Sabbath.

DINING HALL AND TWO ADDITIONAL BARRACKS.

Contracts for construction of these buildings were entered into with S. C. Moore & Son on the 12th day of July, 1895.

The dining hall will be completed and occupied by the 20th proximo.

The two additional barracks are nearly finished. They will be ready for occupancy before the fall increase sets in.

NATURAL GAS.

Our two gas wells furnished sufficient gas during the year, but the rock pressure is gradually decreasing, making it necessary to look beyond our limits for an increase of the supply. This, we will be able to do, as the appropriations for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1897, provide $5,000 for gas well and connections, and $1,300 for leasing additional land. Negotiations for a new gas well and additional land are now in progress.

DISCIPLINE.

I am pleased to report a considerable improvement in discipline compared with last year. Of the 2,503, whole number members cared for, but 313 committed offenses.

POST FUND.

Home store accounts, as shown in another part of this report, exhibit a prosperous condition, the receipts, $19,005.15, being an average of $13.36 per member, based upon the average number present—this without the sale of beer.

HEALTH.

There have been no infectious diseases or epidemics during the year. We have lost, by death, 81 members, making the ratio of deaths, per 1,000 for whole number cared for, 32.36.

CHLORIDE OF GOLD CLUB.

The gold cure, productive of much good in this Branch, has been continued during the year.

No member is permitted to take the treatment unless it can be shown that he honestly desires to be cured of the drink habit. Members undergoing sentence can not join the club until sentence is completed. Cost of membership is $15. Amount received is expended for the sole benefit of the club and by their order. The Branch treasurer is treasurer of the club, elected by the club in regular meetings. A report of the receipts and expenditures is made to the club monthly, for their approval. The financial condition of the club is as follows, viz:

Cash on hand July 1, 1895	$293.64
Received during the year	757.35
Total	1,050.99
Expended during year	644.39
Leaving a balance on hand of	406.60

The accompanying tables give full information of the workings of the Branch.

In the administration of affairs I have had the loyal support of officers and employees, and to them my thanks are hereby extended.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JUSTIN H. CHAPMAN, Governor.

Gen. M. T. McMAHON,
Secretary Board of Managers,
National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers

RELIGION AND SOCIETIES.

I invite attention to the accompanying reports of the Protestant and the Catholic chaplains, as follows:

[Report of Rev. D. E. Myers, acting Protestant chaplain.]

The societies more especially designed for the promotion of religion and moral reform are as follows:

The Christian Union.—The object of this society is the encouragement of Christian life and fellowship.

The Temperance League.—The aim of this organization is more especially the promotion of temperance. This society holds regular meetings in Stinson Memorial Hall on Sunday nights.

Public religious services are held in Stinson Memorial Hall every Sabbath at 10.30 o'clock a. m., consisting of reading the Scriptures, prayer, song, and preaching the gospel.

We transferred our Sabbath services from the basement of No. 1 barrack to Stinson Memorial Hall in December, 1895. The average attendance at these services for the year has been about 250.

We also hold a week-night prayer meeting on Thursday night. This meeting is held in the basement of No. 1 barrack.

I regularly visit the hospital, administering the comforts, encouragements, and ordinances of Christianity to all who desire such service.

[Report of Rev. F. C. Weichman, acting Catholic chaplain.]

It is with a degree of satisfaction the present report is submitted. Since the presentation of the last annual report the conditions of the service of the Catholic soldiers of the Home have been very materially improved. The chapel in the basement of the Stinson Memorial Hall affords every opportunity desired. Services are held on Sundays at 7 and 9.30 o'clock a. m. They are usually so well attended as to completely fill the room. At the morning service a sermon or some moral instruction is given.

In addition to the Sunday service, a morning service is held during the week, which usually brings from 50 to 75 men to the chapel.

The chapel is open during the day, and at any hour men may be found in the exercise of private devotion.

Thursday evening of each week services are held at which a sermon is preached.

There are two societies connected with the congregation. The "League of the Sacred Heart" consists of 40 members thus far enrolled. The object of this society is to promote piety, frequent confession, and reception of holy communion. The second society is named the "Alter Society." The membership is voluntary, each member contributing the sum of 10 cents per month, which is used for the necessities of the service.

During the year I have visited the sick on an average of three times per week, responding to special calls as often as summoned. A marked improvement in discipline is noted in my congregation of soldiers.

The following societies are in organization and in good standing at this Branch:

	Members.
Union Veteran Legion, Encampment No. 90	137
Union Temperance League	250
Tom Bennett Post, No. 546, Grand Army of the Republic, Department of Indiana	54
Chloride of Gold Club	104
The Christian Union	250
League of the Sacred Heart	40

SANITARY REGULATIONS.

I have nothing special to mention under this head. Systematic daily policing of barracks, kitchen, dining room, closets, and bathrooms has been observed during the year. The surgeon makes frequent inspections of food, cooking, barracks, and grounds, and recommends such changes as may be necessary.

Bathing facilities are ample, all members being required to bathe once a week.

All beds and bedding are cleaned and aired weekly and are kept free from bedbugs or other vermin.

Our sewer, which empties into the Mississinewa River a considerable distance from the barracks or buildings, continues to carry off all refuse, and is in good order.

The application of Alexander Campbell, late Company C, Tenth United States Infantry, for reimbursement for transportation coupon No. 211304, from Cincinnati, Ohio, to Washington, D. C., lost by him, was referred to the president of the Board, with power.

On motion of General Anderson, it was—

Resolved, That there be appropriated from the post fund of the Central Branch a sum not to exceed $15,000 for the erection at that Branch, under the supervision of the local manager, of an assembly and amusement hall, such sum to include the cost of furnishing said building.

On motion, it was resolved that when the Board adjourn it be to meet in Washington, D. C., upon such date in December, 1895, as the president of the Board may designate.

On motion, General Franklin, General McMahon, and General Fessenden were appointed a committee to visit the Eastern Branch of the Home, at Togus, Me., such committee to be accompanied by such staff officers as it may deem necessary.

The president of the Board presented a communication from the governor of the Pacific Branch relative to the interment in the Home cemetery of the wives of members of the Home. On motion, permission for such interments was denied.

The application for admission to the Home of Junius E. Wharton, late Company D, Second Iowa Cavalry, and the application for readmission of Michael Brannan, late Company B, Ninth Massachusetts

Infantry, were denied under the rule, both applicants being pensioners in excess of $16 per month.

LETTER SUBMITTING REPORTS OF INSPECTOR-GENERAL AND ASSISTANT INSPECTOR-GENERAL.

BATH, STEUBEN COUNTY, N. Y., November 30, 1896.

SIR: I have the honor to submit the following reports of the inspection of Branches of the National Home by the inspector-general, Col. E. F. Brown, and of my inspection of 19 Homes in States, viz, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota, Iowa, South Dakota, the two Homes in Nebraska, Illinois, Indiana, New Jersey, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, and Vermont.

Colonel Brown inspected the Homes in the States of California, Oregon, Washington, Idaho, and Wyoming on his return from the Pacific Branch, thereby lessening the traveling expenses of the general inspection by a considerable amount. The Homes of Kansas and Colorado were inspected by Capt. D. C. Goodrich, the quartermaster and commissary of the Western Branch.

It is gratifying to be able to report that the chief purpose of the Homes in States—the welfare of their members—has been approaching quite nearly to a complete satisfaction. This commendable progress toward the best care for disabled soldiers has been accompanied by a general reduction of cost of maintenance, which has been achieved by the experience acquired by boards of trustees and officers of Homes.

It is certain that the inspections and reports which the Board of Managers of the National Home have directed and required of State Homes under the law of Congress have effected beneficent results by the dissemination of valuable information among them, which has promoted uniform and economical methods of administration and brought nearly all of them up to the standard of conditions which have been established and maintained in the National Home.

Attention is respectfully invited to the résumé of this report, wherein the important subject of the probable increase of the population and the necessary duration of the Homes is considered, and also to a suggestive presentation of the question of better and more economical methods of purchasing medical supplies.

The reports of surgeons upon special cases will be found of increasing interest, showing that progress has been made in the treatment of the chronic afflictions of old age.

The descriptive lists of the members admitted during the year will be found at the close of this report.

I am, General, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

WM. W. AVERELL, U. S. A.,
Assistant Inspector-General,
National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers.

Gen. WILLIAM B. FRANKLIN,
President Board of Managers,
National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers.

On Monday morning I commenced the task of examining the worn-out clothing, bedding, and all surplus and useless property. This consumed the week's time, and to give you a definite idea of the quantity and the labor involved I attach a list of the principal articles examined and acted upon. The lists show the accumulation of worn-out clothing, etc., since October, 1895, the date of my last inspection at Central Branch. As the quartermaster is responsible for the clothing of every man to whom any garments are issued until he is relieved by the action of an inspector, the utmost care is taken to have each and every article, no matter how much worn or soiled, returned for exchange when not suitable for further use.

No new garment is issued except upon the receipt of the worn-out one in exchange. It sometimes happens that the governor of the Branch allows impecunious members to retain certain articles of clothing when going on furlough or discharge, and careful accounts are kept of these, and on an exhibit by the quartermaster of the governor's order in such cases these articles are added to the inspection report and acted upon as if the same were presented for examination. I have been somewhat in doubt as to the propriety of my action in this particular, but as it is no fault of the quartermaster, and the regulations allow such action by the governor, I have assumed that it was proper to thus relieve the quartermaster of further responsibility by adding these to the number of garments presented for my action.

The books in the various offices I have carefully examined, with a view to discern if all are standard and are properly kept. In the governor's office (including adjutant-general's and sergeant-major's) all books are carefully kept and are up to date, and no books not strictly standard are in use in any of these offices. The governor has an excellent civilian clerk and accountant, and all the accounts, funds, property, etc., are examined by him under the immediate eye of the governor. It is therefore clear that all these matters are examined by him, as directed by regulations, pages 208–216 and 247. This arrangement makes it easy to detect any irregularities in form or figures, and gives a certain assurance that errors are reduced to a minimum.

In the treasurer's office everything is systemized and the books are all uniform, and so far as I could discern each one was kept up daily. I did not verify each account, but called for a statement of balances, and then examined each ledger account and check book to see if these balances agreed with their books. I also counted the cash and found it correctly stated.

I inclose herewith the memorandum statement as furnished me on the 3d day of June, 1896, when the examination was made:

No credits are given either to officers or members, and the only irregularity I could observe was a few payments advanced to members leaving on furlough or discharge, from post fund, taking receipts on regular pay rolls and replacing the money when the pay rolls are settled. As the receipt on the pay roll accounted for the money advanced, I could see no great impropriety in the treasurer's advancing this money from the post fund. Page balances are noted on check book, also weekly and monthly balances.

A question arose as to the form of the book "Exhibit of Contracts." I have once before reported that two books were kept at the Central and it was discontinued, but the fact that some of the contracts, indeed many of them, take more space than is now allowed by the form and have to be continued on the next form, it is desired that no separation be made, but allow a contract to extend as far as needed and make a ruled line for separation between each two contracts by the clerk. I advise that this be done in the next form issued, as it will save space and make the book more presentable.

In the "Time Book" the form is not objected to, but the margin for remarks is claimed to be quite limited, and in preparing a new form it might be well to remedy this apparent defect.

No books outside of standard were reported, although called for. All papers are properly filed and carefully preserved. There is such an accumulation that the vaults are overcrowded, and some additional room will soon be demanded.

In the quartermaster's office the books were found to be standard, and, in the main, properly and accurately kept. The storage and issue of medical supplies, of which there has been considerable discussion, seems to have fallen into the same rut at Central as at Eastern and Southern, viz, that on receipt and inspection the whole quarterly and annual supply has been placed in charge of the surgeon, and weekly issues from the storeroom to the dispensary (on proper requisitions, of course) are made by the surgeon and reported to the quartermaster. I again called the attention of the governor and surgeon to this irregularity, and while they and the quartermaster defended the action, it was agreed that hereafter the key to the storeroom should be placed in the hands of the quartermaster and the clerk in charge of this department should be directly under his charge. As the general treasurer has been careful in this matter, I deem it a duty to report fully the condition of this particular mode of issuing medical supplies at the Central, where we had a right to suppose it was done according to established rules and regulations.

In examining as to shops, the quartermaster is ostensibly in charge, but on the purchase of lumber, iron, and other material the rule seems to be to receive such, and after proper inspection to turn over to the foreman of carpenter shop, etc., large quantities of such material and allow the said foreman to report what he has used weekly and then make requisition to cover the report. It is apparent that no account of such issues can be accurately kept by this mode of issuing property in large quantities and depending on the foremen of shops for accuracy in expenditures.

In the examination of "average price lists" I discovered that the quartermaster kept one and the commissary one. I could see no impropriety in this, and as each was well and carefully kept, I made no objection.

The commissary's books are all in order, and his perishable-property book is a model of care and exactness.

In examining the books of the surgeon's office I called attention to the "Record of Admissions," and discussed its importance with the surgeon. He insists, as did Dr. Elwell, of the Eastern Branch, that it is an important and very useful record and should be continued.

The "Sick Call Record" is not kept at all at the Central. For some reason, which was not made apparent to me, another mode of keeping this record has been in use and the regulation standard has never been used.

Form No. 95, "History of Special Cases," is not bound according to regulations, but a much more elaborate book is kept and a history of such carefully preserved.

All other books are standard and properly kept. There are several books for nurses' reports, etc., not standard, but seemed to be needed for memorandums, and I did not deem it a matter for serious objection.

MISCELLANEOUS.

All estimates, quarterly and yearly, are made, as I was informed, with care and attention and prices of previous quarters and years carefully considered. Purchases, too, are made in accordance with directions in circulars of May 12, 1893, and June 27, 1894. All purchases are made by the treasurer or by his written directions. It is sometimes better that the commissary of subsistence make purchases of special diet, fruits and vegetables, in the market, but in all cases the treasurer is the responsible purchasing agent, and he so understands and acts. All inspections of "supplies received" are properly made by the governor or a committee for which he is responsible.

My inspection included the hospital and the annex, and it gives me real pleasure to state that there was perfect order and cleanliness in every ward. The female nurses are a feature at this Branch and are a valuable adjunct.

General Anderson, local manager, came to the Home on Thursday, June 4, and we visited the new Amusement Hall together. It is well on toward completion, being in the hands of the plumbers and frescoers. It is truly a very complete structure for the purposes intended, and is likely to be one of the most popular places of resort for the disabled veterans. I speak of this particularly as it is General Anderson's pet building and to advise you of its present state of advancement and its probable usefulness. As it is paid for from post-fund receipts, it is expected to be a place of comfort and amusement to all classes of members. The seasonable rains have aided in making the Central Branch a place of beauty. The flowers, the lawns, and the full supply of water for the lakes make the place attractive, and this is made apparent by the number of daily visitors and the frequent excursions from distant localities. It is a noticeable fact that an electric car arrives and departs from the Home every two minutes and usually with a full complement of passengers.

After a ride around the lakes, garden, etc., General Anderson visited the Beer Hall and the general Mess Hall, and we coincided in the view that both these places had their legitimate uses and that both are well conducted. We then visited the Memorial Hall and the church, with the same results.

There are many other items of interest, to which I will call your attention on my return. This inspection of the Central Branch is a pleasant duty. I have a request from Governor Thomas that I suggest that if it be consistent he will be glad to have you visit the Branch soon and enjoy a quiet rest, and at the same time make a personal inspection.

I am at the Marion Branch and will report results of my inspection as soon as the same is completed.

Very respectfully submitted.

SIR: After completing the inspection at the Central Branch I proceeded to this (Marion) Branch, and on Monday, June 8, began the inspection here. The first duty was to dispose of worn-out, surplus, and useless property. Like the Central Branch, there had been no inspection and condemnation of such property since October last, and in consequence there was a large accumulation.

In the course of my examination I found a quantity of crockery which had been rejected on its receipt from the contractor, and had neither been replaced nor removed. I also noted the fact that a considerable portion of that accepted was apparently below the standard, irregular in shape, warped, and cracked before using; in fact, much of it would have been rejected if inspected by an expert. Some of the large-sized dishes, like meat platters, coffee bowls, and oval vegetable dishes, were so warped as to prevent nesting properly and therefore were more liable to breakage. Governor Chapman called attention to the crockery sent him for trial, and asserted that the breakage of this was less than that of the regular supply; that it was not so liable to craze, kept its color better, and expressed the opinion, based on this trial, that a better grade of crockery would be a saving to the Home. Certainly a more careful inspection by some person thoroughly acquainted with the crockery business would be desirable.

It appears from this inspection that the Marion Branch is needing more shoes. This has been reported; but as there were none due from the contractor, none could be obtained. This difficulty is due to having no stock in depot. There is a surplus, undoubtedly, at some of the Branches, and if these were at the depot the needs of the Marion Branch could be readily supplied.

After completing the inspection of the property I proceeded to examine the books in use at the various offices of the Branch, and, with a few exceptions, these are carefully and properly kept. A marked improvement in this regard is noticeable since my last inspection.

The governor's books (including the acting adjutant's) were all in fine order, and all written up to date.

The treasurer's books also were in good shape. The accounts for May had not been settled, for lack of funds. Herewith is a statement of the condition of the several funds on the 9th day of June:

The receipts from sales are turned into the hands of the treasurer by the storekeeper and transportation clerk once each day; amounts left for change in their hands accounted for each day.

Inventory of stock and fixtures is made on the last day of each quarter; fixtures and repairs purchased or made during the quarter are added to the account; worn-out articles are condemned the same as other Home property.

Each sheet of stubs in check book is balanced; deposits are noted on check book on the day deposit is made.

Disbursing statements are signed by bank cashier, treasurer, and governor. They are also carefully examined and checked by the governor each month before he approves them.

POSTHUMOUS FUND.

Balance March 31, 1896	$1,450.91
Receipts	418.77
Total	1,869.68
Expenditures	155.68
Balance June 9, 1896	1,714.00

No surplus exists in general cash account in posthumous fund; money accuring since the 1st of July last is transferred to current expenses, general fund, as follows:

Upon the death of a member, the amount of cash on person is reported to the treasurer, and this amount, with any pension or other money that he may have due him, is taken up on general fund accounts current expenses, by entering under that head the name, company, regiment of the member, and placing the total amount to the credit of the member.

The cash on hand was counted and found correct. Like the Central Branch, a few irregular payments are made from post fund, being advanced to furloughed and discharged members, but receipts in each case appear on regular pay rolls, and the money is replaced when these rolls are paid by the general fund. No due bills or other evidences of advances of money appeared.

All vouchers and contracts are carefully numbered consecutively, in each case, from July 1 to June 30 of each fiscal year.

I tested the bank statement with the check book and found it correct. No check is made for any purpose (except in payment of pensions) without a corresponding voucher to show for same; and the check-book and cash-book balances, it is claimed, always agree.

Pension orders are filed for each payment to pensioners, present or absent, in proper order. The individual accounts of pensioners agree with the pension cash account, and no surplus exists in the general cash account at this Branch.

The check book is balanced on the back of each leaf or sheet of stubs.

In the "Exhibit of Contracts" the same suggestion in regard to change of form is recommended by the governor and treasurer as is made at the Central, i. e., that no division lines be ruled except as needed, and then by the bookkeeper.

The "Time Book" was again criticised, and the timekeeper expressed the opinion that an exact form of the pay rolls, as now established, would prove the most satisfactory. The column of remarks is decidedly too limited to make needed marginal notes. I advise that this be considered in the next order for "Time Books."

A great improvement in the letter books in all the offices is noticeable. All papers are neatly filed and well cared for.

There is a demand for more vault room. The pension certificates are kept in the treasurer's safe, as there is no other fireproof vault, and these can not be properly cared for if much increased. If the present headquarters building is to be continued, some provision should be made for storage of valuable papers.

No books except standard are in use, with the exception of a few personal memorandum books, which each one seems to consider indispensable to his business.

In the matter of medical stores the same rule prevails as at the other Branches. All such stores are purchased, inspected, and immediately placed in charge of the surgeon; then he makes weekly reports and requisitions to cover all withdrawals. In short, it is the same story repeated, and, like the others, they all claim that it is better to give the surgeon full charge of all medical supplies at once and have done with it. Of course, I insisted that the treasurer was the custodian of all supplies and that no exception could be made.

In the quartermaster's department the book of "issues of imperishable property" was again discussed, and the quartermaster sergeant, who is very careful and painstaking, expressed great anxiety to be furnished with the new form now in preparation. I verified the imperishable property book in three instances, as follows: Brooms, flour, soup tureens, and shoes. I inclose the statement of each, and am pleased to state that those remaining in stock counted out correctly, the count being made before the quartermaster sergeant presented his statement, and he had no knowledge of the counting.

HOSPITAL.

The books kept in hospital, to wit: Record of Admission, Hospital Record, Convalescent Record, Sick Call Record, Record of Chemical Analysis, Death Record, and Form No. 95, History of Special Cases in Hospital, are imperfectly kept and are not written up to date. There seems to be a lack of care on the part of the surgeon and assistants in this regard. It was my painful duty to point out errors in the manner and matter in nearly every book kept in hospital.

In the "Record of Admissions" are entered the name, age, rank, company, regiment, etc., of every applicant admitted to the Home. This record is taken from the application for admission of the applicant after he is admitted. The last entry on this book is April 7, 1896.

In the "Hospital Record" the column for Home number is not used for that purpose, but hieroglyphics, etc., are found instead. Heretofore this book has not been properly kept. A new clerk is now employed in the hospital, and recently the entries on this book have been made from the bed cards, which are the records given by the surgeon or his assistants.

The "Convalescent Record" has been very imperfectly kept, and no record has been made that anyone could obtain any information from. This book was entirely neglected from November 29, 1895, to January 13, 1896.

The "Sick Call Record" is also imperfectly kept. It is like the rest.

The "Record of Chemical Analysis" has not been written up since February 24, 1896. The records are made on slips by the assistant surgeon and are kept up to date. They are now on file for entry.

The "Death Record" is fairly well kept and almost up to date.

Form No. 95, "History of Special Cases," has not been kept at all, no attention being paid to it.

It is claimed, and perhaps with reasons to justify it, that it is troublesome to obtain a competent (member) clerk. This, however, does not seem to be the case in other departments. The surgeon promises to make a vigorous effort to correct these errors, and the next inspection will show with what success their efforts are attended. It was interesting to listen to the surgeon's explanation of the manner of treating hospital supplies, the facts in regard to which I had previously obtained from the governor and treasurer. He says: "When these supplies are obtained they are delivered to the hospital and inspected. I do that myself, and know what I get. Then I have them carefully placed in the storeroom and dispensary, and I have four keys, and no one is allowed to handle anything in the storeroom but me, the druggist, and the assistant surgeons." I asked if he did not allow the governor or treasurer access to the storeroom. "Well," he replied, "I might do that, but I should not consider it their right to interfere with anything. I think I know more about the drugs and medicines than any of them, and I look carefully after this." I asked him if he made requisitions. "Well, yes; I make reports about once a month or so, and make requisitions to cover the articles I have used." I did not pursue the subject any further, for I found the surgeon a little inclined to resent any interference on the part of the treasurer in the matter of medical supplies.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Construction at this Branch is progressing slowly. The new mess hall is fast approaching completion. It is expected that the Fourth of July dinner will be served in the new mess hall. With Colonel Steele, local manager, and Governor Chapman I made a careful inspection of this building on the 13th instant, and it was agreed that no Branch has a better one than this. The two new brick barracks have been somewhat delayed by reason of bad weather this last winter. The contractor assured Governor Chapman, in my presence, that before the close of the month both will be completed and ready to turn over on the 1st of July. This will give an increased capacity of 300 members at the Marion Branch. The Stinson Memorial Hall is complete in every particular and is in use. It is a great convenience, and is enjoyed by all the members. A concert was given by some musical ladies from Wabash, Ind., on Friday, the 12th instant, to which all the members received a cordial invitation, and the Home band gave a concert in the grove immediately after, which was attended by a large number of citizens who were here on an excursion.

Seasonable rains have given a heavy growth of grass, and the work of securing the hay crop is already begun. Farming and gardening is not an extensive industry, but an effort is made to supply vegetables for the general mess hall, and this to some extent is successful. The new standpipe is completed and the water system is good, and the fire protection is now secured. There is still a lack of water for use at this Branch, and the gas wells will require attention before the next winter. It is intended to commence one soon, as I learned from Colonel Steele and the Governor, on land adjoining that now belonging to the Home. Everything at the Marion Branch has the appearance of good management and proper care. The members are well fed, well clothed, and seem well satisfied.

On Sunday morning I made a careful inspection of some of the barracks, mess hall, and hospital. The large barrack, just occupied in November last, is a model building, and is complete in every particular, and the captain in charge expressed a determination to keep it up to the high standard of neatness and comfort.

The mess hall and kitchen were in order, as usual at the Marion Branch, and that is evidence that when the new mess hall is completed this Branch will have a complete bakery, kitchen, and mess hall equal to any, not excepting the Western, which is supposed to be the best at present.

In the hospital are evidences of improvement in the matter of cleanliness in the wards, attributable to the care and discipline of the female nurses. The kitchen and dining room, too, are scrupulously neat, and the matron and the two female cooks are all determined in their efforts to keep their several departments up to the standard in first-class hospitals.

There are many other points of merit and of interest in the Marion Branch, but these I will call to your attention on my return. This will give you assurance that this Branch is in good hands and its management quite equal to any other Branch.

Very respectfully submitted.

NATIONAL MILITARY HOME,
Leavenworth County, Kans., June 23, 1896.

SIR: On my arrival at this Branch on the 17th instant, I proceeded without delay to examine and pass upon the worn-out clothing, bedding, crockery, etc., presented for my inspection by the quartermaster of the Branch. I herewith have prepared a list of the principal articles for your information. No clothing has been condemned at this Branch for a year, and it will appear by this report that a large number of pieces have been worn out during that time. It is noticeable that many of the garments are rendered useless by becoming dirty rather than worn out. It was very hot weather during the time of inspection, and the air was often stifling. However, it was all in very good condition for counting, and the examination was made in the cool of the day, and the inspection was a very satisfactory one, showing care on the part of the quartermaster and his assistants.

On conclusion of the inspection and condemnation of property, I took up the books of the various offices.

In the governor's office the "Historical Register" was first examined, and it was found that in many instances the blanks were not carefully filled. Important information was left to conjecture or to examination of other records. The attention of the governor and acting adjutant was called to this and a promise of greater care exacted.

The blotter for "Applications for Admission" and the "State Register" were found carefully written up. The book of letters, returns, etc., received was also properly kept, but I found an additional book called "Indorsement Book," not standard, but which the governor declares was indispensable. It is a well and carefully kept book and very comprehensive, but I deem it a duty to report it, as it is not a standard book.

General and special orders are kept in two separate books, which appears to have been the rule since the Branch was established. "Record of Members Discharged" and "Offenders' Docket" are both in order and well kept. The "Furlough Register" is not kept properly. Names are erased with pencil marks, and much interlining and marking is done with pencil. I called attention to this and received assurance that it would be corrected.

The "Burial Record" has never been opened, and the reason given was that the former book was not filled. As it was so imperfectly and untidily kept, I suggested that it be transcribed into the standard book, and this was accepted and promised.

All letter books seem to be well and carefully cared for. The "Consolidated Morning Reports," "Post Returns," etc., were examined and the information shown under the several headings was apparently well understood and gathered from proper sources, and all papers in the governor's office are carefully filed and cared for.

A book entitled "Indorsement Book," not standard, is the only one not on the list of books for use in that office. No examination, except in the most superficial way, has been made by the governor, as directed by the regulations, pages 208, 216, and 247.

In the treasurer's office I obtained the best information I could by examining the books and getting statements. The balances, so far as I could discern, are correct, and the ledger and check books of the several accounts agree. I attach the statements as made by the treasurer, and the books agree with the statements. I counted the money in the general fund and found it correct, being $5. The post-fund cash was also found correct. The statements which follow were verified so far as I could do so without going to the bank, and I obtained the certificate of the bank officers that the amount named in the statement agreed with the bank statements, all of which I inclose.

The account current, 1896 appropriation, May 31, 1896, shows balance $14,651.67. This was caused by a $3.75 error in volume 992 (fourth head) pay roll, including a man who had not signed the roll. The general treasurer returned the account current and directed the change. The $3.75 is credited as a cash receipt in June account.

All vouchers and contracts are numbered consecutively for the fiscal year, and the 1st of July a new series will begin with No. 1. No checks are made without proper vouchers to show for same, and the check book and cashbook agree, and every voucher is paid by check and the number of the check is inserted in the voucher. No duebills are held in the treasurer's office for any purpose. No credits are allowed to officers or members in any case.

In the posthumous fund the accounts are kept as heretofore—with the individual—but all moneys belonging to the deceased member are immediately transferred by the treasurer to the general fund, first head, current expenses, as stated by the treasurer.

In post fund an inventory of stock and fixtures is regularly taken at close of each quarter. Fixtures are treated as such, and properly added to assets of post fund, but up to this time no property has been presented for the action of an inspector. It has now been done, and a large amount of useless surplus and worn-out articles has been acted upon by me.

All check books have page balances entered on stubs, but the weekly and other balances reported to the general treasurer are not so entered. These are kept in a small book which seems to have no other purpose and is referred to in all cases of consulting as to these balances. Hereafter it is promised that these balances shall also appear on the dates of making these reports.

In the matter of books in use in the treasurer's office, the record of pension certificates is badly kept. Erasures are common, and lead-pencil lines are drawn over names, and interlinings with pencil are frequent.

The exhibit of contracts is fairly well kept. The clerk who has these entries to make makes the same criticism in reference to the ruling in this as was suggested at Marion and Dayton. In any future manufacture of this particular book a change can easily be made to improve it materially.

Record of transportation issued by the Branches and Managers is well kept and up to date.

"Rates of Fare." This book is not used, and dependence upon information obtained from corresponding is relied upon. The "Time Book" is properly kept. Letter books, also, and indexed. The "Liability Book" is not standard. It is claimed that it was authorized by the general treasurer. It seems a useful book, and it is claimed so to be by the treasurer.

In the quartermaster's office the two books "Perishable and Imperishable Property" are nicely and correctly kept.

Issues of imperishable property not in use. An old book is still in use, and it is claimed that the standard book is not useful. As it is objected to at other Branches and a new form is being prepared, I dismissed the subject, but report the facts. Clothing, average price-list, and invoice books are all well and properly kept.

I took much pleasure in noting that the storage and accounting for medical supplies is done properly at this Branch. A storage room is fitted up in the hospital basement and all these supplies are stored there after a careful inspection. Issues are made by the quartermaster in person, on proper requisitions to the dispensary, and no complaint came from the surgeon that he was not promptly supplied with all needed medical stores. After the experience at the other Branches, in this particular it is refreshing.

The shops and the accounts of same are under the direct supervision of the quartermaster, and no objection could be made to the books, although it was all done on small memorandum books, each shop separately.

Issues of imperishable property are properly made, each article issued demanding a corresponding worn-out article in its stead, and all articles are carefully inspected by the quartermaster or by his assistants.

On Sunday morning I inspected the hospital with great interest, and can truthfully say that it is cleanly and in every respect up to the standard of well-kept hospitals. The surgeon and his assistants, the matron, and the nurses (both men and women), are interested in their work and attentive to their duties.

In the matter of books connected with the hospital I can not speak with entire approval. "Record of Admissions:" Dr. Jones speaks approvingly of this book and agrees with Drs. Elwell, Huffman, and Kimball that it is a useful and important book.

"Hospital Record" and "Convalescent Record" are both well kept and fully written up. The "Sick Call Record" is not standard, the doctor having a practice book which is apparently correct and simple and from which the various reports are made. The "Death Record" has not been kept at all, no entries having been made therein. The old style is kept in a manner, but not at all satisfactorily. The doctor will open the standard book July 1. So of the "Record of Chemical Analysis." It is kept after a manner, but all cases of hospital patients are not examined and entered. In this a reformation is promised. So of Form No. 95, "History of Special Cases." These have not been kept and bound as directed. In fact no one at the hospital could find the form.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Estimates seem to be properly considered, and prices of previous quarters taken as a guide. Purchases seem to be made in strict accordance with provisions of circulars of May 12, 1883, and June 27, 1894. Inspections of supplies received and work performed are properly observed, and the treasurer attends to purchases and awarding of contracts without interference by anyone.

Issues of clothing are properly made on requisitions, and exchanges of worn-out articles are required. There is some laxity of issuing to members going on furlough or discharge, which I advised should be corrected, and every such article accounted for by proper requisitions and boards of survey when the case seems to demand.

In all my inspections of barracks, hospitals, and commissary and quartermaster departments, mess hall, kitchen, bakery, etc., I am pleased to state that almost perfect order and cleanliness prevails. The grounds and lawns are beautiful and well kept. Colonel Cooke, local manager, was with me a portion of the time, and General Averell one day. It was conceded that the Western Branch was a pleasure ground. It is a park for the city, and a resort for those who live in the surrounding country, and is visited by thousands who are profuse in their admiration of the Home. After the storm passes, and the Congressional committee shall have reported, it is hoped that peace and quiet will reign in this beautiful Home. Whichever way it goes, let there be peace and let discord cease.

This report is closed in some haste, as I leave for the Pacific Coast in the morning, and I desire to get this to you at the Board meeting on the 16th instant.

Respectfully submitted.

OFFICE OF INSPECTOR-GENERAL,
Milwaukee, Wis., August 4, 1896.

SIR: I arrived at this Branch on Friday, July 30, and on Saturday began the inspection. My first work was the examination of the books connected with the governor's office, including those kept by the adjutant.

The "Historical Register," which was numbered differently from the other Branches up to March 23, 1895, has been changed, and the first number in the corrected series is 10,501, and all admissions since are numbered consecutively, and the "Historical Record" is now correct and properly kept.

This is true also of the following books, to wit: "Blotter for Applications," "State Register," "Letters, Returns, etc., Received," "Record of Members Discharged," "Offenders' Docket," "Furlough Register," "Burial Record," and "Letter Books."

With reference to the general and special orders, two books are kept for each class of orders. In the special order book are entered all orders for details, etc., all extra-duty members, whether with or without pay. This interrupts the numbering of orders in this. These details are entered consecutively by numbers 1, 2, 3, etc., following the number of the order until a new special order is entered of another nature. Then follows again the detail order continuous and with the number as before until another special order, and so on. There seems to be no impropriety in entering these orders in this manner except that it takes time and seems to answer no good purpose. It is claimed to be a convenience if any questions arise as to details, but this book is not used as a check in entries on pay rolls or elsewhere that I could learn. I allude to this, as no other Branch so enters the extra duty.

The "Consolidated Morning Report," "Post Returns," etc., are carefully and correctly kept, and proper care taken in obtaining the information required under the various headings of discipline, employment, health, amusements, civilian employees, etc.

All papers are properly filed and cared for. A good system of file boxes has been recently inaugurated for all the offices of this Branch, superior to any heretofore in use and equal to any in use at other Branches.

In reference to other books, not standard, I find a book called a "Descriptive Book," which has been in use for several years, and which the governor and adjutant represent as a very important book in making up the data for the annual report. I have requested a sample blank leaf of this book and will submit it with this report. If it is useful at this Branch it may be also for the others. If this book is made standard it will supercede the use of our present form for keeping the data for the annual report, and I am not sure that it will not be the better plan. It is certainly worth considering, especially as every change is made by name and every name is entered and the losses are accounted for by erasing the name of the member lost from any cause.

The recent order for examination of the books of the Branch by the governor has been complied with, and a report will be forwarded to headquarters in a few days.

TREASURER'S OFFICE.

In the treasurer's office I found the books closed for the end of the month of July, and balances were taken at that date, viz, July 31, 1896. I herewith forward the statement of the condition of each fund, as shown by the treasurer's books, to wit:

POSTHUMOUS FUND, JULY 31, 1896.

Received during July, 1896	764.30
Total		$6,485.61

Total		5,751.66
In First National Bank, Milwaukee, Wis.		733.95

Upon the death of a member of the Home the amount of cash on person is reported to the treasurer, and this amount, with any pension or other money that may be due him, is taken up in general fund accounts (current expense), by entering under that head the name, company, and regiment of the member; and an account of the same is also kept in posthumous cashbook, with proper index.

There is an expression of anxiety to have the surplus in pension fund disposed of, as it has to be accounted for in every report and seems to serve no good purpose as it now stands.

Posthumous fund shows a balance in bank of $733.95, which, of course, is included in the first head (current expense), and is only shown here for the purpose of giving information as to the present status of the posthumous fund for the present year. No such account is in the bank to credit of this fund, as it is placed to the credit of the general fund.

Vouchers and contracts are numbered consecutively for each fiscal year, commencing at No. 1 on the 1st of July and ending on June 30.

No voucher in general fund is paid except by check, and the number of the check appears on the voucher, and the number of voucher is entered on the stub of check book.

Treasurer holds no due bills of any sort in his cash drawer, and claims that he accepts none under any circumstances.

No credits are given to officers or members for any purpose or under any circumstances. Officers or members desiring to purchase commissary or quartermaster supplies pay in the money before the goods are delivered. Some difficulty arises in settlement of these individual accounts, as the sum paid to the treasurer is credited at once, while the goods are delivered from time to time as called for. At the close of the month there is often a little balance due, and it is necessary, in order to complete the voucher to cover the credit given, that an issue be made to the officer or member to balance, as the treasurer has already credited the amount and the balance can not be refunded in cash. This, too, leaves the treasurer without proper voucher until the close of the month, although the money has been credited to the Government at the time of receiving the same from the officer or member. I see no impropriety in allowing the treasurer to hold this money and certify to the officer or member that he has received the same, and allow the credit and settle at the end of the month when he gets his voucher, and give the proper credit to the Government at the same time. I did not suggest it, but it seems to me the proper way to do.

No bonds are held by the treasurer of this Branch in any fund.

The following books kept in treasurer's office are properly and nicely kept, to wit: "Record of Transportation Issued by the Branches," "Managers, Agents, etc., Rates of Fare" (although this book serves no good purpose), "Letter Books."

The book entitled "Exhibit of Contracts" is kept after a fashion, but is not considered in all respects a good book for the purpose. As I have discovered that the same or similar objections are made at some of the other Branches, I deem it proper to take up the matter here.

They have here another book entitled "Record of Supplies Received," in which every item of the contract is entered and all deliveries from time to time on the contract. This latter book, not standard, is claimed to be a useful and necessary book, but I believe all the items could be made to appear on the standard book, with some changes in the ruling. I suggested this to the treasurer and his clerk, and both admitted it. He has promised to forward a sample, which, if approved, would not add to the cost of the book, and would, in my opinion, greatly improve the utility of the same.

The time book is again made a subject of criticism, and as this has been the case in most of the Branches, I believe it a duty to suggest a change. To this end I have asked the timekeeper to give me a form for this book, which I present with this report, and which I think will make the book satisfactory.

Noting the condition of papers, how filed and cared for, I am pleased to say the present system of file boxes is admirable, and I believe no better can be found at any Branch.

All the books in use in treasurer's office, except those referred to, are standard, save a few small memorandum books of no special use or interest save to gratify those who keep them.

QUARTERMASTER'S OFFICE.

The following books in use in the quartermaster's office are standard, well kept, and up to date: "Imperishable Property" (it is recommended that the four division lines be omitted and that they be made to suit the occasion, and ruled by the clerk, so that more or less space can be used as required), "Perishable Property and Invoices."

The clothing books do not meet the full requirements. The individual accounts are properly kept, but two other books are added (not standard). One is called an "Abstract of Clothing" and the other a "Second-Hand Clothing Book." I could not see the utility of these extra books, but as usual, the clerk, who seems a very careful, painstaking person, claims he would be lost if not permitted to keep these additional memorandums.

The new book, "Issues of Imperishable Property," is now being tried, but is pronounced unsatisfactory. Only for additional issues (and in some cases this is of almost daily occurrence) this book would answer the purpose admirably. But already an additional book is in use to keep the account of issues of crockery, clothing, bedding in quartermaster department, and other quartermaster supplies, and the clerk in charge pronounces it quite impossible to keep the account properly when these frequent changes have to be made. The additional book is a cheap memorandum or record book, and is ruled by the clerk. He makes it clear to me that the new standard book is not sufficient for all articles, where frequent changes are to be made, as noted above, weekly, quarterly, or monthly. There is not sufficient space in the length of the book in which to enter all the names of parties and places to which property is issued. There are 51 departments to which issues of imperishable property are made, and only 40 can be entered on one page of that book. It takes 122 pages of the book in which to enter the different articles for issue, and the book contains only 150 pages. It would take a book half as large again if clothing, crockery, and bedding kept in the quartermaster's department for issue and quartermaster stores are entered therein. It appears that the issues to the companies are already compelling numerous changes, and it is quite perplexing to know how entries are to be made.

The book entitled "Average Price List," is kept after a fashion, but it is of no value for reference and might as well not be kept at all.

Much complaint arises from the fact that the supply of bowls is insufficient. Twelve hundred were shipped from Dayton and 400 were broken. The contractors, Cavanagh Brothers, have failed to respond to the demand and are now short on last year's contract, or in orders for delivery to Northwestern Branch, 6,500 bowls, 175 cups (coffee), and 900 dishes (vegetable). Tin cups are being resorted to by reason of failure to receive the bowls.

In noting the storage and issue of medical supplies I found this state of affairs existing: The quartermaster has a storeroom in hospital and keeps a clerk to attend to issues. The surgeon and druggist call on him for such supplies as are needed day by day and they are issued. At the end of a week a requisition is made covering these issues, thus virtually placing the medical supplies in charge of the surgeon. The same rule applies to the engineer department—the requisitions are made to cover issues. After explaining the impropriety of this mode of making issues, the quartermaster and governor decided that a change should be made at once, and that medical stores and engineer's supplies should hereafter follow the rule of other supplies.

The shops are under the control of the quartermaster, and with the exception noted above are apparently well regulated, and all orders for work, supplies, tools, etc., are issued through the quartermaster's office.

SURGEON'S OFFICE.

The book entitled "Record of Admissions" is kept carefully, and is considered indispensable, although it is admitted to be a repetition of the Historical Register kept in the adjutant's office. All the surgeons coincide in the opinion that this book is of importance, and it is therefore recommended that it be continued as a standard book.

The "Hospital Record" is not properly kept. The Home number is omitted, and instead the letter of the barrack from which the patient came to the hospital and the number of the bed is inserted. It contains a lengthy record of treatment and other matter which should only be used in case of death, and should then be entered in the "Death Record."

The "Sick Call Record" and "Record of Chemical Analyses" are both well and properly kept.

The "Death Record" is fairly well kept, but is not quite full and explicit. The surgeon admitted the facts set forth, and will in future correct the record and enter into detail more fully.

Form No. 95, "History of Special Cases," had never been seen by the surgeon, but search being made the blanks were found, and from the commencement of the present fiscal year all such cases will be entered and fully reported. It is fair to the surgeon to say that several such cases have been alluded to and full particulars entered on a private memorandum book which will be transcribed on Form 95.

In the course of my inspection of hospital I found several valuable improvements. This was specially noticeable in the convalescent wards and in the untidy ward. A new kitchen and dining room has been provided for these wards in a light and airy basement directly under the wards, and it is working admirably and adding greatly to the comfort of these men, and is a relief to the hospital proper by relieving it of much noise and confusion, as heretofore arranged.

The hospital is in admirable order. The surgeons are attentive, the women nurses are still popular with all patients, and the male nurses are improved by the example and instruction received. This hospital is now in first-class condition so far as the management can make it.

There is one feature of the basement of the hospital which I can not omit to mention. In my last inspection I referred to it. There are a number of beds—and from six to ten are in use—for a class of patients who are not and can not be kept cleanly. It is dark, dingy, and uncomfortable, wholly unfit for well men and still worse for hospital patients. In an adjoining room is kept the clothing, bedding, etc., to be taken to the laundry. It is impossible to keep the place free from foul air. I urgently recommend that suitable provision be made for those now occupying this basement at the earliest possible moment.

In another part of the hospital basement is a storage for meats and vegetables and where the hospital supplies are prepared for the cook room. This is low, damp, and unsavory. This, too, should be remedied.

In still another part of the hospital basement is a space formerly used for a boiler room, now removed. This space is light, high, and airy, and can be utilized for useful purposes for a sick-call room (much needed), for a linen room, and for hot air and steam baths. If funds under seventh head are available I would recommend that permission be granted to Governor Wheeler to have these repairs commenced at once. He expresses some anxiety to have this done, and will likely make application therefor.

MISCELLANEOUS.

I wish to call attention to the improvements made at the Northwestern Branch since my last inspection there. A new headquarters building, complete in every particular, has been erected and is occupied. It is a commodious and very convenient building for offices, and relieves the old main building and gives room for 70 or 80 beds.

The quartermaster's storehouse is nearly complete and will soon be in use and will give convenient storage for property now scattered about in basements and out-of-the-way places.

The grounds are looking fine, but the season for crops has not been as abundant as usual. Hay is notably short, but oats have done better, and this crop promises an abundant harvest.

My attention was called to the condition of the governor's residence, with a view to an opinion as to the necessity for certain repairs which are greatly desired, and for which application will be made by Governor Wheeler. The roof has never been properly constructed. Several angles and a tower in the center of the building cause leaks, and in spite of frequent repairs leaks continue. It is proposed to raise the roof, remove the tower, and add one room below and one above, which are needed, and thus make it more roomy, more convenient, and prevent future leakage. The governor will present his plans and estimates, and if the cost is not too great and there are funds available, I do not hesitate to commend these repairs to favorable consideration.

The Inspector-General, United States Army, and Mr. Kent have been here several days on their tour of annual inspection, and between us the officers of the Branch have been in a state bordering on frenzy, caused by extra labor to furnish information and the excessive heat, reaching 95° to 98° each day for a week past.

The reconsideration of the annual report of the Branch has been nearly completed, and the revised report will be forwarded within a few days. I have given it careful attention and trust it will now be satisfactory.

There are many items of interest arising in the course of the inspection which are not of sufficient interest to note in this report, but which we may talk over when I see you.

Very respectfully submitted.

July 11, 1896.

SIR: On arrival at the Pacific Branch I proceeded to inspect the worn-out, surplus, and useless property which had accumulated during the year.

The clothing was not arranged with the care it should have been, and before commencing I directed that it be properly prepared for counting and easy examination. This done, the inspection was quite satisfactory.

In the examination of the books in the various offices I was assisted by the governor, who took this occasion to make the examination directed by circular of June 5, 1896, from the president of the Board.

We first took up the books kept in the governor's office, including adjutant's and sergeant-major's. In the "Historical Register" it was found that the entries in some cases could be made more complete, and it was suggested that this be done.

The blotter for "Applications for Admissions," standard, has never been in use. Another, not standard, but containing the information desired, has been continued until filled. On July 1 the standard book is to be opened and kept hereafter.

The "State Register," same as above. The old system has been kept, but the standard will be hereafter used.

"Letters, Returns, etc., Received," is properly kept, but the index provided in the book is not used. A Graves index takes its place.

"Record of Members A. W. O. L" is not yet in use, but will be opened on July 1, 1896. This book does not appear on my list or in the inspection report ordered to be made by the governor monthly. It is standard and furnished by depot.

General and special orders: Three books are used, viz, one general, one special, and one circular order book.

No orders are written, but the printed orders are pasted in, and this makes a bungling book and does not seem to be proper. I advised that all orders be written and in one book, with an index, and the promise is made that same shall be done after July 1, 1896.

The "Record of Members Discharged" is well and properly kept, and it includes State Homes as well, when reports are furnished.

The "Offenders' Docket" is correctly kept, and a full record of offenses and the sentences.

The "Furlough Register" is well kept.

The "Burial Record" has been kept at the hospital, but is hereafter to be kept in the adjutant's office.

The letter books are nicely kept and indexed.

The "Consolidated Morning Reports," "Post Returns," etc., are carefully kept, and the information necessary to be used is obtained from proper sources and examined with care. All papers are carefully filed and in good shape for preservation. No books other than standard were discovered, and there are none in use, it is claimed.

The accounts, funds, and property have not received special attention from the governor. All bank statements, monthly, and the checkbook and cash balances have been examined. The circular of June 5 will hereafter be obeyed and respected.

In the examination of treasurer's books, as it was the close of the quarter and the fiscal year, we took the statements and verified the balances, comparing them in every instance with the cash and check book, which we found to agree.

A full statement of the balances in general, posthumous, pension, and post funds, are hereto attached. These are all taken at the close of the fourth quarter, and will be found to agree with the returns forwarded to the general treasurer.

Referring to the books in the treasurer's office: Numbers of vouchers and contracts: All vouchers are now numbered from the date of first payment in the new year, commencing No. 1, and the contracts from the date of first delivery in year ending June 30, 1897.

No checks are made in any fund except a voucher be made for the same amount. If several items (on pay roll, for instance) be paid by one check, it is so noted on the stub of the check and the number of the voucher given on the stub.

No duebills are taken by the treasurer and very little cash is kept on hand.

All the accounts except post fund had no balances in treasurer's hands, and this was simply the amount left in hands of storekeeper and beer shop.

No credits are allowed to officers or members on any pretext.

All payments of pensions are made upon orders, and all these orders are carefully filed and preserved. No surplus exists in this account. The exact amount due to pensioners is the balance in bank to credit of pension account.

The posthumous account shows due to sundry individuals $8,106.46 and a surplus of $13.20, or a total of $8,119.66. This surplus is explained as arising from sales at auction of certain small articles found among the effects of deceased members, the former owner of which could not be traced.

A complete list of names and amounts due deceased members is hereto attached.

The manner of transferring is explained in the accompanying statements.

The post fund shows a credit balance of $5,095.40, of which $5,055.40 is deposited in the Los Angeles National Bank, and $40 cash on hand, which was found correct on counting. The manner of accounting for sales is explained in the statement of the post fund.

All fixtures purchased are added to the account, but heretofore repairs have not been charged up to this fund. It is claimed that such repairs are very trifling, and no separate account has been kept thereof. Heretofore worn-out articles have been counted as perishable property. At this inspection quite a lot of worn-out and unserviceable fixtures were presented and inspected, and hereafter this property will follow the same rule as general fund.

All check books are balanced by pages, each stub containing the page balance; also the weekly, monthly, and quarterly balances are carefully noted and stamped on the stub at the proper time.

There are no bonds held by the treasurer, and the cash is mostly kept on deposit.

Referring to the books kept by the treasurer, or under his direction, I have to note the following: "Record of Pension Certificates," "Exhibit of Contracts," "Time Book," "Letter Books," "Imperishable Property," "Perishable Property," "Issues of Imperishable Property," and "Clothing" are standard and are all properly and systematically kept. I can not say so much for the "Invoice Book." No such book is kept at this Branch. All bills, when the goods are received and the goods are inspected and passed, are abstracted in the quartermaster's department and reported weekly to the treasurer under the different heads of expenditure. The bills, when verified by two clerks, are made up into vouchers, and no other record of them is kept.

"Average Price List:" An effort is made to keep this book, but it is admitted a failure. The impression obtains that it is a useless book and a waste of time to keep it. As I was not familiar with the details of keeping it, I could only advise that an effort be made to obtain needed information from some well-informed quartermaster at one of the Branches. I did, however, give some hints which the treasurer will take under advisement.

In verifying imperishable property I selected three items, viz, shoes, buckets, and brooms. After ascertaining the number of each on hand on the 1st of July, 1895, and the issues since, and learning the place in use, accepting the record statement therefor and accepting the credits as shown by inspection and condemnations, and learning the balance on hand, I proceeded to count the articles. The buckets and brooms counted out correctly, but the shoes were in excess 24 pairs, which the treasurer will take up in his accounts if on a more critical examination he finds no error in counting.

Papers in this department are well kept and issues properly made and exchanged. I can not omit to mention the prompt and careful manner of conducting the quartermaster's department, over which Lieutenant Armstrong has personal charge, under the supervision of the treasurer. Especially was I gratified at the manner of accounting for, storage, and issue of medical supplies. These are all, including wines and liquors, kept in the quartermaster's department and issues are made semimonthly as a rule, but on occasions oftener if required. The surgeon finds no difficulty in obtaining his supplies promptly and no friction arises between the treasurer and surgeon because of this mode of procedure.

Thirteen shops are accounted for and a book for each shop is kept. The issues are made on requisitions and care is taken to have reports of each item of expenditure. In the matter of lumber, no secure yard is available and issues are made to the carpenter shops on purchase, but requests are made for such lumber material as is required and weekly statements are made of the distribution and use of the lumber and material, all of which is carefully traced by this process. If a lumber corral could be supplied, the lumber would be issued same as other material. An inclosed yard, with proper subdivisions for coal, wood, and lumber, is much needed.

SURGEON'S OFFICE.

The "Record of Admissions" has never been in use and is not known as a standard book in the surgeon's office. An ordinary blank book is kept by the surgeon, not standard, in which he enters each name, company, and regiment and the outlines of the military and personal history of the applicant. I suggested that requisition be made for the standard book at once.

"Hospital Record." Two books are in use, neither standard. The same recommendation was made as above, that the standard book be obtained and used.

"Convalescent Record" and "Sick Call Record" are both in form properly kept and standard.

The "Record of Chemical Analysis" is not carefully kept, too indefinite and too much abbreviated, and by no means a specific record. It is promised that it shall be more carefully and systematically kept in future.

The "Death Record" is carefully kept and fully written up, and is a complete record of the case and treatment of each deceased member, and also a personal history.

Form 95, "History of Special Cases," has been kept by the surgeon very carefully and fully, giving all the treatment and the different stages of the disease from the time of entrance into the hospital until the discharge or death of the patient. The book has not been bound as directed, as it had escaped the surgeon's notice that it was so intended. It will be done hereafter.

MISCELLANEOUS.

All estimates are made with a view to economical expenditures. Prices of previous quarters and years are consolidated and taken as a guide, and changes in values carefully considered.

All purchases are made by the treasurer or his order, in accordance with circulars, and all orders seem to be carefully observed.

No orders for work are given by anyone except the treasurer, unless by his consent after consultation. All provisions of the circular order relative to issue of clothing to members seem to be observed and carried out with great care.

The new buildings, just completed and occupied, are the kitchen and barrack G. Both are well constructed and are useful buildings. The kitchen especially is a model. The cold storage and ice plant are proving of great value, and are already deemed indispensable. Plenty of ice and abundance of cold storage are now secured, and these are incalculable blessings. Ten thousand pounds of meat can be safely stored and kept until required for use.

The appropriation for one new barrack and boiler house has been considered, and plans for both are being prepared, and bids for same will be received on August 4 next, and if let will be hurried up to completion as rapidly as possible. The copy of notice to contractors is as follows.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

PACIFIC BRANCH,
NATIONAL HOME FOR DISABLED VOLUNTEER SOLDIERS,
July 3, 1896.

Bids will be received on the 4th day of August next, at 2 o'clock p. m., at the office of the treasurer of the Home, and opened immediately thereafter in the presence of the bidders, for furnishing all the material and completing the following:

One additional barrack, to cost less than $22,500.

Boiler house and stack, to cost less than $9,200.

Plans, specifications, and instructions to bidders can be examined at the Home on and after July 20, 1896.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids or waive defects in the interest of the Home.

The inspection of the members at the Sunday morning review was entirely satisfactory. The men were neat and cleanly in appearance and their uniform clothing in good order. The general mess hall and kitchen were in fine order, and everything in the commissary department seemed to indicate close attention on the part of all—officers, noncommissioned officers, and employees—who are connected therewith in any capacity.

The hospital was carefully inspected in every ward, kitchen, dining hall, basement, and attic. It is in fine order, and the sick in hospital and in convalescent barrack expressed entire satisfaction in regard to all employees as well as officers connected with the hospital.

The women nurses, five in number at present, are commended by all—officers, attendants, and patients. More will soon be required, as the members are getting too old and clumsy for properly attending the sick. All in all, the Pacific Branch has a hospital worthy of the name, and creditable to all concerned.

The water supply is still in evidence. It is evident that unless rains come to fill the source of supply next year more extended provisions will be a matter of absolute necessity. Three extremely dry seasons have resulted in drying up the sources which have heretofore been considered reliable the year through. There is a company formed, and it is claimed has secured an abundant supply in the San Fernando Valley with sufficient head to make pressure at the Home for all purposes. An agent visited the Branch a day or two since and promised to make a proposition for supplying water on the plan of the Leavenworth Water Company. The water is already delivered to consumers in abundance 7 miles distant, and the company expresses confidence that it can supply the Home with water cheaper than it is now being supplied by our system. Governor Rowland will investigate more fully and report to the president of the Board.

The Home is looking beautifully. All trees and shrubs are growing rapidly, and are quite sufficient for shade and beauty to satisfy the most exacting.

No complaints have come to me of any mismanagement in the conduct of affairs at this Branch, and I am gratified to be able to state that this Home is under the supervision of competent, careful, honest, and able officers, who do their duty faithfully and without fear or favor.

The dormitory accommodations are crowded in the barracks, the beds are too close to each other, and a hundred members are sleeping in basements. It was expected that the new mess hall would be in readiness for use by Thanksgiving time, when the old dining room would be vacated and converted into a dormitory, which it was believed will partially relieve the dormitory congestion. There were over 400 members absent on furlough, a large proportion of whom are liable to return before snow falls, and if the rate of increase by original admissions be kept up there will soon be a pressing demand for an additional barrack.

At muster and inspection a generally improved condition was observed as to clothing and personal neatness in comparison with the appearance of the members last year.

ADMINISTRATION.

Gen. William F. Rogers still remains in charge of the Home. There have been a few changes in the board of trustees, and the loss of two or three members having valuable experience and good administrative ability, among whom was Gen. Henry W. Slocum, has been seriously felt. The board has been divested largely of independent or discretionary power in the expenditure of the appropriations for maintenance, and it seems now difficult to meet the ever-varying wants and demands of an inconstant population and a changeable climate.

RECORDS.

The offices of the superintendent and his adjutant show the adjustments of experience, so that the clerical work is done in the most efficient and convenient manner. The official records are kept up to date and the history of any member of the Home can be produced in less than five minutes.

In the report of my inspection of State Soldiers' Homes in 1894, pages 25–29, the law of this State (chapter 654, laws of 1894), which was passed as a rider to an appropriation bill, and which relates to the appropriations for and administration of State charitable institutions, together with the regulations made by the comptroller thereunder, were fully set forth. Since that time I have observed the operation of these regulations and find that it has not been without considerable friction and occasional embarrassment regarding supplies, especially of clothing and subsistence. The members have not appeared fully supplied with uniform clothing at any inspection since that of 1894, and there has not been the adequate supply of clothing that is usually kept on hand in all other Soldiers' Homes.

The standard allowance of clothing in the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers during five years is as follows:

NOTE.—Buttons, etc., to be cut off and used again, the balance to be sold for rags, etc.

There were 40 members without uniform clothing at the inspection this year, and no supply worth mentioning was on hand. From a soldier's point of view there is a mortifying incongruity in the classification of a Soldiers' Home with the charitable institutions of the State and in subjecting it to the identical administration of a reformatory. This unfortunate lack of a proper consideration for the character of a Soldiers' Home is rendered more conspicuous by the fact that the National Government pays more than two-thirds of the cost of its maintenance, which national aid no other institution of the State, charitable or reformatory, enjoys. The sentiment of the Grand Army of the Republic gave the initial impulse to the creation of every State Soldiers' Home and that sentiment is national, as the title of that association implies.

A proper estimation of a Soldiers' Home comprehends and realizes that it is a Home for honorably discharged soldiers of the United States Volunteers who are disabled from earning a living by manual labor, and is not an asylum for the offspring of crime nor for the idle dependents of any political organization. It is absolutely nonpolitical in its origin and purpose, and every good soldier and true patriot will guard against the degradation of its character or prostitution of its purpose.

QUARTERMASTER'S DEPARTMENT.

My muster and inspection of the members of the Home took place on September 12, but the inspection of the quartermaster and commissary departments and hospital was had on November 12, the reason for postponement being to obtain a better opportunity for observing the operation of the rules and regulations of the State comptroller in these departments of the Home.

On November 1 the uniform clothing on hand in store was:

Caps	22
Socks, pairs	567
Overshirts, woolen	7

There were no undershirts, vests, blouses, trousers, or shoes. There were 40 members without uniform clothing, but they had underclothing.

It was reported that the estimate for clothing for October was made on September 15, but was not approved for the stated reason that the estimate would exceed the pro-rata appropriation for that month. The appropriation for the maintenance of this Home from October 1, 1895, to September 30, 1896, was $160,000. This sum was divided by the comptroller by 12 and the quotient, $13,333.33, was the available appropriation for each month and not to be exceeded by any estimate.

The aggregate estimate made on September 15 for the maintenance of the Home in October was $16,000.66, and included the estimate for needed clothing. The comptroller would allow the expenditure of only $13,333.33 over and above the Home products, estimated as $566.50 and left it to the board of trustees and superintendent to make the necessary reductions. The necessity for subsistence being imperative, as well as for all other items, the estimate for clothing was consequently ignored.

Requisition or estimate for 200 full suits of uniform clothing was reported made on October 12, but no portion of it had been received on November 12. The clothing for the Home is furnished from Sing Sing prison.

SUBSISTENCE.

The estimates for subsistence are computed upon a maximum ration fixed by the comptroller and printed in my report of 1894.

All estimates for subsistence must be made for the actual number who were present during the thirty days previous to the date of the estimates, which is always on the 15th of each month, and without any allowance for an increase of population. This and further restrictions make calamity possible. To illustrate: On October 31, as shown by the records, there was on hand from the estimate allowed for that month:

Corn meal	pounds	95	Hominy	pounds	225
Rice	do	121	Rolled oats	do	70½
Cheese	do	226	Butter	do	623
Coffee, ground	do	6	Tea	do	39
Corned beef, nine 14-pound cans			Coffee, berry	do	127
Shoulders	pounds	53	Ham	do	82
Sugar, extra C	do	515	Bacon	do	39

Under the law, as construed by the comptroller, the commissary can make no purchase of subsistence until the notification of the approval of the estimate has been received by him from the comptroller. This notification, it was reported, and the correspondence and records seemed to confirm the report, has generally been received about the 1st of the month, but sometimes after the 1st of the month. The commissary has therefore been obliged to assume the responsibility of ordering the necessary supplies a reasonable time in advance of the end of the month and sometimes before the receipt of the notification of the approval of the estimate, in order to prevent the calamitous condition which would ensue to any interruption of the railway traffic which is liable to occur and has occurred from one to five days in the winter season. There should always be on hand at least ten days' supply of subsistence. It seemed possible that these overcareful and risky methods of supplying this Home might justify the implication that former irregularities and deficiencies had induced their adoption, but on inquiry of Hon. Frank Campbell, treasurer of the Home and formerly comptroller of the State, it was ascertained that in his recollection there had never been any difficulty in keeping inside the appropriations, without risk or embarrassment or want, in the matter of supplies, and that the only semblance of a deficiency that ever occurred was at the time these new methods were adopted, and happened in the following manner: At the end of the fiscal year, September 30, 1894, an inventory was taken at the Home under the direction of the comptroller of the State, and a copy of said inventory was sent to Albany. In that inventory the amount of goods on hand was shown, but the amount owed for some October supplies on hand and included in the invoice was not stated. October 1, the beginning of the fiscal year, 1895, the present system was adopted and enforced. The goods that were not paid for in that inventory were consumed during the fiscal year beginning October 1, 1894, and ending September 30, 1895. The amount of goods in dollars was $3,799.57. This compelled the Home authorities to ask the legislature for a deficiency appropriation for this amount. The request was granted by the legislature and bills to that amount were paid, and it can be readily seen that there was no deficiency, as the goods were on hand at the Home as shown in the inventory furnished to the comptroller, but were not paid for.

HOSPITAL.

The State has reason to be proud of its Soldiers' Home Hospital. In its plan, construction, and equipment it approaches the best ideals, and in some features furnishes original examples worthy of imitation. Its administration has been steadily improving during the last five years under the studious direction of the present surgeon. This progress has resulted from experience acquired by the surgeon in visits to other well-managed hospitals and the study and adoption of the most approved methods. No matter how large and successful a practice a doctor of medicine may have outside of a hospital, in country or city, he will find much to learn when he assumes charge of a hospital, and that learning is best acquired by experience.

The record books were in a commendable condition. The "Records of Examinations of Applicants" were made and kept complete, whether the applicant was admitted or not, and the same for readmission. The surgeon thinks 20 per cent of the members of the Home are able to earn a living by labor if they could find work. Record book of sick call was simple, intelligible, and complete. The death record was complete. Two records are kept in each ward, one showing the administration of prescriptions, time, etc., and the other the dispensary account.

Nurses keep a case record of all cases that require study and medication, and a chart is kept by them as a part of the record. These are ultimately filed away. The nurses under question disclosed a knowledge of their patients and their treatment, and a satisfactory understanding of their duties. There has been a great improvement in their deportment and discipline. It was pleasant to observe vases of fresh flowers in every ward. The operating room, which is of admirable proportions and sky-lighted in the daytime and with electric lighting at night, is in need of repairs. The leaking of the roof has discolored the walls, which prevents an aseptic condition being maintained. It will not be difficult to add another pavilion of two wards to the hospital, which will soon become necessary, and it will be more economical than would be the conversion of a barrack to hospital purposes, and a barrack could not now be spared. A necessity exits here which has been mentioned in previous reports which does not seem to have been understood by the authorities who control the expenditures for this institution. It is a microscope for making observations and studies of things that can not be seen with the unaided eye. There are many things of the utmost importance to human life and to the progress of medical science that can be discovered only by the microscope. To illustrate: In the treatment of pulmonary tuberculosis it is of vital importance that the surgeon should be enabled to ascertain immediately the effects of any treatment upon the bacilli in the sputa and to know whether their number is decreasing or not under the treatment. Without the microscope the surgeon can not have this knowledge. The micro-organisms which produce all the essential fevers would be as far beyond the surgeon's ken without a microscope as they would be if they were out of existence. It would seem possible that human life and health and the successful treatment of disease may be regarded of less consequence than a favorable balance of a few dollars on a ledger.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE NEW YORK SOLDIERS AND SAILORS' HOME FOR THE YEAR ENDING JUNE 30, 1896.

BATH, N. Y., July 13, 1896.

GENERAL: I have the honor to submit the following report of this Home for the year ending June 30, 1896:

The appropriation made by the legislature for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1896, was $150,000 for maintenance, transportation of members, and ordinary expenses. A special appropriation of $25,000 was also made for the erection of a new dining hall with a capacity sufficient to accommodate all the members at one setting of the tables. This hall will be completed by the 1st of October next and its occupation will enable us to utilize the old dining hall as a domitory, thus affording accommodations for about 100 more members, sufficient, it is hoped, for any future demands that may be made upon us. Under the authority of law the State comptroller requires monthly statements to be submitted to him, on the 15th of each month, of the amount required for the succeeding month, which are subject to his approval before any expenditures are made. The following is a statement of this expenditure for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1896:

Current expenses	$25,635.90	Transportation	$3,552.08
Subsistence	61,135.98	Construction	12,734.20
Clothing	14,650.38	Farm	12,317.81
Household	27,738.68

The loss in the aggregate is attributed to the operation of a rule which required that members who had been on furlough for more than one year should return or be discharged. Previous to the issue of this rule some members had been absent seven years. The number admitted to this Home from States which have no soldiers' homes are—

RECORDS.

In the superintendent's office the historical record of members lacked a statement of kind and degree of disability, and when and where contracted, and the admission papers were not described. The adjutant, who is new to his office but seems a very competent and efficient officer, made a memorandum of all errors and omissions in this and other records and will see that corrections are made. No register of all applicants for admission was kept; only those who were admitted. The record of discharges was fully kept and posted to date far better than in most Homes. An offenders' docket was kept, but not in standard form. The furlough register was in standard form and posted to date. It is worthy of note that members are not counted present who have a pass for over twenty-four hours. The burial record of graves in cemetery was kept in chart. It was suggested that it should be also kept in standard register and posted in the historical record.

HOSPITAL.

This is now one of the best-managed hospitals in any Home. The records were especially noteworthy, as all of the standard books were posted to date and in careful legible writing. Sick-call cards were in the pockets of every member of the Home and hospital cards were filled out for every member who had ever received hospital treatment. The record of every prescription was better made and easier to find than by any other method I have seen. The surgeon, Dr. Montgomery, it was plain to be seen, has the affectionate regard and abiding confidence of every patient, and their gentle manners and respectful order reflects his administrative ability. The wards, halls, and dispensary were clean and bright. The medicines were largely purchased directly from the manufacturer. It was a great satisfaction to note the progress of this hospital toward perfection. Instead of the subdivisions of the population into companies, as is done in most large Homes, the cottage and its occupants constituted an administrative unit, and the surgeon's prescription book shows the name of every inmate of every cottage who has received treatment at sick call along with the prescription.

A large new "Old-Men's Building" has been erected adjacent to the hospital of two stories, with ample verandas and porches There are four wards of twelve beds each and four spacious rooms of seclusion on each story. The entire hospital system is connected by corridors with an independent kitchen. The contagion ward is in the attic story and is entirely isolated from other wards. Carts with rubber-tired wheels and elevators are used in the distribution of food. No trained nurses are yet employed, but they will be. The Home has a band of music of ten pieces such as may not be found in any other Home or elsewhere. It is composed of a father with his sons, from 22 years of age down to 9 years, and they make excellent music, and I was told that some of them played equally well upon several of the instruments. Together with their mother, the boys give frequent entertainments of vocal and instrumental music to the members. There is a prospect of an increase of the band by the growth of infantile members of the family.

COST OF MAINTENANCE.

There has been a gradual decrease in the cost of maintenance per capita per annum during the last three years, viz:

1892	$157.80	1895	$122.47
1893	161.57	1896	113.47
1894	124.77

This has been chiefly due to an improved and attentive administration.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE ILLINOIS SOLDIERS AND SAILORS' HOME FOR THE YEAR ENDING JUNE 30, 1896.

ILLINOIS SOLDIERS AND SAILORS' HOME,
Quincy, Ill., July 6, 1896.

GENERAL: I have the honor to submit the following report of this Home for the year ending June 30, 1896:

The "Dump" in this Home was abolished on Thanksgiving Day, 1895. All labor is paid for at the rate of 40 to 60 cents per day.

Of the number admitted during the past two years, 691 were native born and 341 foreign born. One thousand and seventy-eight members are pensioners, and the average pension is $9.75. The average population last year was 1,055, and for the year just ended, 1,112. The highest population mark was reached on January 10 and the lowest on May 10.

The per capita last year was $121.70, and the per capita for the year ending June 30, 1896, was $107.677.

During the last year we have erected a fine new convalescent cottage at a cost of $18,000, and finished it at an additional cost of $2,000.

A new hearse, new post-office, bank of deposit, brass band of nine pieces, 1,500 evergreens planted throughout the grounds are among the new features of the Home. The Home is in good condition. Members are obedient. Drunkenness has decreased, and all former troubles are things of the past.

Very respectfully, yours,

WILLIAM H. KIRKWOOD, Superintendent.

Gen. W. W. AVERELL, U. S. A.,

SANITARY REGULATIONS.

The sanitary regulations of this Home are a few simple rules pertaining to rigid cleanliness of quarters occupied by members, and proper care and cleanliness of their persons and clothing. Those with contagious diseases are, of course, isolated at once and proper precautions taken to prevent the spread of the disease. Special diet is prescribed whenever indicated.

RELIGION AND SOCIETIES.

The following is a report of the chaplain in his department of service rend beginning with February 27, 1896:

On each Sabbath, at 2.30 p. m., has been delivered a sermon or address; at short address and social service; also on Thursday, at 6.30 p. m., a social meet A Bible class meets at 9 a. m. on Sabbath.. An efficient choir, aided by the orc tra, furnishes entertaining music. On each Sabbath the choir sings in the diffe wards of the hospital, and prayer is offered. These services are very acceptab the patients, and much good is evidently accomplished. The cottages have been ited on an average of once a week, and an effort is being made to form a pers acquaintance with every soldier in the Home. From three to five hours daily, four days excepted, have been spent in the hospital, visiting the patients and att ing the dying. Among many of the professedly religious soldiers a high standa morals and religious experience is maintained. A goodly number have made a fession of religion, while others have abandoned drinking and vicious habits.

DEATHS.

Thirty-nine have died, 23 of whom were buried with military honors at the H cemetery. Most of these, by profession, died in the faith of the Christian religic

HOME BAND.

The Home band attends all the funerals and contributes much to the intere these occasions.

GRAND ARMY OF THE REPUBLIC POSTS.

The L. W. Shepard and John Woods posts attend the funerals in part or in w and the attendance of other comrades is very encouraging, and on these occas the Grand Army of the Republic ritual is observed.

Great effort is being made to encourage the order of the superintendent for helpful and happy government of the Home. Viewed from every point of obse tion, there is much in the great work of caring for the soldiers to encourage.

The loss is due to the operation of the following order, issued July 24, 1895, viz: "That any member of the Home who remains absent without leave sixty days shall be dropped from the rolls." "And any member who has been absent one year with leave, on furlough, and who does not return to the Home to stay within thirty days from date of this notice, will be given an honorable discharge from the Home."

The population was diminished by 103 members, a majority of whom expressed a disinclination to return and were discharged at their own request. Fifty-eight of this number have since been readmitted to the Home. Eighty-four members were discharged for habitual drunkenness from June 16, 1894, to June 16, 1895, and 55 during this year up to June 2, 1896.

DISCIPLINE.

There were 618 members in ranks at inspection, and their clothing was of good quality, uniform in color, and, with very few exceptions, neat and clean. It was noticeable that there was a general expression of intelligence upon their faces, and an evident interest manifested in their soldierly appearance. They were steady and silent in ranks, as though the discipline of the war had not been forgotten. About 75 per cent of the men were native-born Americans. When the sturdy appearance of a member raised a doubt in my mind as to his disability, the surgeon stated it in every instance when questioned, which capability is not common to surgeons of all Homes as large as this or even of several smaller ones. Every member of the Home has a "sick call" card, which is furnished to him on his admission, which serves the excellent purposes of identification and a clear statement of his disability, which a large proportion of members are not able to state themselves.

LACK OF MUSIC.

It is a notable regret that this great Home, to which the State of Ohio has been so generous in most respects, is not provided with a band of music. There is no single influence exerted in or upon a Soldiers' Home that is more inspiring and stimulating to a monotonous life than music. It gladdens life and prolongs it.

WEATHER.

The winter here was severe and protracted, but a compensation was found in a bountiful crop of ice from the ponds in the Home grounds.

The underlying stratum of rock here is quite horizontal, and only about a foot beneath the surface of the ground. Some broad excavations, made during the construction of the Home, are filled with water from contiguous springs, so that the ponds have become pleasing and refreshing features to the growing park about the Home during the summer time, and afford an inexhaustible and economical supply of ice during the winter.

ADMINISTRATION.

The most satisfactory condition about this great Soldiers' Home is that its administration comports in all its manifestations with the dignity, regularity, fitness, and comfort which a visitor must perceive, at the first observation, in the plan, elevation, and architectural aspect of its buildings. Happily, the official control has remained in the hands of General Force and his accomplished staff, unaffected by any political changes in the State government. No loud or harsh words are heard in official or personal intercourse, and a strong but gentle self-respecting discipline seems to prevail. The records are kept in accordance with regulations, and an abstract of any desired information is promptly produced from any department.

HOSPITAL.

The arrangement of the new hospital, which was mentioned in my last report, is a great improvement upon the old hospital. The central building has three excellent rooms for clinical work and a dark room for eye, ear, nose, and throat work, and an operation room with modern appliances. These facilities add greatly to the opportunities for advancement in the science and practice of medicine and surgery. The warming and heating, the ward service, the corridors, and soiled-linen closets are all special features of the new construction. The glass inclosing the corridors in winter are removed in the summer season and stored away in an attic over each ward. An open porch along the outside of the interior aspect of each ward affords a pleasant and comfortable resort for the sick who are able to leave their beds. The wards contain nothing in the way of furniture but a bed and chair for each patient. Instead of a locker or bedside stand, a bedside shelf is held to the sill of each window by brackets. There is neither wainscoting nor baseboards in the wards proper; the plastering extends to the floor, the junction with which is covered with a small quarter-round strip. The one great object being strict cleanliness, there must be no place where filth can accumulate. The wards are 26 feet 4 inches wide, and contain 32 beds each, and 2 rooms for seclusion. The controlling unit of measure, the dimensions of a bed, has been recognized in the construction, so that the interval between windows is the width of a bed, and the cubic space in a ward is divided equally between all the beds, the heads of which are 14 inches from the wall. The beds are the best I have seen in a hospital. They are 6 feet 3 inches long and 3 feet wide. They are furnished with mattresses 6 feet 3 inches long, 3 feet wide, and 6 inches thick, containing 18 pounds of best hair, one mattress cover, four sheets, two best grade soft white woolen blankets, made especially for the Home, with its monogram in their center, and costing $3 each by the hundred, one feather pillow and one filled with hair, and two white bedspreads. The wire mattress beneath has fine strong reenforcements, and the bedstead stands upon casters which are interchangeable. The food and diet are prepared in the general kitchen in the basement of the central building, and not under any ward building, and conveyed to the wards by underground passageways. The large waiting room in the central building is 21 feet high with a dome effect above.

The warming of the hospital is effected by the circulation of heated water through the apparatus of Leonard & Stratton, and is automatically controlled and regulated to maintain the desired temperature by a thermostat in each ward. The ventilation system adopted is that of Johns Hopkins Hospital, and it seems perfect in its operation. The methods of keeping records in this hospital of conditions, patients, wards, and work of all kinds are worthy of careful study, and furnish the best evidence of the persistent, tentative experience of the zealous surgeon, Major Haynes, and his attentive assistant.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE OHIO SOLDIERS AND SAILORS' HOME FOR THE YEAR ENDING JUNE 30, 1896.

STATE SOLDIERS' HOME,
Erie County, Ohio, July 15, 1896.

GENERAL: I have the honor to submit the following report of this Home for the year ending June 30, 1896:

There has been a perceptible improvement in health and discipline, keeping in pace with the general improvement in the appearance of the grounds.

Two wards and the dispensary building, constituting the rear face of the new hospital, have been built and occupied. The two wards stand end toward end and the dispensary building between them, making a facade of 440 feet. They are warmed by hot water; the ventilation is perfect. The broad corridors, inclosed by glass in winter and by wire netting in summer, entirely surrounding each ward, are a constant delight. The legislature has appropriated $25,000 for the year ending February 15, 1897, and $25,000 for the year ending February 15, 1898, for continuing the construction.

An addition to the ice house has been built at a cost of $412.75. The storage in the ice house supplies for about ten months, and a supply for two months is piled up outside. The saving in expense by cutting ice on our ponds is from $1 to $2 per ton.

The trustees have determined to construct a supplemental sewer to relieve a severe nuisance. The cost will probably be about $2,000.

The evil of desertion, or quitting the Home unlawfully with intent to remain permanently away, especially by men who carry off clothing with them, increased to such extent that the trustees made the following rule: "The readmission of any member of the Home who has deserted or shall desert while under sentence, or carrying off with him clothing belonging to the Home, will be on condition of his performing such sentence and paying to the quartermaster the value of such clothing on readmission, or out of the first money that he shall receive after readmission. He shall be restricted to camp limits until sentence is satisfied."

There has been no restriction as to the length of time that a member could continue absent from the Home by repeated extensions of furlough. The number of men who had been absent more than a year attracted attention; and the trustees, holding that a man who has been able to maintain himself continuously for a year is not eligible for an institution for disabled men, made a rule that such absence shall not continue more than a year, and that a member who shall fail to return to the Home after being notified that his year has expired will be considered as asking for an honorable discharge, which shall be forthwith forwarded to him.

In compliance with your wish expressed when you inspected the Home, a muster was held June 12. No one was allowed to leave camp till noon; all work was suspended. All extra-duty and detailed men reported to their several companies, which were formed in line in front of their respective quarters. The sick were visited and answered in their beds; every man who had been reported present answered to their names but two. These two were on the ground and able to appear, but willfully refused to take place in the line. They were discharged for their contumacy.

Very respectfully,

M. F. FORCE, Commandant.

SANITARY REGULATIONS.

he sewage from the six dwellings constituting "Officers' row," flowing into an n vat, and seeping over the adjacent ground, though treated from time to time h deodorizers and disinfectants, has been for some years an intolerable nuisance. trustees have given much consideration to the matter, and the legislature having lly made a reasonable appropriation, they have adopted a plan for relief. It is onstruct a sewer 1,100 feet long connecting with the main sewer of the camp. rill be necessary to blast from 8 to 12.30 feet deep into rock in order to get a ich to lay the sewer pipe in. Lateral pipes will connect this with the cottages. s work when carried out will not only carry off all sewage but will also drain water which collects freely in the cellars of these dwellings after rain.

s a sanitary measure a cottage has been erected called the receiving barracks. All sons admitted or readmitted must spend there the first two weeks and until the geon shall certify to the commandant that they are free from contagious or infec- s disease.

RELIGION AND SOCIETIES.

uring the year ending June 30, 1896, the chaplain has preached 91 sermons, held services in the hospital, 45 prayer meetings, conducted 35 funerals, made 129 nds of the hospital wards, 153 visits through the cottages, 57 special visits to the t, and had 557 personal conversations with comrades on moral and religious duty. he average attendance at the Sunday services was 114, at prayer meetings, 17. cial religious services were held in February.

he celebration of the seventh anniversary of the Home, November 17, 1895, brought the largest Sunday audience we have yet had. The attendance on memorial Sun- was almost as large—about 400. The committees of the Grand Army of the public and Woman's Relief Corps, Department of Ohio, the pastors of Sandusky, l many other friends continue their active interest in the moral welfare of the mbers of the Home.

The John T. Toland Post, No. 695, Grand Army of the Republic, has 103 members good standing. Encampment No. 124, Union Veterans' Legion, has 70 members. omas L. Young, commander of the Union Veteran Union, reports 50 members and Lincoln Lodge of Independent Order of Good Templars 50 members.

Pursuant to instructions, after inspecting several National Homes, including the Pacific Branch, which latter inspection was completed on the 11th of July, I proceeded to San Francisco and Yountville, where the State Home in California is located.

In company with the president of the board of trustees, Sidney J. Loop, and J. H. Garrett and G. W. Strohl, members of the board, and Maj. F. K. Upham, treasurer of the Pacific Branch of the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers, we arrived at the Home on Thursday, July 16, and on Friday, the 17th, made a thorough inspection of this Home. With the aid of Major Upham a complete muster of the members of the Home was taken, seeing every man, including the sick in hospital. The result of the muster showed 514 present. Ninety-seven were reported absent, making a total of present and absent of 611. There were present, sick in hospital, 112. By the reports, 51 have died during the year ending June 30, 1896. Admissions during the same time, 275, of which 151 were native born and 121 were foreign born. No insane members are retained at the Home, all such being transferred to the Napa Insane Hospital, and 5 were transferred during the year. Eight are reported slightly demented, but are carefully looked after and well guarded, that no danger befalls them. The facilities for amusement are a good library, social hall for entertainments, such as concerts, theatricals, etc., billiard and pool room, card tables, etc. In the canteen is also a tivoli table. In fact, the place is well supplied with means for diversion, and these are in almost constant use.

No unusual gains at any time during the year, but a steady increase, and to meet the demand additional quarters have been provided. The present capacity in dormitories is reported at 650; capacity of hospital proper, 65, and for convalescents, 150.

No increased facilities are required for the year ending June 30, 1897, except some unforeseen demand arises, and no new buildings are contemplated. As heretofore, the water question is still unsolved. A reservoir is now contemplated which is intended to catch and save the winter rain. It is hoped and expected to have this catch basin completed before the rains set in. It is the most feasible plan yet proposed for this much-needed water supply.

Considerable improvements have been made during the past year and several new buildings have been added, viz, social hall, at a cost of $15,000; annex to hospital, $800; external repairs, costing $2,200; a new and complete sewage system, $500; and a smokehouse, $300. These are fully set forth in the annual report heretofore forwarded.

The following changes in officers have taken place: Gen. D. W. C. Thompson, commandant, resigned, and Col. George W. Watts, a former member of the board of trustees, was appointed his successor. Dr. A. E. Phelan, of San Francisco, was appointed oculist and aurist during the past year, and is serving as such when occasion requires. Dr. W. J. Hennessy has also been appointed consulting surgeon and physician. No other changes in the officers have occurred.

This Home is admirably managed. The members are well clothed, but the clothing is not uniform. It was noticeable that some of the clothing was faded and the buttons were not all of one kind. This was noticed by others and attention was called to the lack of uniformity, and the feeling seemed to be prevalent that this should be remedied. The food was good and abundant. All the dormitories were in good order, beds first class, and cleanliness prevailed everywhere. The general appearance of the men indicated contentment and perfect satisfaction.

In a hurried examination of the books of the Home all were found to be neatly, carefully, and properly kept. The main work in this particular is done at the San Francisco office by the secretary, Captain Scoville, and Colonel Currier, the treasurer, and most of the financial transactions are made there.

The inspection of this Home was in every respect satisfactory, and the soldiers cared for here are surely well provided for, and seem happy and contented.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE VETERANS' HOME OF CALIFORNIA FOR THE YEAR ENDING JUNE 30, 1896.

HEADQUARTERS VETERANS' HOME ASSOCIATION,
San Francisco, Cal., July 1, 1896.

GENERAL: I have the honor to submit the following report of this Home for the year ending June 30, 1896:

The officers of the association remain as last reported, with the following additions and exception: October 12, 1895, Dr. A. E. Phelan, of San Francisco, was appointed consulting physician as occulist and aurist of the Home; January 11, 1896, Dr. W. J. Hennessy, of Napa, was appointed consulting physician and surgeon of the Home; January 1, 1896, Dr. L. C. Gregory, of Santa Rosa, was selected to serve as interne in the hospital—all of these additions to the medical staff of the Home hospital serving without cost to the association. January 11, 1896, the resignation of D. W. C. Thompson, as commandant, was asked for, same to be handed in by January 18, and to take effect February 1, 1896, and such resignation was received and acted on accordingly. May 9, 1896, Col. George W. Watts, of San Francisco, was elected commandant and is now in charge of the Home.

PERMANENT IMPROVEMENTS, NEW BUILDINGS, ETC.

Since last report a new building with solid concrete foundation, 76 by 165 and 56 feet high, containing two stories with attic and roomy basement, known as the "social hall building," has been completed and is in every respect a handsome, substantial, and commodious structure. It contains a main hall on first floor seating comfortably 700 persons, and has reception rooms on each side of main entrance. On second floor are two large dormitories, capable of accommodating 150 members. In the attic has been fitted up a room 40 by 55 feet in size for the exclusive use of Unity Post, No. 171, Grand Army of the Republic, Department of California.

This handsome building, constructed largely from the profits of the canteen, is to be used to as great an extent as possible for the pleasure and amusement of the members of the Home, giving them billiard room, hall for entertainments, reading rooms, etc.

A large addition to the hospital, known as the hospital annex, 125 by 40 feet, has been completed, is fully furnished throughout, and is now being enjoyed by the sick and convalescent veterans. The new dining room in the annex will seat over 200. The dormitory of annex (second story) contains 60 beds. The old kitchen and dining room of hospital has been converted into a ward containing 14 beds.

An addition of about 20 feet has been made to the west end of the hospital building, and several new water-closets, lavatory, etc., put in same. New closets, urinals, lavatories, etc., have also been added to other buildings wherever necessary, and the conveniences in this direction are now all that could be desired. In fine, the hospital department of the Veterans' Home, as now conducted, is in a most satisfactory condition, and it can consistently be said that with its staff of physicians and surgeons, and in convenience, cleanliness, light, ventilation, sanitary plumbing, and other appointments going to make up a model hospital for the care and comfort of patients, it is not excelled by any like institution in the State.

A cottage of five rooms for the use of the engineer (having in charge the laundry and bathroom engine, the electric-light plant, etc.) has been built and is now occupied.

A brick smokehouse for curing the hams, bacon, etc., of pork raised on the Home grounds has been constructed, and in which last fall some 14,000 pounds of such meats were smoked.

The grounds of the Home, including farming lands, orchards, ornamental plats, vegetable gardens, etc., are being constantly improved, and will from year to year present a better appearance. The young orchard planted one and two years ago is coming on in fine shape, the ground having been kept thoroughly cultivated during the year as needed. The trees have been pruned, their trunks whitewashed, and they, as well as all the ornamental trees, shrubs, and plants, are in a vigorous and healthy condition and making rapid growth.

A valuable piece of land on the Home grounds heretofore given up to weeds and rank grasses has been ditched, tiled, and converted into a rich and prolific vegetable garden, where now are growing radishes, onions, lettuce, tomatoes, carrots, cabbages, etc., for the use of the Home table.

The deep and unsightly sag in front of the dining-room building has been at last filled in and converted into an ornamental plat. Fully 2,000 loads of rock, gravel, and good soil were used to effect this much-needed change.

The sewerage of the Home has been completely remodeled, some 1,600 feet of new 6-inch ironstone pipe having been relaid on a regular grade, sunk 2 feet below the surface. At the head of each system automatic flushing tanks of 300 gallons capacity each have been placed, and the entire length of sewers can now be washed out at stated intervals, thus keeping them in first-class sanitary condition.

Many other improvements of buildings and grounds, too numerous to mention in detail, have been made during the year, all of which have called for close attention on the part of the buildings and grounds committee and a careful husbanding of the funds of the association. Most of such improvements have been accomplished by Home labor and the use of the teams belonging to the association.

All of these needed permanent improvements, rendered necessary by the increasing demands for admissions to the Home, have been made by the present board of directors during the past year without one dollar's increase in the State appropriation and but a trifling increase in the United States appropriation over those enjoyed by the association three years, when, with a much smaller membership, financial difficulties were encountered in meeting ordinary running expenses.

All standard supplies, both commissary and quartermaster, are now furnished the Home in contracts, duly let in accordance with advertisements and proposals received. Under this system the board of directors are earnestly endeavoring to supply the Home with as high a grade of food and clothing as obtained when bought in open market at competitive prices.

The one great need of the Veterans' Home of California is water in sufficient quantities for irrigation and free use in keeping up grass plats, flowers, shrubbery, etc. Steps are now being taken to create an impounded reservoir in the rugged and picturesque canyon leading up to the wooded mountains west of the Home, and before another year rolls around a little lake of over 8,000,000 gallons capacity will have been created therein and at an elevation that will make its waters available not only for irrigation and beautifying the grounds, but also for protection against fire in the highest buildings.

In conclusion, during the past year every exertion possible has been made to meet the increasing demands for admission to the Home, the actual number present averaging 533, as compared with 442 last year. The men are well clothed and fed, comfortably quartered, and seem happy and contented.

The incorrigibles have mostly been weeded out, and the great majority realize that they are in a Home of their own and which deserves from them good behavior and considerate treatment of those associated with them in their fraternal family.

By order of the board of directors.

J. J. SCOVILL, Secretary.

Gen. W. W. AVERELL, U. S. A.,
Assistant Inspector-General,
National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers.

SANITARY REGULATIONS.

The sanitary regulations are in every way satisfactory. The dormitories, kitchen, dining room, hospital, and grounds are inspected daily by an officer of the Home, and by the commandant once a week.

RELIGION AND SOCIETIES.

Religious services are held every Sabbath day, alternately by Mrs. Greenfield, of Napa, and Rev. A. Decampos, a Roman Catholic clergyman, both giving their services gratuitously. The Salvation Army also holds meetings twice a month.

Unity Post, No. 171, Grand Army of the Republic, Department of California and Nevada, is composed of members of the Home. The post has a large new session room in the social hall building.

It was reported that the population of this Home had been considerably affected by the low prices of the products of agricultural labor in this region, which had depressed the wages of the labor employed, and consequently a number of men had been compelled to seek relief at the Home, where they were held T. A. P. and were not reported in the "average present." There were eleven such men at the Home on the date of my inspection.

The members appeared at inspection to be well clothed and well nourished. The dining room, kitchen, and all the furniture and appliances for the preparation and service of food were efficient and clean. The dormitories were spacious, sunny, and well ventilated.

ADMINISTRATION.

The faulty and discouraging conditions, which have been more or less apparent during the last four or five years in the administration of this Home, have now disappeared. This encouraging change ensued from the appointment of Col. James A. Crozer to the office of commandant. This gentleman was a member of the legislature whose act created the Home, and he has been a member of its board of managers during the last nine years. Another measure of great advantage to the administration was an act of the legislature of last year which regulates the rank of the officers of the Home and bestows certain necessary authority upon the commandant that can not fail to have a strong and favorable effect upon the discipline of the Home. The act is respectfully recommended to the consideration of the legislative authorities of other States, and is as follows, viz:

[Act No. 90, session laws of 1895, State of Michigan.]

AN ACT To provide for the maintenance of discipline and for the better government of the Michigan Soldiers' Home, and the Home for the soldiers, sailors, and marines who served in the late civil war, their wives, and mothers.

SECTION 1. The people of the State of Michigan enact that the officers of the Michigan Soldiers' Home and the Home for the soldiers, sailors, and marines who served in the late civil war, their wives, and mothers, shall consist of a commandant, with the military rank of colonel; an adjutant, with the military rank of major; a surgeon, with the military rank of major; a quartermaster, with the military rank of captain, and such noncommissioned officers as the commandant may from time to time appoint.

SEC. 2. It shall be the duty of the commandant to provide some suitable place within said Home wherein disobedient or otherwise disorderly persons can be retained, and the said commandant, or such other officer as may be temporarily in command, may place in restraint any disobedient or otherwise disorderly person until such person can be brought before the proper judicial tribunal, or until the necessity for such restraint shall have passed away: Provided, No person shall be restrained more than forty-eight hours.

SEC. 3. It shall be the duty of such commandant to make a detailed written report of every case in which said restraint shall have been resorted to, to the board of managers of the Home, at the next meeting of the board after such action shall have been taken.

SEC. 4. All acts or parts of acts contravening the provisions of this act are hereby repealed.

This act is ordered to take immediate effect.

Approved, April 24, 1895.

PRECAUTIONS AGAINST FIRE.

All the buildings have ample exits and the main building has hose attached to fire plugs on every floor, and orders have been issued to make a like provision for all the buildings. The commandant, realizing the necessity for establishing a condition of readiness to meet the perils of fire, will at once have practice drills upon fire alarms until the members shall become properly instructed in their movements and the fire details shall have learned their duties.

WATER.

There is an abundant and reliable supply of water, and the power is cleverly utilized. Soft water is siphoned over an eminence that intervenes between the Home and its source—a distance of 4,000 feet. A stream of water that falls into the Home grounds actuates a pump which sends the soft water into the boilers of the steam plant and into the laundry. Another pump lifts and distributes the pure water from wells for domestic purposes, and a third pump sends water from the creek to the great fountain in front of the Home and to the sprinklers on the extensive lawns and to the fire service. About 200 gallons of water per minute is the average work done. Whenever the water in the creek fails to furnish power, an electric motor is in readiness for substitution and this is used about half the time. The saving by this installation of pumps, in fuel for making steam to do the same work, work, is estimated at about 50 per cent.

HOSPITAL.

Several modifications and decided improvements have been made in the hospital. The large room at the southern end has been subdivided into wards, the women patients have been separated properly from an embarrassing contiguity to the men's wards. A spacious glass-inclosed corridor has been constructed along the front which affords a comfortable lounging and smoking room for the inmates. All the wards were clean, bright, and pleasant. Moveable white screens have been provided to surround a bed when the patient occupying it is receiving the exclusive attention of the nurses. Not an obnoxious odor was detected in any part of the hospital. The efficiency, deportment, and discipline of the women nurses under the effective supervision of their chief was admirable. The dispensary has undergone a remarkable change from disorder and dirt to good order, neatness, and brightness. A younger and more competent pharmacist is now employed. The charts kept and signed by the chief nurse contain a graphic history of all important cases. A general addition to the dining and kitchen capacity and also an addition of 50 per cent to the wardroom accommodation has been provided for by an appropriation.

GROUNDS.

Improvements and embellishments upon the surrounding park have been steadily extended upon the lawns and into the woodlands surrounding the Home. A herd of a dozen deer in the park to the northward engages the untiring attention of the old men.

This Home was the first to meet and settle the question, in the courts of the State, of the authority of its board of managers to control the pensions of members for the best welfare of the members and of their dependent relatives, and to furnish a precedent which has been followed by several Homes in other States.

It has now nearly realized the best ideal of the patriotic men who created it. It lacks music, which it should have to enliven and entertain these waning lives. The interest I have seen manifested by a large number of influential men and women who have visited the Home, when I have been there, assures me that some concerted action of the State of Michigan, the city of Grand Rapids, and the railway connecting the city with the Home, if exerted to have music here, would result in great satisfaction to all interested parties and in a worthy and graceful addition to the beneficence the members are now enjoying.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE MICHIGAN SOLDIERS' HOME FOR THE YEAR ENDING JUNE 30, 1896.

MICHIGAN SOLDIERS' HOME,
Grand Rapids, Mich., July 1, 1896.

GENERAL: I have the honor to submit the following report of this Home for the year ending June 30, 1896:

I relieved Col. B. F. Graves as commandant of this Home on May 1, 1896, but having been a member of the board of managers for several years, I am familiar with the operations of the Home for the time mentioned.

The discipline of the Home has greatly improved during the past year, owing to a variety of causes, but largely due to a change in legislation made during the last session of the legislature. The bill was framed by our legislative committee, and its principal provisions are as follows:

"That the officers of the Michigan Soldiers' Home and the home for the soldiers, sailors, and marines who served in the late civil war, their wives and mothers, shall consist of a commandant, with the military rank of colonel; an adjutant, with the military rank of major; a quartermaster, with the military rank of captain; a surgeon, with the military rank of major; and such noncommissioned officers as the commandant may, from time to time, appoint.

"It shall be the duty of the commandant to provide some suitable place within said Home wherein disobedient or otherwise disorderly persons can be restrained, and the said commandant, or such other officer as may be temporarily in command, may place in restraint any disobedient or otherwise disorderly person, until such person can be brought before the proper tribunal, or until the necessity for such restraint shall have passed away: Provided, No person shall be so restrained more than forty-eight hours.

"It shall be the duty of such commandant to make a detailed written report of every case in which such restraint shall have been resorted to, to the board of managers of the Home at the next meeting of the board after such action shall have been taken."

We have had only two cases for the guardhouse in four months, but the wholesome restraint exercised by its existence and the fact that the officers of the Home have been given rank and uniform, have been great factors in the preservation of discipline.

We have now on hand 425 members, 48 more than at this time last year. This increase can be accounted for in various ways, but the principal reasons are the advancing age of the veterans and the hard times. When jobs are hunting the men, old men stand some chance, but when men are hunting jobs, younger men have the advantage.

In my opinion the day laborers among the veterans will all be seeking admission to the Homes within the next ten years.

We have many improvements in progress or contemplation, for a number of which we are indebted to your recommendations. We have placed standpipes for fire protection in all our buildings; hand rails are to be put on all our stairs, small enough to be readily spanned by the hand; fire drills are in contemplation; a hydraulic elevator is under contract at the hospital; a band has been organized; the woman's building has been papered throughout; a motor has been put into our laundry and pumping station, effecting great saving in fuel, and an addition to our hospital is being erected which will increase our accommodations in that building about 60 per cent. This is demanded not only by the increase of the number sick, but also by the fact that many of the men, who are enfeebled by age, need care which can only be given them in the hospital.

We have also established a training school for nurses, which is proving a great success. The average trained nurse has not had the experience in old and chronic cases demanded in our hospital, but under the present system this is provided for. Should other Homes desire nurses specially prepared for this work we are ready to furnish them upon short notice.

I would recommend that some arrangement be made by which drinking men who desire to take the Keeley cure can be transferred from the State Homes to some Government Home where the treatment can be given.

I also recommend that a uniform system of handling the pensions be adopted by all Homes. At present each Home has a system of its own, and the "tourists" are constantly on the move to see which suits them best.

I am quite of the opinion that you would be the proper person and the most efficient to take this matter up, correspond with the different Homes, and devise some equitable plan for all the Homes to adopt.

Respectfully, yours,

JAMES A. CROZER, Commandant.

SANITARY REGULATIONS.

The sanitary regulations are of the most stringent character, aided by modern plumbing and ventilation.

RELIGION AND SOCIETIES.

Religious services are conducted by a lady who has been employed for four years. Her work has been productive of much good, as attested by large congregations and increased interest.

The Union Veterans' Union, or the order of Battlefield Veterans, has a large flourishing command of over 100 members, W. P. Innis No. 26. Its colonel is quartermaster-sergeant of the Home, and also adjutant-general of the department of which the adjutant of the Home is department commander.

Grand Army Post, John A. Logan No. 1, has also a good membership.

There is also a flourishing Good Templars lodge.

RECORDS.

The "Historic Record" is not in use, but the commandant promises that it shall be put in use. The record of "Applications for Admissions" is well kept. The record of "Discharges" is not kept from all Homes. An "Offenders' Docket" is in use and also a "Furlough Register." Death and burial records are in use. The commandant's office and the record books and papers in it show great improvement under a painstaking adjutant, supervised by an earnest and zealous commandant.

INSPECTION OF MEMBERS.

The members in ranks were hastily assembled and did not wear their best clothing, and in other respects, such as clean shoes, buttoned blouses, etc., they did not present as good and soldierly an appearance as they should. Neither did they observe that steadiness and silence in ranks which men who have been good soldiers are naturally expected to easily resume. The fact as reported was that they had not been turned out in ranks since my inspection of last year. I am convinced from observation that in those Homes where the members fall in for roll call at retreat and for parade, if there be music, it is the best and surest method to maintain that self-respecting and wholesome discipline which men who have been good soldiers are glad and proud to practice and remember, for it was a soldier's life that entitles them to the beneficence they now enjoy, and it will always be found when any member who is able to walk and stand in ranks for a few minutes and can not do it properly that he never was a good soldier and quite likely may have never served in ranks. I feel assured that Colonel Ratekin, who has been performing arduous and more important work in accomplishing the reforms in the administration that are so gratifyingly apparent, will find the leisure to give the members such gentle exercise as will conduce to a good soldierly appearance in ranks.

MUSIC.

This Home has now a population large enough, it would seem, to justify a prosperous and patriotic State in furnishing that wonderful physical and mental stimulant, music, for its old veterans. The effect on the Home would be sufficiently surprising and satisfactory to make the people who should observe its effects wonder how they ever got along without it.

PENSIONS.

The pension records were complete and well kept. The total amounts of pensions are shown, amounts paid to pensioners, amounts to the account of the State, and the amounts paid to dependent relatives, with their names. The Home postmaster turns all pension papers over to the commandant, the envelops are opened in his presence, the pensioner indorses his check, and the commandant pays or credits him to the extent of $6 per month. The remainder is surrendered to the State if the pensioner have no dependent relatives, but if he have dependent relatives it is remitted direct to them by the commandant. The amounts paid and retained this fiscal year to June 1 were:

Total amount of pensions	$39,416.49
Paid to pensioners	$25,550.24
Amount to State	5,425.50
Amount to dependent relatives	8,440.75
Total	39,416.49

This pension rule has been in operation since April 1, 1892. Its object was to exercise that control of pensions which conduces to the best welfare of the pensioner, his dependent relatives, and the government which bestows this Home beneficence upon him. The rule has operated efficiently and satisfactorily to relieve the distress of many dependent families who otherwise never would have received any assistance from pensions. Since the adoption of the rule controlling the pensions of members, their discipline, it is claimed, has improved. Before it was adopted, it is said, 90 per cent of the casual offenses were registered against pensioners.

MAINTENANCE.

The cost of maintenance per capita per annum has been gradually decreasing during the last four years. The records show that in 1892 it was $165; in 1893, $143.63; in 1894, $134.90; and in 1895, $124.03.

This cost for 1895 included $5,200 expended in improvement of grounds. Leaving this out, the cost per capita for that year would be $116.05. This decrease is due to diminished cost of supplies of subsistence and clothing, together with a rigid system of administration. The economy thus achieved demonstrates the value of experience in educating the officers of a soldiers' home in the practical and not perfunctory performance of their duties.

HOSPITAL.

The record books are in good order and kept up to date. The record of "Admissions," "Hospital," "Convalescent," and "Sick Call" were all kept by the surgeon in a good manner. I believe this is the first time that I have had the pleasure of reporting this condition of this Home. One interne, as a student, assists the surgeon in his hospital duties. The dispensary was clean and bright, and it was observable that the entire hospital was receiving proper attention. Drugs and medicines are purchased direct from the agents of the manufacturers at Chicago at wholesale prices. No women nurses have yet been employed, but will be when the new hospital shall be occupied.

An appropriation of $40,000 for a new hospital has been made, and the board of commissioners have wisely visited and studied the best examples of hospital construction, and have made a plan and working drawing which, upon examination, promises complete satisfaction.

HOME KITCHEN.

The general kitchen and baking room seemed adequate to the work required of them, and the latter was notably clean. The laundry was also in excellent condition, and seemed fully efficient.

OLD PEOPLES' BUILDING.

This is the sunniest, cleanest, and most comfortable building in the Home. The pictures of ideal comfort presented by the contented and cheerful old people who live here must reflect a glowing blessing upon the people who established this beneficence.

ANNUAL REPORT OF IOWA SOLDIERS' HOME FOR THE YEAR ENDING JUNE 30, 1896.

MARSHALLTOWN, IOWA, October 20, 1896.

GENERAL: I have the honor to submit the following report of this Home for the year ending June 30, 1896:

The rated and normal capacity of this Home had already been largely exceeded when my report was made for the last previous year. For this reason it has been impossible during the year covered by this report to do more than fill the vacancies caused by death and discharge, although more than 300 additional applications have n on file and others were only prevented by a knowledge of the crowded condin of the Home. It should, however, be understood that, in addition to the mem-ship covered by the statistics submitted herewith, an average of 23 women have n cared for during the year, 10 of whom are in as many small cottages with their ibands, and the remainder in the dormitory, or woman's building, erected two rs ago for the widows and mothers of soldiers and pensionable army nurses. The acity of the latter has not been fully called into requisition as yet, but the nand for cottages or other quarters for veterans with their wives has considerably reased.

t was on account of the fact last stated that in asking appropriations at the hands the general assembly last winter, the commissioners included the request for ,000 to erect a dormitory for indigent and disabled married couples. The legislae was not able to grant this request, but in addition to the stated amount pro-ed for support it did appropriate $51,000 for special purposes as follows:

: new hospital	$40,000
: furniture in hospital, etc	2,000
: residence for commandant	2,000
: residence for surgeon	2,000
: new floors in main building	1,600
: contingent fund	1,500
: new boiler	1,000
: new additional dynamo	1,000
: repainting present buildings	500
: finishing attic, woman's building	200

'he hospital thus provided for is already almost completed and will be occupied
'ore the first of the year. It is 228 feet in length, with a central depth of 111 feet, wings being only 25 feet. It is two stories above a high basement, built of ssed brick with cut-stone foundations and trimmings, and will, when completed, npare favorably with like institutions anywhere, both in appearance and suit-lity for its intended purpose. This building will have beds for 108 patients, with many windows, and will add by so many to the capacity of the Home.

Handsome and convenient residences have been erected and are now occupied by officers named. The flooring, painting, and other repairs and improvements icated have all been completed, as well as other renovations and betterments, luding a large amount of grading, all of which will add greatly to the appearance well as to the comfort and convenience of the Home.

n the matter of expenditures, as will appear from the statistics, the Home has ched the most economical record made since its existence. The total cost of intenance during the year, including everything expended (except items properly ssed as "construction," and amounting in the aggregate to but $2,988), is $67,161.88.
sed upon the average membership during the year, including women, this is al average cost of $111.92 per capita. The average cost of subsistence herein luded is $53.45 and that of clothing $13.25, while the average cost of ration per m is $0.1464. All this without account of the sum of $1,014.70, received by the nmandant from sales, collections, and miscellaneous items and turned over by n to the treasurer of the board.

'he question of discipline, however it may affect other Homes, in this one has been nd a serious one, and I beg to quote here a paragraph upon that subject from my n report made through the board to the last general assembly, as follows:

'The conduct of an institution of this character must obviously depend in no all degree upon the way in which the authority of the commandant is recognized the membership. No magisterial functions having been conferred upon him, the imate and almost only resource in asserting the rules and for the punishment of nses is the discharge of the offender. In many cases, and especially in those growing out of the drink habit (which is the basis of almost all serious difficulty), the ialty must fall upon those most needing the shelter of the Home and whose need nly increased by the weakness indicated. For this reason, discharge as a penalty intoxication has been used reluctantly and as a last resort, and usually in cases closing viciousness, as well as weakness, of character."

'ollowing the policy thus indicated, but 22 members have been summarily disarged for offenses against the rules during the year just closed, and 12 of these were sequently readmitted upon promise of amendment. From my own experience, posing the care of needy veterans to be the prime object of an institution of this racter, I can but believe this the true policy; but it is not unlikely to prove ential that some other effective penalty be devised and placed in the hands of the nmandant with which properly to conserve order and discipline.

What is generally known throughout the circle of State Homes as the "pension estion" has cut a very large figure in the Iowa Home during the past year, but now, we trust, finally and satisfactorily settled. In February, 1892, the commissioners adopted rules providing, in effect, that all members receiving pensions over $6 in amount should pay such excess over to the commandant, and the form of application signed and sworn to by each one admitted contained an agreement so to do. The money so collected was by the rule required to be sent to dependent relatives of the respective pensioners, taking receipts therefor; only that turned over by members having no such relatives going into the contingent fund of the Home. There was opposition to the rule at first among the membership; but after the legislature declined to take cognizance of a petition for its abrogation it was fully accepted, and during two years was administered without trouble or serious question. About the 1st of June, 1895, a new agitation of this question was developed, which became so bitter as seriously to disturb the peace and comfort of the Home, and which was finally taken into the district court upon the theory that the board of commissioners was unauthorized by the State laws to make such a requirement for admission and membership, and also that the rules were controvened by national pension legislation. The trial court decided that while the commissioners of the Home might take and temporarily hold such excess pension moneys, or send the same to dependent relatives, no conversion thereof could be made for any purpose of Home support or improvement, and injunction issued in conformity with such decision. Upon appeal to the supreme court of the State a decision has just been rendered which fully sustains the rules and the action of the commissioners in making and enforcing the the same. This opinion, prepared by Justice L. G. Kinne, meets the question of the disposition of pensions in State Homes so fully, and covers all issues arising thereunder so completely, that I submit it herewith in entirety for use in case you deem it of sufficient importance.

[Filed October 7, 1896. Supreme court of Iowa, May term, 1896. Daniel O. Ball, et al., appellee, v. S. B. Evans, J. J. Russell, A. T. Birchard, N. A. Merrill, C. L. Davidson, and J. W. Morton, constituting the commissioners of the Iowa Soldiers' Home, and J. R. Ratekin, commandant, appellants.]

Appeal from Marshall district court, Hon. D. R. Hindman, judge.

This is an action in equity, brought by certain inmates of the Iowa Soldiers' Home for the purpose of setting aside certain rules adopted by the board of commissioners of said Home, and to enjoin the enforcement of said rules. A temporary writ of injunction issued pending the hearing of the cause, restraining the defendant from appropriating any of the pension money belonging to any inmate of the Home. At the conclusion of the trial the court entered a decree making permanent said temporary injunction, and so extending it as to prohibit the commissioners from appropriating any of the pensions which they retain from the inmates to the maintenance fund or to the expenses fund of the Home, and directing such part of the pensions as they shall retain shall either be transmitted to the dependent relatives of said pensioner or be retained to be delivered to the pensioner upon his discharge from said Home, or to his heirs or assigns, if he die before it is turned over to him. An order of mandamus was refused. The costs were taxed to the defendants. Both parties appeal, but as defendants first served their notice they shall be spoken of as appellants.

Milton Remley and J. J. Russell, for appellants. J. L. Carney and J. M. Parker, for appellees.

KINNE, J.:

1. Plaintiffs, some twenty-six in number, are inmates of the Iowa Soldiers' Home, at Marshalltown, Iowa.

They prosecute this action, not only for themselves, but also on the behalf of all others similarly situated, and who are affected by the rules of which they complain. They are honorably discharged soldiers, formerly in the service of the United States, and each and all of them are in receipt of pensions, granted by the General Government, in excess of $6 per month, which pensions were granted on account of physical disabilities incurred in the service of their country.

They complain that the board of commissioners of the Home have adopted, and do enforce, certain rules hereinafter set forth, which they aver are unauthorized, illegal, inequitable, unjust, and which create conditions which operate unfairly upon all the inmates who draw pensions of over $6 per month. They aver that they have sought for a rescission of these rules from the board without avail.

Said rules are as follows:

"Second. Any person admitted to the Home having a pension exceeding $6 per month shall surrender all of said pension in excess of $6 per month to the commandant, and if the person so surrendering this pension has dependent relatives, the money so surrendered shall be paid to such dependent relatives by the commandant; and in case such pensioner shall have no dependent relatives the excess of his pension over $6 per month shall be credited by the commandant to the support fund.

"Third. If any member of the Home shall fail or refuse to surrender to the commandant the portion of his pension as herein required, such refusal or failure shall be deemed a violation of the rule, and the commandant shall give such offending member an honorable discharge.

"Rule 25. Any person entering the Home having a pension exceeding $6 per month shall surrender all of said pension in excess of $6 per month to the commandant, and if the person so surrendering his pension has dependent relatives the money so surrendered shall be paid to said relatives by the commandant; and in case such person shall have no dependent relatives the excess of his pension over $6 per month shall be accredited to the contingent fund. The words 'dependent relatives,' as herein used, shall mean wife, minor children, and parents.

"Rule 27. All members of the Home who shall hereafter be charged and found guilty of violating the rules of the Home, and who have a pension, shall surrender the entire amount of their pension to the commandant, who may, in his discretion, pay the same to the pensioner or to his dependent relatives (under rule 25), or turn the same over to the State, as in his judgment may seem to the best interest of the Home."

The defendants admit that plaintiffs are inmates of the Home; that defendants are officers of the same; that the rules set out were adopted by defendants' board of commissioners; that in some instances a part of the pension of some of the inmates of said Home in excess of $6 per month has been appropriated and applied to the contingent expenses of said Home, and admit that the board has been requested to rescind said rules. They deny all other allegations in the petition. They aver that under the laws of the State they had power and authority to adopt said rules, and all rules necessary and proper for the government of said Home; that they have the right and authority to determine as to the eligibility of applicants for admission to said Home, and aver that all rules by them adopted are not only authorized but such as experience has shown to be necessary and proper for the management and control of such an institution. That said rules have been necessary because said Home will not accommodate all of the applicants. That said plaintiffs and other inmates of the Home have full knowledge of said rules and of defendants' authority to make them, and had such knowledge when they made application for admission to the Home, and in their applications, which they signed, they expressly agreed to abide by said rules. Deny that plaintiffs, irrespective of their means of support, and the amount of pension received, are entitled to be supported by the State at said Home without contributing to their own support so far as they may be able. Deny that the enforcement of said rules divides the inmates of said Home into classes, but, on the contrary, under said rules all the inmates of said Home who have an income or pension retain the same up to $6 per month, and all receive their entire support from the said Home, boarding, clothing, and washing, and everything needed, without discrimination. They further aver that the facts stated in the petition do not entitle the plaintiffs to any relief. They also set out another rule.

"Rule 26. All members of the Home having no pension or having not exceeding $4 will be provided with tobacco, and all other members will be required to provide themselves with tobacco."

2. But two questions arise upon the record: First, had the board of commissioners of the Soldiers' Home authority to adopt the rules in question? and, second, are they reasonable?

Whatever powers have been conferred by statute upon the commissioners are found in chapter 58 of the acts of the twenty-first general assembly, which act provided for the establishment of the Home. There is no statute defining who is entitled to admission to the Home as inmates. By section 2 of the act referred to it is provided that "the board of commissioners shall determine the eligibility of applicants for admission to said Home." Section 15 of the same act prescribes the powers of the commissioners. It says that they "shall have the power to adopt a seal and make rules and regulations not inconsistent with the laws and constitution of this State for the management and government of said Home, including such rules as they may deem necessary for the preserving of order, enforcing discipline, and preserving the health of its inmates." The foregoing are all of the provisions of the statute relating to the powers of the commissioners in so far as they pertain to the admission of inmates and the government of the Home. As we understand counsel for plaintiffs, their complaint is that in so far as these rules provide for the taking and appropriation of any part of the pension of any inmate of the Home they are unwarranted.

The thought of counsel seems to be that as the State has provided a Home for disabled soldiers it matters not what may be the ability of such persons to support themselves, on account of pension money received from the General Government, they are entitled to retain all pensions received and insist upon the State supporting them besides.

We discover nothing upon which to rest such a conclusion. Subject to the provisions of the act itself and the laws and constitution of the State, as we have seen, the legislature reposed in the commissioners the power to determine who should be admitted to the Home and the circumstances under which those admitted might continue to share in the benefits of the institution. It appears without conflict in this case that this Home, under the existing rules, is full; that for much of the time, at least, more than 500 disabled and diseased soldiers have been inmates, and that there are many who have applied for admission who can not be taken in for lack of room. We think the legislature intended to provide a Home for those disabled or diseased soldiers who were not possessed of sufficient means to support themselves, and who in the absence of this provision by the State would be without the necessities and comforts of life. If a disabled or diseased soldier has ample means to support himself, either by reason of drawing a pension or because he is the possessor of property, or if he has relatives who are able and willing to properly support him, there can be no good reason for holding that the State should support him and he be permitted to enjoy the benefits of his ample means while others, equally deserving and without means of support, are constantly knocking for admission and must be refused because the institution is filled.

Such a construction of the law would largely defeat one of the chief purposes of the enactment, viz, the support of those who by reason of their poverty may be unable to support themselves. Under the provisions of the law the board has ample power to determine the circumstances under which a soldier may be admitted to the Home, and to say how much of the income he may be receiving, if any, he shall contribute toward the support while enjoying the benefits of the bounty of the State. While every man who entered the service of his country is entitled to all praise for his loyalty and patriotism, and while it is proper, just, and humane that the debt of gratitude which the nation owes to its defenders should never be forgotten; while they should not be permitted to want for the necessities or comforts of life, still it must be remembered that the State is under no legal obligation to this class of its citizens other than rests upon it as to all of its citizens. The legislature, not standing upon its legal obligations, but prompted by feelings both patriotic and humane, had voluntarily undertaken to provide for the care and support of this class of citizens. The support offered by the State and given at the Home is a gratuity, and not based upon any legal duty or contractoral relations between the State on the one hand and the inmates of this Home on the other; hence it follows that the power which confers the benefaction may, by itself or its agents, determine what the benefaction shall be and the circumstances which must exist in order to entitle one to share the State's bounty. It has said that if you enter the Home, and if you have an income from pensions or otherwise which will in part support you, you shall agree to and shall contribute from it toward your support.

This deprives the soldier of no rights. When he makes his application for admission to the Home he knows what rules require; he then understands the conditions under which he may be a sharer in the bounty of the State.

The support in the Home being a gift upon the part of the State, it, or its agents, may make the enjoyment of the benefaction dependent upon any reasonable conditions. No one is compelled to accept the conditions and become an inmate of the Home; one may decline and remain outside. If, however, he sees fit, after knowing of the conditions and agreeing to them, to become an inmate of the Home, he is in duty bound to obey the rules of the Home, and if he fails or refuses so to do he is in no situation to complain if he be honorably discharged from the Home. When we have in mind the purpose of the legislature, and the fact that deserving, diseased, and disabled soldiers are constantly seeking admission to the Home and must be refused for want of room, men who are unable to support themselves, it would seem that the rules complained of are just and humane and in accordance with the spirit of the act creating the institution.

In view of what we have said there is no force in the claim that since all soldiers do not receive the same amount as pensions more is taken from one for his support than from another. Every inmate surrenders just what he voluntarily agreed to when he entered the Home.

3. The legislature having conferred authority upon the board of commissioners to "make rules and regulations not inconsistent with the laws and constitution of the State for the management and government of said Home, including such rules as they may deem necessary for the preserving of order, enforcing discipline, and preserving the health of its inmates," courts should not interfere with the action thus taken unless it is plainly manifest that the board has abused the discretion with which it is vested. There is no such showing in this record. Without entering into a discussion of the evidence, it is sufficient to say that it shows that such rules are necessary and proper for the management of the institution and for enforcing discipline among its inmates.

It is said, and is no doubt true, that many of the inmates are not addicted to habits which render some of the rules necessary as to them, and it is claimed that they should not be subject thereto. Manifestly the rules must be general.

Rules are only necessary because some will not conduct themselves properly without restraint. It is the same in organized society. Government exists and laws are framed for the control of those who will not control themselves, and they work no injustice to those who, without their restraining influence, would do right. And as in government the good citizen is amenable to and controlled by the legislation which is rendered necessary by the acts of the vicious, so in this Home all who receive its benefits must respect and obey its rules, which are rendered necessary for the good of all the inmates.

4. It is said that the rules in question violate the Federal laws in that they take from the soldier his pension. (Revised Statutes of the United States, sections 4745, 4747.) These statutes provide that any pledge, mortgage, sale, transfer, or assignment of any right, claim, or interest to any pension that has been or may hereafter be granted shall be void, and that no sum of money to become due any pensioner shall be liable to attachment, levy, or seizure, but shall wholly inure to the benefit of such pensioner.

These statutes are not violated by the rules in controversy. This was so held in the case of Loser v. Board of Managers (82 Michigan, 633; 52 NW. Rep., 956). In that case the court sustained rules similar to those herein in controversy, so much of one rule was declared invalid as determined what relatives were dependent upon the pensioner for support and directed how much of his pension money should be sent to such relatives. This holding was based upon the ground that the statute of Michigan did not authorize the board to determine the matter. Even that holding would not obtain here, for our statute authorizes the board to determine the question of the eligibility of applicants for admission to the Home, and having determined by rule what disposition shall be made of the means possessed by inmates, and such rule being reasonable, and they having assented thereto when admitted, they are bound thereby so long as they continue to share in the benefits of the Home as inmates. Again, these rules are in harmony with the Federal statutes relating to the naval hospital, and as to soldiers accepting the benefits of the Soldier's Home at Washington, and as to soldiers accepting the benefits of National Homes for Disabled Volunteers. (United States Statutes, sections 4813, 4818, 4819, 4820, 4832, and Supplement to Revised Statutes of the United States, vol. 1, page 410.)

5. Other questions are discussed by counsel which do not seem to us to be of controlling importance. What we have said disposes of all questions in the case. We hold that rules are authorized and are reasonable. Plaintiffs' appeal is taken because the court below refused some of the relief asked by them. We have already passed upon some of the questions made in that appeal. A decree will be entered in the court below in harmony with this opinion.

As to plaintiffs' appeal, the decree below is affirmed.

As to defendants' appeal, the decree below is reversed.

Granger, J., takes no part.

Apart from the infelicities of the pension question, the year has been a pleasant and fairly successful one. General health has prevailed, and the number of deaths been below the previous ratio. Special interest has been manifested by the State authorities, the Home being visited last winter by the retiring governor, Hon. Frank D. Jackson, and several times since by the present incumbent, Gov. Francis M. Drake. Hon. R. G. Cousins, who represents this district in Congress, has also been with us, as were also at one time in March last a large proportion of the membership of the general assembly, then in session. The regular inspection by Gen. W. W. Averell, which took place June 15, 1896, called all our membership into line for the only time during the year, and was in every way pleasant and profitable to both officers and men. A visit from "Crocker's Iowa Brigade," 500 strong, which was given a reception here during its reunion in Marshalltown recently, was a red-letter day at the Home.

Hoping for a continuation of all favorable conditions and pleasing circumstances, I remain—

Yours, very respectfully,

J. R. RATEKIN, Commandant.

Loss		15

The apparent loss in population, as expressed above, is reversed when the whole number cared for during the year is examined. It shows an increase of 21.

Members are now admitted in a proper manner, as noted in previous reports. While the certificates of local physicians are accepted as useful for identification, an applicant can not be admitted until examined by the Home surgeon and his report approved by the commander that the applicant is eligible. The blotter of admissions is well kept to date, and from it any statistical report required by the regulations of State authorities or by the Board of Managers of the National Home can at once be obtained. The ages of the members, stated in years, months, and days, are revised and restated every quarter. The historical record is not of the standard form, in that there seems to be no place for final statement of history. The furlough register is completely kept, in alaphabetical order. Passes are not granted beyond one day. The offenders' docket is kept in serial form and contains full explanation of every discharge for misconduct. A status record is in use, which seems to answer several important purposes. It gives the original Home number of the member at admission, the numbers of the ward and room, and all the events of the Home life, and the cause of discharge, or death. The death record was posted to date. The record of discharges from all Homes was well kept and useful.

HOSPITAL.

The hospitals of all the Homes have been steadily improving, but in none has there been more satisfactory improvement than in this. It is due to the commander and his staff that the wards are ideals of neatness and brightness, abundant light and ventilation. It is a quiet, reposeful welfare that its patients enjoy. Several important changes have already shown their value—the proper keeping of the records, the equipment of the pharmacy, the installment of an elevator, and the employment of a surgeon who resides at the Home, who has taken hold of his duties with a remarkable aptitude. I found nothing to criticise excepting the want of an operating room, an aseptic instrument cabinet, and a laboratory. The coffin used for the burial of the dead at this Home is to all appearances a well-shaped rosewood casket with the usual glass over the upper part. It costs $25. I witnessed a funeral at the Home which seemed a satisfaction to all the members, for all members who can walk attend every funeral. A worthy esprit de corps impels them to this uniform attendance on the funeral rites of a comrade. The ceremonies were brief and simple. The color bearer of the Home stood with the colors at the head of the casket while the sergeant major read the honorable record of the dead captain of volunteers and the list of battles in which he had participated. Then at the word the members made the salute to the dead. A flag was draped upon the casket, and I noticed fresh flowers upon the breast of the dead, and was told that this attention was never omitted. It certainly was a worthy and admirable conclusion of a soldier's career and without doubt provokes a sound self-respect in the survivors, and is perhaps as impressive as a sermon.

At dinner I was impressed with the clean and well-dressed appearance of the members, their hair and beards neatly trimmed, their intelligent expression and good manners. The food was bountiful and well prepared. The vegetables were particularly fine, and were home raised. Napkins were furnished to all the 285 members seated in the dining room. There were 24 dining in the special diet room and about 60 in the hospital.

The well kept grounds in rear, a large portion of which were rescued from the encroachments of Lake Erie, are traversed with pleasant drives through rows of trees, which are now vigorously growing, in evidence of the energy and good judgment of the Home administration, and shrubbery and flowers of great variety have replaced the waves and hillocks of sand and weeds which once occupied the forbidding waste that intervened between the Home and the lake. The lawn in front of the Home is highly embellished with floral designs of various colors, in which are represented the badges of army corps.

The large smoking room, conveniently adjacent to the rear of the main building, is well supplied with means for recreation, and the light and well-furnished reading room above it was well patronized by the members. A bridge connecting the reading room would add to its convenience and save the waning energies of the old men that they are now obliged to expend in climbing stairs.

The Home garden has been brought to a high productive condition, and is a source of bountiful supply of choice vegetables to the commissary department. An enormous onion, measuring 15¾ inches around it, proved the excellence of its cultivation. I am happy to report that the health of the commander, Major Tyson, which was so seriously threatened last year, seemed quite restored.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE PENNSYLVANIA SOLDIERS AND SAILORS' HOME FOR THE YEAR ENDING JUNE 30, 1896.

PENNSYLVANIA SOLDIERS' HOME,
Erie, Pa., August 7, 1896.

GENERAL: I have the honor to submit the following report of this Home for the year ending June 30, 1896:

The improvements made during the year consist of new brick boiler house and steam heating plant, which is a brick building 58 feet 6 inches by 44 feet 6 inches, with corrugated iron roof and gables, and a tunnel running from the boiler house to the basement of the hospital, through which the steam supply is carried to all parts of the main building. A substantial trestle with track connects the Philadelphia and Erie Railroad with the boiler house, giving the best facilities for unloading coal.

Last winter was very severe.

The discipline of the Home remains satisfactory.

No change has been made in the disposition of the pensions since the last report.

Respectfully,

WILLIAM W. TYSON, Commander.

Gen. W. W. AVERELL, U. S. A.,
Assistant Inspector-General,

SANITARY REGULATIONS.

The sanitary regulations remain in every way satisfactory.

RELIGION AND SOCIETIES.

Services are held every Sunday in the chapel by the different Protestant minist of the city, who are generally accompanied by their respective choirs. We hav also, a chaplain, who conducts prayer meetings each Thursday evening, and wl visits the hospital frequently.

Both English and German Roman Catholic Churches are convenient, and comrad who are members of that faith have every opportunity to attend. The ministers all the churches willingly respond to any call made upon them to visit the sick the dying.

The remains of all comrades who die and are not sent to their friends are buried the Home cemetery, if Protestants, with military honors, and if Roman Cathol they are first taken to the church and after religious services are interred in Trini Roman Catholic Cemetery.

Greatest number present January 31, 1896	[illegible]

The population is now greater than ever before, but the capacity [illegible] the Home, without crowding, is sufficient for an increase up to 4[illegible] present. As the dormitory space is not at all crowded, it is possib[illegible] to accommodate a still larger number. The character of new membe[illegible] exhibits a steady change from former applicants for admission, the pr[illegible] portion of men completely disabled from earning a living by manu[illegible] labor is increasing. The cost of maintenance per capita during the la[illegible] fiscal year appears to have increased, owing to a larger amount [illegible] clothing than usual having been carried, the employment of mo[illegible] civilian labor, for which $30 per month is paid instead of $10 for Home labor, and an extension and a greater variety in the ration, account for the increased cost.

RECORDS.

All the record books were examined and found in excellent condition and well kept to date. The only book lacking heretofore, the Historical Register, has been supplied and posted to date. The record of discharges is kept only of those discharged for cause. No record of applications for admission is kept but the applications themselves are kept on file and may be readily found in a moment. Three applications were examined and the action of the surgeon and the board of managers was noted. The report of the local surgeon is not accepted as final and in cases where the destitution of the applicant is apparent he is sometimes admitted T. A. P. until he becomes invigorated. The number of men thus cared for temporarily averaged 10 during the last year and affected the average cost of maintenance per capita by increasing it $4.16.

HOSPITAL.

The pharmacy was found clean and bright, in charge of a pharmacist of forty years' experience, a venerable, hearty man of high intelligence and a benevolent disposition, in love with his profession, industrious and helpful in ministrations to the sick and painstaking with the records. Standard record books are on hand but not all in use for want of knowledge how they should be properly kept. This want was supplied as far as possible, but some of the records require modification in order that it may be shown at a glance that their purpose is fully subserved. There is urgent need of a resident surgeon at this Home, and also of at least four trained women nurses. The wards, with high ceiling, are comfortable and clean, and with open windows are well ventilated in summer, but a modification is needed for winter. In the dining room general neatness was particularly noted. White table cloths were used, with white napkins at every plate. Rogers's triple-plated silverware, marked 1847, was in use and was clean and bright. The cost was: Teaspoons, $1.95 per dozen; dessert spoons, $3.50 per dozen; knives, $3.50 per dozen; forks, four-tined, $3.50 per dozen; stub stamps (N. J. S. H.), 60 cents per dozen.

DINING ROOM AND KITCHEN.

The tables and ware were clean and shining and the food was ample and appetizing, but, it being mid-day and the thermometer at 88 degrees in the shade, the floor of the kitchen and the steps leading thereto had not been cleaned since morning.

BARRACKS.

The pavillion barracks, as I have always noted, have abundant light and air and ample room for the beds. The conveniences of toilet rooms for day and night service were admirable.

GROUNDS.

The improvements and embellishments of the grounds, with drives and walks and a profusion of flowering plants, shrubbery, and vines in parterres and hedges, and upon the porches of all the buildings, produce most pleasing effects.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE NEW JERSEY HOME FOR THE YEAR ENDING JUNE 30, 1896.

NEW JERSEY HOME,
Kearny, N. J., July 3, 1896.

GENERAL: I have the honor to submit the following report of this Home for the year ending June 30, 1896:

Nothing has occurred in the administration of affairs during the year to merit comment. As shown by the report, the percentage of members absent being 13.81 per cent of the average of present and absent combined, not only gives proof that the membership of the Home is of a class needing its care, but established beyond doubt the necessity for its continued existence.

Another feature is made manifest by the report of the Home surgeon. The largely increased number requiring habitual treatment and the large death rate make it very apparent that in the near future the character of Home work and details connected therewith will present a marked difference to the requirements of the past.

Respectfully, yours,

PETER F. ROGERS, Superintendent.

Gen. W. W. AVERELL, U. S. A.,
Assistant Inspector-General,
National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers.

KEARNY, N. J., July 1, 1896.

SIR: I have the honor herewith to present my report, as surgeon, of the cas[illegible]ses treated in the hospital and at sick call for the year ending June 30, 1896.

There has been a marked increase in the hospital cases during the year and [illegible] an increase in the yearly death rate. Chronic diseases of the lungs, heart, kidneys, an[illegible]nd brain have been responsible for most of the deaths, and of those who died twent[illegible]ty-two had passed their seventieth birthday.

The number at daily sick call has been smaller than last year, and the ailmen[illegible]ts have been slight in character. We have been remarkably free from epidemics a[illegible]nd severe active diseases. The excellence of the sanitary condition of the buildin[illegible]gs and grounds has been preserved, and this, with the pure water supply, has prevent[illegible]ed disease.

Respectfully submitted.

ARCHIBALD MERCER, Surgeon.

Assistant Inspector-General,

The admissions to the Home during the year have been less than the discharges, and the number of deaths has been larger than usual. The members of this Home are reexamined by the surgeon every year, and the result of this last year was the discharge of 17 who had recovered from their disabilities. Upon parade and inspection of the members, they appeared in good, clean clothing and seemed well nourished. One hundred and ninety were in line. Seven members of the Home make up an efficient drum corps in a special uniform, similar to that of the bands of the United States Army, and it reanimates the whilom martial spirit of the old soldiers in a manner that can not be witnessed, at their parade and inspection, without believing that it gives a wholesome impulse to their blood, defends them from inanition, and arrests decay.

CONSTRUCTION.

There is no makeshift in or about this Home. Every part of it was built to endure, and the arrangement of the buildings is most convenient for their purposes, while they are agreeably adjusted to the promontory on which they stand. As the Home is now quite near to completion, its plan has become developed by an impressive construction of stately buildings whose solidity and various elevations accord with the grandeur of the terraced landscape that surrounds it. The grounds have responded to cultivation, and beautified and well-kept lawns have replaced the rugged primeval topography. The precipitous, rocky, and dangerous declivity at the extremity of the promontory at the confluence of the Minnehaha with the Mississippi has been filled up to the general level of the plateau at this point and sustained by a heavy retaining buttressed wall with a parapet. An iron railing has been established along the brink of the deep canyon of the Mississippi in front of the Home, as a guard for the safety of persons who approach the verge of the chasm with uncertain steps or dizzy heads.

A pavilion 45 by 80 feet is in course of construction for public entertainments and Home diversions.

ADMINISTRATION.

No Soldiers' Home enjoys an administration more nearly faultless. It has some exceptional advantages. While there are several Soldiers' Homes in States whose governors have never seen them, this Home is within sight of the capitol, and its welfare has a strong hold on the solicitude of the people. An unbroken line of soldier governors since the war, with legislatures largely chosen from ex-soldiers, and a wise choice of soldier managers of whose ability and devotion the people were entirely assured, and where no partisan political influence was tolerated—these exceptionally favorable conditions have produced the best results. I have heretofore reported the methods of handling the pension question in this Home and that of outdoor relief as models for the consideration of the people and authorities of other States. As an illustration of the high and general consideration that is entertained of this Home, it may be mentioned that my visit of inspection was attended by General Brooke, commanding the Department of Dakota, and some members of his staff, Generals Mason and Sanborn, the mayors of St. Paul and Minneapolis, Colonel Page, commanding Fort Snelling, 2 miles below the Home, with several of the officers and the band of the Third United States Infantry, Capt. Henry A. Castle, the president of the board, with several of its members, in all some twenty-five prominent gentlemen embraced this opportunity to attest their appreciation of the disabled American volunteer.

HOSPITAL.

The hospital was visited and an inspection exhibited several improvements, among others a wide glassed-in corridor, where the patients who were able to leave their beds could enjoy exercise and sunshine. The report of the surgeon will touch upon the details of his administration and practice.

The dining room, kitchen, and storerooms exhibited excellent provision and supervision of everything to maintain the best welfare of the beneficiaries.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE MINNESOTA SOLDIERS' HOME FOR THE YEAR ENDING JUNE 30, 1896.

MINNEHAHA, MINN., July 20, 1896.

GENERAL: I have the honor to submit the following report of this Home for the year ending June 30, 1896:

All the improvements authorized by the board of trustees for the last year have been completed and fully meet the requirements for which they were intended. The improvements now in process of construction are:

First. A pavilion, 45 by 80 feet, to be used for reunions, general entertainments, and concerts.

Second. A brick morgue, filling a long-felt want.

Third. A refrigerator for the hospital, ample in size to meet all requirements.

The improvements of the grounds are still being continued. The weather for the past year has been normal, with an average winter and a growing spring and summer.

The discipline of the Home continues to improve.

There has been no change in pension legislation.

MINNEHAHA, MINN., July 20, 1896.

DEAR SIR: I herewith submit the surgeon's report for the year ending June 30, 1896, of the Minnesota Soldiers' Home.

The health of the inmates of this Home has been good considering their age and infirmities. The death rate is rather larger than last year, but there were more cared for, and many of them very old men, one dying at the age of 93 years.

There has been but one case of special interest during the year, and that is more so on account of its difficulty in diagnosis. The history could not be satisfactorily obtained on account of feeble intellect and loss of memory.

W. D.; married; age, 47 years; private Company G, Second Missouri Cavalry; admitted from his home April 15, 1896.

Symptoms.—Body poorly nourished and emaciated. Abdomen large and extremely hard and tense, not much tenderness. Colicky pains in region of stomach at intervals. Enlargement extends down to about 4 inches below umbilicus; extreme constipation, much relieved by free cathartics. Appetite poor. Very fretful and uneasy.

Diagnosis upon first examination.—Fibrous or cystic tumor of peritoneum with adhesions to surrounding parts. This was made because of its firmness and in the absence of cough or other symptoms of lung trouble. Very little serum was obtained by aspiration, and that was after passing the needle about 1 inch through solid substance before reaching the abdominal cavity.

Patient died May 19, 1896. Post mortem made twelve hours after revealed extensive deposit of tubercular matter on the peritoneum, stomach, liver, and mesentery (partonial surface). The pain and suffering was not commensurate with the extent of the disease.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

D. R. GREENLEE, Surgeon.

Gen. W. W. AVERELL, U. S. A.,
Assistant Inspector-General,
National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers.
(Through Thomas McMillan, Commandant.)

It has been noted at this Home, as at many other Homes, that the recent applicants for admission appear more worthy and more deserving of its beneficence than were the earlier applicants. They seem to have endured their disabilities with greater fortitude and until they were compelled to seek the welfare of the Home.

RECORDS.

All the records in the office of the superintendent are complete and well kept to date, there being only two lacking, viz, the "Furlough Register" and the "Blotter of Applications," which will be obtained.

CONSTRUCTION AND IMPROVEMENT.

The construction of new buildings and the improvement of the old buildings, which were found here at the close of the war, have progressed steadily, economically, and with good judgment until a highly satisfactory result has been reached, in which there appears a happy adjustment of all the requirements of disabled volunteer soldiers in an abundance and variety of wholesome and appetizing food, prepared in a spacious, well lighted and ventilated kitchen, equipped with all modern, first-class appliances, and served in a large and inviting dining room, with elaborate table furniture, in which bright, triple-plated silver knives, forks, and spoons are notable features.

The dormitories are now supplied with large cherry-colored lockers for all the members, which afford ample storage for all their clothing. The beds, 36 inches wide, have Hartford woven-wire spring mattresses and are bright and fresh. At inspection the members appeared intelligent, attentive, and contented, and with an orderly bearing that indicated self-respect and the effect of an agreeable Home discipline.

It is worthy of notice and consideration that special policemen, appointed by the governor of the State and wearing shields, are on duty at this Home, under the control of the superintendent.

The amusement hall was in process of removal to a more convenient locality adjoining the main building, where it will be enlarged and connected by a corridor with the main building. The annual report of the superintendent, printed herewith, shows many interesting details of construction, equipment, and administration.

HOSPITAL.

It is always a pleasure to observe the easy and perfect administration of this almost faultless hospital. It is fortunate that it enjoys the benefits of the long and varied experience and extensive travel of Dr. Brownson, who is in charge. The nurses, in the performance of their duties, seem to be actuated by a devotion like that of a religieuse.

Special night watchmen are employed, who wear noiseless slippers that do not awake an echo in the wards or corridors. Absolute cleanliness, without an odor, is the normal condition within and around the hospital. The broad, rolling lawn, with settings and groups of shrubbery and flowers and stately trees, within the great quadrangle of the Home, exhibits the results of excellent taste and persistent care, and the winding paths which traverse it lead to settees, whereon members and visitors may feel the repose of the Home and enjoy the pleasing landscape that surrounds it.

It should be noted that the chief officials of the State have always manifested an uncommon interest in the development of this Home, which has done much to secure economy, prevent abuses, and encourage an excellent administration.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE CONNECTICUT SOLDIERS' HOME FOR THE YEAR ENDING JUNE 30, 1896.

NOROTON HEIGHTS, CONN., July 18, 1896.

GENERAL: I have the honor to submit the following report of this Home for the year ending June 30, 1896:

The consolidated morning report of that date shows an increase of 47 in membership over the corresponding date of the previous year. The smallest number present on any one day in the year was on September 16, 270. The largest number present on any one day in the year was on February 25, 374.

In compliance with your recommendations of former years, many improvements have been made, especially in the barracks and administration building. Lockers have been provided for every member and clothing rooms for every ward. The executive committee has ordered and contracted for the removal of the library and amusement room to a more desirable locality, and the enlargement of the building to correspond with the growth of the Home.

Upon the recommendation of the executive committee, the State treasurer, Hon. G. W. Hodge, directed the removal of the bodies of the veterans buried in Spring Grove Cemetery to the new plat purchased by the soldiers' hospital board. This work has been completed, the terrace nicely turfed, the headstones uniformly set, and the plat made to present a most creditable appearance. It is believed that the new plat will prove sufficient for all the burial purposes.

You have heretofore remarked the kindly sympathy, constant and thoughtful attention, and marked professional ability of the resident physician, and I deem it no more than just for me to testify that neither of these qualities or service has abated in the least during the past year.

The chairman of the executive committee, the resident physician, and the superintendent agree that the faithful and eminently able services of the board of consulting physicians deserve public recognition. This board is composed as follows: Drs. H. P. Geib, A. M. Hurlbutt, and F. J. Rogers, of Stamford; Dr. W. F. French, of Noroton Heights; Drs. J. G. Gregory and W. C. Burke, jr., of Norwalk; and Dr. D. C. DeWolfe, of Bridgeport, as oculist and aurist.

The proportion of native and foreign born among the admissions remains about the same as the previous year, viz, 75 per cent native and 25 per cent foreign born.

No changes have been made in administrative officers during the year, and the same harmony exists between the several departments.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JAMES N. COE, Superintendent.

NOROTON HEIGHTS, CONN., July 7, 1896.

SIR: I have the honor to submit the following report of the medical department nder my charge for the past year:

As stated in my report of last year, in the inclosed classified list of diseases treated is next to impossible to be certain of entire accuracy. The list of impaired cereration, senile debility, muscular rheumatism, and many other diseased conditions ust be classed as doubtful in numbers. In no class of cases, probably, are we all ider of the mark than in those relating to the bladder and prostate. Probably one of us at entrance examination make thorough and accurate search into the ondition of the prostate gland. Were we to do so we should be surprised at the umber of our veterans past 60 years of age who have more or less of prostatic largement, with the necessarily accompanying results.

As much attention and labor have been bestowed upon this class here, I have ought it proper to submit a brief special report upon bladder cases, which is hereith respectfully presented. (Will be found under special reports.)

I may add that the sanitary conditions of the Home as a whole, as well as the neral conveniences of the Home in general, are excellent.

Very respectfully,

W. G. BROWNSON, Surgeon.

Gain

The capacity of this Home has been increased to accommodate 45 beds, or for 178 more beds than are required by the population now present, and this could be yet increased by 25 more if necessity for their use should arise.

No applicant is admitted to this Home without an affirmative report pon his eligibility by the surgeon of the Home. A record of the surgeon's examination of every applicant for admission is made in a book ept for that purpose, whether the man be admitted or not. All the ecord books in the superintendent's office are admirably and accurately ept. The administration is faultless and the personal appearance of he members and their deportment reveal the general worthiness of the nen and the quiet and habitual operation of benign social discipline vhich controls their conduct through all the vicissitudes of their Home ife, and no fretfulness or friction is apparent anywhere. Pervading cheerfulness and unbroken contentment are everywhere manifest, even among the suffering ones in the wards of the sick.

The members are practically mustered every Sunday morning and no member can be absent from a meal who should be present without the fact becoming known immediately to the superintendent, and after tattoo an inspection of the rooms is made by the sergeants in charge, and reports are made to the superintendent in his office from every floor through a telephone system which connects him with every part of the Home. Its operation reminded me of the methods of communication used in his cabin by the commander of a modern battle ship. The most conspicuous characteristic of this Home is its complete cleanliness. During eight years of close inspection I have never failed to be impressed with its ideal condition in this respect. The floors, stairways, elevators, and storerooms are as clean and bright as the surface of a well-kept dining table. A similar condition prevails in the kitchen, dining room, engine room, pharmacy, dressing room, bathrooms, and even in the well-lighted tunnels which connect the basements of all the buildings.

HOSPITAL.

This Home has long needed a resident surgeon, and it has been especially fortunate in securing the service of Dr. J. W. Starbird in that office. His success thus far has been remarkable. His records are exceptionally complete and accurate. His administrative records and forms enable him to account at any moment for drugs, medicines, prescriptions, and diet expended or consumed and to state the quantity of any supply on hand. The record of admissions has four names to a page with full examination record of each with date, and the same is also on a slip filed with the member's papers. The sick call record is complete, simple, and intelligible. Records of chemical analyses are kept in the ward case books. The prescription book has fourteen blanks to a page, consecutively numbered in red ink, with year and month at the top, and the day on left-hand lower corner of each prescription. The book is estimated to hold a year's prescriptions. In my tour through the hospital with the superintendent and surgeon the ward case books exhibited the careful studies and observations that had been made of every case and the surgeon's colloquies with his patients indicated a record of their several conditions in his mind, but the most encouraging indication of helpful results was observed in their grateful expressions of face and voice that welcomed the doctor to their bedsides. There is no better assurance of the faithfulness and fitness of a surgeon. I have seen it only in the best hospitals. It is the manifestation of a personal, sympathetic, living force in the surgeon that creates emotion and hope in the patient. The late Dr. Patton, of the Central Branch, National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers, possessed and exerted this benign influence in the highest degree. It is a powerful auxiliary in a surgeon's battle with disease. The pharmacist and nurses seemed to fit their places and to understand their duties. Attention is respectfully invited to the superintendent's and surgeon's reports as interesting models of what such reports ought to be. Several notable improvements are mentioned in the superintendent's report which are worthy of imitation.

AMUSEMENT HALL.

The old and inadequate hall in the middle of the main Home building which was once used for public entertainments, has been converted to other purposes and a new and more commodious hall, with greater seating capacity and better light and ventilation, has been established in the eastern end. A large and fine portrait of Gen. Horace Binney Sargent holds an honored position on the right of the attractive stage. His name still stands on the list of the board of trustees as the founder of this Soldiers' Home, which realizes the highest ideal of such an institution. And this monumental beneficence will remain the inspiration and example of that loyal gentleman and gallant American volunteer soldier.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE SOLDIERS' HOME IN MASSACHUSETTS, FOR THE YEAR ENDING JUNE 30, 1896.

SOLDIERS' HOME IN MASSACHUSETTS,
Chelsea, July 1, 1896.

GENERAL: I have the honor to submit the following report of this Home for the year ending June 30, 1896:

The building described in my report of last year, as then in process of construction, was completed and ready for occupancy about the last of November. This addition increased our number of beds to 450, and should necessity require it, this number can be still further increased by using the unoccupied dormitory over the laundry, to 475 beds The other improvements made during the year are a large hall for entertainments, having a comfortable stage, full set of scenery, anterooms, and other accommodations; a library and reading room, where all the books formerly in the smoking room, numbering 3,700 bound volumes, are conveniently arranged in cases; a large dispensary; a new and more convenient dining room for the convalescents in hospital; sleeping apartments for the nurses; and improved facilities for bathing. The most important improvement during the year was the placing of the hospital in charge of a resident surgeon.

I herewith forward to you a letter from the Home surgeon explanatory of ment diseases.

Very respectfully,

GEORGE W. CREASEY,
Superintendent.

Gen. W. W. AVERELL, U. S. A.,
Assistant Inspector-General,
National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers.

SOLDIERS' HOME IN MASSACHUSETTS,
OFFICE OF SURGEON,
Chelsea, July 1, 1896.

SIR: Herewith I have the honor to transmit a report of the diseases treated in this hospital during the year ending June 30, 1896:

As explanatory of the classification of mental diseases, I will say that I have included all departures from the normal mental state (not classified as insane) under the head of "dementia," and that, while the number of cases of "paretic dementia" and "mental imbecility" are given separately, they are included in the number of cases of "dementia." I have also considered that the number of cases of "impaired cerebration" and "dementia" should be the same.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

I. W. STARBIRD, Surgeon.

Gen. W. W. AVERELL, U. S. A.,
Assistant Inspector-General,
National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers.
(Through Capt. George W. Creasey, Commandant.)

SANITARY REGULATIONS.

During the past year an entire change has been made in the sanitary condition of the hospital; all bath tubs, urinals, and water-closets have been removed, and those of modern construction substituted. This change consists of four new bath-rooms, with porcelain-lined bath tubs, in two of which the tubs are so arranged as to permit the nurses to work on either side of them, with a room sufficiently large as to comfortably admit a wheeling chair. The water-closets are of the style known as the Kingston washout, set on dished Italian marble floors with marble bases 8 inches high.

The urinals are of vitreous ware set in a slate slab, the floor slab dished and trapped.

In addition to this in each closet there is a heavy iron porcelain-lined slop sink and a large funnel-shaped copper hopper with hot and cold water, for the cleansing of all vessels used in the hospital.

RELIGION AND SOCIETIES.

Mrs. William A. Bancroft, president of the Ladies' Aid Association, connected with our Home, in her introductory to their annual report for 1896, says: "On the hilltop at Chelsea, overlooking city and harbor, early to salute the sun in his rising and late to see him set at evening, with the glorious ensign of the Republic floating above, is the Home to which our society has been devoted. What though the Commonwealth and community have been and are liberal in their benefactions, and the love of comrades is unfailing, yet—

"Ah, the strange difference of man and man!
To thee a woman's services are due."

This association, from the opening of the Home to the present time, has labored most earnestly and devotedly for the comfort and happiness of those who have sought its shelter. They have never wearied in their labor of love. Every month in the year has its visiting committee who visit the Home, bringing delicacies for the sick in hospital and arranging entertainments for the men. They provide all the slippers, collars, neckties, handkerchiefs, and spectacles used in the Home. They have furnished five rooms, and keep them provided with all articles of necessity and comfort. They arrange for the services on Sunday, and provide clergymen for every Sunday, excepting for the months of July and August. Having presented the Home with a large burial lot in Forest Dale Cemetery, Malden, they give special attention to its care and condition. They arrange for the proper observance of Memorial Day and furnish transportation for the members of the Home.

The Massachusetts department of the Woman's Relief Corps and the local corps in the State have furnished complete 62 sleeping rooms in the Home, while the State organizations of the Sons of Veterans have recently taken, at an expense of nearly $1,000, one of the dormitories in Sargent Hall, paying for the 33 beds and its entire furnishings.

RECORDS.

The historical record is not yet written up. The adjutant is also quartermaster and attends to all issues from that department. He makes out the pay rolls for all persons employed and the trimonthly reports and all the clerical work of the Home. It would seem that some additional clerical assistance should be employed, at least until the record books could be written up to date. The adjutant's various occupations, what with the reports it is his duty to make and the great number of visitors who must be received and more or less entertained by him, leave but little time for the several official duties imposed upon him. It is promised by the members of the board who were present that the necessity for clerical assistance shall be supplied.

OLD PEOPLE'S BUILDING.

The two fine buildings which have been erected and named "Fairchild Hall" and "Jerry Rusk Hall" are now occupied by married couples and widows. They excite ready admiration by their fine architectural appearance and their obvious fitness to this purpose. The inspection of them was a great pleasure. The spacious, well lighted and ventilated apartments, luxuriously furnished by different woman's relief corps, presented pictures of comfort for the old couples who occupied them that I will venture to say can not be found in any other institution in the world. Twenty venerable couples, whose ages probably aggregate 3,000 years, enjoying dinner with ample space about each table, in a lofty dining room with flooding sunlight falling upon vases of flowers, and attentive young women waiting upon the old people, with not a sad or discontented face among them, all revealed an ideal beneficence. Ample provision is made for the care and nursing of the enfeebled ones in their rooms, and it was easily discerned from all I saw and heard that the unwavering attention of many associations in the State of Wisconsin is fixed upon the welfare of this Home.

The general dining room of the Home has been enlarged so as to seat over 300. A general combined power, steam, and heating plant was installed last autumn, which warms Marden Hall, Jerry Rusk Hall, Assembly Hall, Old Men's Building and Library, and furnishes steam heat for cooking and power for 850 electric lights, for the laundry, and for a firewood sawmill.

CLOTHING.

An inspection of the members established their habitual cleanliness of person and clothing. The clothing consists of a sack coat, vest, and trousers of heavy indigo-blue all-wool cassimere, with metal buttons. The cloth, in finish and appearance, seems to me the best I have ever seen in a Soldiers' Home. Its cost was as follows: Sack coat, $4.60; vest, $1.50; trousers, $2.70; total for suit, $8.50; underclothing, "gray random" shirts and drawers, each $3.50 per dozen, all furnished by Augustus Thomas & Co., Philadelphia.

HOSPITAL.

Many improvements have been made in the hospital. Its records, with the exception of sick call, have been kept up to date. The "hospital cards" and "sick-call cards" have not as yet been used, although in hand. It is promised that they shall be put in use. The kitchen and dining room have been enlarged. The cooking utensils and the table furniture were of good quality and in good order. The hospital was clean in every part. The attendance of several members of the board of managers during the inspection evinced the lively interest taken in their Soldiers' Homes by the people of the Western States.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE WISCONSIN VETERANS' HOME FOR THE YEAR ENDING JUNE 30, 1896.

WISCONSIN VETERANS' HOME,
Waupaca County, Wis., September 10, 1896.

GENERAL: I have the honor to submit the following report of this Home for the year ending June 30, 1896:

It is noticeable that our Home shows no growth the past year, but rather a decrease in our membership. This is accounted for by the fact that on June 30, 1895, we were carrying on our rolls a considerable number of men absent with leave and some who had overstayed their furloughs, but whom we expected would return, but did not, and had to be dropped from the rolls later.

Another fact worthy of note, but which was only to be expected, is that a larger proportion of our membership has been transferred to the hospital to be under the immediate care of the surgeon.

Owing to the law raising all $2 and $4 pensions to $6, the number of $6 pensions is largely increased, and yet our 172 pensioners are drawing less money in the aggregate than was drawn by 173 pensioners last year. Our rules requiring all single men to pay all pension money in excess of $8 a month and all married men to pay all in excess of $12 a month into the general fund of the Home has caused an exodus of those who had to contribute to the support of the Home.

The unusually low price of all kinds of produce and fuel, together with the mildness of last winter, has effected a great reduction in the per capita cost of maintaining the Home.

Very respectfully, yours,

COLUMBUS CALDWELL,
Commandant.

Gen. W. W. AVERELL, U. S. A.,
Assistant Inspector-General,

SANITARY REGULATIONS.

Scrupulous personal cleanliness is insisted upon in all departments of the Home. Water and air are unexcelled. There are no malarial districts in the vicinity. Our greatest menace is defective sewerage, our sewer system discharging a large proportion of the sewage in an open pond on the Home grounds and in the immediate vicinity of our large dormitory buildings.

RELIGION AND SOCIETIES.

The chapel erected in 1890 by the Women's Relief Corps, Department of Wisconsin, at a cost of $3,250.50, is for the use of any religious denomination. Episcopal and Methodist Episcopal services are held regularly every two weeks each. Roman Catholic services are held every month.

F. A. Marden Post, No. 126, Grand Army of the Republic has 80 members. Wisconsin Veterans' Home Lodge, No. 473, Independent Order of Good Templars, has 62 members. Wisconsin Veterans' Home Temple of Honor, No. 5, has 19 members. The Women's Christian Temperance Union has 12 members, and maintains a reading room and music room for the women and girls connected with and employed by the Home.

There is no record kept at this Home of the laundry.

The administration of this Home has not been changed since m inspection, except by a sensible and judicious reenforcement, whi produced commendable and encouraging results. The trees have been struggling on these prairie grounds for several year beginning to relieve the southern exposure of the Home. Any cl of this kind on a level prairie is far more notable than upon a tract running water and natural woodlands are in view.

RECORDS.

The "Historical Register" is remarkably well kept to date, with excellent penmanship and with but few omissions, which will be supplied. Record of Admissions is well kept as far as it goes. It will be extended to include names and description of all applicants. The "Record of Discharges" is complete, with the exception of those from the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers, but these will hereafter be recorded where the discharges have been dishonorable. The "Offenders' Docket" shows a steady attention to discipline, and the punishments seem to fit the offense. The "Furlough Register" is complete as to destination and address of all furlough members. The death and burial records are also properly and neatly kept. All papers were neatly filed and cared for.

CLOTHING.

The uniform clothing of this Home is, like that of all the Homes thus far visited this summer, an indigo blue, all-wool flannel, and the cost, $8, was about the same. The men in ranks for muster and inspection presented a neat and soldierly appearance.

SUBSISTENCE.

Beef is killed and dressed at this Home, costing 6 cents. Young cattle are purchased in open market by the approval of the managing board and turned into the Home pasture of about 200 acres and kept there until needed, and the best, young, fine, and tender beef is the result. Fresh pork is raised on the farm and a drove of 85 fine hogs were improving in weight. Flour had advanced during the last quarter and rated at $1.80 per 100 pounds. Sugar, although manufactured from beets within sight of the Home, costs $5.89 per 100 pounds, which price is believed to be maintained by the controlling influence of a combination called a "sugar trust." It is reported that the same sugar was sold in 1894 to the people and to the Home at $4.50 per 100 pounds.

COST OF MAINTENANCE.

The cost per capita at this Home has been heretofore obtained by dividing the amount of net expenditures under all the heads except construction by the average number of members present and not including the wives and widows present for whom the expenditures were made together with those for the men. The decrease in the cost per capita is shown in the annual report of the Home following this report.

PENSIONS.

The only rules now in force at this Home regarding pensions are as follows:

RULE 19. No applicant shall be admitted to the Home who is drawing a pension of more than $12 per month, unless in special cases, when the visiting and examining board may in their judgment require the pensioner to pay to the Home all moneys in excess of the $12 per month.

RULE 20. Persons admitted to the Home having dependent families or relatives and drawing pensions shall turn over their pension checks to the commandant for the use of such dependent families, and he shall forward the same to them; and if such person have no family or relatives and are members of the Home receiving compensation for labor therein, and shall provide their own tobacco, and in no case shall be issued more than 4 ounces of chewing and 4 ounces of smoking tobacco, or of either, per week to any one person.

HOSPITAL.

The admission record, hospital record, and sick-call record were properly kept to date, but the hospital and sick-call cards have not yet been used. The beds were good, fresh, and clean, but the bathrooms and water-closets were not in good order and not clean. The surgeon seems able and willing to do his full duty. There were some complaints of insufficient heat in the hospital during the winter, owing to the underground pipes not being properly insulated, and it was ascertained on inquiry that the sewer and repair grants, from which the expense of putting the warming plant in good condition might have been drawn, were devoted to other purposes of which there is no record in the Home.

CONSTRUCTION.

An extension of the main building 60 feet westward, with three stories above basement, which will contain the offices of the Home on the first floor, two new dining rooms, one above the other, which will accommodate 120 seats, and another dining room for 30 women, a new kitchen with some new and efficient appliances for cooking and for making coffee and tea has been made.

By this addition the dormitory capacity of the Home is increased by 150 beds. There is abundant light and air in the dormitories, and the furniture is ample, comfortable, and in good condition. The new dining rooms are full of light and air, and relieve meal times from the gloomy conditions which attended them for several years. An electric lighting plant has been installed which sustains 220 incandescent lights, with which all the buildings of the Home are illuminated.

ANNUAL REPORT FOR THE NEBRASKA SOLDIERS AND SAILORS' HOME FOR THE YEAR ENDING JUNE 30, 1896.

GRAND ISLAND, NEBR., July 1, 1896.

GENERAL: I have the honor to submit the following report of this Home for the year ending June 30, 1896.

I call your attention to the reduction in the average cost of maintenance during the year just past, as shown on sheet No. 21. The per capita calculated on male members alone is $215.52 as against $224.20 the previous year; calculated on male and female members of the Home, all of whom are provided with the necessaries of life, reduces the per capita to $182.70.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

JOHN W. WILSON, Commandant.

Gen. W. W. AVERELL, U. S. A.,
Assistant Inspector-General,
National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers.

An inspection of members present revealed a general neatness of person and clothing, and it was noted that the expression of their faces and their deportment denoted a grade of character, decidedly above the general average, that would, with very few exceptions, attract attention and demand the respect due to self-respecting worthy men. All the officers of the Home were commissioned officers in the volunteer service, and all of them, excepting the commandant, are members of the Home.

There are several members who were officers in the war, one of the rank of colonel, and of the 418 members admitted to the Home since its organization 19 were commissioned officers.

RECORDS.

Historical Register: An effort has been made to keep this important work up to date, but several errors and omissions appear in it, to which the attention of the adjutant was called, and it was promised that the register would be corrected. The Record of Applications for Admission was not properly kept, and it was observed that the name of an applicant who had not been admitted to the Home appeared in the Historical Register. The Record of Discharges was well kept, and the officers of the Home are observing the regulations relating to the exchange of cards. The Offenders' Docket, kept to date, contains records of only 18 offenses since January 1, 1896. The commandant was absent at the time of my inspection.

CLOTHING.

The clothing is purchased in Cincinnati, of indigo-blue, all-wool flannel, at $7.50 per suit, and gives full satisfaction, but a lot obtained since at $8 has not been approved. The trousers of sky blue are not liked, and the gray-flannel lining of the coat after a short time rolls up in wrinkles across the back. There is not a sufficient supply on hand to put all the members in good uniform suits. About 10 men lack good clothing. There are about 100 suits reported on the way to the Home. There is no underclothing on hand, but a supply is on the way and no man is suffering.

SUBSISTENCE.

There was a satisfaction in the inspection of the quality of the supplies in the storeroom, cold storage, the kitchen, and at dinner on the tables. It was bountiful, well prepared and served, and very appetizing. The members seemed to enjoy it with great zest. The floors of the commissary storeroom were not clean, nor were the stores placed in as good order as they might and should be. The cost of maintenance per capita per annum has steadily decreased during the last four years. It is $37, or about 18 per cent, less per capita than it was for the year ending June 30, 1893. These economies have been brought about by the tentative experience of the officers, whose judgment has been thus improved with regard to issues that will completely meet consumption with least waste. No newcomer into the office of commissary could maintain this frugality until he had been instructed by experience of the vicissitudes of weather and the many local conditions that cause variations in the quantity consumed.

HOSPITAL.

The record book of the hospital was full and complete to date. Sick-call record and record of prescriptions are well and fully kept. The hospital and sick-call cards have not been used continuously, but will be hereafter. The dispensary was clean, bright, and in good order. The Home is certainly fortunate in having a surgeon who attends so faithfully to his duties. His zeal and industry have resulted in many needed improvements, among which the most notable are a well ordered and recorded dispensary and a pretty good operating room, with means for sterilizing instruments, bandages, and all appliances of surgery needed here. He has a good supply of instruments of his own and a few belonging to the Home. In capital operations the surgeons of the town of Hot Springs have rendered willing assistance without pay. In consideration of the very small salary paid the surgeon it would seem that forage might be supplied to him for one horse. It was noted that there was no proper case for the care of the surgical instruments and appliances. They were stored in the drawers of a bureau.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE SOUTH DAKOTA HOME FOR THE YEAR ENDING JUNE 30, 1896.

SOLDIERS' HOME, Hot Springs, S. Dak., July 1, 1896.

GENERAL: I have the honor to submit the following report of this Home for the year ending June 30, 1896:

Tabulated statements attached show a marked increase of admission during the year, and the large number discharged for the year is attributed largely to the healthfulness of our climate and to the springs, where the water bubbles up through the sand or flows a steady stream from Nature's solid masonry of hillside and is absolutely free from any vegetable substance. In most cases the temperature is 96°, or very nearly the natural heat of the body. The average sick for the year is only 8, which is shown in the surgeon's report and is evidence as to health and climate.

I desire to especially call attention to the low death rate and the low average of sick in hospital. These emphasize the oft-asserted healthfulness of the climate and prove, I think, the beneficial qualities of the medicinal waters that are used in the Home.

I no longer doubt the curative properties of the waters. More than 150 men have been so relieved from rheumatism in this Home that they have been discharged and are earning their living by labor at this time.

HOT SPRINGS, S. DAK., June 20, 1896.

SIR: I have the honor to submit herewith the following report of the hospital work of the South Dakota Soldiers' Home for the year ending June 6, 1896:

Number present in hospital June 6, 1895	9
Number admitted during the year	38
Total number treated in hospital during the year	47
Number died in the hospital during the year	2
Number discharged during the same period	37
Number of members present on June 6, 1896	8
Total for the year	47
Average number present in the hospital during the year	3
Number of persons treated at sick call (counted but once during year)	143
Number of prescriptions issued	1,501
Number of operations performed (major and minor)	22
Number of patients given electrical treatment	14

The experience of the past year has fully demonstrated the benefits derived from the completion of the hospital annex, securing, as it has, aseptic conditions for operations and isolation of patients, so essential to the best results.

A perusal of the accompanying tabulated statement will show that considerable work has been done in the surgical department, there having been 4 major and 18 minor operations. The greatest success has attended these operations, but one single death having resulted, and that one not the result of the operation, but from involvement of the whole system. In all these cases the latest approved antiseptic methods have been fully adhered to and observed.

There have been several valuable additions to the armamentum of the surgical department of the hospital in the way of instruments and appliances, which have already added to the efficiency of the service of the surgeon and the comfort and health of the patients, and which will form a more or less permanent improvement. I take great pleasure and pride for our institution that it has been the uniform and unsolicited expression of visitors that the South Dakota Soldiers' Home has one of the best arranged and equipped hospitals for its size to be found.

The general health of the members of the Home during the past year has been excellent. There have been no epidemics or cases of infectious diseases. The influenza which prevailed so generally in the early part of the year was mild, no case being severe enough to require care at the hospital. Especial attention is called to the exceedingly low death rate for the past year, there being but three deaths altogether—one by suicide and the other two from incurable fatal diseases. The death rate is only 2 per cent, which is considerably lower, I believe, than is reported by any other Soldiers' Home for the same period of time. This is an exceedingly strong recommendation for the sanitary conditions and system of the Home as well as the general management of it, and also confirms the wisdom of the location. The sanitary conditions in and about the Home could not be bettered.

The surgeon takes this opportunity to express his sincere appreciation of the faithfulness of the nurses who have labored under his directions. These consisted of members of the Home until June 1, 1895, at which time it was found to be necessary to secure nurses from outside, by reason alone of the fact that persons who sought and secured admittance were, as a general rule, unable physically to fill the place of hospital nurse and to endure the strain and watching incident thereto.

I also desire to express my gratitude and acknowledgment for the assistance given so freely and the uniform courtesy shown me by the members of the medical profession of the city of Hot Springs.

In conclusion, I desire to express my hearty thanks to Commandant Lucas for his support and cooperation in all my efforts in behalf of the sick. Also to the board, which has so generously responded to the many requisitions made upon them in behalf of the hospital.

Respectfully submitted.

N. C. WHITFIELD, Surgeon.

RECORDS.

The Historical Register was well kept to date. There was no Standard Furlough Register, but a similar one was well kept. No members are reported present after twenty-four hours' absence. The Offenders' Docket was well kept, except that the sentences are omitted, but they will hereafter be stated.

BARRACKS.

Open pavilions of one story with ceilings 15 feet in height. Each contains a dining room in a short wing for its occupants. The sergeant in charge has his quarters and a storeroom in a corresponding wing on the opposite side. First-class baths and commodious lavatories and toilet rooms are conveniently attached to each pavilion. Each occupant has a wardrobe 6 feet 6 inches high and 2 feet 6 inches wide. The beds are 36 inches wide. The table furniture is cleaned and kept on closeted shelves in the dining room, and the food is brought from the central general kitchen in closed handcarts, such as are used in the Illinois Home. Corridors, paved with bituminous concrete, connect each pavilion with a main corridor running to the kitchen which was clean and without an odor. The members show a living interest and good taste in the decoration of their pavilions around and within with pots and vases of flowering plants. The entire Home was clean and in good order. The men presented a comfortable and contented appearance and their faces showed that they were intelligent and self-respecting, and their scars and visible disabilities generally attested their eligibility to the beneficence of the Home.

HOSPITAL.

There were 17 sick in the hospital, which was quiet, clean, and full of gentle, refreshing breezes from the sea. All the furniture and requirements of the hospital are well chosen for comfort and fitness. The cold storage of all kinds of food and dietary supplies evinced a provident care.

The Home commands an extensive landscape of busy cities, low, wooded hills, and old cultivated farms, through and around which may be seen folding arms of the sea upon which sailing and steam crafts of commerce and pleasure are generally in view.

The members have constructed a rude way through the tangled and bowlder-strewn wilderness down to the shore a half mile from the Home, where in fine weather they revel in the enjoyment of sea food which they capture and cook in their rugged sylvan resort. After my inspection, I visited this locality in company with officials of the State and of the Home, and the unique advantages enjoyed by the disabled volunteer soldiers of Rhode Island were revealed in a clam chowder, the excellence of which is unknown elsewhere. It was prepared by some members of the Home under the supervision of a gallant but now disabled survivor of the famous Belger Battery, named William A. Boyd. It is expected that the members who shall be able to perform any labor will in time voluntarily widen and perfect this road so that the old men may find an easy way down to the seashore and enjoy the reviving air and the most suitable nourishments of old age.

SANITARY REGULATIONS.

Special care has been taken to maintain the sanitary conditions as perfectly as possible.

All refuse matter is removed from the kitchen, pavilions, and hospital regularly twice each day and taken to a distance from the camp.

Strict cleanliness is preserved in and around the buildings, and the members are required to bathe every two weeks at least.

The pavilions are ventilated by opening the doors and windows three times daily.

The bed linen is changed every Sunday morning, the members also changing their underclothing, and everything to be washed is at once taken to the laundry.

The sewers are flooded frequently to carry off all matter into Mount Hope Bay.

There are regular weekly inspections to insure the enforcement of the sanitary rules.

RELIGION AND SOCIETIES.

There have been some religious services at the Home during the year under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association of Bristol and the Rev. H. A. Stevens, who is a special favorite of all the members.

Funeral services have been held over the remains of all who have been buried in Bristol.

All the meetings have been well attended, the members showing much interest in them, though they have not been as frequent as might be desired.

The Grand Army of the Republic is well represented at the Home, and several have joined it during the year.

WASHINGTON.

Hon. H. McGraw, Governor.

WASHINGTON STATE SOLDIERS AND SAILORS' HOME, ORTING, JULY 20, 1896.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES.

Gen. William McMicken, President, Olympia.
Lieut. George H. Boardman, Treasurer, Tacoma.
Maj. Albert S. Cole, Whatcom.
Lieut. William R. Dunbar, Goldendale.

OFFICERS.

Capt. Henry L. Achilles, Commandant.
Maj. Flavel H. Van Eton, Resident Physician and Adjutant.
Mrs. H. L. Achilles, Matron.

[Inspection by Col. E. F. Browy, inspector-general of National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers.]

On July 20 I arrived at Orting, the location of the Washington State Home. On presentation of the muster roll I proceeded to verify the same by a careful muster of all present. This I did in the presence of the commandant of the Home, Capt. Henry L. Achilles, Gen. William McMicken, president of the board, and Capt. George H. Boardman, one of the trustees. The muster resulted in showing 89 present, including the sick in hospital. Six were absent with leave. There were 13 sick in the hospital. Six have died during the year ending June 30, 1896. There were 67 new admissions during the year, of which 44 were native and 23 foreign born.

More than the usual number of admissions occurred during the year, attributable, as claimed, to the stringent times and inability to find employment suitable to feeble old men. The present capacity in dormitories is reported as 153; hospital capacity, 50. No convalescent company reported, as the hospital still provides sufficient room for those requiring special diet. No further room is demanded at this Home, as the present capacity will enable the management to care for all likely to apply for a year or two to come. This speaks well for the management and the State of Washington and is creditable to all concerned.

There have been no changes in the officers of the Home during the year.

I had the good fortune to meet the president of the board of trustees, Gen. William McMicken, and Maj. George H. Boardman, who were at the Home in the interest of some improvements in the water supply, which is not altogether satisfactory even in that moist region. It was pleasing to note the deep interest manifested by these gentlemen in all that pertains to the good of this Home, and this is characteristic of the officers of the Home, the managers, and all the State officers. I alsc met the governor, Hon. H. McGraw, who assured me that no disablec soldier living in the State of Washington should suffer for want of propei care and attention.

During the past year there has been added the following improve ments: First of all in importance, much of the land has been cleared o: timber, giving more open space and better air circulation. The hospita has been enlarged and improved at a cost of $3,500; laundry additioı and boiler house, $300; a new granary, $300; carriage shed, $350; veg etable house, $250; system of sewage, $1,000.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE WASHINGTON HOME, FOR THE YEAR ENDING JUNE 30, 1896.

SANITARY REGULATIONS.

The sanitation of the Home is carefully guarded by the officers. The sewer system is constantly under observation and is flushed at regular and frequent intervals. The quarters and grounds are kept thoroughly policed and the halls, porches, and ›oms are kept clean and pure by frequent scrubbing. The beds are aired for an ›ur each morning before being made up for the day, and in proper weather mat-›esses and all bedding are sunned each week. The water-closets and washbowls ›e cleansed and disinfected daily. The men are required to, and do, bathe once a ›eek. Many of them bathe oftener.

RELIGION AND SOCIETIES.

The minister resident in the town of Orting, near the Home, comes often to the ›sembly room on Sunday afternoons and holds religious services, there being no ›sident chaplain.

There is now no organized society at the Home, the Grand Army post having sur-›endered its charter. Several inmates of the Home belong to various societies in ›rting.

POPULATION.

Present (sick, 9) 145

There were 43 married women and 14 widows in the Home.

ORIGIN.

The first impulse toward the creation of this new Home had its origin in the Grand Army of the Republic, at a meeting held at Indianapolis in 1886. After thorough consideration it resulted in the creative act of the legislature which was approved February 23, 1895. A copy of this act may be found in the latter part of this report.

LOCATION.

The Home stands upon an elevated plateau on the west side of the Wabash River. An attractive landscape, including the beautiful city of Lafayette, surrounded by highly cultivated farms with clustering woodlands and traversed by the noble Wabash River, 200 feet below the Home, constitutes an ever-present and untiring entertainment for the eyes of the members who can look upon it. The ancient and well-worn Indian trail, named for the renowned chief Tecumseh, runs for nearly a mile through the grounds. It was the great Indian highway connecting the Indian villages along the river. The battle ground of Tippecanoe is in full view, where eighty-five years ago Tecumseh, the greatest chieftain and warrior of the Algonquin race, made his death struggle against the advance of the Anglo-Saxon.

PLAN AND BUILDINGS.

The principal feature of the plan is an immense circular avenue named Lincoln. The interior area of this is subdivided by converging streets like the spokes of a wheel and having the names of battles of the civil war. The subareas between the converging streets are divided into about eighty building lots. Near the center of the great circle is the dining hall, facing the south, with a front of 112 feet and a depth of 92 feet. The entire first floor is occupied by the dining hall, which has a capacity of 300 seats, the general kitchen, well equipped and well managed by competent cooks and with a capacity to prepare meals for 500 people, the bakery, storerooms, general service room, and steward's office, all well equipped and in good working order. The second, or upper, floor of this building is occupied by fourteen widows. From the eastern point of the perimeter of the great circle a wide entering avenue is soon divided by a long, narrow, oval park extending to the dining hall on the west side of the center, where the divisions of the entering avenue named Grant and Sherman join with three approaches to the dining hall, one direct and one to each side.

On opposite sides of the oval park are the sites of the Old Men's Building and the Old People's Building. Only the latter is built and occupied. It covers an area 108 by 112 feet and contains 45 rooms. It accommodates the old soldiers and their wives, and on inspection every provision for their comfort was found.

In front of the eastern entrance to the great circle and at a convenient distance is the site of the building for headquarters, not yet built. On a line with headquarters and to the right and left at a little distance stand the quartermaster and commissary buildings. The former has a south front of 77 feet, and is used as a general storehouse for quartermaster's supplies and will have a sewing room and shoe shop. It is built of brick, with stone foundation and slate roof.

The commissary building has a north front of 50 feet and a depth of 57 feet, one story high, built of brick, with stone foundation and slate roof. The cellar under this building occupies the entire area, 9 feet deep, and has a capacity as a vegetable storage during the winter for the entire Home. It contains an ice plant and cold storage, and everything was found in excellent condition.

COTTAGES.

Three large cottages, intended to accommodate from 20 to 24 people, were nearly completed. The first floor of each has three suites of rooms for married people. There are two more of these cottages under contract for building.

It is intended to occupy the lots in the great circle surrounding the dining hall with one-story cottages, shingle roof, brick foundations, with spacious porches front and rear, closets in each bedroom, toilet rooms and lavatories on each floor, and intended to accommodate two families. Four of these are already built and occupied.

Ten single cottages have been built, and nine of them were occupied and two more are under contract for construction.

COMMANDANT'S OFFICE.

All the record books were of the standard kind and were well kept with but few slight omissions. The blotter of applications did not contain the names of rejected applicants. A daily register of offenses is kept, which had not been transcribed into the offenders' docket.

HOSPITAL.

The hospital stands on the outside of the great circle, near the southeast point. It faces the southwest, with a front of 166 feet and a depth of 79 feet. It is near the brow of the bluff upon which the Home stands, and across a wild and wooded ravine it enjoys the best outlook from the Home. It is built of brick, with stone foundations and slate roof, with wards for men and women in two wings, kitchen and dining room. It has a capacity for 70 beds without crowding, and its halls and verandas are broad and high. The furniture of the hospital is of the very best. Light and graceful iron bedsteads with posts with gilded tops, well reenforced spring mattresses 42 inches wide; bedding in every way adequate and comfortable. The plumbing and all sanitary conditions are complete and efficient. The dining room, kitchen, and storerooms were neat and in good order. The operating room had a fine skylight, but seemed too small for convenient work, and the dressing room may prove to be too far from the dispensary. The record books were all of the standard kind, and were kept neatly posted to date with an unusual and gratifying fullness and accuracy. Considering the short experience of the surgeon and assistant surgeon since the Home was established, the records of their work are most admirable.

WATER.

Water is obtained from three 6-inch wells driven 40 feet below the bed of the Wabash River, from which water rises 5 feet above low-water level in the river. It is pumped up to a water tower in the Home grounds having a capacity of 40,000 gallons, whence it is conveyed in pipes to all the buildings. The temperature of the water when it leaves the wells is below 50°, and its analysis shows that it is as pure as can be obtained from wells. Along the north and south sides of the Home grounds and on the river front are said to be many valuable springs of mineral water.

FUEL.

Wood is supplied from the Home grounds.

LIGHTS.

Electricity, generated by a Home plant in the power house, is used for illuminating purposes.

PRECAUTIONS AGAINST FIRE.

There are five fire hydrants in the grounds to which may be attached the necessary lengths of hose which are kept folded upon a shelf in a proper shelter. On each floor of the larger buildings 100 feet of 1½-inch hose are attached to a 2-inch protection water pipe. The entire area of the Home grounds is about 250 acres, with 2,000 feet water frontage on the Wabash.

The Home is very well adjusted to its site, and it is plain to be seen that its projectors have saved years of time and expensive experience by careful study of other Homes, from which they have selected the best features and methods and combined them here with some happy and original conceptions to the best advantage.

In its administration the Home was fortunate in having an experienced commandant at the outset, and so far as I have been able to observe in a brief visit there are no serious mistakes or faults to be corrected.

This site, with the thrilling historic memories and cherished legends that throng around it, is significantly fitting for a Soldiers' Home which will itself become a lasting memorial of glorious events and heroic men whose names will be perpetuated so long as its streets are trod by civilized men.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE INDIANA STATE SOLDIERS' HOME FOR THE YEAR ENDING JUNE 30, 1896.

INDIANA STATE SOLDIERS' HOME,
Lafayette, Ind., August 8, 1896.

GENERAL: I have the honor to submit the following report of this Home for the year ending June 30, 1896:

By direction of the board of trustees I assumed command of the Home on the 2d of January, receiving and caring for 28 men during this month. Official recognition by the Board of Managers of the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers was withheld, however, until February 1, as the governor of the State had notified General Franklin on this date the Home would be formally opened.

The board of trustees meet on or about the first of each month to inquire into its management and audit its accounts.

A statement showing permanent improvements made by the State with the aggregate cost of the same will be found a part of this report. As the entire amount of the sum appropriated was, "as required by law," expended in the construction of buildings, the task of furnishing the same at an expense of $10,000 was assumed by the board of trustees. Of this sum, approximately $1,138 has been repaid by donations from the Grand Army of the Republic, ladies of the circle Grand Army of the Republic, and Woman's Relief Corps.

As will be seen by the act establishing the Home, wives and widows of soldiers are admitted, and on the 30th of June 59 had applied and been admitted.

Tabulated statement of Capt. W. F. Havens, adjutant and quartermaster, is herewith presented; also surgeon's report of the medical and surgical divisions.

Respectfully yours,

J. P. MEGREW, Commandant.

SANITARY REGULATIONS.

All members are required to bathe at least once a week. Mattings are removed, cleansed, and floors mopped twice a week, and cleanliness of person and living and service rooms strictly enjoined. Sewage is conducted from Old People's Home, Widows' Home, and dining hall, hospital, and the cottages by means of an 8-inch sewer, and discharged into a deep glen or ravine. This deposit is only temporary, as the board of trustees will ask of the State provisions to carry or conduct this to the Wabash River.

RELIGION AND SOCIETIES.

No religious or other assemblies are possible, owing to the fact that no provisi for them has been made. This being a necessary adjunct to the Home, its constr tion will soon follow. An assembly room has already a place in the plans and sp fications.

ɜ improvements in the way of construction of 17 double cottages officers' quarters, which were begun one year ago, have been com-l, thus providing quarters for 37 families. These improvements 'the same character as heretofore noted, viz, frame, shingle-roofed, room cottages. There is yet no adequate means provided for fire ction. A large tank of sufficient capacity to quell a moderate fire een erected on elevated ground, to throw water over the low build-with pipe connections to small fire plugs, but the main, 2 inches meter, is of insufficient capacity to be of much value. The main d be at least 4 inches in diameter. There is certainly an existing nd for a radical improvement in this respect, and one which should ng be neglected.

inspection of the men's quarters indicated a fair degree of order leanliness. The exception noticed was the absence of uniformity dding, and practice permitted some members to cover the walls of rooms (which are individuals) with pictures, fruit-can labels, and and ends, thereby providing lodgment for vermin and disease s, to say nothing of the impairment of the light of a room con-ıg one small-sized window only.

ɜ dining room and kitchen were found in excellent form. The food n on the table was ample in quantity, variety, and quality. While ll of fare is made out for each week, the statement was made by ommandant that daily and weekly changes were made to the full ıt of the market available. There still exists the need of a bake e and a regular professional baker, but which is due to the absence ecific appropriation. This need was reported last year.

change has been made in the clothing of the soldier members. In of the heretofore Grand Army of the Republic suit, a regular uni-has been substituted, consisting of blue kersey trousers, dark-blue se and vest, all of which are nearly identical with like articles of uniform in use in the National Home. A soft felt military hat has been adopted, and for hot weather the white helmet is furnished. Following is the complement of clothing and its cost:

Blouse, trousers, and vest	$7.15
Two undershirts, at 32 cents each	.64
Two pairs drawers, knit, at 32 cents each	.64
Goods for two shirts	.56
Two pairs socks, at 12½ cents each	.25
One pair of shoes	1.80
One hat	1.54
Total cost	12.58

No regulation as to length of time for wear of these articles exists. Additional issues are made when old ones are worn out.

APPROPRIATIONS.

The appropriation for the years 1895–96 and 1896–97 was shown in last report, viz, $93,250. Of this there was expended in last year, for maintenance, $38,865.46; for construction, $17,827.58.

Average cost of maintenance (not including construction) was, per capita, $215.90, an increase of $20.76 over last year. This excess was due to the fitting new cottages with furniture, the discharge of 59 members, most of whom had families and who were permitted to take clothing with them, and an exceptional large stock of supplies on hand at the close of the year which had been purchased during the year.

The cost of ration was $0.1554. This is a slight reduction from that of last year.

QUARTERMASTER'S DEPARTMENT.

The storerooms were found to be in good condition. A proper care of the stores was observable. The records were posted to date of issues of the previous week. Issues of commissary supplies are made on each Friday and quartermaster stores quarterly, with the exception of those to new members. An abstract of the issues is made up as the goods are given out and afterwards transferred to the issue book. Monthly reports of receipts and issues of subsistence supplies and quarterly reports of receipts and issues of quartermaster's stores are made to the governor of the State. These returns are supervised by the State accountant.

The population of the Home was:

Single men	21
Men with families	86
Wives	83
Widows	5
Boys	59
Girls	93
Officers' families	21
Total	368
Present capacity of the Home	440
Number of applications on file	45

All approved applications have been notified of the fact.

HOSPITAL.

There has been no material change in the hospital management, except in the installation of a competent hospital steward, who has had some experience as a nurse in the National Home. The surgeon is nstantly on duty. He seems to be competent and very attentive to s duties in every particular.

umber of men treated in hospital during the year	12
umber died in hospital during the year	2
umber died in quarters during the year	2
escriptions made	4,500

The larger portion of his practice is by all odds with the families. The surgeon reported the want of necessary delicacies, which have ot been provided. Hospital appliances are needed, such as surgical struments, medical bakery, etc. The capacity of the hospital is twelve eds. Everything in this department was found in a very clean and eat condition. All the records which are kept by the surgeon were up date and in good condition. During the year there were ten births.

LIBRARY.

The library now possesses 750 bound volumes, an addition of 150 luring the year. There are 350 copies of magazines, 5 daily newspaers, and 20 weeklies.

FARM.

The farm has furnished all the produce used in the Home during the year, the result of the system of irrigation mentioned in the last year's report. No account is kept of the value of this produce, as the farm work is paid for from the subsistence fund.

BATH HOUSE.

There has been established a general bath house, two rooms for use of the men and two for the women and children of the Home, separate days being set apart for each. The rooms are separated by intervening rooms which are occupied by the hot-water boiler and quarters of those in charge of the house.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE KANSAS SOLDIERS' HOME FOR THE YEAR ENDING JUNE 30, 1896.

KANSAS SOLDIERS' HOME, Fort Dodge, ——, 1896.

GENERAL: I have the honor to submit the following report of this Home for the year ending June 30, 1896:

In addition to the inclosed report, I wish to say that our legislative appropriation for $15,000 has been expended in such a way as to care for forty or more families over last year. We are glad to inform you that we closed the year without a single approved application on file but what has been notified to come to the Home. This is something that has never before occurred since the organization of the Home. All have been well fed and clothed and no shortage in any of the legislative appropriations.

Respectfully submitted.

COLORADO SOLDIERS AND SAILORS' HOME, MONTEVISTA, AUGUST 24, 1896.

BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS.

WARNER A. ROOT, President, Denver.
W. P. HARBOTTLE, Vice-President and Secretary, Salida.
A. M. SAWYER, Treasurer, Boulder.
GEORGE H. ADAMS, Denver.
THOMAS C. GRADEN, Durango.
JOHN D. LEWIS, Montevista.

OFFICERS.

Maj. S. M. FRENCH, Commandant.
WILLIAM McCORD, Adjutant.
HARVEY W. GREEN, Quartermaster and Commissary of Subsistence.
Dr. WILLIAM A. PACKARD, Surgeon.

The improvements named in last report as being under construction have been completed as per plan there described. This wing to the main cottage not only enhances the appearance of this structure, but has increased its capacity 37 cots, making its present occupancy 70. The tower erected between the main building and the wing, which is 14 by 15 feet in plan and three stories in height, contains two wash rooms, each with water-closets and urinals, and two bathrooms. In the upper portion is a large iron tank which is kept full of water by a steam pump which flows water to every portion of the Home.

The power house, heretofore spoken of and used as a dormitory, is now doing duty as the general dining room and kitchen, and for the present population of the Home answers the purpose very well. The large bake oven, about completed at date of last year's inspection, has been in use during the year and has proven a good improvement.

A stone building 20 by 22 feet is being constructed for use of the quartermaster and commissary of subsistence. In this will be his office, sleeping room, and clothing storage.

The sum of $8,927 has been devoted to permanent improvements during the year. Each year adds to the attractiveness of the Home. Grass is gradually getting a foothold in the waste of sand and gravel. The trees planted a year ago in a semicircle in front of the building have done well, and with the aid of constant irrigation and eternal vigilance an oasis will eventually be established.

The matter of removing the Home to some other locality in the State has been agitated to some extent, with a possibility of some action in this direction during the next session of the legislature. For the time, this will probably deter any further enlargement of the Home.

The finances of the institution are in better condition than ever bef and were it not for the prospect, or rather possibility, of this cha the west wing of the main cottage would doubtless soon erected, t enlarging its capacity to 107 cots.

The affairs of the Home, so far as the hurried inspection enabl judgment, have been well and fairly administered by Major Fre the commandant. Discipline is enforced to the end that order peace to all is ever present. The rule as to intemperance, which part and parcel of too many of the old veterans, is here not rig enforced.

A careful examination of the records of the adjutants and quar master evinced an exceptional degree of neatness and painstak work.

SUBSISTENCE.

An inspection of the meals served while at the Home, the sup in stock, and the contracts for the same, indicated a proper care for welfare of the members. No regular ration is supplied. Everyt necessary is obtained, served as well as could be desired, and in sufficient quantity. There is a lack of a good professional bread ba The cook performs this duty, which he should not be required to A good cook is not in all cases a good bread maker. There was s complaint on this score and not without reason. The pay roll of eral dining room and kitchen is $70 per month.

CLOTHING.

The clothing furnished is of a very substantial quality. The and vest of beaver cloth are very heavy and so uncomfortable du the summer that the members are permitted to go in shirt sleeve consequence. The members would doubtless hail the advent of a f nel blouse in preference to the heavy coat or shirt sleeves. The o complete for each man is:

Two coats, at $7	$14.00	One hat	$
Two vests, at $1.75	3.50	One pair slippers
Two pairs trousers, at $3.75	7.50	Two pairs suspenders, at 25 cents
Two shirts, at $1.375	2.75	Two handkerchiefs, at 6 cents
Two undershirts, at 50 cents	1.00	One necktie
Two pairs drawers, at 50 cents	1.00
Three pairs socks, at 15 cents	.45	Total	3
One pair shoes	1.75

No fixed regulations exist as to the issue of clothing.

PENSIONERS.

Number of pensioners	58
Increase during the year	17
Per cent of pensioners to membership	56.86
Amount paid to pensioners	$4,676.00
Decrease from last year	$1,029.00

This decrease is due to the fact that during the former year a number of pensioners received their original pensions. Of the entire sum paid them—

There was paid to members present	$1,719
To members on furlough	1,258
To dependent relatives	888
Deposited with commandant	811
Total	4,676

Each member is given a deposit book for sums deposited, which is debited and credited the same as at a bank. The money so received by the commandant is kept on deposit at a bank.

COST OF MAINTENANCE.

The average cost of maintenance per capita during last year was $208.02, a reduction as compared with the year previous of $14.09, due to a larger average present during the fiscal year as compared with the same fixed charges in salaries and other items. The cost per capita is based on all expenditures except that of construction.

HOSPITAL.

The removal of the general dining room to the power house has added a second ward to the hospital proper, which now contains 30 patients under the direct charge of the surgeon, whose duties here have been largely increased during the last fiscal year. There seems to be no diminution of the former observable careful and painstaking attention on the part of Dr. Packard, the surgeon at this Home. He now has telephonic communication between the Home and his office and residence in the town of Montevista, as recommended in last report, which has proven a great advantage to the Home. A complete report of this department is found elsewhere. A cook, waiter, hospital steward, and assistant steward are now supplied. Wards, dining room, and kitchen are in fine condition.

The quarters of the men, the general appearance of members, with one or two exceptions, whom the commandant stated were impossible to keep clean, were all in excellent shape.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE COLORADO HOME FOR THE YEAR ENDING JUNE 30, 1896.

MONTEVISTA, COLO., June 30, 1896.

GENERAL: I have the honor to submit the following report of this Home for the year ending June 30, 1896:

The improvements spoken of in my report of one year ago have all been completed, and the new order of things seems to be satisfactory. There is a great need of still further accommodations, as the demands for admission are on the increase. The membership last year at this time was 80, and it is now 100, which is within 5 of the full capacity of the Home, and at a time of year when all who are able are endeavoring to make their own living. The battle is an unequal one, for with a surplus of young men the old soldier is relegated to the rear.

There has been some dissatisfaction over the pension rules, and several have taken discharges in preference to complying with the law; while, on the other hand, quite a number have a respectable bank account who heretofore were in the habit of spending their pensions as soon as received.

The telephone line from the town to the surgeon's office and residence in Montevista has been completed and is giving entire satisfaction.

The cemetery grounds have been receiving attention for the first time, and the putting down of an artesian well, the planting of 200 shade trees, and the grading and ditching necessary to properly water the grounds has since been accomplished. It is only a question of time when the cemetery will present a more attractive appearance.

The appropriation for maintenance has been promptly paid and is sufficient to meet all necessary demands until the end of the fiscal year, and a State warrant on the Home fund is as good as cash.

There has been less trouble from intoxication during the past year than before. Especially is this noticeable during the last six months. Very little trouble has been experienced, and the rules have been obeyed more cheerfully than formerly. Except for a little "crankiness" displayed now and then, which seems to be a quality peculiarly adapted to all old soldiers, the name "Home" would not be a misnomer.

SANITARY REGULATIONS.

No material changes have been made in the sanitary regulations of this Home. Each ward is provided with closets, hot and cold water, and the facilities for bathing are ample. The beds are furnished with clean sheets and pillowcases once a week. White counterpanes are provided for every bed in the Home. Once a week the entire bedding of the different wards is taken out of doors and thoroughly aired, the floors mopped, windows washed, and the woodwork cleaned.

RELIGION AND SOCIETIES.

Religious services have been held at the Home by the different clergymen of Monte Vista at various times, but the Home has no chaplain.

An arrangement has been made with Joe Hooker Post, Grand Army of the Republic, of Monte Vista, whereby three meetings each month are held at the Home, the fourth or regular meeting being held in town.

The Women's Relief Corps of Monte Vista has given various literary entertainments at the Home, which generally wind up with a dance, in which the "old boys" are given the preference over the "kids."

Applicants for admission to this Home are not subjected to an examiation by any surgeon, either at the Home or elsewhere. He simply ls up a printed blank with a statement of his desire to be admitted, grees to obey the rules and regulations, and to make over his pension, he receives one, to the Home while he remains an inmate, subject to e disposition of the board of managers as they may think proper.

To this he adds his domestic and military history and states his dis-ility and the amount of his pension, all of which is subscribed and sworn . To this is appended a certificate identifying the applicant, confirm-g his statement, and recommending his admission by a post commander nd adjutant of some post of the department of the Grand Army of e Republic, or mayor and an alderman of any city in the State, or two electmen of a town. In this the applicant must inclose his discharge r state his reasons for not doing so.

The members present, including the sick in hospital, were mustered, nd one member who was reported present could not be found. After nquiry and search it was reported that he had been absent since the 7th (six days), but had been borne on the roll of members as present. The commandant's trimonthly report of August 10 showed an average present of 76.5, which was read 76 according to the rule, and this would have read the same had the member been reported absent after the 7th. The commandant will rectify his next trimonthly report by reporting the man absent after the 10th instant.

This Home has no standard records and is the only Soldiers' Home without them. New Homes, with one-fourth the membership of this, have proper records, well kept. No historical nor proper register of applications for admission—no proper records at all, not even of the hospital, excepting one small book containing parts of domestic, military, and Home history of the member, all written on two lines. The necessity and importance of these records has already been emphasized by the applications of regimental historians to obtain records of their men who have become members of Soldiers' Homes. When Soldiers' Homes shall be no longer required for the care of disabled volunteer soldiers and their historical registers shall be collected and preserved by the national or State governments for the information of posterity, the records of the disabled volunteer soldiers who were cared for in the New Hampshire Soldiers' Home will be lacking, and her disabled soldiers are as worthy of record as those of any other State

HOSPITAL.

The new and spacious hospital has been completed and occupied. The dining room, kitchen, and wards have all been equipped and furnished by the Woman's Relief Corps of the State, the State having expended but $54 on the furniture. There are 14 wards on the ground floor, accommodating 2 beds each, and one of them 4 beds. Upstairs there are 6 wards with 2 beds each, or 42 beds in all. If porches at least 10 feet in width were constructed upon the front and upon the two ends of the building, and in such manner as to permit them to be inclosed with glass in the winter season and left open in the summer, it would add greatly to the comfort of the sick and promote regularity and uniformity of temperature and economy of fuel in winter. The surgeon, who resides in Tilton, about three-fourths of a mile from the Home, receives $100 per annum for one weekly visit and $1 for each extra visit. The surgeon's office and the pharmacy at the Home were not yet furnished, and the drugs and medicines were standing upon the floor in a variety of bottles and packages.

The Home is fortunate in having a thoughtful, faithful, and careful commandant, who makes the best use of the means at his disposal, and is also blessed with the sympathetic assistance of the Woman's Relief Corps.

The members appeared well and neatly clothed and manifested feelings of interest and content in the Home.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE NEW HAMPSHIRE SOLDIERS' HOME FOR THE YEAR ENDING JUNE 30, 1896.

TILTON, N. H., June 30, 1896.

GENERAL: I have the honor to submit the following report of this Home for the year ending June 30, 1896:

There has been no change in rules since last report.

The new hospital was furnished complete by the Woman's Relief Corps of the State and has been occupied since January 1, adding much to the comfort of the sick and feeble. They especially appreciate the comfort of a dining hall on the same floor with their sleeping rooms.

It is not the purpose to see for how small a sum soldiers can be maintained, but rather how much comfort can be given them at reasonable expense.

The Home met with a great loss in the death of its surgeon, Dr. Abbott, who passed away on the 21st day of January after a brief sickness. The present surgeon, Dr. M. C. Spaulding, has gained the confidence of the men and is meeting with success in treating the chronic ailments with which most of the men are afflicted. The consulting surgeon, Dr. J. M. Cheeny, of Ashland, assisted by the surgeon and second consulting surgeon, Dr. Lamb, performed a delicate and critical operation on a member, two months since, with great skill, resulting in the recovery of the patient. I am unable to report any progress toward procuring record books.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

ERVIN H. SMITH, Commandant.

The methods of admission to this Home are the same as those adopted at the New Hampshire Home. Those in operation at the Massachusetts Home and some others are far better and safer models to follow.

An important extension to the main building has added 33 beds to its dormitory capacity and greatly enhanced the comfort of the members. The dining room, kitchen, and storerooms, cold storage, and all the choice equipments for an efficient and economical administration were found in the usual excellent condition.

RECORDS.

The complete and well-kept standard records of this Home in the office of the superintendent were examined with pleasure.

HOSPITAL.

Nineteen members were sick in hospital, the two pavilions of which contain 26 beds, but could hold a few more without crowding. It is contemplated to move the diet kitchen from the front of the first pavilion and to have a hospital dining room in rear. This will be a decided improvement and probably an economy of service, and certainly will better promote the welfare of the sick. The only weakness existing in the management of this hospital is caused by the want of a surgeon who can keep proper records and make reports, and if that were remedied it would be hard to find a fault in the whole institution. Its charming home-like characteristics have sprung from the uncommon personal qualifications and moral force of the genial and industrious superintendent and worthy matron.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE VERMONT HOME FOR THE YEAR ENDING JUNE 30, 1896.

VERMONT SOLDIERS' HOME,
Bennington, Vt., June 30, 1896.

GENERAL: I have the honor to submit the following report of this Home for the year ending June 30, 1896:

While it is more complete than a year ago, I am unable to fill out the medical and hospital report as you have required. The nurses are required to keep a daily report of all changes each day in the hospital, which is kept as a part of the records.

The many applications now being made show that the new addition to the Home was not made ahead of time and need.

Very respectfully,

R. J. COFFEY,
Superintendent.

Gen. W. W. AVERELL, U. S. A.,
Assistant Inspector-General,

resolution governing pensions was adopted at the annual meeting l. No fault of any account has been found during the past year on ules:
any inmate of the Home receiving a pension shall pay the same in the superintendent for use in the general purposes of the Home.

Provided, if such soldier has dependent relatives the superintendent may transmit a part or the whole of said pension to such relatives as he ascertains their necessities require; and provided, further, that every pensioner shall be entitled to $1 per month out of his pension for his own use so long as he makes proper use thereof, but whenever he shall make improper use thereof in the judgment of the president, secretary, or superintendent (or a majority of them), they shall order such payment to cease. The sum of $1 additional shall be set apart each month from the pensions of those not having dependents, to be retained in the hands of the superintendent to be paid, with approval of president or secretary, to such pensioner when he shall be granted a furlough or discharge.

"Any inmate refusing to comply with this rule may for such refusal be discharged upon the joint order of the superintendent and secretary or president, after having had a hearing thereon, should he so desire.

SANITARY REGULATIONS.

No improvement could be made to the sewerage system of this Home. A 12-inch pipe extends 1,100 feet from the buildings. This is constantly flushed with the overflow from the fountain. The closets and bath rooms are to be changed in location and put in with a better class of plumbing work and material than before. All dirt, sweepings, rags, and bandages are burned every day in a brick furnace in rear of the buildings.

RELIGION AND SOCIETIES.

The chapel connected with the Home was built and furnished at a cost of $2,814 by funds contributed by the Grand Army of the Republic and friends. Services are held every Sabbath during the summer months, conducted by the different clergymen in Bennington. It is also used for camp fires, concerts, etc.

During the present summer a series of outdoor services have been held every other Sunday on the lawn in front of the main building, conducted by the Young Men's Christian Association. They have been very interesting, and were largely attended by those outside the Home.

LAUNDRY—WASH LIST.

No record of laundry work is kept. All clothing is numbered and issued every Friday noon.

POST-OFFICE.

All mail matter goes through the Bennington post-office. It is carried from the Home and received three times each day.

TRANSPORTATION.

No transportarion is provided for admission to the Home.

PERMANENT IMPROVEMENTS.

An addition to the present main building of 40 by 32 feet, three stories high with a mansard, is now nearly completed. This will give a larger main dining hall, smoking room 40 by 30 feet, large library and reading room, and will cost $5,648.

All the buildings, except stables and barns, have been repainted at a cost of $7[illegible].

The improvements, permanent, during the year have amounted to $6,353.

[Inspection by Col. E. F. Brown, inspector-general of National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers.]

Immediately after the inspection of the California State Home at Yountville I proceeded on my way to the Oregon State Home at Roseburg.

I arrived there at midnight on the 18th of July, and on the 19th proceeded to the Home, in company with the commandant, and immediately began the inspection. The muster roll of the Home was presented and I at once verified it, and found 59 present and 7 reported absent. There were no sick in the hospital, as it has been a rule of the Home to receive none who required hospital treatment. A hospital is now nearly completed, and this rule will soon be changed and hospital patients will be received and cared for as at all other Homes. During the year ending June 30, 1896, 1 only has died. There were 37 new admissions during the year, of which 23 were native and 14 foreign born. There have been no unusual gains or losses during the year. The present capacity in the dormitories is reported at 68, and in hospital (when completed) 30. Convalescents will also be cared for in the hospital building until the room is demanded for use of other patients who require constant medical care and attention.

J. M. Flynn, formerly adjutant, resigned, and William R. Marquiss was appointed to the vacancy. This is the only change in the officers of the Home during the year.

In a very hurried examination of the books of this Home—with the thermometer marking 101° in the coolest place in the house—I found little to complain of, in fact, much to commend. If not kept in the best style of bookkeeping, everything seemed to be carefully noted so that all the facts can readily be obtained. Captain Byers is a careful, painstaking man, and the trustees may well congratulate themselves on obtaining his services. The Home is conducted in the interest of the needy, disabled soldiers, and all of them seem to feel that it is to them a "home" indeed. The commandant and his family live in the same building with the men. This should be remedied, as the space occupied by the family and the offices will soon be required, and it is better in every way that the commandant should have his own private quarters removed from immediate contact with those he has to command. I urgently commend this to the consideration of the trustees of the Home and the State authorities. With this improvement, and the hospital completed, this State Home would care for all the soldiers likely to apply for shelter for two years to come. The improvements for the year consist mainly in the erection and completion of the hospital building, at a cost of $6,000. Other improvements, in repairs, clearing grounds, building avenues and roads, are estimated at $500.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE OREGON SOLDIERS' HOME FOR THE YEAR ENDING JUNE 30, 1896.

ROSEBURG, OREG., July 1, 1896.

GENERAL: I have the honor to submit the following report of this Home for the year ending June 30, 1896:

At the beginning of the present fiscal year there were 59 members belonging to this Home—51 present and 8 absent with leave. Eight of those present were Indian war veterans.

There have been admitted to the Home during the past year 43 members, of whom 6 were Indian war veterans not entitled to Government aid.

The losses from the Home were 1 by death and 27 discharged. Of the latter number 3 were Indian war veterans.

The general health and discipline of the Home is excellent.

There are a number of important improvements completed, under way, or in contemplation. Chief among these is the new hospital, which will be completed about September 30. Its estimated cost is $6,000. New waterworks, barns, and barracks are among the things contemplated next year. The main hall of the Home is decorated with a rack containing 50 stand of Hotchkiss rifles and 50 marine cutlasses and the campus with four 12-pounder howitzers. These decorations were received from the War Department through the energy of Mr. Hermann, the Congressman from Oregon.

Respectfully,

W. H. BYARS,
Commandant.

Assistant Inspector-General,

IDAHO.

Hon. WILLIAM J. MCCONNELL, Governor.

IDAHO STATE SOLDIERS AND SAILORS' HOME, BOISE CITY, JULY 25, 1896.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES.

GEORGE LITTLE, President, Caldwell.
Hon. I. W. GARRETT, Secretary, Boise City.
H. F. REEL, Boise City.
C. C. CARPENTER, Moscow.
DANIEL H. BUDLONG, Coeur d'Alene City.

OFFICERS.

Dr. W. C. MAXEY, Commandant.
P. R. MINER, Adjutant and Quartermaster.

On completion of inspection of Washington State Home, at Orting, I hastened on to Boise City, the location of the Idaho State Home, where I arrived on July 24. On the morning of the 25th, Hon. I. W. Garrett, a member of the board of trustees and secretary, with Capt. H. F. Reel, also a member of the board, called for me and accompanied me to the Home.

This is a new Home, established in 1894, and is located about 2 miles from Boise City. The main building is an imposing structure, three stories in height, with very pleasant surroundings. It is 107 feet in length by 100 feet in width, including a wing. The upper-story rooms were not completed, but are occupied temporarily with beds to some extent. The cost of this building was $22,500; a good barn, costing $440; an electric-light plant, costing $1,416; and other buildings of importance, but of less cost, worth about $1,500. The grounds contain about 35 acres, largely set to fruit trees and reserved for pasturage.

The State officials and the people in Boise City and all over the State take a deep interest in this Home and will see to it that their disabled soldiers are properly cared for. Like the Home in Roseburg, Oreg., the commandant lives in the main building and occupies space that would accommodate several soldiers, and separate quarters should be provided. For the present, the Home can provide for all its members and all that will be likely to apply for a year to come, but more space will be required within two years.

The muster roll was verified and 44 answered to their names. They reported 12 absent with leave, 3 sick in hospital, and 2 have died during the year ending June 30, 1896.

There were 55 admissions during the year ending June 30, 1896, of which 36 were native and 19 foreign born. They report the present capacity in dormitories at about 80, with hospital accommodations for only 5. This should be increased to 20 or 25.

The commandant reports that there are none in the Home able to earn a living under favorable circumstances. The inspection of the food, clothing, dormitories, general appearance of men, and all the surroundings was most satisfactory. The books kept at the Home are few and simple, and are kept carefully. The principal business of the Home, aside from the discipline and care of the members, is done in the city.

One feature I noticed that seemed unusual: All admissions were approved by the commandant and by no other officer of the Home, and no other examination, apparently, by anyone. Yet it appeared by the minutes that in the matter of discharges the commandant had no power, and if he exercised any he was liable to be overruled. It appeared to me that these rules should be reversed; that the trustees should approve all admissions and the commandant report dismissals and discharges for their approval, and then issue the order. It did not appear to me that proper discipline could be maintained without concert of action, but as it was not a part of my duties to examine into the details of dicipline, I left it where I found it, and mention it only because I was amused at the situation. For a State that was not organized and had no soldiers in service during the war, it is creditable that such ample provision is made for the maintenance and care of those who have since taken up a residence within the borders of this new State.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE IDAHO STATE HOME FOR THE YEAR ENDING JUNE 30, 1896, AND FOR FRACTION OF YEAR ENDING JUNE 30, 1895.

BOISE, IDAHO, July 21, 1896.

GENERAL: I have the honor to submit the following report of this Home for the year ending June 30, 1896:

This Home entered upon its official life May 1, 1895. Idaho did not furnish a man in defense of our Government in the civil war, but notwithstanding this her patriotic citizens erected this Home for the benefit of the old veterans, furnished it, and maintained 78 veterans the past year and a half.

The Home building is of brick and stone, three stories high, of beautiful and comfortable design, capable at present of accommodating about 50 members. With the completion of the third story 50 more members can be accommodated.

The board of trustees are now considering the necessity of completing the third story and building cottages for officers and a hospital, exterior to the main building.

The Home grounds consist of 40 acres. The Home is located near the center of the grounds, 2 miles west of the city of Boise, with mountains to the north and east and the fertile valley of Boise to the south and west.

On June 30, 1895, we had present 20 members and on June 30, 1896, 49 members. The total number cared for since the organization of the Home is 78 members.

Our last legislature appropriated $28,000 for maintenance, furnishing, and other necessary expenses of the Home. Unforeseen expenses, usual in starting new institutions, have compelled us to use the strictest economy to enable us to run the Home two years.

A new laundry building south of the main structure has been erected and furnished. Telephone, electric light, and power lines have been erected from the city to the Home. There has been an addition to the barn, fencing, grading, and leveling of land. Fruit and shade trees have been set out. The débris around the Home building has been cleared up. The Home has been furnished. An electric pump has been installed to supply the Home and laundry with water. The porches have been repaired and necessary tools and vehicles have been purchased, together with a team. Milch cows have also been bought. All these necessary items have consumed a large proportion of our appropriation.

The help given us by the Government of the United States does not apply to support of members in this Home. When remittances are received they are turned into the State treasury to reimburse the State. Not a dollar is consumed by the Home.

Our rules and regulations were copied from the Illinois, Rhode Island, and Michigan Homes, and up to recent date have been satisfactory, which gave the commandant er to discharge for repeated and vicious offenses. The trustees have recently ified this and place the power of discharge in their approval.

ıe discipline of the Home has been fairly maintained. The chief offenses are xication and insubordination.

this country, where men have led wild and vicious lives in the mines, camp, and ns, it is hard to maintain discipline unless upheld by efficient rules and regula- s. The orderly men are put to shame and disgrace by a few drunken and pro- members, who are permitted to go unpunished. Charges have been preferred ›gular order for three to eight offenses of a vicious nature. Four in number of e charges have been referred back to the commandant indorsed that the charges › trifling and of little consequence.

ıe trustees visit the Home but one day in three months and consequently know little of the affairs of the Home, depending upon the commandant to manage enforce discipline, yet assume his prerogative in punishment of offending mem- . The trustees are five in number and reside in different localities in the State— 400 miles; another, 200 miles; another, 30 miles from the Home, and two at e. Their meetings are quarterly.

hile I have a fraternal sympathy for a comrade and for all comrades, offending rderly, and hold the highest esteem for every man who aids and upholds our Gov- nent, yet I can not compromise virtue, patriotism, and sobriety with debauchery, anity, and vulgarity.

l members entering this Home are provided with the Grand Army of the Republic orm and with two suits of neat underclothing. Each member is provided with ngle bed, consisting of wire spring and cotton mattress, blankets, sheets, and forters, with one 3-pound feather pillow. Three meals are served daily—6 a. m., oon, and 6 p. m.

he sanitary conditions are good. The sewerage is being perfected which gives a of more than 10 feet to the mile into the Boise River. The dormitory proper is tilated with eight large windows and a special flue draft. Two large halls with rs and transoms ventilate the building above and below. The altitude—2,700 feet— bright sunlight, cool nights, and mild winters of Idaho make sanitation easy.

ur hospital room is in the main building adjoining the hall on the second floor. s not properly located and is inconvenient and not large enough to accommodate re than six patients. Being located where men, women, and children have to pass k and forth to water-closets is a continual menace to patients and members. No ter-closets, urinals, or wash bowls, or sewerage to hospital are provided.

There have been but three deaths in this Home since its organization, two dying pulmonary consumption and one with pneumonia. Two only in the current year.

The sick call is sounded every morning at 8 o'clock for the benefit of all needing atment and medical or surgical attention. But one room, 18 feet square, is pro- ded for laboratory, drugs, and prescription tables, and in this room the baggage members admitted and clothing to be issued is kept by the adjutant. From three sixteen members come into this room daily for treatment.

The commandant and adjutant have their office in the same room, which adjoins e surgeon's medical and baggage room.

Very respectfully submitted.

W. C. MAXEY, Commandant and Surgeon.

Five have been dishonorably discharged, four of whom have been reinstated to honorable discharge by order of the board of trustees, to the injury of the discipline of the Home.

The by-laws and rules have been changed, charges referred back, and the general tendency and sympathy of the board of trustees is to palliate and minimize offenses.

ıe location of this Home is 1 mile from Milford, a village of about 0 inhatitants, in Seward County. This is in the most picturesque and le portion of Nebraska. The Blue River, a winding and rapid, clear am with rocky shores, traverses this section, its course being marked hick and vigorous growths of trees and shrubbery.

he Home buildings stand upon an elevated plateau, around the north east sides of which flow the Blue River and its tributary, Raccoon ek. The area of the Home grounds is 38 acres. The Blue River is ı 60 to 75 feet in width and would afford valuable water power on Home grounds for electric lights, laundry, and water supply. The ation of the plateau above the sea is 1,452 feet, or 304 feet above city of Lincoln, about 40 miles to the eastward. The valley of the e River, with rugged, rocky, and steep banks, widens out to nearly uarter of a mile in the vicinity of the Home, and is filled with a uriant growth of oak, elm, black walnut, ash, hickory, soft maple, elder, hackberry, locust, and cottonwood, intermingled with wild plum, gooseberry, and wild grape vines. In the bottom of the valley, in front of the Home, the tangled wilderness has run riot for centuries over a remarkably well-preserved tumulus, oblong in shape, and presenting the appearance of the back, neck, and head of a turtle. The back is 180 feet long and 120 feet wide, the neck 75 feet long and 40 feet wide, and the head 40 feet long and 45 feet wide. The head is raised nearly 12 feet and the remainder about 8 feet high. The legend of the healing springs, which flow into the Blue River at this point, was brought into Spanish records in the sixteenth century. The measure of one spring within a rocky recess was taken and found to be 20 feet long, 5 feet wide, and over 3 feet deep. This natural (or handmade?) overflowing reservoir is fed by five springs which flow from the rock. This spring water is conveyed, through the pressure of a hydraulic ram, 900 feet and 94 feet in height, flowing constantly to the buildings of the Home. The water from four of the principal springs of the group of springs that break out of the scarp of the plateau discloses, by analysis, the salts of iron, potassium, lithium, and magnesium, which it is claimed have been found efficacious in the treatment of diseases of the kidneys and liver. This suggested the establishment of a sanitarium. A large brick building, 44 by 85 feet, of three stories and an attic, above a high basement, was erected for a sanitarium but never occupied for that purpose. It was leased to the State for the term of two years from May 1, 1895, with the privilege of renewal for eight years, and with an option of purchase. The State devoted it to the care of disabled volunteer soldiers. The main building has a dormitory capacity for 100 beds, and also contains the offices, hospital, kitchen, dining room, and storerooms of the Home. The powerhouse and laundry occupy a separate building.

ADMINISTRATION.

The commandant is a man full of good health, energy, and zeal, and the discipline of the Home is excellent. At muster and inspection the members made a good appearance in clothing of indigo blue and black felt hats. They seemed a superior class of men, mostly native Americans.

RECORDS.

The records of the Home and hospital were all kept in one room. They were not in standard form altogether, but were perfectly intelligible. Cards were not yet used. The young adjutant displayed industry and aptitude and will undoubtedly bring the records up to the standard form.

HOSPITAL.

The sick are all in the main building, on the first floor, where the necessary noise must disturb their repose or essential quiet, and the plaints and cries of those in pain may be heard in the hall, to the distress of every passer-by. Moreover, besides the daily inconvenience, the present conditions are not devoid of danger. The first exigency to be considered is the erection of a small pavilion hospital of one ward, with a capacity for about 20 beds and 2 rooms of seclusion, with a diet kitchen.

SUBSISTENCE.

The kitchen was found clean and bright, well supplied with proper appliances, and conducted by experienced cooks—one a very capable woman—and proud of their work. The storerooms were well supplied

;ood order. The dining room was in the best condition. The as been supplied during the last three months with fresh fish from the Blue River by members, and one old man gathers ıough wild gooseberries from the jungle for the Home table.

the front porches and balconies of the main building one may ır and beyond the wooded valley of the Blue River upon a pleas- lscape diversified with cultivated farms and woodlands and ıg half the horizon. Paths and driveways with rustic bridges ready been cut and constructed through the jungle below by men, who find in it many ideal sylvan resorts and shady, deep the river. This site would respond to a minimum expenditure ıy and time for the development of any public institution of ıracter, and considering time and all the natural advantages in e might say that one dollar would produce more needed results ame time than would ten dollars expended on a prairie without d a natural water supply.

; REPORT OF THE NEBRASKA (MILFORD) HOME FOR THE YEAR ENDING JUNE 30, 1896.

MILFORD, NEBR., July 1, 1896.

AL: I have the honor to submit the following report of this Home for the ng June 30, 1896:

lford Home, the second in the State, was established by act of the legisla- 895 in obedience to the demand for additional room and a healthful and location for a Home.

l passed the legislature with the emergency clause, which required a two- te, and became a law by the approval of the governor April 9, 1895.

w provided for the appointment of a commandant by the board of public l buildings, with the consent of the governor. I was appointed commandant ıard April 27, 1895, and at once took charge and proceeded, under the direc- ıe board, to fit up the property and make such improvements as was thought essary to successfully carry out the designs of the legislature. The build- ırected by a local company for a sanitarium, but was never completed until assumed control.

substantial brick building, five stories high, including basement and attic, on the west bank of the Big Blue River, 50 feet above the river, which ıerfect drainage. The water, from the Lithium Springs, is forced into the by means of a Rife hydraulic ram, which affords necessary drinking water floor.

ıager appropriation for improvements made it necessary to set aside rooms ıin building for a hospital, which it is hoped may be obviated by the erection lependent hospital after the next session of the legislature.

8th day of October, 1895, the Home was dedicated by Department Com- ıdams, of the Grand Army of the Republic, and formally opened by Governor and Hon. H. C. Russell, chairman of the board of public lands and buildings, esence of 4,000 people representing all parts of the State.

alth and discipline of the Home has been of the most satisfactory character ficers in charge, which is largely due to the natural facilities afforded for n and entertainment.

tablishment and location of the new Home was instigated by the Grand the Republic, and has so far met the hearty approval of that organization uxiliary associations as to have induced them to furnish rooms, contribute and other adjuncts, and keep in constant touch with its management to for the disabled comrades who are entitled to the care and protection of the d nation.

SOLDIERS AND SAILORS' HOME, Milford, Nebr., June 30, 1896.

have the honor to submit the following report of the medical and surgical nt of this Home for the year ending June 30, 1896:

me was opened October 8, 1895. I have acted as surgeon since that date, ot receive my appointment until December. My residence is in Milford, mile from the Home, which I visit daily, Sundays included, making addi- its if needed. The general health of the membership has been excellent. nber, except one, a case of cerebral softening, showing a marked improve- e coming to the Home. This is due in part to the excellent sanitation, he employment of mind and body afforded by the surroundings which are pleasing and interesting nature as to lead from introspection to more employment, but to a greater extent to the medical springs near by, the which are piped into the building and form the supply for drinking, etc. alth-giving influence being more largely evident in rheumatism and its d renal and vesical troubles.

to the smallness of our number, I have, in my statistical report, consoli- convalescent companies and sick call.

e had no deaths since the Home was opened, though there have been times vas not unlooked for.

which is respectfully submitted. S. P. TRACEY, B. S., Surgeon.

SANITARY REGULATIONS.

The sanitation of the Home is exceptionally good, being carefully looked after by those in charge. The sewers, with which all departments are connected, extend 1,500 feet, discharging into the Big Blue River with a fall of 50 feet in that distance. It has a stream of pure water continually flowing through it, thus insuring its cleanliness.

The most thorough care is exercised to keep the grounds and buildings scrupulously clean.

The members are required to thoroughly air their rooms daily before making their beds and to bathe at least once a week.

Weekly inspection by the commandant, surgeon, and matron aids in enforcing these regulations.

In addition to the above, sight must not be lost of the beneficial effect of the medicinal water of the springs, the more than ordinary supply of ozone in our air, and the exceptionally thorough system of ventilation provided in the construction of the building.

RELIGION AND SOCIETIES.

There are no societies as yet organized in the Home. The members are granted the privilege of attending the societies to which they may belong meeting in the village.

The Home is provided with an assembly room, which has a seating capacity of 300, in which are held religious services at 3 p. m. each Sabbath by the pastors of the village of Milford, alternately, between the following denominations: Methodist Episcopal, German Evangelical, and Congregational.

Camp fires, concerts, and other entertainments are frequently held, in which the members of the Home and the young people's societies in town take active part.

Lisbon is reached by a railway running southwest from Fargo through a fine rolling prairie country 56 miles. The town, of about 2,000 inhabitants, is on the northwestern slopes of a valley which is wooded along the banks of the Cheyenne River, which runs toward the southwest. The Soldiers' Home is nearly hidden in the woodland on the south side of the stream. It is a pretty building of two stories, with a square tower and porch, with arches in front.

The 15 members present, including 2 sick, and the commandant and his family all live under the same roof. The dining room, kitchen, and laundry are also in the same building. The want of a separate residence for the commandant and his family is already felt, and it will continue and increase until met by the erection of a cottage residence, which should also contain the offices of the Home. A small pavilion hospital of one ward, having a capacity for 20 beds, and with two rooms for a surgery and dispensary and two for the seclusion of certain patients. The presence of the sick under the same roof with the well is not only embarrassing to both, but it may easily be perilous to the well. The laundry might also be established in a small building which could at the same time hold the necessary power for all the work.

RECORDS.

istorical register and the blotter of applications are needed. ere some very good record books in use.

aster and inspection the members appeared well dressed and person and clothing, and in the dining hall their quiet enjoy- well-prepared food was noticeable. Their dormitories and beds an and comfortable.

WATER.

r is now obtained for the main building by pumping, using a l for a motor. Arrangements are nearly completed for taking om the town for all purposes. It is obtained from four wells prings, and is said to be pure and soft.

FUEL.

te, mined at Dickinson, 300 miles westward from the Home, costs ines $1 per ton, but the railway transportation added makes it per ton at the Home.

FARM.

ommandant appears to understand farming and to enjoy the sion of the work. He has 40 acres under cultivation, and 7 re devoted to garden vegetables of all kinds. There were 23 oats and 10 in wheat. The topography of the country around ne is undulating, and has the picturesqueness peculiar to vast andscapes. The river abounds in several varieties of fish. The about the Home are easily susceptible of conversion into a park by cutting winding paths through the redundant shrub- d utilizing the favorable natural features.

LIBRARY.

ucleus for a library is already formed of 150 books. The Home 5 daily and 20 weekly newspapers, and an editor in Fargo sends 5 exchanges to the Home three times a week. Four magazines taken regularly. It requires a courageous and patriotic spirit te one's life to the welfare of disabled volunteer soldiers so far e many comforts that Eastern Homes have at their doors, but McIlvain has it, and North Dakota may feel that the welfare of l volunteer soldiers at her Home is well assured.

L REPORT OF THE NORTH DAKOTA STATE HOME FOR THE YEAR ENDING JUNE 30, 1896.

LISBON, N. DAK., July 1, 1896.

AL: I have the honor to submit the following report of this Home for the ing June 30, 1896:

neral health of the Home has been excellent. We had but one man sick al during the year. This man came to the Home sick and was in the hospital ight days. We have one man who is permanently crippled from the effects atism—he has been bedridden fourteen years.

has not visited our Home during the past year.

number admitted, 52.

scipline has been good—better than last year. A large majority of dis- were caused by the use of intoxicating liquors. Most of the discharged sought admittance at the National Homes. As these men have left us we hav better class of men to deal with and a more pleasant Home.

All permanent improvements were necessarily precluded this year by the extrem low State appropriation for our maintenance and subsistence. We hope in the n future to enjoy the benefits of city water for irrigation purposes and fire protecti We also hope to have a much-needed hospital building.

I am, very respectfully, your most obedient servant,

SIR: I have the honor to submit the following report of the hospital of this Home for the year ending June 30, 1896:

There have been no deaths during the year. There have been no epidemics, except during the early spring months we had an epidemic of la grippe which was quite severe in some cases, but all recovered very nicely. We need a hospital very much where the sick can have more quiet and receive better attention than they can now in a general dormitory where we are obliged to keep them; also a trained nurse, who will see that the remedies are promptly given and attend to the many little calls for treatment while I am absent.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Maj. FRANK A. STITZER, Commandant.

[Inspected by Col. E. F. Brown, inspector-general of National Homes for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers.]

After a warm ride of thirty-six hours from Boise City, Idaho, I arrived at Cheyenne, Wyo., where is located the State Home. After a night's struggle for rest between the heat and fatigue, I was able on the morning of July 28 to make preparations for the inspection of the Wyoming State Home. I was met at the hotel by the commandant, Major Stitzer, with whom I proceeded to the Home and at once entered upon the duties of the inspection. This is a new Home, and Major Stitzer furnished the following statement of its rise and progress:

The building used as a State Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers and Sailors is the property of the State of Wyoming, and was erected as an asylum for the deaf and dumb. It was not, however, used for the purpose for which it was originally intended, but was leased to private parties and was used as a Keeley Institute for several years. A bill establishing a Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers was passed by the legislature at its session during the month of January, 1895, locating the Home in this city, and the building was leased by the State to the trustees for the Home for its use as a Soldiers and Sailors' Home for veterans residing in the State of Wyoming. The building is a substantial structure; the first story of brick and the second story shingled, and contains 17 rooms, with electric lights, bath, hot and cold water, and modern conveniences, surrounded by about 2 acres of ground, and is pleasantly situated on an eminence overlooking the city of Cheyenne, and within about fifteen minutes' walk of the post-office and four blocks east of the State capitol, at an altitude of 6,020 feet. The legislature made an appropriation of $7,500 for the expenses of the Home for a period of two years, from April 1, 1895, to April 1, 1897, of which sum the board of trustees have expended $3,044.78 in the erection of a two-story brick addition, porches, electric lights, etc.

Although it is not a year since its establishment, fair progress has been made, and the muster rolls show that there are 13 now being cared for, of which number 10 are present and 3 absent with leave. No one sick. Two have died during the year ending June 30, 1896.

The total number of admissions is 18, of which 5 are native and 13 foreign born. There are no hospital accommodations, but the sick are cared for at the county hospital at a cost of $1 per day for each patient cared for. More room will be needed to care for all who are likely to apply within the coming year. It is in contemplation to build a cottage for the commandant and his family, which will relieve the main building to that extent; and with a small hospital—which will be greatly needed soon—there will be ample room for some time to come for all purposes. All the members now present are totally and permanently disabled and none are able, under the most favorable circumstances, to earn their support by manual labor.

No members are insane or demented. No amusements are yet arranged for, but the men have full permission to visit the city, and places of amusement there are abundant and only ten minutes' walk distant.

My observation convinced me that the food, clothing, dormitories, cleanliness, and general condition of the Home is first class in every particular. Major Stitzer is in charge of all books and is desirous that his work be done acceptably to the National Home. I have no doubt that his reports will compare favorably with any.

I consider this a model Home, as its size and completeness indicate, being the smallest, and, I may say, most perfect of any of the Homes, State or National. The friends of the disabled soldiers living in the Eastern and older States may have perfect confidence that those who have left them and pushed their fortunes—pioneer fashion—to the far West and located in the State of Wyoming will be well provided for, if at any time their circumstances demand it.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE WYOMING STATE SOLDIERS AND SAILORS' HOME, FOR THE YEAR ENDING JUNE 30, 1896.

SOLDIERS AND SAILORS' HOME,
Cheyenne, Wyo., July 31, 1896.

GENERAL: I have the honor to submit the following report of this Home for the year ending June 30, 1896:

The Wyoming State Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers and Sailors was opened for the reception of inmates in the month of September, 1895, and the first inmate was received into the Home on the 21st day of said month; and during the year ending June 30, 1896, 18 inmates were admitted into the Home, of which number two have died, 2 were summarily discharged[1] for drunkenness and disobedience of orders, and 1 sent to the State Insane Asylum at Evanston.

The building occupied as a Soldiers and Sailors' Home is the property of the State of Wyoming; it is a two-story structure; the first story is built of brick, the second story is of wood with sides shingled as well as the roof. It has a trifle more than 2 acres of ground attached to it and is pleasantly situated on an eminence overlooking the city, within fifteen minutes' walk of the city post-office and about four blocks east of the State capitol building.

The Home contains 17 rooms, with bath, hot and cold water, electric lights, and modern improvements, and the board of trustees is now receiving bids for the erection of a hot-water plant for the purpose of heating the building, the same to be placed in position before the month of September of the present year. The trustees have added improvements to the original building during the year ending June 30, 1896, at a cost in excess of $3,000.

The city of Cheyenne has an altitude above sea level of 6,020 feet.

Very respectfully,

FRANK A STITZER, Commandant.

Gen. W. W. AVERELL, U. S. A.,
Assistant Inspector-General,
National Homes for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers.

POPULATION.

The average number of members present and absent in State Homes has been increased from 8,637 to 10,305, or 19 per cent, during the year ending June 30, 1896. The capacity of all the older Homes has been nearly reached and of some it has been strained. There will come, within two or three years, an increased pressure for admission, which will have to be met by additional construction or by reducing the population occupying the Homes. The latter suggestion can be carried out to a certain extent by a thorough and careful examination of all the members of the Homes whose appearance may indicate that they have recovered from whatever disabilities may have entitled them to admission, and if the examination shall result in justifying the indications of their appearance, they might be discharged or furloughed from the Home, according to the exigencies of feeble or suffering men demanding room. It would require firmness of decision in most Homes to carry out this work of depletion, but it would be far less trying than to turn away those whose disabilities were unquestioned. There are decided differences of general appearance between the members of Homes with less than 200 population and the members of the larger Homes. Applicants for admission to the smaller Homes are more carefully and critically examined, and their domestic and military history is generally better known and more easily authenticated. The degree of disability that is considered necessary to constitute eligibility of an applicant for admission in the smaller Homes seems to be greater than that which is considered sufficient in the larger Homes. In some of the larger Homes there appear to be from 5 to 20 per cent of the members whose disabilities are questionable. It has been a generally accepted fact that a man who has been a member of a Soldiers' Home for a year or more, and is of the average age, finds it very difficult, or impossible, to obtain an opportunity to work, and if he do succeed, he will soon break down and return to the Home. But about 20 per cent of the total of members are absent with leave, and some of them have been absent a year, which permits the conjecture that the percentage of absent could be considerably increased by examination at the Home. There is one necessity for retaining some members with little or no disability at the Homes, that is, to perform the important duties of noncommissioned officers, to care for and control the more disabled. Civilians can not be employed in this duty. The number of such extra-duty men should not exceed 3 per cent of the average number present.

It is necessary to note the practice, that has existed in a few Soldiers' Homes in States, of carrying members as "present" on the morning report who were absent from one to ten—even twenty—days. This practice probably rose from an indefinite understanding of the law providing aid to States maintaining Soldiers' Homes: That "there shall be paid for every such disabled soldier or sailor who may be admitted and cared for in such Home, at the rate of one hundred dollars per annum." It should be understood that any member who is absent from the Home over twenty-four hours, on a pass or otherwise, is not cared for in the Home. Over one-third of the whole number cared for in State Homes during the year were transients. The whole number cared for was 13,339 and the average number present was 7,784, and the total number of deaths was 800, so the number of transients was 4,755.

PROBABLE INCREASE OF POPULATION.

The question of the rate of future increase of the population of Soldiers' Homes, and its duration, is of the greatest importance, and demands the most careful consideration in order to gain that provision so essential to an adequate and economical provision for the welfare of the maximum number. As old age is one of the chief and most common disabilities, some tables are herewith submitted which have been most recently prepared by Col. F. C. Ainsworth, United States Army, Chief of Record and Pension Office in the War Department, who has charge and control of all available records from which the necessary data upon which the compilations and computations are based. They may be relied upon as exhibiting the closest approximation to the actual facts that it is possible to make at the present time. The tables are as follows:

VITAL STATISTICS.

The average present in 22 State Homes during the year ending June 30, 1895, was 7,017, and during the year ending June 30, 1896, in 26 State Homes, the average present was 7,784. In the former year the number sick was 20.94 per cent of the average number present and in the latter year it was 20.15 per cent of the average present. The average age of members admitted during the year was 59.72 years, which is an advance of 1.32 years over the average age of those admitted the previous year. The average age of all living members has advanced to 61+ years. The average age at death of those who died during the year has also advanced to 64.655 years. The death rate has increased nearly 2 in 1,000, being 77.6.

PENSIONS.

There is nothing to add to my report of last year on the subject of pensions, except it may be said that a better control of them is becoming established in the Homes. Iowa has followed the example of Michigan and Minnesota in securing a trial and decision of the question of control by the Home authorities in the State courts. The proceedings may be found in my report of the inspection of that Home.

HOSPITAL.

It has been a great satisfaction to observe and to note the growth of the hospitals of Soldiers' Homes in States during the last eight years. Eight years ago there were 14 State Soldiers' Homes, only 5 of which had hospitals, and these have all proven inadequate. Their plan and construction were faulty, unsuitable, and in some respects inconvenient and uncomfortable. Now there are 26 Soldiers' Homes in States, 21 of which have hospitals, which in their plans, construction, materials, and fitness will compare favorably with any hospitals in the world. Careful studies of the most approved models and types has led to some admirable original features and to the equal and uniform distribution of abundant space and light, to more perfect means of ventilation, and to the easy and assured regulation of temperature. The new hospital of the Ohio Home, when completed, will illustrate the most instructive lessons of hospital experience. The hospitals of Minnesota, Illinois, ı, Michigan, Pennsylvania, New York, Connecticut, and Massachu-ı are among the most worthy. Trained women nurses are employed early all of these, which assures cleanliness, quiet, regularity, and greatest degree of comfort attainable in a hospital.

ıe steady improvement of these nurses by experience has been very ble. From the general expression of the sick men and from the ements of some of them to me it is not difficult to believe that the ence and ministrations of faithful women nurses in a hospital are lly second in value to those of the surgeon in inspiring the lives promoting the welfare of the patients.

THE PURCHASE OF MEDICINES.

. the schedule of drugs used in the hospitals of the National Home Disabled Volunteer Soldiers there are about 80 articles that should upplied fresh every six months and about 40 that should be sup-l fresh every three months. Drugs are affected, like other things, heir surroundings, and fluid extracts and other fluid preparations would retain their strength and physical properties indefinitely if tly sealed and kept at a constantly uniform temperature will pre-:ate if subjected to considerable changes of temperature. Pills are le to become dry, hard, and inert after three months, and many of salts are liable to deliquesce or lose their crystalline character if : more than six months. Half a dozen acids and as many of the ıarations of ammonia and the ointments and the numerous assort-t of tablets should be received at the hospitals fresh every three ix months. There should be no storage between the manufactory the hospital. Storage involves waste, whether the goods are of a shable nature or not. But in the storage of drugs there is almost y kind of waste—waste of strength, which means waste of purpose, quite likely involving waste of life, and always waste of money.
he contract system of the War Department as now applied to the :hase of drugs and medicines, after due advertisements for propos-may appear upon the face to be an equitable system, but when lied to Soldiers' Homes it is attended with serious detriment to the
'are of the sick, and also to the best interests of the Government.
surgeon makes his requisition about the 25th of the last month in ı quarter, and, if approved by the governor, the quartermaster
:es a purchase requisition, which must also have the approval of the ernor, and then goes to the treasurer, who orders the supply from contractors, of whom there are generally from three to six for each nch of the Home to whom the different articles of the schedule were tted in accordance with the lowest bid on each article. This enables contractors to make a convenient clearing of their old stock and ıres to the Home the purchase of the cheapest drugs and the poor-
As a matter of fact, of which evidence is available, when the drugs put to use they do not always prove to be up to the standard. Nor they always of the special make called for. It is easy to deliver old deteriorated drugs in their original packages. Powdered drugs, ecially, and many other kinds that have become inert, can easily ıpe detection. No hospital is provided with the means of making extensive analysis, and the only way to find out their want of virtue o put them in use. The multiplicity of papers connected with con-cts, the exaction of bonds, and the snarl of methods, like those of War Department, are vexatious to dealers, and the Government is iged to pay for the annoyance it gives in increased prices. Goods can ays be bought cheapest when there is the least delay and formality.

There have been paragraphs in the public press, from time to time in the last year or two, announcing the probable adoption of a measure of economy in having the medical supplies for the Homes for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers hereafter furnished by the Medical Department of the Army.

Economy is a very important consideration in the expenditure of public funds, but it is not of the first consideration in the purchase of drugs and medicines for sick men in the hospitals of the Soldiers' Homes. The first consideration, which should be imperative, is that the drugs and medicines should be as fresh as possible and have full strength and efficacy. Medical supplies furnished to the hospitals of the Homes have become considerably deteriorated owing to the system of advertisement, contract purchase, inefficient inspection, and the general storages between the manufactory and the hospital. This system may do very well for the Medical Department of the Army, the needs of which for medical supplies must be quite limited for an army of young trained athletes whose average present is less than that of the old, infirm, and disabled volunteer soldiers in the Homes. And the class of patients in the Soldiers' Homes is so very different from those in the Army that the Army schedule would not come anywhere near to satisfying the needs of the sick members in the Home hospitals, and there is no authority of law or regulations for the Department to purchase or issue any medical supplies not on the Army schedule. And the Home surgeons necessarily always know best what they require of drugs and medicines, as every surgeon of the National Home and every surgeon of the first ten State Homes has more actual professional work to do in one day than any surgeon in the Army has in a month.

In an interview on August 26 with Gen. G. M. Sternberg, the Surgeon-General of the Army, he expressed to me the opinion that it would be much more satisfactory for the National Home to purchase its own drugs and medicines, and that he did not consider the provisions of the law required the Medical Department of the Army to supply anything not on the schedule. The Medical Department of the Army purchases only twice a year the aggregate required by the posts. Stores are kept at New York, St. Louis, and San Francisco. No manufacturing is carried on by the Department.

All that the Soldiers' Homes need and require to promote and perfect the great national beneficence which they represent is a competent medical director of dominant and acknowledged professional ability and a running contract with the best and most reputable manufacturers of drugs and medicines, to furnish them directly to the Homes on properly approved requisitions as they shall be needed, as is now done as far as practicable in the National Home, under the restrictions above noted.

It is fortunate for the country and for the welfare of the Homes that they have been created and governed from their beginning by a Board of Managers composed of volunteer officers of high rank who shared with the members in the war the hardships, exposures, and battles which have disabled them and made them eligible for admission. It is also fortunate that the managers have been appointed in such manner by Congress that the experience of the Board has never been lost. The continuity of this priceless experience has remained unbroken for more than two decades, and from this experience, and this alone, have sprung the grand Homes that have been established across the continent, every step of progress having been marked by improved construction, increased welfare, and a constant gain in the economies of maintenance.

The Soldiers' Homes, both National and in States, have nearly reached the development which will be required to care for the maximum number of disabled soldiers that will arrive about the end of another decade. Two or three additional branches of the National Home will be needed.

The disbursement of the sums appropriated by Congress for the support of the Homes is subject to the conditions which apply to all funds designed for the relief of human suffering, where the demand is always in excess of the supply available. The several Branches of the Home are all located in convenient proximity to market centers. The officers of the Home are all trained business men, under bonds for the faithful performance of their duties, and holding no tenure of office beyond the pleasure of the Board of Managers. It must be presumed that these officers, selected from the ranks of their comrades in arms, having daily and hourly knowledge of the suffering which it is their privilege to be instrumental in relieving, are heartily in sympathy with the objects for which the Home is established and are appealed to by every sentiment of honor, justice, and comradeship to see to it that their trusts are administered with all possible faithfulness and efficiency. They are, as a rule, untrained in the methods of the War Department administration, and do not always possess that educated discipline which will enable them to carry out with cheerfulness and accuracy rules and regulations which are opposed to their ideas of sound business methods. If the purchasing and disbursing officers of the Branch Homes were permitted to conform, within a reasonable latitude, to the methods of the business community with which they are associated, it is thought that the Home would be benefited by an increased economy and efficiency in its management. It is unfortunate that the remarkable depression in prices which has prevailed during the past two or three years lends plausibility to a claim that the supervision of the War Department has had the effect of reducing the expenses of the Home management. It is highly probable that the fallacy of this claim will become fully apparent when prices shall again resume an upward tendency.

SURGEONS' REPORTS OF SPECIAL CASES.

There has been a gratifying attention and a promising thoroughness evinced in the studies revealed in the preparation of these reports which have been included in my report for several years. They show what good work some of the surgeons of the Homes are capable of doing, and I have had the great satisfaction of knowing, from personal inspection, that much good has been done, not only by ameliorating the sufferings of several patients whose cases were regarded as hopeless, but in the instruction and encouragement the surgeons have received from their own work. Those surgeons who have not had the appliances nor the opportunities for original investigation have expressed to me their high appreciation of the benefits they have received from the reports of these special cases. These earnest workers are the ones who look forward with the most earnest hope and desire that they shall soon have a medical director who will be competent to guide them all in concerted work.

COST OF MAINTENANCE.

In the larger and best managed State Homes the cost of maintenance has decreased steadily during the last six years. In—

	Per cent.		Per cent.
Illinois	22	Ohio	19
California	27	Iowa	21
New Jersey	12	Minnesota	25
Massachusetts	19	Vermont	10
Nebraska, Grand Island	19

In others the cost has fluctuated, owing to changes of management, variable markets, and changeable climatic conditions, and in a few to erroneous accounts, especially where wives and widows are cared for. In some of the Western Homes the cost of fuel is very high, and in others subsistence, excepting beef. The cost of subsistence has been lessened by experience in securing the least waste and by improved appliances, which have diminished the cost of labor in the preparation of food.

ECIAL REPORTS OF THE NATIONAL HOME AND OF SOLDIERS' HOMES IN TATES ON LOCOMOTOR ATAXIA, PULMONARY TUBERCULOSIS, AND HEART UPTURE.

CENTRAL BRANCH.

CENTRAL BRANCH,
NATIONAL HOME FOR DISABLED VOLUNTEER SOLDIERS,
Surgeon's Office, June 30, 1896.

IR: I have the honor to submit herewith the following report on locomotor ataxia, d in its preparation I want to acknowledge the services of First Asst. Surg. R. Gangler. The 10 cases herein tabulated, taken in connection with the 27 reported st year, make an important array of cases of the disease.

The average age of these patients is 58+ years, the average age at which the dis- se developed being 47+, making an average of 11 years.

All of these patients admitted to have indulged in the alcoholic and tobacco habits, ore or less, since early manhood, two only claiming to have used alcohol to any cess.

Upon careful investigation only three will admit any excess of venery.

It appears that nine of these men were hard-working and robust men, one being physician of many years' experience, who is very accurate in his description of his istory.

It is of much interest to hear the patients' explanation as to the cause of the dis- se. Mental worriment or long physical exertions during exposures being the use, while one thinks his trouble soon followed the severe injury to his back, rheu- atism and sciatica being claimed as probable causes.

Seven were married, three single.

Most of these patients have a personal family history of neuralgia, also to have een of a strong and robust nature, while two claim to have been physically weak. utaneous disturbances were quite alike in all patients, marked areas of anæs- esia and paræsthesia being present. The sense of pressure, touch, and tempera- ure being markedly disturbed, with complete anæsthesia in very advanced cases.

No notable difference between the ataxia of day or night.

According to the statements of these patients, syphilis played a very small part ith regard to cause of tabes, neither man having hereditary or acquired consti- itional syphilis. Several, however, admit having had sores of some kind on penis, it, by prompt treatment, prevented further infection. Really, only one of these ses gives a suspicious history. This strongly confirms our previously expressed inion that syphilis is not a prominent factor in the etiology of tabes dorsalis. Six ve a history of injury to spine, two with slight spinal symptoms, or evidences, d four without any.

Much attention being paid to heredity, we find that two of the patients suffered ith impaired cerebration, with a positive family history—six mothers and four thers of a nervous temperament; two of these fathers and mothers suffered with nile dementia.

Sexual power was lost in eight cases. No cases of atrophy of testicles, a condition ich is often quite noticeable.

No unusual ocular symptoms were present, Argyle-Robertson pupil, irregular pils, contraction of pupils, atrophy of optic nerves and ptosis, mostly of left eye, ing the prominent abnormalities. Defective vision in all; two only had faint per- ption of light. Few cases suffered with incontinence of urine. No rectal existing. l of the cases had a loss of patellar reflexes, loss of coordination of arms and legs. ro had an ataxic speech. Romberg's sign prominent in all. Atrophy of muscles lower extremities in one case. Joint complications existed in six of the cases, ees being principally involved. Two of the cases reported last year have died.

In the case of J. O. B., no further developments took place until shortly before his death, when he became very nervous, excitable, suffered with loss of appetite, and rapid emaciation. Treatment, supportive and symptomatic. Died suddenly from paralysis of the heart.

In the case of B. W. E., condition rapidly grew worse, totally blind and helpless, had repeated attacks of convulsions, became very delirous later, and died after a long suffering of chronic meningitis.

EXPLANATION OF TABLES.

In the following tables we have continued the same signs as used last year. The × expresses merely a presence of the condition at the head of a column, while the minus (—), plus (+), and double plus (+ +) denote a slight, moderate, and excessive degree, respectively, of the condition noted.

Very respectfully,

D. C. HUFFMAN, Surgeon.

WESTERN BRANCH.

NATIONAL MILITARY HOME,
Leavenworth County, Kans., July 30, 1896.

R: I have the honor to inclose herewith annual report of cases of locomotor ia treated at this Branch Home during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1896.

I am, General, very respectfully, your obedient servant,

D C. JONES, Surgeon.

n. W. W. AVERELL, U. S. A.,
Assistant Inspector-General,
National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers.
(Through Col. Andrew J. Smith, Governor.)

CASE II.

[Service of Surg. D. C. Jones.]

evi O. Gray, late of Company A, Ninth Illinois Cavalry.

Treatment and notes.—Family history shows father, mother, and one sister died of sumption. No other hereditary disease.

History.—Has no bad habits; never has had syphilis. Has had symptoms of conmption, but they have entirely disappeared. Was exposed during the war to rain d cold, sleeping out, and without good food for days at a time. Was roughing in ines in the West from 1877 to 1882. Has had pneumonia, inflammatory rheumatism, d la grippe.

Twelve years ago he had an attack of paralysis involving right side, including g, arm, and face, with asphasia and loss of hearing in right ear; the paralysis eared up in about two years, at which time he complained of numbness in feet; ghtning pains in back and chest; later the sensation of something alive crawling henever the bed blanket touched his flesh. He could not walk or stand well withut support. Has had girdle sensation around abdomen.

Present condition.—Can not walk quite as well as in last report. Formication over tire body. Habitually constipated. The knee reflex is exaggerated. Foot clonus marked at times. Gastrointestinal crises. Constant pain in lumbar region. irdle in chest and neck, so severe in neck sometimes as to cause difficult swallowg and breathing No joint affections. Argyll-Robinson pupil. Parasthesia in wer limbs. No delay of conduction. Sexual desire, normal. Anæstheometer shows at two points in an area of 2 square inches on lower limbs feel as one, and on pper limbs normal.

Treatment.—Chloride of gold and soda and potassium of iodide.

CASE VII.

[Service of Asst. Surg. O. C. McNary.]

Andrew J. Arnett, late of Company B, Sixth Kansas Infantry.

Treatment and notes.—Has suffered less pain during the past year than at any time ice afflicted with the disease; none whatever until March 16 and 17, when he suf-ed from slight pains in both legs.

Has had no gastrointestinal troubles this year. Transient paralysis comes on now te frequently at night, and occasionally in the daytime. There is a noticeable rease in coordinating power; walks better. Examination June 30, 1896, showed change in anæsthesia; conduction delayed in right foot three seconds, leg two secds, thigh one second; left foot two seconds, leg one second, thigh immediate; knee k abolished. Electrical reaction, no change. Myosis, none. No pupillar inequal-. Light reflex, fair. Blind. No desire for sexual intercourse, and no erections. Coordination improved. There has been no change in treatment. Argent and nux mica pills continued regularly. On account of this treatment the patient's skin slightly discolored.

CASE X.

[Service of Asst. Surg. O. C. McNary.]

Almond M. Trunkey, late of Company B, Eighth Iowa Infantry.

Treatment and notes.—This patient seemed to improve rapidly in many respects up February 1. He was suffering but little pain, walked much better, no gastrotestinal crises; eyesight improved, and he was in good spirits; but on February 1 severe pain set in in legs and chest, more severe than at any time for over a year; pains are especially severe when bowels become constipated. May 3 the pains attacked the left hand and shoulder, the first noticeable invasion of the upper extremities. May 2 he suffered from a slight gastrointestinal crisis, the only one during the year. Has several times during the past year had some slight desire for sexual intercourse, and has had incomplete erections.

The treatment instituted in 1894, viz, argent phos. and nux vomica, still continued. Examination May 8, 1896, before going on furlough, showed anæsthesia about the same as at last report. Conduction delayed in right foot four seconds, leg four seconds, thigh two seconds; left foot two seconds, leg two seconds, thigh one second; upper extremities, immediate. Tendon reflex at knee, abolished. Hæmorrhoids very troublesome. No transient paralysis. No change in electrical reaction. Diplopia has not been noticed for nearly a year. No myosis. No pupillar inequality, and light reflex normal. Eyesight greatly improved. Coordination of upper extremities normal, and a slight improvement in lower extremities, but still walks with two canes. Joints have felt stiff at night for the past month or so.

Case XI.

[Services of Asst. Surg. O. C. McNary.]

Robert B. Alexander, late of Company C, Tenth Kansas Infantry.

Home number, 5495; age, 52; white; nativity, Connecticut; occupation, printer; social condition, single; admitted to the Home December 24, 1891. Disability, granular conjunctivitis, rheumatism; poorly nourished and weak. Admitted to the hospital December 3, 1895. Diagnosis, locomotor ataxia.

History preceding present disease.—Was stout and healthy before enlistment, and came through the war without injury or disease, except some disease of eyes, which, he says, was epidemic at the time among the troops.

He considered himself quite a healthy man until his present disease attacked him. Father died of apoplexy at 80 years of age. Mother died of typhoid fever at 45 years of age. Has been addicted to the use of alcohol all his life, and often greatly to excess, frequently being drunk for a week at a time. Has had gonorrhœa frequently, but denies ever having had syphilis, although there are copper-colored scars on the shins, which are very suspicious. Acknowledges excessive sexual indulgence, although not to the extreme. Has had no injury to head or back. Masterbated when a boy. Has smoked pretty much all the time.

History of present disease.—Patient first noticed in 1891 that it tired him to walk up or down stairs; soon even walking on a level tired him. About the latter part of 1891 his feet and the ends of his fingers felt benumbed.

In the spring of 1892, after coming to the Home, the lightning pains set in; first in the feet, and especially in the heels, soon extending up the legs. He thought he was simply getting old fast, and attributed it to his old fast life. Early in 1895 he noticed the loss of desire for sexual intercourse. Only last fall (1895) he noticed the difficulty in walking in the dark and the erratic movements of legs and feet, and it was on account of these late troubles and a fall in the dining room that he was brought to the hospital. He has noticed that lately, while sitting in a chair, his feet are liable to slip forward and his whole body slide off the chair. He says his feet and legs do not seem to have the proper feeling, but can not describe the feeling they have. When looking up suddenly or throwing head back, as in a barber's chair, has severe attacks of vertigo, from which he requires a few moments to recover.

Causation: Probably syphilis.

Condition on admission to Hospital, December 3, 1895.	Condition before furlough, June 4, 1896.

About the 1st of February he began to show signs of insanity. He would get up and dress at any time of the night and start out to breakfast; would sometimes do this three or four times in a night. He got over it after a couple of weeks and was all right, but about the middle of March began talking to himself and reading his paper upside down, apparently in a dream; when spoken to he would start and then recover his usual state of mind.

On the morning of April 29 he announced that he had $31,000,000 in a bank in Denver; owned a fine gold mine, where he had built four-room houses for his miners, and that these houses were decorated inside with rosewood, had rosewood furniture, and fine carpets; that he gave his men three full suits of clothes, a mining suit, a house suit, and a dress suit. He told wonderful stories of his wealth, his prowess as a hunter and marksman, etc. In fact, general paresis was fully developed. He was placed in the ward for insane, where he is steadily growing worse in body and mind.

Case XIII.

[Service of Asst. Surg. O. C. McNary.]

George Mackey, late of Company I, Fifteenth Michigan Infantry.

Home number, 8556; age, 50; white; nativity, New York; occupation, farmer; social condition, married, five children, two girls and three boys.

Admitted to the Home October 1, 1895.

Disability: Rheumatism, pains in bones, joints, and muscles, indigestion, with liver complications, has general debility, and is in a bad physical condition.

Admitted to sick report (treated at sick call) October 2, 1895.

Diagnosis: Locomotor ataxia.

History preceding present disease.—Was sound and well until the battle near Fingeton, Ga., in 1864, when he was kicked by a mule in the right side, over the liver; he thinks that was the cause of his liver trouble from which he suffered for years after. He also had chronic diarrhea in the service, and has never been a well man since.

In the fall of 1894, while working in the lead mines at Joplin, Mo., a hoisting tub fell from the top of the shaft (45 feet) and struck him on the head. He lay unconscious for eight days, and it was five months before he was able to get around. There was a large spot immediately below the occipital protuberance that was very sore for months after he was able to get around, and he could not turn his head without turning the whole body. There is no mark in this situation, but there is a ragged, irregular scar 6½ inches in length over left parietal bone, with a slight depression at its anterior extremity near the coronal suture. There are also two small scars in the right temporal region. Since this accident he can not depend on his memory, but is obliged to carry a memorandum book. He has not been able to work but a few hours at a time, and is then laid up for weeks afterwards. Father died of some bowel trouble at the age of 65, mother alive at the age of 85; one brother died of asthma; a sister with inflammation of bowels; three brothers living, all healthy. Never was a drinking man; uses tobacco in moderation; has had no venereal excesses or diseases.

The pains seemed out of the bones of the feet and legs as high as the knees. Spring of 1895 ss of lower extremities set in. number, 8813; age, 50; white; nativity, New York; occupation, barber; ndition, single; admitted to the Home March 10, 1896.

ility: General debility of long standing.

Admitted to hospital March 10, 1896.

Diagnosis: Locomotor ataxia.

History preceding present disease.—Father died of paralysis (?) at age of 46. Mother died at age of 40; cause unknown. Very little family history obtainable. Had no severe sickness before the war. Entered the Army in April, 1865, served seven months, and had no wound, injury, or disease. After the war worked as a barber and had no serious disease, he says, except gonorrhea about a dozen times. While going home from a party was nearly frozen. Was greatly excessive in venery from the age of 18 to 42 years.

History of present disease.—In the year 1889 pains set in in the feet, legs, and occasionally in the thighs, lightning in character, and the attacks would last about twelve hours. About the same time lost all desire for sexual intercourse and the ability to perform the same. In 1890 he found he could not stand steadily with closed eyes, and could only with great difficulty walk in the dark. In 1892 he began having the girth-like feeling around chest and abdomen, and soon after the lightning pains in abdomen. Has walked with a staggering gait since the pains first commenced in 1889. All these symptoms have been increasing slowly in severity.

Causation: Excessive venery.

Condition on admission to hospital, March 10, 1896.	Condition on examination, June 30, 1896.
Suffers pain almost constantly in legs and back of a lightning character, but the pains he complains mostly of are the girth-like pains of chest and abdomen.	Pain in feet and legs has steadily grown less since under treatment, and he has been free from pain in these members for several days. The girth pains are about as usual, and he suffers to-day severely with lightning pains radiating from the spine around the body on either side, the left being the most severe. The area involved is from the sacrum and ilium below to the sixth dorsal vertebra and rib above.

NORTHWESTERN BRANCH.

LOCOMOTOR ATAXIA.

CASE I.

[Services of Asst. Surg. A. Ivins Comfort.]

Daniel Graybill, late of Company I, Thirteenth Ohio Volunteer Infantry; age, 54 years; nativity, Pennsylvania; widower; occupation, photographer; enlisted in April, 1861; discharged in April, 1864, by reason of expiration of term of service.

In childhood he contracted mumps, rubeola, and varicella, and for three years he suffered with tubercular adenitis, affecting the left cervical glands, which arrested physical development for that period. In the autumn of 1862 he contracted rheumatic arthritis, for which he was under treatment in hospital for a period of three months. At the battle of Murfreesboro he was taken prisoner and two weeks later lodged in Libby Prison, suffering great hardships and privations in the meantime. At Libby Prison he contracted a fever of low type, and was reduced in weight by disease and starvation to 90 pounds, when he was paroled and sent to hospital at Annapolis, Md. He never had epilepsy. He never suffered sunstroke. He never received a blow or other injury upon the head. He denies ever having had syphilis, though he admits having contracted gonorrhea.

Motor symptoms.—Two and a half years since he discovered that he could not ascend a flight of stairs without the support of the hand rail; neither could he descend the same without that support. For the same time he has been unable to stoop forward and pick up an object from the floor. With his eyes closed he is unable to touch his nose or the lobe of his ear with the tip of his finger; neither with his eyes closed can he touch any specified part of his body.

June 15, 1896.—He can now without difficulty or delay touch with his finger the end of his nose, the lobe of his ear, his lower lip, or any specified part of his person, with his eyes closed, showing a very marked improvement in coordinative action of the upper extremities since October 15, 1895. He experiences a twitching or tremor of the muscles of the legs and feet, and also cramps of the same, and recently a twitching of the muscles of the hand and forearms have been noticed by him. No atrophy of any individual muscle or muscular group is apparent. There are no bed sores or ulcerations or cutaneous eruptions of any kind. The features are slightly asymmetric in consequence of the existence of a left hemiplegia. The patient with his eyes closed is unable to sit erect on a stool without swaying his body, showing that the muscles of the trunk are involved.

June 15, 1896.—He can now, with his eyes closed, sit erect upon a stool without swaying his body, showing marked improvement in the coordinative action of the muscles of the trunk since October 15, 1895.

October 15, 1895.—The Romberg symptom is well marked, as the patient can not stand with his eyes closed without swaying his body or falling. In walking he can not stop or start quickly at the word of command without falling. He can not walk in the dark.

June 15, 1896.—The mild hemiplegia of October 15, 1895, has now quite disappeared, and a marked paraplegia is established, so that the patient can neither stand nor walk, and the lower extremities are useless for the purposes of progression. He is provided with a wheel chair for the purposes of locomotion.

June 15, 1896.—Dynamometric grasp of the hand is 90° on a scale of 160°, indicating a loss by disease of 43.7° per cent of normal personal energy, though there has been a slight gain in the dynamometric grasp of the hand since October 15, 1895.

Sensory symptoms—October 15, 1895.—The patient experiences a peculiar morbid sensation at times from the hips down, analogous to that imparted by an electric current, though it is devoid of, or unattended with, the excitation of muscular action. It is sometimes general, at other times circumscribed or local. At times he feels a slight sensation as if pricked with pins or needles. He feels as if he were walking on a cushion of wool or cotton; also feels as if he were sitting on a cotton or wool cushion.

October 15, 1895.—The patient is free from girdle pains, though his feet and the lower half of his legs experience a sensation of being incased in firm iron bands or incasements, hot and compressing.

June 15, 1896.—The patient now experiences a sense of constriction or cincture pains of the chest. Sensation of the feet and lower half of the legs is delayed from one to two seconds. Lancinating pains are confined chiefly to the feet and legs, though they are sometimes felt in the thighs.

October 15, 1895.—No local anæsthesia, hyperæsthesia, or hyperalgesia is anywhere perceptible.

June 15, 1896.—He experiences hyperalgesia in the anterior aspect of the thorax from the xyphoid cartilage to the manubrio-gladial, extending 6 inches each side of the median line.

October 15, 1895.—With his eyes closed, the patient can readily detect any part of the body touched. With his eyes closed, he is unable to locate his feet, and on waking in the morning he is unable to tell where they are without removing the blankets and looking for them. The sensation of heat and cold is readily distinguished and its conduction undelayed. The touch of a cold object or the impressions of cold are painful. Sensation other than that of cold or heat below the knee is delayed from two to five seconds; above the knee conduction is normal. Two points of the æsthesiometer 8 centimeters apart when applied below the knee are regarded as one.

Eyes—October 15, 1895.—The muscles of the eyes are not free from paresis. The pupils contract to light and accommodation. The contraction of the right pupil is more tardy than the left. The patient suffers with diplopia, to avoid which the left eye is constantly closed, particularly in reading. A penholder 10 feet distant appears as two objects 2 feet apart; the one on the right is from the normal eye and is more distinct in definition. In looking at the electric light (incandescent) two lights are visible; the one on the right is apparently normal, the one on the left emits a dull, cherry-red light.

June 15, 1896.—He still suffers with diplopia, but the apparent two lights of an electric burner now appear to glow with the same degree of intensity, a natural white light, and a homonymous or crossed diplopia of 13° is the result of paresis of the external recti.

A left hyperphoria or verticle diplopia of 8° also exists. With either eye he can read Snellen's test type No. 5 at a distance of 8 feet. The pupils are large and their reaction to light very good. The optic nerves are whitish. He is free from mystagamus and discriminates color readily and accurately.

Crises.—The patient appears to be free from cardiac, pulmonic, and laryngeal crises; so also from bladder and rectal crises; he is subject, however, to attacks of impaired digestion and gastric neurosis. In boyhood he was subject to protracted attacks of migraine. He experiences no difficulty in urination, and is free from precipitate urination. Constipation is a chronic and most persistent habit. The knee jerk is abolished, though the superficial reflexes remain unobtunded.

Mental condition.—Cerebration is not in the least impaired and intellection is as clear, active, and vigorous as in the prime of life.

Causation.—Hardships and exposure incident to the service during the late civil war, together with disease and starvation while confined in Libby Prison, may be regarded as the potent factors in the origin of the disease. Alcoholism, syphilis, and traumatism in this case may be justly eliminated from its causation.

Treatment.—The treatment has been diatetic, hygienic, and symptomatic; for the lancinating pains phenacetine has been prescribed as required. Potassium iodide in gradually increasing doses has been administered until the system became intolerant to it, when it has been interrupted and the hypophosphite of lime and soda with strychnia substituted for it until it was again resumed.

CASE II.

Elias J. Shaw, late sergeant of Company G, Twenty-third Illinois Infantry. (Continued from last report.)

The patient was discharged from the hospital May 9, 1895, at his own request, and readmitted August 11, 1895, suffering with an acute attack of gastroenteric catarrh, which promptly yielded to treatment by the administration of salol and subnitrate of bismuth, with opium and aromatics. Since his readmission to hospital he has declined all medical treatment addressed to his tabetic or ataxic condition, except such aperient or cathartic remedies as have been prescribed for the relief of the obstinate and persistent constipation, with which he suffers.

The present year has been passed in the enjoyment of a comparatively comfortable degree of health, except for the consciousness of a marked decline of physical strength, which may be attributed to a muscular metamorphosis or atrophy, incident to the disease.

Symptoms June 30, 1895.

The patient experiences a twitching sensation in the calves of the legs and the thighs with shooting pains. He also feels a twitching in the forearm and arms.

Symptoms June 30, 1896.

He now seldom feels twitching or shooting pains, but in their stead he experiences a sensation of increasing and distressing weakness.

Case IV.

[Services of Asst. Surg. A. Ivins Comfort.]

Albert B. Kidder, late sergeant of Company B, First Regiment New York Volunteer Infantry; age, 56 years; widower; occupation, locomotive engineer; nativity, New York State; served as an enlisted man from August, 1862, to June, 1865.

As a soldier he suffered the hardships, privations, and exposures of the arduous campaigns of the Army of the Potomac from 1862 to 1865. As a railroad engineer for thirty years he developed a spinal neurosis, known as the "engineer's spine or railroad rheumatism," generally attributed to the slight but incessant jarring of an engine in motion. Twice he was caught in a railroad collision, and saved himself by jumping from the engine while in motion, suffering in both instances a severe concussion by the combined force of the descent from and the momentum of the engine. He has always been addicted to the use of alcoholic beverages, and occasionally to excess. He contracted gonorrhea on two occasions, and on one occasion he suffered with gonorrheal orchitis, but he denies ever having had syphilis. He is addicted to the use of tobacco; is an inveterate smoker, though he has not chewed the pernicious weed for years. He has never had convulsions, epileptic or otherwise; he suffered an attack of sunstroke in 1885.

Motor symptoms.—January 2, 1896.—Since March, 1895, he has been unable to ascend or descend a flight of stairs without the aid of the hand rail. He is unable to stand with his eyes closed without falling. Five months since he discovered that he was unable to walk in the dark; he is unable to walk on a narrow plank; for two years past he has been unable to stoop to pick up an object; he can not march at the word of command—starting or stopping instantly—without falling; he can not for an ant stand on one foot. He can not sit erect upon a stool with his eyes closed iout swaying his body or falling, showing that the muscles of the trunk are olved. The muscles of the face are not involved.

ptember 9, 1895.—The upper extremities are apparently free from incoordinate on, though on June 30, 1896, incoordination of the lower extremities was well ked and has become aggravated to a marked degree since admission to hospital
:ember 1, 1895. Cramps and tremors are experienced in the several muscles. He ee from atrophy of any individual muscle or from any group or system of muscles.
s free from bedsores or ulcerations.

ynamometric test.—The dynamometric grasp of the hand is 80° on a scale of 160°, cating a loss by disease of 50 per cent of normal personal energy.

nsory symptoms.—September 1, 1895.—The patient experiences the sensation of ants ediculi crawling on his skin, particularly between the shoulders. He experi-s the sensation in the soles of his feet as if pricked by pins or needles, and also riences the sensation of walking on cushions or having pads under the soles of feet, particularly in the morning. There is no sensation of constriction around waist; no cincture pains are experienced.

ne 20, 1896.—Constriction or cincture pains are now experienced around the
it. Sensation not delayed, through the two bulb points of the æsthesiometer, 6 imeters distant from each other, are regarded as one when applied to the surface w the knees. He has shooting pains in the feet and legs, sudden and atrocious.
re is no local hyperæsthesia. The feet and the legs below the knees are somet anæsthetic, or in other words, cutaneous sensation is obtunded, and in one or localities the skin is quite anæsthetic. The acute points of the æsthesiometer, 6 imeters apart, are promptly recognized as two, when applied to any part of the ace of the body, showing the normal acuteness algesic sensation undelayed.
h his eyes closed the patient can locate any point touched on the body. He ily distinguishes heat and cold, and their conduction is not delayed.

ies.—The pupils are small and their reaction to light slow. The optic nerve is e and atrophied. There is a tendency of the visual axes to converge, and they naintained parallel only by muscular action. About eight years since he discovthat he was color-blind, and on that account he was dismissed as a locomotive neer from the employment of the Wabash Railroad. While in the employ of the pany he could readily and accurately distinguish red from other colors at night, gh blue and green to him were alike, so also were white and yellow.

ne 15, 1896.—By ordinary sunlight he has to-day readily distinguished with racy twenty test colors, but by a dim artificial light or twilight was able to nguish red, while he was unable to discriminate between other colors whose ous shades were readily detected by other observers.

ises.—The patient is not subject to crises of any character, viz, gastric, cardiac, ngeal, nephritic, or rectal, though he suffers with habitual constipation. He not suffer with precipitate urination, nor does he experience any difficulty in ating.

iscellaneous.—The knee jerk is exaggerated, and the superficial reflexes are aptly responsive to their appropriate tests. The middle and lower third of the and the feet are the seat of a hydrous œdema, though not profuse. The patient ite free from herpetic eruption or ulceration upon the feet and elsewhere.

ental condition.—The intellectual faculties are not in the least impaired, and llection is as clear and vigorous as in the prime of life. There are no joint tions, deformities, or fractures.

iusation.—The origin of the disease in this case may be attributed to hardship, ation, and exposure as an enlisted man for nearly three years in the Army of the mac; to the development of spinal neurosis, "engineer's spine," by the inces-jarring of the locomotive; to spinal concussion contracted by jumping from the ine twice, while in motion, to avoid being caught in a collision; or to sunstroke which he was attacked in 1885.

reatment.—The treatment has been hygienic, dietetic, expectant, and symptomatic, h rest, alternated with moderate exercise. A saturated solution of the iodide of assium, in steadily increasing doses, has been administered almost continuously e his admission into hospital. This has been suspended from time to time, how-r, in the event of the appearance of the symptoms of iodinism, and the treatment rrupted, or the hypophosphite of lime and soda with iron and strychnia has been stituted for it. He is at present taking the chloride of gold and sodium.

CASE V.

[Services of Asst. Surg. A. Ivins Comfort.]

John Purcell, late private of Company D, Third New York Heavy Artillery. (Continued from last report.)

Causation.—The origin of this case of locomotor ataxia may be attributed to the concussion of the spinal cord, contracted, with the severe sprain received in 1862, while lifting a cannon, by the sudden jar of which he was thrown forcibly, face downward, upon the ground, after which he suffered with what was supposed to be chronic rheumatism; or it may be attributed to hardship and exposure incident to the service as an enlisted man during the war of the rebellion; or it may be attributed to sunstroke. The disease may have existed in its preataxic stage until four years ago, when incoordination was developed. The following may be enumerated as intercurrent diseases: Cardiac dilatation with auriculo-ventricular incompetency, cardiac dropsy, prostatic hypertrophy, and chronic cystitis. The specific gravity of his urine was usually 1005, its reaction alkaline, and it was devoid of albumen and sugar. He suffered with precipitate urination, and was unable to completely evacuate the bladder.

July 20, 1895.—For the sudden, severe, and wandering, shooting pains, phenacetine in 0.65-gram doses, repeated at short intervals, affords the most prompt relief.

August 9.—The iodide of potassium in gradually increasing doses is administered until commencing iodinism is produced, when it is discontinued, and subsequently resumed.

September 11, 1895.—Nausea and vomiting are relieved by 1-gram doses of subnitrate of bismuth, combined with carbolic acid in 6-centigram doses administered in mucilage of acacia.

December 5, 1895.—Magnesium sulphate with potassium tartrate have been prescribed for the hydrous œdema of the lower extremities, and at the same time it has relieved the obstinate and persistent constipation with which the patient has suffered. For the diseased "leaky" heart the tinctures of strophanthus, digitalis, and nux vomica with glonoin have been prescribed, and usually with marked benefit.

December 31, 1895.—The temperature of the patient to-day is 102 degrees, though his condition has usually been afebrile throughout the disease. His pulse rate is 108 and his respiration rate 28 per minute. Physical signs demonstrate the existence of pulmonic œdema, and the accelerated superficial respiration confirms the diagnosis; a diagnosis, the pathological sequence of a dilated heart with auriculo-ventricular incompetency.

January 1, 1896.—He has for two days past suffered with anorexia and a colliquative diarrhea, the result of an attack of acute coloenteritis, which has resisted all treatment, and prostrated the patient's condition to one of extreme exhaustion.

At 4 a. m., January 2, 1896, John Purcell died. A necropsy could not be obtained.

CASE VI.

[Services of Asst. Surg. A. Ivins Comfort.]

Franklin S. Baughman, late of Company C, Eighth Ohio Cavalry; native of Ohio; married; occupation, locomotive engineer; enlisted in August, 1862; veteranized January 5, 1864; mustered out of the service in June, 1865.

The health of this man prior to enlistment was excellent. He enjoyed excellent health during the entire period of enlistment until February, 1865, while making his escape, as a prisoner of war, he contracted frostbite of the feet, from which he was disabled for the balance of his enlistment, a period of a little more than four months. From early infancy until 12 years of age he suffered from a scaly, cutaneous eruption. A younger sister suffered, also, with a similar disease. Neither of the parents nor their other children, twelve in number, were similarily afflicted. The patient's father lived to be 80 years of age, and died of paralysis; his mother is still living at the age of 94 years. His children were free from disease of every character. He contracted gonorrhœa in 1872, from which he suffered not longer than ten days. He effected his escape from the rebels by leaping over a precipice 25 feet in height, receiving a temporary shock by the fall, after which he traveled on foot nearly forty-eight hours exposed to intense cold and without food. In the spring of 1870 he leaped from a locomotive, while in motion at full speed, to avoid a collision, and suffered a severe sprain in the back. He never had convulsions. He never suffered a sunstroke. He never received an injury or blow upon the head.

Motor symptoms.—Two and a half years since he realized his inability to rise from his bed and walk in the dark; at that time he also realized that he could not walk upon a straight line. Three months later he found that he could not ascend or descend a flight of stairs without the support of the hand rail. Two and a half years since he found that he could not stand erect with his eyes closed without swaying his body. The knee jerk is abolished. Two and a half years since he realized his inability to touch the lobe of his ear or the end of his nose with his finger, with his eyes closed, when directed to do so by a physician. Nine months since, January 6, he experienced cramps in the legs. Six months since, April 6, he began to experience twitchings of the muscles of the entire arms and shoulders. There is no noticeable atrophy of any individual muscle or of any muscular group, though a destructive tissue metamorphosis must have existed, inasmuch as the patient has sustained a loss of 26 pounds. The patient is free from bed sores or other ulcerations. The facial muscles are not involved. The muscles of the trunk are involved. The patient is unable to sit erect on a stool with his eyes closed without swaying his body. Dynamometric grasp of the hand is 45° on a scale of 160°, representing 45 kilograms of normal prehensile energy.

Sensory symptoms.—He does not experience the sensation of ants or pediculi crawling over his skin, nor that of pins or needles pricking him. He feels as if he was walking on velvet or cushions, or experiences a slight burning sensation in the soles of his feet. He experiences girdle pains around the waist. Sensation is delayed one and one-half seconds. There is anæsthesia of the soles of the feet. Even during the intense heat of summer he experiences the sensation of cold in his feet and legs; so, also, at all other times. This has been the case for fourteen months. These parts feel cold to the touch also. There is a hydrousœdema of the feet and legs. There is no local hyperæsthesia. He can, with his eyes closed, locate any part of the body touched. In the soles of the feet he is wholly unable to distinguish heat and cold, but elsewhere in the feet and in the legs he can, after some delay and great uncertainty, distinguish between them; elsewhere the discrimination is prompt and accurate. The electro-excitability is impaired from the knees downward; it is abolished in the soles of the feet; it is abolished, also, in the posterior aspect of the trunk from the crests of the ilii to the spines of the scapulæ. Elsewhere in the body it appears to be normal. A local anæsthesia is found in the dorsum of the trunk from the ilii to the scapulæ.

Eyes.—The muscles of the eyes are free from paralysis. Of the pupils there is neither mydriasis nor myosis. They contract to light and accommodation. The discrimination of colors on the part of the patient is very prompt and accurate.

Crises.—The stomach, bladder, rectum, heart, lungs, and larynx are free from crises, though the patient has been subject to a chronic diarrhea since his discharge from the Army in 1865, and there is slight difficulty in urinating, or rather a delay in the commencement of the act.

Miscellaneous.—The knee jerk and the plantar reflex are abolished; other superficial reflexes are normal. There is usually a hydorous œdema of the feet and legs, and the left kneejoint is at times greatly swollen, which is believed to be due to a synovitis. He is free from herpes or ulceration of toes or feet.

Mental condition.—Intellection is clear and vigorous, though intense mental application is attended with an occipital headache; e. g., when required to touch his lip, his nose, or the lobe of his ear with his forefinger, to test coordinate action, an occipital headache was developed; also in testing the sensitiveness of the pupil to light and accommodation an occipital headache was developed, and in both instances a copious perspiration was excited over the entire face and head, and especially the forehead, while a glow (of perspiration) was experienced over the body.

Causation.—The origin of the disease in this case may be attributed, first, to hardship and exposure incident to the service as an enlisted man during the rebellion; second, to spinal concussion contracted by leaping from a precipice 25 feet in height in order to effect his escape from a rebel guard; third, to shock and concussion caused by leaping from a locomotive while running at full speed, or to the incessant jar of an engine in motion, developing "engineer's spine or railroad rheumatism;" fourth, the disease most probably had its origin in hereditary syphilis, of which the squamous cutaneous eruption with which he suffered until he was 12 years of age was a form. As the mineral baths of the Hot Springs, Ark., have proved highly beneficial in this case conjoined with the administration of the iodide of potassium in heroic doses, and as these remedies are universally resorted to with success in the treatment of constitutional syphilis, it follows as a logical conclusion, that the causation of the disease in this case is hereditary syphilis.

Treatment.—A saturated solution of iodide of potassium in gradually increasing doses was administered thrice daily to the patient, until a maxium of 100 drops was reached; this was continued until symptoms of intolerance became apparent, when it was interrupted for a short time and subsequently resumed. On October 3, 1895, he obtained a furlough, visited Hot Springs, Ark., and availed himself of treatment by mineral baths, and with very marked benefit, for when he was readmitted to hospital, December 3, 1895, he was very much improved in general health and appearance, the treatment by the administration of iodide of potassium in gradually increasing doses having been continued during the entire period of his absence. From December 5 to March 1, Franklin Baughman remained under treatment in the hospital, when he was employed in the capacity of night watchman and nurse till July 1, when he was transferred to the Marion Branch of the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers.

ANEURISM.

CASE VII.

[Services of Asst. Surg. A. Ivins Comfort.]

Obediah McCreery, late of Company D, Twenty-second Pennsylvania Infantry; admitted to Northwestern Branch of the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers March 4, 1890; age, 45; disability, shell wound of head and rheumatism; social condition, bachelor.

On March 23, 1892, after a rigid examination by a medical board appointed for the purpose, he was declared capable of earning a livelihood by manual labor and ordered by the Board of Managers to be discharged from the Home. He was readmitted to the Western Branch July 23, 1893, and at once placed under treatment in hospital; diagnosis, aneurism of the arch of the aorta and muscular rheumatism. While in hospital at the Western Branch of the National Home he was under the observation and treatment of Asst. Surg. O. C. McNary, who has written the following report of the case (vide report of Gen. William W. Averell, U. S. A., assistant inspector-general National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers, p. 227, November 30, 1894):

"The patient, up to 1881, was a stout, healthy man; in that year he was thrown by a horse and lay unconscious for two days, and was partially paralyzed (in whole body) for two months. After this he worked hard for nine years. In July, 1891, was attacked by what physicians said was muscular rheumatism. Syphilis denied, and there is nothing to indicate that he ever had the disease. He came to the Home on account of this rheumatism, and on examination by me the aneurism was discovered, a pulsating tumor, but slightly bulging the second and third intercostal spaces of the right side next the sternum. On auscultation there was heard a slight, hardly detectable bruit, with rough breathing. Percussion not employed. Deglutition is not affected, but the act causes a tickling sensation and cough. The cough is aggravated and dyspnœa produced by the supine position. It evidently presses upon the descending vena cava, as he is always considerably cyanosed, and he has the feeling of congestion in the head. His pulse is 78; respiration 20.

Causation.—Probably the injury received in 1881 by being thrown from a horse.

Treatment.—Potassium of iodide in steadily increasing doses with tr. verat. viride as required, to regulate and control heart's action, a low diet, a quiet life, and the recumbent position to be maintained as much as possible. Examination June 30, 1894, shows no apparent change in patient's condition.

He has lived quietly and comfortably in the hospital; suffers none, and in fact says he is feeling well and hearty.

Having taken his discharge from the Western Branch of the National Home at Leavenworth, Kans., he was readmitted to the Northwestern Branch at Milwaukee, Wis., and on June 30, 1895, admitted to the hospital. On admission his temperature was normal; his respiration and pulse rate slightly accelerated. Increased cardiac action and a painful dyspnœa were produced upon the slightest exertion. A pulsating tumor, rather less in size than half a small orange, has established itself, by erosion, through the sternum above the manubrio-ghadial articulation; it is now symmetrically located in the median line, which divides it into two equal sections, though it is described, on July 25, 1893, by Asst. Surg. O. C. McNary, as "a pulsating tumor but slightly bulging the second and third intercostal spaces of the right side, next the sternum." The patient having been a long time inured to the injection of iodide of potassium in large doses, was directed to take a teaspoonful of the saturated solution in water three times a day, and at the same time five drops of the tincture of aconite were administered every three hours, with direction to increase the dose sufficiently to control the action of the heart and relax arterial tension. In addition to this treatment, a restricted diet was prescribed for the patient and absolute rest, mental as well as physical; so far as practical, reclining upon the right or left side was enjoined upon him. Dorsal decubitus was attended with cyanosis and a sense of suffocation. Voice modifications and stridulous respirations were absent, while deglutition was but slightly, if at all, impaired. The aneurismal bruit was well marked and the diagnosis rendered certain.

October 28, 1895.—The patient's condition is afebrile, his respiration rate is 21 per minute, while his pulse rate is 81, with low arterial tension. He has now become impatient of restraint, and insists upon ascending flights of stairs, climbing hills, and roaming at will upon the Home grounds, notwithstanding he has been admonished of the danger of such a course of conduct, and is well aware of the rapid growth of the tumor and the fatal consequence of its rupture.

November 10.—The patient's movements are slow, his step unassured, his carriage guarded, his figure stooping, and his pulse indicative of low arterial tension; the tumor has developed rapidly within the last four months, having now attained the size of a half a cocoanut. Notwithstanding the enormous size of the aneurism, ie patient's suffering from intrathoracic pressure is very slight, so also his dyspnœa, ıd he is still free from dysphagia, respiratory stridor, alteration of voice, ascites, ıd œdema of the feet and legs, showing that the inferior vena cava has been free om pressure, or nearly so.

November 18.—The patient complains of pain in the left side, and physical signs veal the existence of pleurisy.

November 24.—The patient had an attack of syncope during the night with intense ıin, and a medical officer was called to administer to his relief, and absolute rest as enjoined upon him. At 9 a. m. he is comfortable, comparatively, reclining upon s right side when visited by the medical officer in attendance, who again enjoined ›on him absolute rest in a reclining position. Disregarding this injunction and set-ıg at naught the protests of the trained nurse on duty in the ward, he arose from s cot at 10.30 a. m., walked across the ward, and returned; was jesting and laugh-g heartily at one of his comrades, when he was seized with an attack of syncope ıd sank unconscious upon his cot. A comrade who stood near by, having heard him ›y previously on various occasions that pressure upon the tumor afforded him relief, ›plied one hand to the tumor and pressed upon it with all his force and with fatal ›sult, for after gasping for breath he died at 10.35 a. m., November 24, 1895.

Necropsy twenty-nine hours after death.—Rigor mortis well established; facial aspect ıat of restful composure; body well nourished.

The integument, which was extremely thin over the tumor, was dissected off; ıe subcutaneous cellular tissue had been quite absorbed from pressure effects. 'ith the integument dissected off, the tumor external to the sternum measured in ıe median line 10 cm., its transverse diameter measured at right angles to the ›rmer 8 cm., while it projected anterior to the sternum 5 cm. The sternum and ›stal cartilages were removed intact, with the thoracic viscera attached. The left leural cavity was found to contain more than a liter of a pale, straw-colored serum. 'he longitudinal diameter of the aneurismal tumor within the thorax measured ›arallel to the median line 22.8 cm., its anterior-posterior diameter, including the ›ortion projecting in front of the sternum, was 20.3 cm., and its transverse diameter within the thorax was 17.7 cm. The aneurismal tumor had its origin in the ascend-ing portion of the arch of the aorta and was confined almost exclusively to it, scarcely involving the transverse portion, if at all. The bodies of the vertebræ had not suf-fered erosion from pressure effects. The sternum, on the contrary, had undergone complete destruction by erosion from the first to the third intercostal space, and the second and third cartilages were attached only to the ribs, while the pectoralis major muscles apparently took their origin from the tumor itself. The extra thoracic portion of the aneurism was well filled with "active clot" while intrathoracic por-tion was devoid of it. The wall of the aneurismal sack was a pliant, somewhat elastic, coriaceous membrane, a little less than 1 centimeter in thickness, which had ruptured into the pericardium, thereby discharging into it 200 cubic centimeters of blood, which, at the necropsy, had separated into a thin fibrinous delicate mem-brane, partially investing the heart on the one hand, and a thick, dark-colored mass of coagulum on the other.—(Read before the Milwaukee Medical Society.)

ANEURISM.

Case VIII.

[Service of Asst. Surg. A. Ivins Comfort.]

Anthony Benedict, late private of Company C, Twenty-fifth Regiment New York Volunteers; admitted to hospital July 18, 1895.

Diagnosis: Undetermined.

His temperature on admission was 99°, his pulse rate was 80, and his respiration was 20 per minute. His urine was practically normal. An injection of 3 centigrams of the sulphate of morphia was administered hypodermically at bedtime, and in con-sequence of the intensity of his suffering he was obliged to relinquish his avocation prior to admission in hospital. The case was regarded as one of rheumatoid-neurosis, for which salicylic acid in 5-grain capsules was administered at frequent intervals. In July, 1894, he was acting in the capacity of coachman, and was often heard to complain of a severe pain in his back, which was greatly relieved by firm pressure over the upper dorsal vertebræ and to the left of them. In April, 1895, pain of a most aggravated character manifested itself in the same locality, and extended over the left shoulder and beneath the left clavical, and in the region of the scapula, deep seated and anterior to it. It also invaded the entire left thoracic wall, and particu-larly the region of the heart. He was often heard to exclaim that he felt as if his "old heart would burst." On July 20, for anorexia with gastric irritability the fol-lowing was prescribed: Take acidi carbolici 0.30 gm., bismuthi subnitrate 8.00 gm., mucilaginis acacia 30.00 gm., aquæ menthæ piperitæ q. s. ad 120.00 gm., m. sig., take a tablespoonful every three hours.

July 22.—The case being still regarded as a rheumatoid-neurosis, the following is prescribed, ℞ acidi salicylici 4.00 gm., phænacetine 4.00 gm., in capsules No. XLV iij dispens. Signæ. Take two every three hours.

July 24.—For the relief of the pain, a dozen wet cups were applied to the left anterior and posterior wall of the thorax, particularly near the shoulder, which afforded great relief to the patient.

July 26.—Hot fomentations were applied to the left shoulder and thorax and changed every half hour.

July 28.—Since the 20th there has been observed the expectoration of a glary bronchial mucus, occasionally streaked with blood. Bronchial respiration is heard over the anterior aspect of the chest beneath the left clavicle, indicating a solidification of the upper lobe of the left lung. Well-marked percussion dullness is elicited from the entire posterior surface of the left half of the thorax, and the case is diagnosticated as one of lobular pneumonia.

July 29.—Upon turning the patient upon the right side, an ounce or more of clear, bright red, now frothy blood was expectorated without coughing, which ceased upon the patient's being returned to the dorso-recumbent posture in bed. ℞ acidi gallici 4 gm., in chart No. III divid. Sig. Take one powder when required to arrest the hemorrhage. R. tincture aconiti 30.00 gm., S. Take 5 drops in water every three hours. July 30, while sitting erect upon the side of his bed, he was suddenly attacked with syncope, fell back upon his pillow, gasped, and died at 6 p. m.

Autopsy.—Autopsy was held twenty-four hours after death. Rigor mortis well established; body well nourished. The thorax was opened and the thoracic viscera were observed in situ. The pericardial fluid was apparently normal as to quantity and general appearance. Heart's action ceased in systole. As regards size and general appearance, the heart was normal; so also its valves. The left pleural cavity contained 2 liters of blood. The upper lobe and the posterior aspect of the lower lobe of the left lung were in a state of complete splenization. Upon the removal of the left lung a sacculated aneurism of the descending portion of the arch of the aorta, a little more than one-third larger in size than a hen's egg, was found by its rupture to have been the cause of his death. This pathological condition of the arch of the aorta must have existed prior to July, 1894, when the patient was heard to complain so often and so piteously of what is now believed to have been the pressure effects of aneurism, from which firm pressure upon the back and particularly over the spine afforded at least partial relief. He must have been suffering from the pressure effects of aneurism in April, 1895. When suffering with a dull, grinding pain, of an aggravated character, he was heard to say that he felt as if his "old heart would burst." Of how long it existed prior to the above dates we have no history.

The lower and posterior aspect of the right lung was also in a condition of splenization, but not to so marked degree as the left. In view of the fact that his condition, except on one or two occasions since admission to hospital, has been febrile, and that his pulse rate has been normal, or only slightly accelerated, and that his respiration rate on admission to hospital was normal, and that prior to death it has been gradually increased to 36 per minute, this pulmonic consolidation should be regarded as a case of œdema of the lungs rather than a case of lobular pneumonia, i. e., an œdema of the lungs the result of pressure of the aneurismal sack upon the root of the left lung with its included artery and veins. The left side of the bodies of the third and fourth dorsal vertebræ had suffered erosion from the pressure effects of the aneurismal sack to a very marked degree; so also their corresponding ribs in juxtaposition. The intervertebral cartilage, between the bodies of the third and fourth dorsal vertebræ, had been so completely absorbed that the finger could be introduced between the bodies of these vertebræ to the depth of 2 centimeters. The compression of the intercostal nerves against the bone explains the pain experienced by the patient in the back and chest and radiating from the spine around the left side. The pressure of the aneurismal sack upon the left bronchus explains the peculiar bronchial expectoration streaked with blood.

Several layers of firm laminated fibrin, constituting what is known in pathology as the "active clot," were obtained from the aneurismal sack. The connection between these layers of fibrin and the wall of the sack appeared to be simply one of contact, or, in other words, the "active clot" was free from attachment to the sack wall. The patient, prior to admission to hospital, had been under the observation and treatment of one of the ablest diagnosticians of the Wisconsin State Medical Society, a physician of eminence and standing in the profession, and yet the presence of an aneurism was not even suspected. Although the patient was under the daily observation of the writer of these lines for a period of twelve days prior to death aneurism was not diagnosticated, for the following reasons: First, an aneurism of the descending portion of the arch of the aorta occurs very rarely, as compared with one of the ascending or transverse portion. Second, there was in this ase, as is usual with aneurisms of the descending portion of the arch, an entire bsence of physical signs. Third, the only sympton of aneurism in this case was hat of intrathoracic pressure, as evinced by pain in the back and left thoracic wall, ut it was utterly impossible to determine the character of the lesion producing the ain, which, in this instance, was believed to emanate from an obscure neurosis. he bruit, usually so readily detected in aneurisms of ascending or transverse por-ons of the arch of the aorta, was latent in this instance, owing to the relation of ie roots of the lungs anteriorly, and the spinal vertebræ and thick thoracic walls, osteriorly, a relation which also effectually concealed the tumor. In this case iere was, to gross appearances, no evidence of the existence of causes producing ieurisms, such as atheroma, arteriosclerosis, or endarteritis; there was no history f syphilis or alcoholism, either acute or chronic. There could not well exist in the escending portion of the arch of the aorta such symptoms as dyspnœa, dysphagial, ltered voice, or respiratory stridor, so often observed in aneurisms of other portions f the arch of the aorta. This case is instructive, inasmuch as it illustrates the fact) liable to occur in aneurisms, unless a necropsy is obtained, that the true patho-ogical condition is interred with the corpse, unnamed; and if, perchance, the cadaver nder the scalpel reveal its secrets in the post-mortem chamber, pathologists report heir successes, rarely their failures.—(Read before the Milwaukee Medical Society.)

CARCINOMA OF THE PYLORUS.

Case IX.

[Services of Assist. Surg. A. Ivins Comfort.]

Charles Kaiser, late of Company D, Eighth Maryland Infantry; age, 66 years; ocial condition, bachelor.

Admitted to the hospital February 7, 1896.

The temperature of this man on admission was 97.2°, pulse rate 80, and his respi-ration rate 21 per minute. The specific gravity of his urine was 1030, its color a dark yellow, reaction was acid, its quantity moderate, and it was devoid of albumen and sugar. He was emaciated, inanimate, feeble, and devoid of physical energy. His complexion was of a slightly jaundiced hue, or the "buckwheat-cake" color of the older medical writers. He had been attending surgeon's call for only a few weeks prior to admission to hospital, with symptoms so obscure that he was not suspected even of having dyspepsia, and the case was diagnosticated hepatitis. A suitable special diet was ordered for the patient and the following was prescribed: R. hydra-argyri chloride 0.50 gm., sodii bicarbonatis 1.00 gm., M. Sig. Take at 8 p. m.; the same to be followed by a mild saline cathartic on the following morning if required.

February 14.—A tumor is now observed in the epigastrium, midway between the umbilicus and the ensiform cartilage. On palpation it appears to be as large as a hen's egg; its position is changeable; it is oblong, and its longitudinal axis is directed from the left hypochondrium to the right ilium. A tumor of this character in the epigastrium is almost pathognomonic of gastric carcinoma, even though the corrob-orative symptoms are few and meager, as given above. The patient is devoid of pain in the tumor, and it was not painful on palpation. Progressive anæmia and pro-gressive emaciation are most marked and unmistakable. The bowels are constipated, and the patient suffers frequent attacks of vomiting, particularly about an hour after meals.

February 24.—He now refuses food, but is extremely eager for water, either alone or containing a moderate amount of whisky with ice. His stomach tolerates abso-lutely nothing, so that rectal alimentation is resorted to in order to prolong life.

February 29.—Bedsores are making their appearance over the sacrum and left trochanter major, the result of the extreme emaciation of the patient, but their development is arrested by treatment.

March 6.—The condition of the patient has been afebrile throughout the disease, and usually his temperature has been subnormal. Intellection has been clear from the first, and at no time has there been the least manifestation of delirium.

March 9.—His thirst is unsatiable, and water is no sooner swallowed than it is ejected.

March 10.—His eyes are deeply sunken in their sockets. The hollow cheeks, the thin lips, the attenuated form of the patient, all indicate unmistakably the utter failure of the processes of nutrition and the absorption of his tissues for the pur-pose of sustaining life; and despite rectal alimentation, he died at 12.05 a. m., March 10, 1896.

Necropsy thirty-six hours after death.—Rigor mortis well established; body extremely emaciated; thoracic and abdominal cavities opened and their viscera inspected in situ; entire absence of subcutaneous adipose tissue; all fat had been absorbed from the omentum and elsewhere in the abdominal cavity. The heart and lungs were apparently normal; so also the liver, spleen, and kidneys. Prior to opening the abdominal cavity the presence of the tumor was detected by palpation, as before death, when its locality had been mapped out in ink. The transverse colon, overlapping the stomach, was drawn aside and the tumor brought plainly to view at the pylorus, involving it and the anterior wall of the stomach 10.5 centimeters from it. To the touch the tumor was firm, indurated, and incompressible. Its appearance was white and opaque, resembling scirrhus. Upon opening the gastric cavity a hemispheroidal growth as large as the yolk of a hen's egg was found within, completely closing the pyloric orifice of the stomach. There were no adhesions existing between the tumor and the liver, pancreas, colon, or other abdominal viscera; neither was any carcinomatous growth found in any other organ of the body except in a few lymphatic glands in the mesentery, near the pyloric end of the stomach. The case was one of primary cancer of the stomach, free from secondary involvement of any important organ.

ATHEROMA WITH THROMBOSIS OF THE POPLITEAL ARTERY.

Case X.

[Services of Asst. Surg. A. Ivins Comfort.]

Anson D. Durgin, late of Company B, Twenty-second Regiment Massachusetts Volunteers; occupation, sawyer; social condition, bachelor; age, 59 years.

Admitted to the hospital February 12, 1894.

Diagnosis: Atheroma with thrombosis of the popliteal artery. Amputation; recovery. Subsequent amputation and death.

On admission the pulse, respiration, and temperature of the patient were practically normal; so also was the urine. The left foot of the patient was the seat of a most excruciating neuralgia, from the suffering of which there was no relief night or day.

February 26.—The fifth toe is now necrobiotic.

March 12.—Gangrene is well marked in the anterior part of the foot, including all of the toes; the line of demarcation is located at the instep. Little pain is experienced in the foot or limb. The gangrenous parts are dressed with Labarraque's solution, diluted with ten parts of water. The foot must now be amputated in order to save the life of the patient.

March 18.—This day the patient submitted to an amputation of the left limb at the lower third of the femur, while under the influence of chloroform, which was administered by Asst. Surg. O. Chrysler, of the Northwestern Branch of the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers. The amputation was performed by Asst. Surg. A. Ivins Comfort, of the Home, assisted by Surg. Charles Mackie, of the Milwaukee hospital. So feeble was the heart's action that grave fears were entertained lest the patient would not survive the operation. A long anterior and a short posterior flap of the skin, with a circular division of the muscles and a periosteal flap of the femur, characterized the operation. The arteries were tied with catgut ligatures, the capillary oozing was arrested by the application of hot water, the flaps were approximated by a continuous suture, and the stump dusted with iodoform and enveloped in iodoform gauze. The amount of hemorrhage was surprisingly small, in consequence of the atheromatous thickening of the femoral artery and its branches, at the expense of the lumen of the vessel and the formation of a thrombus. The patient stood the anæsthetic badly and suffered much from the profundity of the shock. He was placed in bed, with the foot of the bed elevated, for several hours after the operation, in order to prevent syncope, and brandy and water administered to promote reaction from the shock.

March 20, 6.30 a. m.—Temperature, 101°; pulse, 96; respiration, 22. 6 p. m.—Temperature, 102°; pulse, 98; respiration, 26. Intellection is now clear, though at times since the operation a low, muttering delirium has manifested itself. A slight oozing of blood has seeped through the dressings, rendering their change necessary. A gangrenous odor and necrotic patches upon the flaps show that a general sloughing is about to be established in the stump, which is dressed daily with liquor sodæ chlorinatæ, applied on absorbent cotton or marine lint. This application serves at once the triple purpose of a bactericide, a disinfectant, and a deodorizer. ℞ Spirit. vini gallici f℥ss, to be taken every three hours, either with water or in the form of eggnog. His diet consisted of farinaceous articles of food, with milk and eggs and the animal broths.

March 22.—Gangrene is now fully established; the soft parts are sloughing and the femur is protruding beyond the flaps. There is now no alternative but to remove the sutures and treat the stump as an open wound. Two centigrams of the sulphate of morphia, in solution, are administered hypodermically at 8 p. m., and repeated when required.

April 19.—The sloughing of the flaps and the retraction of the soft parts by muscular action has exposed the femur to the extent of 10 centimeters. This has been this day dissected from the soft parts, a periosteal flap being formed to cover the distal end of the femur, the protruding bone sawed off, and the stump dressed with iodoform and iodoform gauze. The gangrene has disappeared from the surface of the stump except at one point, where a fistula leads to a sinus 10 centimeters in depth, and gives exit to a free discharge of pus. At first an iodoform gauze tent is introduced into the sinus though the fistula, subsequently, a drainage tube, and the parts injected with an antiseptic solution. After the lapse of ten days the fistula closed and the discharge ceased.

May 22.—Under the influence of a daily antiseptic dressing of one part of liquor iodæ chloratæ to ten parts of sterilized water the stump is healing, and by the use of highly nutritious diet and a moderate use of stimuli the patient is convalescing. He is rapidly gaining flesh, his color has returned, his health is being restored, his recovery is assured, and the success of the operation is no longer a matter of doubt.

June 18.—It is now three months since the amputation was performed, and two months lacking a day since the excision of the protruding end of the femur, and at last the wound is healed, with a cup-shaped, nonsensitive stump, to which an artificial limb may be readily adapted. The patient is fully restored to health and moves about the Home grounds in a wheel chair.

An amputation of the right thigh, through its lower third, was rendered necessary by the development of thrombosis of the right popliteal artery. This operation was performed by Surg. Walter H. Leighton, August 27, 1894, resulting in the death of the patient October 12, 1894.

(Read before the Brainard Medical Society of Wisconsin.)

Explanatory remarks.—Case 4, Frederick Amann, and case 6, Adam Baumgardner, cases of locomotor ataxia, borne on last report, are dropped this in consequence of said soldiers being on furlough during the year; and case 8, Obediah McCreery; diagnosis, aneurism of the arch of the aorta, resulting in rupture of the aneurismal sack, and death, has been reported for two previous consecutive years by Asst. Surg. O. C. McNary, of the Western Branch.

EASTERN BRANCH.

TOGUS, ME., August 13, 1896.

SIR: I have the honor to forward herewith my annual report upon tabes dorsalis for the year ending June 30, 1896.

These cases have received special attention from Dr. B. D. Ridlon, first assistant surgeon, from whose carefully prepared notes I am able to make this report.

Although we have been free from epidemic diseases, the work of the medical department has exceeded that of any previous year; and it is evident that this increase will be progressive, aside from the natural growth of the membership, as a comparison of our reports for the past five years shows an average gain of 2 per cent per annum in the proportion of members treated in hospital to the whole number cared for.

An exceptionally able staff of assistant surgeons has contributed greatly to the efficiency of the service, which has also been improved by the purchase of additional acceptable furniture for the operating room and the installation of a plant for steam disinfection and sterilization. This consists of a large disinfecting oven of modern design for the thorough cleansing of mattresses, bedding, and clothing, and the most approved sterilizers for surgical dressing, operating gowns, and instruments. The utility of this apparatus has been clearly demonstrated by the larger percentage of favorable results from surgical operations, which makes it possible for us to afford complete relief to many members from crippling disabilities. Our record of discharges from the Home shows a constantly increasing number of members who have regained their health to such an extent as to become self-supporting; and, as illustrative of this, I submit the following brief account of two cases, taken from the excellent record made by Dr. R. H. Hunt, second assistant surgeon, viz:

Henry Gasper, late of Company B, One hundred and sixteenth Pennsylvania Infantry, was admitted to the hospital on account of irreducable left inguinal hernia of large dimensions, from which he had suffered for several years. The tumor was painful, chiefly on account of a chronic orchitis resulting from pressure, and so interfered with locomotion as to completely disable him. It consisted largely of omental fat, and was firmly adherent to the scrotum and testicle. All efforts at reduction having failed, the patient was etherized, the hernial sac opened, and the bowel returned to abdominal cavity and held there by proper closure of the inguinal canal. The diseased testicle and a large mass of omentum, weighing over 3 pounds, were removed. Recovery was complete, with permanent closure of the hernial opening. He was discharged from the Home, at his own request, June 25, 1896, completely restored to health.

Thomas Holahan, late of Ninth Massachusetts Battery, was admitted to the hospital suffering from stones in the bladder, on account of which he has been totally disabled for three years, and constantly subject to severe pain. As the stones were too large and too hard to admit of removal by the crushing operation, or through the perineum, they were reached through an incision in the abdominal wall and removed by the suprapubic method. Complete union of the wound resulted without any unpleasant symptoms, and in less than two months after the operation the patient had so far regained his strength that he was detailed as a nurse in the hospital. After serving for one month in this capacity his confidence in his ability to again earn his living was restored, and he left the Home a well man.

Very respectfully, yours,

W. E. ELWELL, Acting Surgeon.

Gen. W. W. AVERELL, U. S. A.,
Assistant Inspector-General,
National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers.
(Through Gen. Luther Stevenson, governor.)

TABES DORSALIS.

Five new cases of tabes dorsalis were admitted to the hospital during the past year, and one patient, who has figured in previous reports as Case VI, was readmitted temporarily for treatment. Only four of the five new cases appear in this report, as the last patient did not arrive at the Home until so near the end of the fiscal year that an extended observation of his symptoms could not be made.

All of these patients have been instructed to practice using the ataxic muscles in as nearly a normal manner as possible, and to exercise them systematically. Careful attention has also been given to proper regulation of the diet and habits of both body and mind. This part of the treatment is important, but is frequently impossible to carry out, for it is extremely difficult to control vicious tendencies when the patient is apathetic and disinclined to make any effort to help himself. The course of this disease is so chronic that, unless the pain is severe and frequent, those who suffer from it become accustomed to their infirmities and require vigorous handling to make them appreciate the gravity of their condition and the necessity for personal effort to retard the progress of the disease. When ambition to recover remains strong much can undoubtedly be accomplished by painstaking care on the part of the patient. All of these cases have been instructed to this effect, and have received constant encouragement to help themselves. To avoid tedious repetition, this is not referred to in the notes which follow.

CASE XI.

Frederick Denny, late of Company K, Eighty-second New York Volunteers.

History, causation, and course to June 30, 1895, appear in previous reports.

This patient remained without change in any of his symptoms until January 1, 1896, when he suffered from another severe gastric crisis, accompanied with pain in the thighs and legs, following indiscretion in diet. The attack yielded to phenacetin as on previous occasions, but was followed by a return of the pain in the feet and complete loss of knee jerk. None of the other symptoms previously noted were affected. He was at once placed upon the salts of gold and phenacetin, under which the tendency to pain gradually subsided, leaving him entirely free from suffering by May 4, 1896, but there was no return of the knee jerk, as was the case following previous attacks. The history of these attacks gives constant evidence of excesses either in eating or in the use of alcoholics as causative factors, and each succeeding attack is followed by a longer period of pain and discomfort in the lower extremities.

CASE XII.

Royal F. West, late of Company K, Sixth New York Volunteers; aged 50 years; widower; military service, thirteen months.

Medical history.—Was well and strong as a youth and young man, and until 1872, when he began to suffer from rheumatism and malaria, which has troubled him more or less ever since. He positively denies syphilis and excesses of all kinds. In June, 1887, he had a severe fall, striking on his back, since which time symptoms of tabes dorsalis have developed, the first consisting of pains in the leg, back, and head.

s a noticeable deflection to the left of the spinous process of the eighth tebra, which is interesting as a possible result of this fall and cause of the ease from which he has since suffered. Early in the course of the disease the use of morphine for the relief of pain, and thus acquired the habit. me of his admission to the home—September 18, 1895—he was taking 2½ ly, and was so stupid from its effects that he could not give an accurate his- s case. Treatment was, therefore, first directed to the cure of the morphine ich was accomplished by the means of graduated reduction of the amount d the use of strychnia and sulfonal in large doses to control the more dis- ymptoms. By November 9 he had lost all desire for morphine, which he without for three weeks, had regained his appetite and mental tone, and to give the above history of the onset of tabes.
on: Possible injury to spinal cord, result of a fall.

ATMENT AND CHANGES FROM NOVEMBER 9, 1895, TO MARCH 31, 1896.

ɔunt of the patient's feeble condition following the withdrawal of mor strychnia which had been given during that time was continued in one th grain doses three times a day. From 20 to 45 grains of phenacetin in oses was required to control the pain until November 18, when a gradual of this amount was possible, the tendency to pain being less marked. ıon of bromide of gold and arsenic was commenced November 9, in 15-minim ɔe times a day, and increased to 18 minims three times a day November 18. nber 20 a slight elevation of temperature, 99.2°, had developed, which ɜd the reduction of the gold solution to 12 minims three times a day, ıount was continued to December 20, at which time he rarely required ı 10 grains of phenacetin in twenty-four hours for the relief of pain, which ɜvere. He was allowed to go for ten days from this date without treat- ɜr than care in diet and regular exercise, at the end of which time there ɜurn of severe pain. Phenacetin and the gold solution were therefore tered.
ncy to irritation of the stomach and constipation, which required careful from the beginning, had gradually disappeared, but by February 15 he suffer from suppression of urine, an analysis of which revealed a sclerotic of the kidneys. Mild alkaline diuretics were added to the treatment with beneficial effect. He continued to improve in general strength and ability the action of his legs from this date, so that he became able to walk freely about the hospital daily, and by March 31 he had so far improved that he took a furlough to attend to business matters in a distant city, at which time his condition was as above stated. He was seen again for a few days in the early part of July, 1896, and, so far as could be determined in the time available, his condition did not appear to have changed. He claimed to be feeling better than for several years.

CASE XIII.

John Wilson, late of Company K, Eleventh New York Volunteers; aged 57 years; widower; military service, two months.

Medical history.—Was well as a boy until he was 27 years of age, when he contracted syphilis and rheumatism, and subsequently suffered from stricture of the urethra and cystitis. He has never regained his health completely since. He first began to have pains in the thighs and legs seven years ago, following which other symptoms of tabes dorsalis have gradually developed. He denies having used alcohol or tobacco to excess.

Causation: Syphilis.

There is partial paralysis of the left internal rectus muscle, and resulting divergent strabismus.	Still suffers from ptosis of left eyelid; left pupil dilated; light reflex absent in both eyes, and the divergent strabismus still persists.

Joints not affected.	Joints not affected.
Suffers from slight stenosis of mitral valve of heart, stricture of urethra, and chronic cystitis.	Circulation feeble, as result of heart lesion; stricture of urethra and cystitis have been greatly relieved by treatment.

TREATMENT AND CHANGES FROM DECEMBER 13, 1895, TO JUNE 30, 1896.

On account of the syphilitic history, medication was commenced by the administration of the iodide of potash in fifteen grain doses, three times daily, to be gradually increased. Treatment was also directed to the relief of the chronic cystitis, chiefly by gradual dilatation of the stricture of urethra. The iodide was not well borne by the stomach, and there was a constant tendency to iodism, so that after two weeks' trial it was discontinued and the solution of bromide of gold and arsenic substituted in gradually increasing doses. Phenacetine was also given from the first to control the pain, which was rarely severe, and by January 14, had almost entirely disappeared. As he appeared to be losing strength, strych. sulp. in one-thirteenth grain doses, three times a day, was added to the treatment. Relief from the tendency to pain was only temporary, and by February 20, it was again necessary to administer phenacetine in ten grain doses, twice daily. By March 10, he was taking twenty minims of the gold solution three times a day, but without any very noticeable effect. It was therefore discontinued and the phosphate of silver in one-half grain doses, three times a day, substituted in connection with strychnia, which was still administered. No appreciable effect was observed from the use of this drug. As will be seen from the above comparison of his symptoms, he has remained practically without change, except for the relief that he has obtained from the chronic cystitis and stricture of the urethra.

Case XIV.

dical history.—Was well as a youth and while in the service. States that he alcoholics and tobacco habitually, but not excessively. Does not remember of ıg any serious illness until five years ago, when he began to notice that he was g control of his legs and suffered somewhat from vertigo and band sensations t the abdomen. These, with other symptoms of tabes dorsalis, have been ıally progressive in their development until the present time. Denies excesses l kinds and syphilis, and there is no marked evidence of it.

Ten minims of the solution of bromide of gold and arsenic, three times y, was also given with phenacetine as necessary to control the pain. As in all other cases this patient was encouraged to practice systematic exercise of the ic muscles, and was instructed how to do this. By the 30th of May there was a :eable diminution in the tendency to pain, vertigo, and attacks of partial lysis. As he seemed stronger, the strychnia nitrate was discontinued. On the of June following there was a recurrence of the attacks of temporary paraplegia. ther changes worthy of notice occurred to June 30, when his condition was as e stated.

Case XV.

ıniel W. Caldwell, late of Company F, Eighth Iowa Volunteers; aged 63 years; wer; military service, sixteen months.

dical history.—Was strong as a young man, and up to the time that he entered Army, where he contracted chronic diarrhea, from which he has suffered ever s. Sustained a comminuted fracture of the right leg in 1879, which prevented from working for one year. Has been frequently subjected to long exposure to and cold while working in the swamps of the South. He first began to suffer ı pains in the legs, vertigo, and difficulty in walking in 1881. Other symptoms abes dorsalis have gradually developed since.

TREATMENT AND CHANGES FROM MAY 15 TO JUNE 30, 1896.

LOCOMOTOR ATAXIA.

Case I.

James Watson, Company E, Forty-seventh Indiana Infantry.

There was little change in this case until early in February, 1896. Pains in limbs and back grew more intense, necessitating frequently large hypodermics of morphia. A diarrheal discharge was followed in a few days by incontinence of feces. A bed-sore developed over the sacrum, and while very annoying, never attained a very large size. There was anorexia and rapid emaciation. During the last five days of his existence he was maniacal. He died March 3, 1896. The treatment had been symptomatic from the time of the development of the graver symptoms.

The cord was removed and hardened in 5 per cent solution of potassium bichromate. The membranes were found thickened, the cord shrunken. Microscopically a line of connective tissue marked the site of the posterior fissure, this having been obliterated by the morbid process. The posterior cornuæ were shrunken.

Case II.

Henry Rich, Company A, One hundred and twentieth Indiana Infantry.

Has declined but little in weight. Constipation is so persistent as to tax our efforts to the utmost. He walks with the greatest difficulty, never for a moment raising his eyes from the floor, even when addressed. Potassium iodide, having been followed by negative results, has been abandoned. Is taking phospho-muriate of quinia. Glycerine suppositories and enemata of warm water have been found the most efficacious in combating with the constipation.

Case III.

John Coony, Company A, Fifth United States Light Infantry.

Was under our care but a short time when he was transferred to the Southern Branch. There was little in his condition.

Case IV.

James Ervin, Company A, Sixteenth Illinois Infantry.

There has been some decline in weight. Epileptic seizures in July, September, and November, 1895, since which time he has been free from them. Pains in legs of such severity as to necessitate hypodermics of morphia occur at intervals. Ordinarily acetanelide and soda bicarbonate, of each grains five, is sufficient to allay the pain. On two occasions he has experienced intense gastric pain, with nausea and vomiting. Ingluvin was given, with good results, after retching had been controlled by morphia hypodermically.

CASE OF RUPTURE OF THE HEART.

William F. N. Wall, Company C, Fifth Indiana Cavalry, was admitted to the hospital August 6, 1894; age, 70; occupation, farmer; slight physique.

Diagnosis: Rheumatism, varicose veins, senility, habits somewhat intemperate.

Although in need of no special medication, he was regarded as a permanent hospital patient because of senile weakness. The following is taken from the death record: On December 20, 1895, patient walked about corridor, smoking his pipe and chatting with friends, apparently as strong and comfortable as he has been in a year. He retired early, and had been asleep but a few minutes when he awoke with the cry, "Oh, my heart," raised to a sitting posture, and then fell back. He was seen by the doctor about two minutes later. After that the heart made a few feeble efforts to act, the patient gasped, and died.

The autopsy revealed the pericardium distended with clotted blood. The heart had been ruptured in the anterior wall of the left ventricle, near the aurico-ventricular septum. There were two parallel rents, one-half inch apart. One was three-quarters and the other one-half inch in length. These rents conformed to the direction of the external muscular fibers. The heart substance was softened, so as to render it possible to readily thrust the handle of the scalpel through the wall at the ruptured area.

PACIFIC BRANCH.

HOSPITAL OF PACIFIC BRANCH,
NATIONAL HOME FOR DISABLED VOLUNTEER SOLDIERS,
June 30, 1896.

SIR: I have the honor to submit herewith a report upon the cases of locomotor ataxia treated during the past fiscal year at this Branch. The cases, beginning with No. XII, have been admitted during this time and are reported by Asst. Surg. Joseph S. McCormick.

Very respectfully yours,

H. E. HASSE, Surgeon.

Gen. W. W. AVERELL, U. S. A.,
Assistant Inspector-General,
National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers.
(Through Col. J. G. Rowland, governor.)

CASE I.

Oliver S. McLain, Company A, Ninety-third Illinois Infantry, has improved sufficiently to enable him to take an extended furlough and return to his family in Colorado.

CASE II.

Jeremiah B. Hackley, late of Company A, One hundred and seventieth New York Infantry, is yet under treatment, but the severity of the symptoms are greatly ameliorated.

CASE III.

James Elliott, late of Company B, Fifty-fourth Ohio Infantry. Improvement is noted in this case.

CASE IV.

Jacob Kink, late of Company F, Nineteenth Ohio Infantry, died May 9, 1895, of cerebral meningitis.

CASE V.

John Gomes, late of Company B, One hundred and sixty-eighth New York Infantry. Paralytic symptoms increased; cystitis decubitus developed. He died March 27, 1895.

CASE VI.

F. A. W., late of Company H, Fourth Iowa Infantry, died April 6, 1896, of valvular disease of the heart and chronic nephritis.

CASE VII.

P. C., late of Company H, Third Missouri Cavalry, Mexican war, age 77. The condition of this patient remains about the same as at last report, save that he has less control over his bladder. His appetite is good and he sleeps well.

CASE VIII.

F. S., late of Company H, Second Missouri Cavalry. In this case there has been no noticeable change excepting that the paralysis of the lower extremities is slightly more marked. At present he is absent on "pass."

CASE IX.

D. E., late of Company B, Third Colorado Cavalry. During the year this patient has lost nearly twenty pounds and appears weaker. He says that the lancinating pains in his legs and arms have decreased.

Last year he was obligied to take a drachm of Magendies's solution of morphia every twenty-four hours; at present he finds relief with less than half that quantity. He has no control over his bladder.

CASE X.

C. H. S. Discharged; present condition unknown.

Case XI.

John Grant, late of Company E, Sixth California Infantry; age, 76; occupation, miner; weight, 115 pounds; height, 5 feet 5 inches. Admitted to the Home March, 1889; to the hospital, February, 1896.

Family history.—Patient does not recollect anything of his early life, nor the causes of the deaths of his parents and several brothers and sisters. He has used tobacco excessively and alcohol moderately. He states that he never had gonorrhea, but twenty years ago he had a chancre. Previous to this present trouble has always enjoyed good health. Eight years ago his illness began with severe pains in the right side, including arm and leg.

In a short time the pains affected the left leg, preventing the patient's walking without a cane. The pains in the legs were paroxysmal in character. Gradually his legs became numb, his eyesight failed, and he was troubled with abdominal disorders, the chief of which was a frequent distention.

Examination.—The knee jerk on both sides is absent. Romberg symptom well marked; Argyle-Robertson pupil. Partial anæsthesia of right upper; delayed conduction in right lower; slight anæsthesia of left upper and lower. Arteries very atheromatous; tremor of the hands; abdomen tympanetic; lower cervical and upper dorsal vertebræ slightly sensitive. He passes urine with difficulty, has diarrhea, and suffers from vertigo. He does not require assistance in walking.

Urine: Specific gravity, 1.030; reaction, acid; nothing pathological shown by chemical analysis or microscopical examination.

Case XII.

Charles Brendel, late of Company H, Third Michigan Cavalry; age, 58; nativity, Germany; occupation, miner; social relation, single; weight, 128 pounds; height, 5 feet 7 inches.

Family history.—Patient does not know the cause of his father's death; his mother died in childbirth. He has two brothers and a sister living and in good health. Patient does not recollect having the diseases of childhood; when quite young he commenced using tobacco, and up to a few years ago was an inveterate smoker. He has used alcohol moderately. History of syphilis. During the war he contracted malaria. Fourteen years ago he suffered from rheumatism and from that time dates present illness.

In 1882 he was taken with pains and cramps in the muscles of the legs. He was treated for rheumatism and for a time improved.

Paroxysmal pains in the lower extremities prevented him from following his avocation, and for ten years he spent the greater part of the time in bed.

He was admitted to this hospital in March of this year.

He complains of darting, electric-like pains in the lower extremities, vertigo and gastro-intestinal disorders. The pains in his legs are influenced by the weather. At times he has a sense of formication over the lower limbs and occasionally suffers from the girdle pain.

Examination: There is abolition of the patellar tendon reflex on both sides. From the lower cervical to the middle lumbar vertebræ the spine is slightly sensitive. The right knee joint is swollen and painful.

There is delayed conduction of all the extremities. The prick of a pin on the right upper is not felt for four seconds, and the left upper and lower three seconds, while it takes six seconds for the sensation to be conducted by the right lower.

Patient suffers from double vision; with his eyes closed and heels together he wavers and invariably falls to the right. He is able to walk with a cane, but his gait is ataxic. Sexually, patient is not impaired. He sleeps and eats fairly well. Pulse 100, temperature 98.6. Urine: Specific gravity, 1.022; reaction, faintly alkaline. Chemical analysis fails to reveal any pathological condition.

Diagnosis: Locomotor ataxia.

Case XIII.

Edward C. Ketchum, late of Company K, Sixty-seventh Ohio Infantry; age, 55; born in New York; occupation, clerk; widower; weight, 130 pounds; height, 5 feet 8 inches. Patient was admitted to the Home in April, 1889, and to the hospital in January, 1896.

Family history.—Patient's mother died of consumption; his father from cancer of the stomach. Three brothers and one sister died of diphtheria. Patient has had the usual diseases of childhood. He has never used tobacco or alcohol and has no history of syphilis. Excepting colds and a slight attack of pneumonia in 1868, patient enjoyed good health until eight years ago, when he was seized with an epileptic spasm. The attack was preceded by a sense of burning in the left side, arms, and leg. Since then he has been subject to these spasms. They are variable as regards uency, sometimes as many as five or six attacks in twenty-four hours, and will ı be free from all symptoms for two or three months. The patient is warned of roaching attack by the same aura epileptica as that which preceded the first sm. Of these attacks, pain and swelling of the left knee joint and darting pains he lower extremities, patient now complains.

xamination: Patient is somewhat emaciated and rather apathetic. The knee : is absent on both sides, and there is partial anæsthesia of the lower extremities. complains of numbness of the left hand; a pin stuck into this member is not felt four seconds. There is a fine tremor of the hands, more marked in the right.
ıberg symptom is quite pronounced. There is no anæsthesia in the right upper.
suffers from constipation, loss of sexual power, and paroxysmal visceral disturb-es.
here is no hyperæsthesia of the vertebral column. Pupils do not react to light are unequal, the right being larger.
t times he complains of the girdle sensation, and for two years has had difficult ıation. He can walk a short distance without a cane. Hearing and memory are h impaired.
systolic blowing murmur is detected with the first sound of the heart and is ısmitted to the apex and also to angle of scapula.
iagnosis: Locomotor ataxia, epilepsy, mitral regurgitation.
rine: Specific gravity, 1.012; reaction, alkaline; no albumen; small quantity of ar.

Case XIV.

harles S. Kinsey, late of Company A, Sixth Ohio Infantry; native of Cincinnati;
rried; weight, 135 pounds; height, 5 feet 5 inches; occupation, civil engineer.
amily history.—Patient's father died of liver complaint. His mother is alive and good health. A brother and a sister died in infancy. As a child patient had the eases incident to that period. He denies using alcohol and tobacco, and also nereal and specific history. Patient has had five children, none having died.
ıring the war he suffered from fistula in ano, and at times passed a large quantity blood.
History of present trouble.—Twelve years ago while patient was following his occuıtion as a surveyor he was exposed to very inclement weather, the result being that s lower extremities became paralyzed. He was confined in bed for three months, ıd subsequently was obliged to use a cane in walking. Two years ago he had an eration on the rectum for the cure of the fistula. Since then he has felt much ıproved in that respect.
Patient came to the Home in December, 1895, and was immediately admitted to ıe hospital. He now complains of severe pains in the lower extremities; of a gire pain, vertigo, frequent urination, impairment of eyesight, loss of appetite, and neral malaise.
Examination: There is a loss of patellar reflexes, loss of sensation in the feet, loss coordination in the muscles of the leg, delayed conduction in the upper extremi-es, complete anæsthesia of the legs and feet, and a loss of iris reflex. There is an rea of complete anæsthesia extending from the fifth cervical to the third dorsal ertebræ. The other parts of the vertebral column are hyperæsthetic. Patient's ppetite is poor, and he is gradually losing strength. Until last February he was bliged to use a catheter; he is now enabled to dispense with that instrument, but rinates more frequently.
For the severe lancinating pains in the lower extremities patient was given antiyrene in 10-grain doses. During twenty-four hours patient has been frequently bliged to use as high as 120 grains of this drug in order to find relief. Careful bservation fails to show any deleterious results from the use of the drug in this ırge quantity.
Patient states that he now feels much better than when he came to the hospital.
Diagnosis: Locomotor ataxia.
Urine: Specific gravity, 1.028; reaction, acid; chemical analysis shows a small uantity of sugar.

Case XV.

Peter Fox, late of Company H, Fourth United States Infantry; age, 58; native of eland; widower; weight, 168 pounds; height, 5 feet 10 inches; occupation, tailor.
Family history.—Patient does not remember the cause of his parents' death nor ıat of two brothers and three sisters. He had the usual diseases of childhood, and r many years used tobacco and alcohol to excess. He gives a doubtful history of philis. Patient is the father of twelve children; one is dead. Before his present lness he was free from all ailments excepting slight attacks of malaria. The presıt trouble begun eight years ago with paroxysmal pains in the legs and shoulders, and his vision became impaired. In a short time his feet became numb, so that he could not distinguish the character of the ground upon which he walked, and he suffered from the girdle pain.

He was admitted to the Home in April, 1889, and to the hospital in April, 1896. He now complains of the same troubles.

An examination shows that the patellar reflexes are not completely abolished. Patient wavers when he attempts to stand with his heels together and eyes closed. There is loss of the iris reflexes, and the upper dorsal vertebræ are sensitive. He is troubled with nocturnal seminal losses. Occasionally he has a sense of formication over the lower limbs. There is partial anæsthesia of all the extremities, he is troubled with gastric disturbances, incontinence of urine, and at times his heels become very painful.

Urine: Specific gravity, 1.012; reaction faintly acid; no albumen or sugar.

Diagnosis: Locomotor ataxia.

Case XVI.

Samuel E. Coombs, late of Company H, Thirty-first Maine Infantry; native of Maine; height, 5 feet, 7 inches; weight, 135 pounds; occupation, fresco painter.

Family history.—Patient's mother died in childbirth; his father is living, aged 98 years, and in fair health.

The cause of the death of two sisters he does not know; one brother was accidentally killed. Patient has had the diseases of childhood; he has never been addicted to the use of alcohol; has used tobacco very moderately; says he has not had gonorrhea or syphilis.

History of illness.—During the war a shell exploded in the immediate vicinity of the patient, and he was thrown about 20 feet. He was carried from the field in an unconscious condition, and was confined to bed nearly seven months. Since then he has had a constant pain in the lumbar and sacral regions. In 1865 he was seized with an epileptic attack, and had several during the following four years. He remained free from any epileptic seizures till 1880, but suffered from attacks of rheumatism and lumbago. Sixteen years ago he commenced to lose the power of his legs and, gradually, his arms. His eyesight became impaired, and he was troubled with incontinence of urine.

He was admitted to this Branch in February, 1894, coming direct to hospital, and was discharged in October, 1895, at his request. In June of the present year he was readmitted, complaining of the above symptoms, all of which had increased during his absence from the Home.

He now complains of sharp shooting pains in the lower extremities, and at times has a feeling as if a band was being drawn around each leg. He is also troubled with the girdle pain, dyspepsia, constipation, incontinence of urine, numbness of the hands and feet, and epileptic spasms.

Examination: Patient is obliged to use two canes in walking. The knee jerk is not entirely abolished; with eyes closed and heels together he falls to the right. Ankle clonus greatly decreased, lumbar and sacral regions very sensitive to pressure, pupils equal, but do not react to light, memory defective, and delayed conduction in all the extremities, less marked on the inner side of the right leg.

Patient is melancholic and an element of hysteria enters into the case. He sees flashes of light before his eyes, has a hot, burning sensation on the top of the head, and is troubled with the bolus hysterious. Occasionally he loses his memory entirely and for one or two days is not conscious of what is taking place about him. He is very nervous and suffers from insomnia; with his eyes closed, patient is unable to bring his finger to the point of his nose. He is subject to slight attacks of dyspnœa and has had œdema of the lower extremities. His taste, smell, and hearing are defective. For the past four years he has averaged one epileptic spasm a month; of late these spasms are increasing in frequency and severity.

Treatment: Unfortunately, in a majority of the cases that have been under observation at this Branch, the disease has progressed to such a degree that the various remedies recommended have given but little, if any, benefit. Recognized in the earlier stages, there is more hope that the progress of the disease may be delayed or possibly stayed. The treatment in these advanced cases has been symptomatic and palliative, with careful attention to hygiene and diet. The elixir of iron, quinine, and strychnia has been the chief remedy given, and for the lancinating pains some of the coal-tar preparations have given relief.

A résumé as to etiology of these sixteen cases discloses that six had syphilis; alcoholism and tobacco is noted in three; exposure in five, in two of which alcohol is also a factor.

Trauma is noted in one case (16) and no special definable cause in one (14).

ILLINOIS SOLDIERS AND SAILORS' HOME.

QUINCY, ILL., August 2, 1896.

DEAR GENERAL: I can not make a special report concerning cases of locomotor a under my care in this Home beyond saying that some recent cases of undoubted fic origin seemed benefited to some extent by large doses of the iodides of m and potassium.

ish that some of these special reports to you might furnish a symposium of sur- s of Soldiers' Homes on their treatment of certain diseases and injuries peculiar l men. As my contribution to such an experience telling, I should like, again, l how well operative procedures of all kinds are borne by the aged. Prompt tations for senile gangrene has proven, in my hands, a most valuable measure he prevention of suffering and saving of life, and those of my colleagues not ected with Soldiers' Homes who have adopted it have found the results equally fying.

e use of the galvano or Paquelins cautery in extensive lupus, a dressing of bal- Peru being subsequently used, has proven curative in all cases coming under our ar cases of extreme prostatic enlargement, in which retention of urine could e relieved by the catheter, aspiration of the bladder being required for empty- e viscus, submitted to the operation of double castration. The operation wound ch case united promptly, kangaroo tendon having been used for ligation of permatic vessels and vas diferens. The effect on the prostate gland in each nce has been to cause marked atrophy, and as a consequence no further difficulty urinary detention. In my opinion we have in the operation of Professor White rapeutic measure of great value for those who have to care for large numbers d men, as do surgeons of the various Homes. It is, moreover, an operation the lopment of which is due to the judicious use of vivisection, and is a further nstration of its usefulness in proper hands.

the past two years it has happened in this Home that as a result of falls there been six fractures of the neck of the femur to treat, some intra and others extra ular. We have had perfectly satisfactory results from the use of plaster of paris lages, enveloping first the trunk from the axilæ down, then spirally around the red limb from the ileum down to the toes, producing thorough immobilization. method, first brought to my attention by Prof. Nicholas Senn, of Chicago, has n us good, ultimate union, and has permitted the patient to be much more com- ably cared for than by any other method with which I am acquainted.

ere are a number of other practical points in the care and treatment of the aged I should like to mention, but these few are, perhaps, sufficient to encourage of the surgeons of other Homes to make you the medium through which their ial experience may be transmitted to their fellow-workers. The very careful painstaking reports on locomotor ataxia have certainly been of great benefit.

Very respectfully, yours,

EDWARD B. MONTGOMERY, Surgeon.

OHIO SOLDIERS AND SAILORS' HOME, July 10, 1896.

R: I have the honor to transmit herewith reports of cases of locomotor ataxia ted at this Home during the year just passed.

ne more year has gone and yet no case of ataxia has died, hence no opportunity been presented for pathological observation to verify diagnosis.

e treatment of these cases for the year has been along very narrow lines, as ious experience for a number of years demonstrated that the most benefit was ved from the use of strychnine alone. The entire list of remedies supposed to some specific action in this affection has been thoroughly tried, and, with the ption of strychnine, no beneficial results were obtained from the use of any. drug, strychnine, as given in these cases, was in the large majority of them inistered in small doses at first, and this gradually brought up to the point of ration, which point varied in different cases.

some cases a medium dose (gr. 1-20) was given before eating, and this persisted ithout changes, and while in the beginning this quantity seemed to be too vy, yet the records show the best results following this line of treatment. Severe ıcular twitching was a common and unpleasant following with some at first, but olerance became established this gradually disappeared.

have but one new case to be added to this year's work, and as this man was not ıent the entire year, only a partial report can be given in his case.

ı addition to the cases of ataxia, I have added a short report showing treatment the results of pulmonary tuberculosis as recorded in this institution. This ıd disease has a large number of victims, and the opportunity for advanced rapy is great. The cases have been carefully reported by Asst. Surg. R. D. nham.

Most respectfully,

JOHN T. HAYNES,

CASE I.

artin, M., Company H, Forty-sixth Ohio Volunteer Infantry; age, 68; occupation, ner; nativity, Germany; race, white; single; physique, well nourished. Admitted il 24, 1890. Disease: Tabes dorsalis. Urinalysis: Sp. gr., 1.220; color, straw; ɔtion, acid; traces of albumen.

amily history.—No inheritable diseases in any branch or member of the family.

istory and diary of the case.—Past: Had every disease common to childhood. ıies ever having syphilis or gonorrhea. Present: Patient states that one week ɔr to attack he was ditching in the wet and cold. He considers that this was cause of his disease. While building fence found that he was unable to take up ıil without toppling over. Following this came lightning pains in both legs, lle sensation, and other manifestations of the disease. Patient states that all ıptoms came on in a few days. Anæsthesia was preceded by a short period, ing which sensation was partial and greatly delayed as regarding perception. oordination was so great that patient was afraid to walk about. Patient fairly l nourished; eats and sleeps well; bowels constipated. States as above in regard ymptoms.

hysical examination.—Skin normal in color and temperature, and imparts a normal ıation to the hand. Muscles of seemingly normal proportions and act with power. en patient shuts his eyes while standing with heels together will fall backward. esthesia nearly complete. Patellar reflex entirely absent, ankle clonus gone. yle-Robertson symptoms pronounced. Difficulty in urination and defecation, h lancinating pains in the bladder. Girdle sensation still noted. Sight not good ıccount of double cataract; this interferes with examination of fundus.

une 15, 1893.—General health good; appetite good; sleeps well; general bodily ditions excellent; body well nourished and robust. Has been out of hospital since l, and has not used a cane for some time. Upon closing his eyes he still has dif- lty in maintaining his equilibrium. Upon walking shows slight heel-and-toe ɔement so characteristic in the case when first reported. Says that he falls at es by reason of defective eyesight. Knee jerk is abolished in right side and only ht (if it exist at all) in left.

resent examination of case.—Skin found to be anæsthetic below knees and par- ly so above. Muscles move powerfully under stimulus, although he is sometimes ıid to walk from sheer weakness. Pupils of eyes evenly contracted; anterior lia normal; lens of left eye quite opaque; of right translucent. A partial reflex n fundus obtained. Argyle-Robertson sign not obtainable for reasons stated. ient complains that he sometimes has a sensation similar to the girdle feeling and ht pains down his legs. States that he has pains in both wrists, which is evi- tly rheumatic in character. Patient insists that he is much better than he was ɔar ago.

ıly 22, 1894.—This case has gone on during the year much as it did during the r previous. There have been times when the symptoms were prominent, but ing the greater portion of the time very little was complained of. Pains in the ı were at times complained of and very annoying, but by the use of phenacetine ı was destroyed. Patient has been carefully watched and general condition given cial attention. Strychnine in large, frequent, and increasing quantities was tried, but little for the better resulted. There certainly has been no advance of the sclerotic process, and the condition of the patient has remained about one thing for two and one-half years.

June 15, 1896.—Appetite poor; sleep disturbed by burning sensations in feet and legs; tendency to constipation; constant pain in feet, legs, and right arm; occasional shooting pains accompanied by forcible contractions of the flexor muscles of the legs. Left eye entirely blind from cataract, and vision of right much impaired by cataract; pupils normal in size. No response to light or distance. Ulnar sensibility in right arm destroyed; in left arm very much reduced. Partial paralysis of left arm and hand, with muscular incoordination in both arms. Patellar reflexes destroyed; inability to stand with eyes closed. Can walk a mark fairly well with eyes open and without a cane. Almost complete anæsthesia of feet and legs to the knee; sensation of something soft under feet. Characteristic gait present. Conduction along sensory nerves much delayed. The appearance and general condition of patient slightly changed from that of one year ago. Sexual appetite remains.

TREATMENT FOR SIX YEARS WITH RESULTS.

Has sharp lancinating pains darting down hips to knees.	Occasional shooting pains accompanied by muscular contractions.
Has pronounced girdle sensation.	Has no girdle sensation.
Argyle-Robertson symptom pronounced.	The symptom not obtainable.
Incoordination so great that patient can not walk with even the aid of crutches.	Incoordination present but not so marked, as patient is a good walker.

Treatment.—The treatment in this case extends over quite a period, the patient having been under care for more than six years. In the early part of the treatment, owing to the fact that a specific cause was suspected, patient was placed on the iodide of potassium, with cold sponge baths and friction along the spinal column. This drug was continued and the improvement was marked. At times, when the pains became quite severe, phenacetine was given with happy result. The French method of extension was frequently practiced by the patient. This consisted in lying flat on the back on the floor, with a pillow under the head, then elevating the feet, bringing them over until they rested on the floor at each side of the head of the patient. This was frequently done, and whether due to this or not, the patient became quite a walker, going without a cane most of the time. Morphine has never been resorted to.

This case has gone on during the year much as it did during the year previous. Patient has been carefully watched and general condition given special attention. Strychnine in large, frequent, and increasing quantities was given, but as to how much of the improved condition is due to this drug it is impossible in this case to form an idea, as such splendid results were first obtained from the use of the iodides.

CASE II.

Cornelius D., Company E, Sixteenth New York Flying Artillery; age, 67; occupation, brickmason; nativity, American; race, white; single; physique, spare. Date of admission, February 11, 1893. Disease: Tabes dorsalis. Urinalysis: Sp. gr., 1.024; color, dark; reaction, acid; traces of albumen.

Family history.—Nil.

History and diary of the case.—Past history: Patient states that he has been a habitual drinker for a long period. Does not admit that he has ever had any venereal disorder. Has had rheumatism in back and shoulders for years since the war.

About four years ago, while working in the water up to his hips, he became disabled so that he had to stop work. At that time he had marked weakness of both legs and violent pains shooting down from the back to the knees. He soon had pains in the region of the spine, with slight girdle sensation. Says that after pains had subsided, spots of discoloration would appear where the pain had been. Shortly after this had numbness of both feet and legs and walked like a "hamstrung" horse, as he described it. Would lift his feet too high; could not put them down well, and could not feel the ground under his feet. Has never had pains in stomach or other viscera. No vomiting.

Present: No pain in extremities except at times, and then mostly below the knees. Anæsthesia of left leg marked, but very slight in right leg. Can feel hair pulling and pinching in left leg with difficulty, and can not distinguish contact points of æsthesiometer at 4 inches on either leg. With heels together and eyes closed, would weave backward, but would not fall. Muscles of both legs of moderate size and power. Knee jerk normal in both legs. Electrical reaction not tried. Pupils evenly contracted and react both to light and distance. No paralysis of extensor muscles or internal lesions that can be found by opthalmoscopic examination. No affection of joints.

May 13, 1896.—Pulse 87, regular; respiration, 26; temperature, 99° F.; appetite, poor; sleep disturbed by pain in back and side; inability to stand with eyes closed; can not walk without use of cane; has the sensation of something soft under the feet. Incoordination of muscular movements very marked in legs and to some extent in arms and hands. Has the gait peculiar to this disease. Unable to walk a mark on the floor; can not walk in a path unless it be about 2 feet wide. Delayed sensation in all parts of the limbs. Partial anæsthesia of left arm and hand with almost complete anæsthesia of feet and legs to the knee. States that one year ago there was complete anæsthesia of feet and legs. Partial paralysis of left shoulder, arm, and hand; right side but slightly affected. Patellar reflexes greatly reduced. Ulnar sensibility almost destroyed. Ciliary reflex responds slowly to distance accommodation, though but little, if any, to light. Pupils about normal. Almost entire loss of sight of left eye. Constant pain in back, side, and left shoulder, with sharp shooting pains in body; pain in legs about as it was one year ago. With the exception of slight improvement of the feet and legs to the knee the patient's condition is worse than it was one year ago, and he states "that he can see that his general condition is gradually failing."

Treatment.—First placed on strychnine sulphate, commencing with gr. 1-100 three times a day and gradually increased to 1-50. Potassium iodide was given with strychnine, beginning with ten grains and rapidly increasing up to the point of toleration. Strychnine was afterwards given in the form of Hall's solution. Under this treatment the drug was pushed as rapidly as possible until the patient was taking gr. 1-20 three times a day, and this still further pushed to gr. 1-10. At this point there was some twitching and the quantity was reduced to gr. 1-18, and so remained for a long period. General tonics given as required. Bowels were kept open by the use of elixir cascara sagrada. The deepened color of the urine was removed by the use of the citrate of potassium with spiritus altheris nitrosi. The antispasmodics were frequently used to subdue nervous irritability.

Treatment and results.—This patient seemed at one time to be improving somewhat, but to-day he is almost where he was three years ago. He still goes about wherever he wishes to go, but he depends largely upon the support of his cane, and his gait is markedly ataxic. The girdle sensation is not prominent, although he complains of it somewhat. There is still no paralysis of the extensor muscles. His general health, aside from any of these conditions, is good. He eats well, sleeps well, and has good digestion.

Case III.

William A., Company I, First Ohio Volunteer Cavalry. Age, 61; occupation, engineer; nativity, United States; race, white; married; physique, tall, strong. Date of admission, December 22, 1895.

Family history.—Father died, aged 70 years; pneumonia; previous health good. Mother died aged 75 years, of sciatic rheumatism. One brother died in the late war. Two brothers now living, one aged 74 years, the other 59 years old, both in good health.

History and diary of the case.—With exception of gonorrhea twice and syphilis when eighteen years old, patient has always had good health until three years ago. Patient took treatment for six months for syphilis, and has had no symptoms whatever of that disease since.

While lifting, in the Army, caused double direct hernia. Was employed as railroad engineer for twenty-five years after the war; was never in any serious wreck nor received any great mental or physical shocks.

Never indulged in excesses of any kind. Is the father of two girls, both hearty and strong; never showed any signs of constitutional trouble.

History of disease.—Three years ago, while convalescing from lagrippe, was suddenly taken with severe pains in temporal and occipital regions, which was immediately followed by left ptosis, vertical diplopia, the object seen by the left eye being somewhat nearer and on a lower level than that seen by the other eye, which condition has gradually improved.

Also incoordination of muscular movements, dizziness, peculiar manner of walk, heels striking first and the sensation of something soft beneath the feet; sharp, stabbing pains in thighs and calves of legs; constant pain in left hypochondriac region, which lasted about two years and gave way to numbness.

History of present condition.—Body strong, well nourished; pulse 76, strong, regular; respiration 19, free and full; habits good and regular; no heart trouble; no rheumatism; ulner sensibility destroyed; patella reflex absent; sexual powers good as ever; slight left internal strabismus with pupils distinctly showing Argyle-Robertson phenomenon. Inability to stand with eyes closed or to walk in the dark. Unable to walk a mark on the floor; partial anæsthesia of legs and feet; condition along sensory nerves much delayed. Inability to distinguish points at less than four inches on the leg.

Treatment.—This patient was put at once on small doses of strychnine, and this gradually increased until point of toleration was reached, which with this patient was gr. 1-16 three times a day. Digitalis combined with the aromatic spirits of ammonia were used to overcome faulty heart's action. Bowels kept in lax condition by the use of the F. E. cascara sagrada with Tinc. gentian Comp.

RESULTS AFTER SIX MONTHS' TREATMENT.

December, 1895.	June, 1896.
Lightning pains in thighs and calves of legs.	Almost disappeared.
Left ptosis.	No traces.
Inability to stand with eyes closed.	Has no difficulty.
Marked uncertainty in walking.	Walks with increased power.
Girdle sensation marked.	Only noticed at times.

CASE IV.

Thomas J., age, 48; occupation, stone mason; date, June 22, 1894. Hereditary tendencies: Parents, consumption on mother's side.

Clinical history.—Acquired diseases: Fevers, typhoid in 1856; lungs, chronic bronchitis; kidneys, chronic cystitis, gleet; pelvic organs, chronic diarrhea for years; venereal, syphilis pronounced in 1865. Habits as to diet, regular; alcohol, always a drinker; tobacco or drugs, very moderate use of tobacco; venery, moderate.

Sensory phenomena, anæsthesia of both legs and left arm. Attitude, with feet spread. Gait, hamstring, flopping gait. Sense of smell, normal. Eye, pupils, right eye enlarged and react to light and distance; lids, ptosis of right eye; ocular movements, defective in right eye; vision, defective in right eye. Brain, memory, failing; sleep, fair; vertigo, slight. Ear, hearing, defective. Spinal cord, deep reflexes, loss of patellar tendon; delayed sensation, slight; anæsthesia, legs and left arm; hyperæsthesia, both feet; pain, lightning in both legs; coordination, very defective. Pulse, normal; temperature, normal; respiration, embarrassed; voice, husky; fibrillary twitchings, slight; handwriting, defective; condition of urethra, gleet; condition of bladder, cystitis chronic; condition of heart, mitral regurgitation.

Diagnosis: Locomotor ataxia.

After the war had pronounced chancre, followed in six months by sore mouth, etc. In 1878, while painting, suddenly had twitching of right eyelid, followed by ptosis. As the latter improved, eyesight failed and strabismus resulted; now has ptosis, external strabismus, and amaurosis of right eye. In 1890 had lightning pains in left leg and numbness, succeeded by soreness, at points along legs; afterwards involved both lower extremities and arm.

Condition June 22, 1894.—Patient fairly well nourished. Disease of heart. Chronic cystitis and gleet from old gonorrhea; also chronic nephritis. Urine dribbles at times. Anæsthesia of both lower extremities and left arm. Hyperæsthesia of both feet. Loss of patellar tendon reflex, but Argyll-Robertson sign absent. Girdle sensation at times. Lightning pains in legs, followed by sore spots. Incoordination of movement, as shown by inability to walk to line, to stand with eyes shut, to button clothes, or wash with ease. Electricity showed no abnormal formula.

Condition June 20, 1896.—General appearance greatly improved. Has peculiar walk, but not quite so characteristic of ataxia. Anæsthesia much lessened. Loss of patellar reflex; loss of girdle sensation. Does not have lightning pains. Does not have marked difficulty in retaining urine. Sensation in hands and fingers greatly improved. Coordination better.

Treatment.—The treatment in this case has been followed by results as satisfactory as could have been expected. Strychnine was the one drug used in this case. He was given Hall's solution every day for nearly two years. When the use of strychnine was begun, not more than gr. 1-30 three times a day could be tolerated, but this amount was gradually increased until gr. 1-15 was taken three times a day without any disturbance whatever. If for any reason the use of the drug was left off for any length of time the effect was quite noticeable, as relapses commenced whenever he ceased taking strychnine.

PULMONARY TUBERCULOSIS.

The treatment in these cases consisted of permanganate potassium gr. II after breakfast, sp. frumenti and ol. morrhuæ aa oz ss after dinner, acid salicylic gr. x after supper. The permanganate was given in doses of gr. I for the first week, and in only one case—No. 2—was there any stomach disturbance following this dose, and that was soon corrected by having the patient drink freely of hot water immediately after taking the permanganate. Neither the oil nor the salicylic acid gave any disturbance but in two cases.

Case 3 was unable to take oil after his return from furlough. Case 9 in the eighth week became so much worse that it was impossible to keep anything on the stomach for several days; all drugs were discontinued; the stomach washed with hot water; hot soups and beef tea given every three or four hours.

Case 1 had not been able to sleep for several weeks without one-eighth grain morphine at bed time. After the second day of treatment his sleep was better than it had been for three months. No. 8 could not sleep without morphine and was obliged to be propped up almost in a sitting position on account of dyspnœa. In less than a week he could sleep with only two small pillows under the head. In all cases morphine was discontinued.

In a few cases during the first six or seven weeks it was necessary to administer a mild laxative, the f. e. cascara sagrada being the one generally used.

In cases 3, 4, and 9 cardiac stimulants were required on two or three occasions. With the exceptions given above, no drugs were given other than the regular daily prescription. In all cases the patients were given supportive nutritious diet and plenty of it three times daily.

A marked change was noticed in every case in less than one week after treatment began. The first noticeable improvement was in the sleeping at night. Gradually the cough began to decrease in frequency and severity, the expectoration became less tenacious, easily raised, and gradually reduced in quantity. Appetite began improving the second week. There was also improvement in both strength and flesh. During the third and fourth weeks a reduction in respiration and a marked improvement in the cardiac symptoms. After the eighth week there continued a gradual improvement, the temperature ranging from 98° to 99.5° F.; a gradual gain of strength, flesh, and respiratory sounds more clear and distinct. Râles gradually disappearing. And in only two cases has there been either night sweats or hemorrhages after the third week of treatment.

These 13 cases were anything but flattering to begin with. All were afflicted with rheumatism and organic lesions. All were in active service during the war. All have at some time in life indulged freely in drink. Most of them at present will drink anything in the whisky line that they can get hold of. Several have gun-shot wounds which cause a great deal of annoyance, and two have had syphilis. There are other minor afflictions too numerous to mention.

Case I.

William Lormer, Company I, Seventy-sixth Ohio Volunteer Infantry; age, 76; occupation, blacksmith; nativity, England; race, white; widower. Disease, pulmonary tuberculosis.

Family history.—All his relatives on mother's side were consumptive.

HISTORY AND DIARY OF THE CASE.

History of the disease.—Received gunshot wound in chest in 1862. Has been troubled for fifteen years with lung affections. Four years ago his condition became such that he had to give up all work. Had several hemorrhages; night sweats; coughed considerably, though expectoration was scant until one year ago, when it became profuse, of a mucopurulent character. Has been taking creosote and ol. morrhuæ for several months, though condition gradually became more critical.

Condition at beginning of treatment.—Pulse, 89, irregular; temperature, 98° to 103°; respiration, 29; pupil of right eye dilated; senile cataract of left eye; anæmic; greatly emaciated; loss of appetite; bowels irregular; severe cough, with profuse expectoration mucopurulent; dyspnœa; night sweats; frequent slight hemorrhages with occasionally severe ones; dullness over nearly entire left lung; marked depression of supra and infra clavicular regions; broncho-cavernous respiration clearly detected.

After three weeks.—Patient's condition somewhat improved; sleeps well; cough considerably reduced; no night sweats for six nights; appetite improving; gone on a furlough and did not take any medicine.

Ten days later.—Just returned from furlough; condition not so good as at beginning of treatment. Coughs almost constantly; is so weak that it is with much difficulty that he goes about the ward.

Four weeks later.—Good appetite; bowels regular; cough reduced about one-half; expectoration much reduced; dyspnœa upon exertion; sleeps well; gained six pounds in flesh, and walks about one mile every day. Temperature from 98° to 105.5°; respiration, 23; no perceivable changes were detected upon physical examination of chest.

Eleventh week.—Pulse, 76, regular; respiration, 24; temperature, 98.4°; coughs but little during the day, with free and easy expectoration; sleep disturbed at night by hacking cough with scant expectoration. Has had two very slight hemorrhages during the past three weeks. Has a slight chill every six to ten days; this is followed by temperature 102.5° to 104°, which lasts from six to twelve hours. Appetite fairly good; bowels regular; slight pleuritic pain in left chest. Has gained none in weight during past three weeks, though has gained some in strength. Dyspnœa only when exercising; respiratory sounds about as at previous reports. Patient says "that he feels much encouraged; condition better than he had ever expected to be."

Case II.

John S. Birchfield, Company G, One hundred and twenty-sixth Ohio Volunteer Infantry; age, 53; occupation, laborer; nativity, American; race, white; single. Disease, pulmonary tuberculosis.

Family history.—Unknown.

HISTORY AND DIARY OF THE CASE.

History of disease.—First began in 1893 with cough, soon followed by hemorrhage, which recurred frequently, though not very profuse, night sweats at intervals of about one week, loss of flesh, anorexia, anæmic, œdema of feet and ankles, bowels regular, pupils normal. Has taken creosote with tr. digitalis and syr. wild cherry, also wines, sp. frumenti, expectorant mixtures, and various other treatments with temporary improvement.

Condition at beginning of treatment.—Constant cough with profuse expectoration of muco-purulent character; frequent and severe hemorrhages; night sweats, great emaciation, scarcely able to walk, anorexia, bowels regular, temperature varies from 90.5° to 103.4°, anæmic, dyspnœa greatly exaggerated by asthmatic attacks, pulse 90, irregular, œdema of feet and legs to the knees, respiration 26, supra and infra clavicular regions depressed, only slight movements of left chest on breathing, vocal fremitus increased over upper half of left lung. Dullness over supra and infra clavicular regions, with tympanitis over lower portion of mammary region, crackling râles over upper half of lung, cavernous respiration with bubbling râles over lower portion, the same heard at corresponding points on the back.

After four weeks.—Slight cough, expectoration about one-third as much as at first, no night sweats, no hemorrhages since second week of treatment, no œdema of feet and legs, good appetite, gain of 12 pounds in flesh, dyspnœa, no asthmatic attacks, pulse 78, slightly irregular, temperature 100° at 4 p. m., respiration 22, physical examination of the chest revealed no material change, patient says "he will soon be well."

After seven weeks.—Does not cough more than once or twice during the night, slight expectoration, gained 10 pounds in the last three weeks, temperature 99°, pulse 74, regular, great improvement in all ways, patient walks 4 or 5 miles every day.

Eleventh week.—Pulse 80, regular, respiration 27, temperature 100.6° at 3 p. m., had a severe hemorrhage during the ninth week, expectoration and cough very much increased ever since, slight blood stains on expectorated matter at present, sleep much disturbed by coughing, no night sweats, marked dyspnœa, occasional attacks of vertigo, appetite good, bowels regular, has been confined to the hospital since having the last hemorrhage, though is gradually improving now in all respects. I consider the relapse due to patient's becoming very warm and then lying down in a draft. No pain in chest at present, respiratory sounds are about as when first examined.

Case III.

Levi Shalter, Company C, One hundred and thirty-sixth Ohio Volunteer Infantry; age, 59; occupation, farmer; nativity, United States; race, white; married. Disease, pulmonary tuberculosis.

Family history.—Not very good, four of his immediate relatives died of tuberculosis.

HISTORY AND DIARY OF THE CASE.

History of disease.—Trouble first began sixteen years ago with tickling in the throat, which caused a very annoying cough. For the past four years cough has been severe with profuse expectoration.

Condition at beginning of treatment.—Great anæmia, emaciation, œdema of feet and ankles, diarrhea, anorexia, sleep disturbed by almost constant coughing with muco-purulent expectoration in large quantities, profuse night sweats, no hemorrhages, dyspnœa, pulse 130, respiration 30, temperature 101.5°, dullness over upper half of right lung, large moist râles in mammary region of right lung.

After fourth week.—Appetite good, can sleep quietly, has but one coughing spell during the night, expectoration greatly reduced in quantity, no night sweats, gain of seven pounds in flesh, pulse 110, respiration 24, temperature 99°, physical revealed little if any change in lungs, patient says "that he feels like a fighting cock," and is going to take a ninety day furlough.

After seventh week.—Patient just returned from furlough; not able to walk from depot to hospital, did not take treatment while absent, has been dissipating some. He is in all respects as bad if not worse than at beginning of treatment. Three days later, escaped from hospital, went to a saloon, came back drunk, heart's action became much embarrassed, general anasarca developed, and death followed in the eighth week of treatment.

Case IV.

Ira Baker, Company A, Eighteenth United States Infantry; age, 62; occupation, engineer; nativity, United States; race, white; married. Disease, pulmonary tuberculosis.

Family history.—Good; no tuberculosis in any other member.

HISTORY AND DIARY OF CASE.

History of disease.—Trouble first began in 1865 from contracting severe cold, followed by pneumonia, and severe cough with occasional hemorrhage for about one year, when he went to California, and there remained until 1888 with apparent cure of the disease.

In 1889 working on a building fell from a scaffold, breaking right fore arm, hip, and three ribs; since that time lung trouble has been slowly, though constantly increasing. Was treated in National Military Home at Dayton for lung trouble from 1889 to 1895. Had two severe hemorrhages and several light ones while there.

Condition at beginning of treatment.—Anæmic, anorexia, constipation, great dyspnœa, profuse cough and expectoration, profuse night sweats, chills; pulse, 104, slightly irregular; respiration, 45; temperature, 102.5° at 4 p. m., slight movements of right chest wall upon breathing, supra and infra clavicular regions depressed, dullness over nearly entire right lung, gurgling râles with cavernous respiration heard over central portion of right lung.

After four weeks.—Rests better at night, cough and expectoration reduced nearly one-half, one slight hemorrhage during first week of treatment, night sweats occasionally, slight œdema of feet and ankles, respiration 41, pulse 90, temperature 102.5° at 4 p. m., slight movements of right chest wall upon breathing, supra and infra clavicular regions depressed, dullness over nearly entire right lung, gurgling rales with cavernous respiration heard over central portion of right lung.

Fifth week.—Had two chills, great dyspnœa, severe coughing attacks with great quantity of purulent expectoration.

Eighth week.—Condition greatly improved, respiration 30, pulse 80, temperature 99°, cough much reduced, with but little expectoration, slight dyspnœa, one slight hemorrhage, sleeps well, appetite good, gaining strength rapidly, gained 8 pounds in the past three weeks; patient says "he feels better than he has for two years."

Eleventh week.—Pulse 85 regular, strong, respiration 30 after brisk exercise, temperature 99.4° at noon, slight hemorrhage during the tenth week, though did not seem to cause any bad results, slight night sweats about every seventh day, has one coughing spell about midnight every night, after a free expectoration patient becomes quiet and sleeps until morning; has free expectoration after arising, with but very little cough, sometimes none at all. Gradual gain in strength, has gained 18 pounds of flesh in eleven weeks, appetite good, bowels regular, dyspnœa only upon brisk exercise, no vertigo for past four weeks, only slight pains in chest, respiratory sounds much obstructed though there has been a marked change since treatment began.

Case V.

J. S. Thompson, Company —, Fifty-fourth Ohio Volunteer Infantry; age, 53; occupation, farmer; nativity, United States; race, white; married. Disease, pulmonary tuberculosis.

CASE VII.

atrick Doyle, Company I, Seventy-fourth Ohio Volunteer Infantry; age, 52; ivity, Ireland; race, white; single. Disease, pulmonary tuberculosis.
amily history.—Three members of family have died of tuberculosis.

HISTORY AND DIARY OF THE CASE.

istory of disease.—Received gunshot wound in side in 1864, breaking three ribs d passing through under scapula. Has had pain in right lung and some cough ever ce, and at times has been troubled with suppuration of old wound. Cough became severe eight months ago; four severe hemorrhages; night sweats; chills and œdema of feet and legs. Had been treated for two months at St. Elizabeth Hospital of Covington, Ky., but no improvement was made in his condition.

Condition at beginning of treatment.—Pulse 100 regular, soft, respiration 24, marked anæmia, some emaciation, œdema of feet and ankles, movements of right chest restricted, constant pain through left lung increased upon pressure, dullness on percussion over upper half of right lung, obstructed respiratory sounds were distinctly heard, profuse night sweats, fever nearly every day, temperature 102° at 4 p. m., appetite poor, bowels regular, marked dyspnœa upon slight exertion, severe cough with expectoration of mucopus, some hemorrhage every few days, and sleep much disturbed on account of cough.

After five weeks' treatment.—Appetite good, bowels regular, sleeps well at night, no night sweats since first week of treatment, cough about one-third as much as formerly with expectoration very much reduced, pain in chest not so severe, slight œdema of feet and ankles at night, pulse 95 regular, temperature 99.8° at 5 p. m., respiration 22 per minute, gain of 6 pounds in flesh, general condition much improved.

Ninth week.—Marked improvement in all ways, scarcely any cough, temperature 98.5° at 3 p. m., respiration 21, sleeps well, appetite good, walks about 5 miles every day and is gaining flesh.

Eleventh week.—Condition gradually improving, has gained 18 pounds of flesh, has taken a furlough for ninety days.

Case VIII.

James Nelson, Company K, Nineteenth Ohio Volunteer Infantry; age, 62; occupation, laborer; nativity, United States; race, white; widower. Disease, pulmonary tuberculosis.

Family history.—Mother and grandmother died of tuberculosis, also one brother.

HISTORY AND DIARY OF THE CASE.

History of disease.—Early history not very good; contracted syphilis about thirty-five years ago, took treatment for the same only six weeks. Has been troubled with lung affection only three years.

Condition at beginning of treatment.—Coughs almost constantly, profuse mucopurulent expectoration, no hemorrhages, night sweats occasionally, loss of appetite, emaciation, œdema of feet and legs to the knee, dyspnœa, sleep very much disturbed, unable to lie down on account of dyspnœa, respiration 30, temperature 102° at 4 p. m., pulse 85, irregular, distinct râles over entire right lung.

About two years ago began to lose flesh; could eat but little; severe cough; profuse expectoration; hemorrhage occasionally; insomnia; night sweats. One year ago began to complain of constipation with severe pain in stomach and bowels, soon followed by severe vomiting of purulent matter, also at times dar-blood-coffee ground in character; bowels constantly constipated, passages consist mostly of mucopurulent matter; patient became very emaciated; could retain nothing in the stomach, and that with the cough and the pain in the bowels could get no sleep unless under an opiate; has not been out of bed for three months and his death was looked for almost any day.

Condition at beginning of the treatment.—Under previous treatment patient's condition has so improved that he is now able to walk about the ward; pulse 74 per minute; respiration 24 per minute; dullness over upper half of both lungs; bubbling rales distinctly heard over both lungs; coughs but little at present; expectoration profuse at times; bowels constipated; tenderness over entire abdomen most marked over left inguinal region; emaciation; dyspnœe; œdema of feet and legs to knee; appetite good; sleeps but little.

After fourth week.—Bowels regular; very little tenderness over abdomen; mucopurulent discharge from the bowels reduced in quantity; appetite good, can eat most anything; pulse 80 per minute and strong; respiration 20 per minute; no perceivable change in chest symptoms; coughs only once or twice at night; no night sweats; gained some in flesh and much in strength; walks around camp nearly every day.

After eighth week.—Condition, gradually becoming worse; loss of appetite; cough and expectoration increased slightly; gradually losing flesh and strength; bowels very painful, somewhat tympanitic, no movement without use of cathartics or enemata and then mostly purulent in character; almost constant nausea; has been unable to retain anything on the stomach for several days.

Eleventh week.—Condition, very critical; cough increased, with profuse expectoration; abdomen tympanitic; great pain constantly; no passage from bowels except when enemata were used, and then only a mucopurulent matter, and great suffering at these times; patient has retained nothing on stomach for past six weeks, except a very little whisky and ice; some days is unable to retain even this.

CONNECTICUT SOLDIERS' HOME.

FITCH HOME FOR SOLDIERS,
Noroton Heights, Conn., June 30, 1896.

The conditions confronting the physician who has the care and treatment of the veteran soldiers differ materially from those which obtain in general practice.

In the ordinary field of medical work he seeks and expects a cure in a large percentage of his cases. Among the crippled and chronic invalids of the Homes he moves in a different atmosphere, and his anxious study is how he can alleviate suffering and prolong life. When hope is gone, all anchorage is lost, and where sadness has full sway, life is dark indeed. To inspire confidence and hope, to render existence as comfortable as possible, is a mission worthy our highest efforts; and we wrong ourselves, and commit a greater wrong to those entrusted to our care, when we minimize the effort and labor we should constantly put forth in behalf of the feeble and helpless ones. In my observation of cases here I find none that appeal to me more strongly for relief and comfort than those urinary cases which properly come under the head of retention, enlarged prostate, and chronic cystitis. Upon no countenances are depicted more certain evidences of deep anxiety and apprehension. In obstruction of the bowels action may be delayed safely for a time. In Bright's disease, cancer, or consumption the patient may be hopeful, at times even cheerful. Not so with the sufferer from a bladder distended by the retention of urine. The victim is helpless, the doctor is his only hope, and relief can not be delayed. Fortunately, with the various resources at our command, we can promptly relieve, generally by some form of catheter, or, failing in this, by aspiration. In either case we feel that we have started, generally, upon a long and rather rough road for our patient. If fortunate enough to succeed by catheterization in a considerable percentage of those past 70, or even 65 years of age, we have begun a work that must be continued, very likely, to the close of life. In many cases we shall find that the final retention has been preceded by a term of partial retention, frequent, difficult, and painful urination from urethral strictures, or prostatic enlargement; in the aged more commonly the latter of these. Since this condition indicates plainly a mechanical obstruction to the free outflow of urine, we find but little satisfaction from ordinary medication, and less from the extraordinary specifics and proprietary preparations so constantly and persistently thrust upon our notice in the penny envelopes that swell our morning mail. The modern method advocated by many, of attempting to shrivel and reduce the prostate and thus relieve the difficulty by castration, I have not tried, and should not feel justified in trying, as an experiment upon our old men, a measure acknowledged to be attended with danger to life, while not yet proven to be an efficient remedy. In the class under consideration, and which for the sake of brevity I shall denominate bladder cases, the prominent symptoms have many points of similarity, whether the affectation be due to calculus, prostatic enlargement, cystitis, or stricture. These are at least partial retention, with consequent atony of bladder, and a highly irritable condition of bladder and urethra, frequent and unsatisfactory attempts at micturition, resulting in an ammoniacal decomposition of the residual urine. In many cases, especially if the retention be considerable, there is a constant or frequent dribbling of urine sufficient to soil the clothing. This offensive and diseased secretion acts deleteriously upon the urethra, and in much the same manner as a diseased secretion from an inflamed eye does upon the cheek.

The stinging pain at the meatus, the straining for relief, the disturbed sleep from frequent calls during the night, produce their natural reflex action upon the nervous system and digestion, until the entire organism becomes seriously deranged and impaired. This in brief is the history, and it must be admitted that the condition of such patients, and they number many in our Homes, is sad in the extreme.

The best method of dealing with this class of unfortunates is a matter of no small importance. The practice which has been carried out in this Home for several years, and which I propose to continue, may be of interest to others.

While I shall lay no claim to originality in the management of such cases, I shall lay some stress upon the wisdom and benefits of persistence in well-doing. The first step, of course, being to empty the bladder, the next is to cleanse it, and to keep it as clean as possible. As the teeth, mouth, and stomach become foul, washing and cleansing are imperative; but the keeping of these important organs clean is quite as necessary. I will outline some of the processes which seem indicated, and which are practiced here, and the field is so large that much more may be added by others.

The introduction of the catheter (and I always use the soft rubber, or Tieman's velvet eyed; Jaques when it can be passed) should be made with the most exquisite gentleness. It should be remembered that the urethra in many of these cases is extremely sensitive from the long-continued irritation of abnormal urine, and the withdrawal, as well as the introduction of the instrument, should be done with deliberation and care. I have often been pained to witness some would-be experts display their agility in traversing this sensitive canal. Softly, carefully, patiently, let him travel who makes a journey here. Often from mere spasmodic resistance the introduction is delayed. A steady, mild, and long-continued pressure will generally overcome this. After waiting for the urine and its cloudy sediment to pass, I inject from 2 to 5 ounces of warm water, to which are added equal parts of carbolic acid and glycerin, rendering the strength of the solution suited to the individual case in hand, 1 to 2,000, or 1 to 500 or 1,000, as seems demanded. This I inject slowly, inserting the small tube of a Davidson or fountain syringe into the catheter, being careful that the syringe is first well filled and all air bubbles driven out. I know that many surgeons object to this method, recommending the double catheter instead. But with care no unfavorable results need be feared, while the introduction of the double catheter is more difficult and occasions more pain and irritation. This washing is to be kept up until the water voided is clear. In some cases a half dozen injections, or more, at one operation are used, the patient in all cases lying upon a reclining chair used for this purpose. In some cases other solutions are used, acid or alkaline, and often an ounce or a little more of a saturated solution of boracic acid is finally injected and left in the bladder. This practice is kept up in aggravated cases sometimes two to four times a day, generally once a day for months, and years if necessary. I must admit that some of the cases seem for a time to be made worse instead of better by this treatment. But in the long run every case upon which this method has been practiced has improved, and some of them to a remarkable degree. One man of 60, after several weeks of treatment daily or twice a day in hospital, has been transferred to barracks, requiring no treatment for the present. We shall, without much doubt, see him later. Two men past 75 years of age, who have been treated four and two years, respectively, are now enjoying comfortable health, one of them on duty, each waiting upon himself by the occasional use of the catheter. Several are now in hospital being treated in this manner daily. The urethra and bladder, which at first are so highly sensitive that the patient dreads the operation, soon become tolerant, so that the patient is ready and anxious for the service. The introduction of the instrument becomes easier constantly, the way is kept open, dread and apprehension of closure are removed, and life becomes more enjoyable.

Surely to the aged and infirm soldiers this is a matter of importance. In one case of urethral stricture, in which the introduction of a small catheter became extremely difficult, five or six operations by electrolysis so enlarged the passage that for the last two years catheter Nos. 8 and 9 have been used daily without difficulty. This patient is now 76 years old, and during the past four years has not only "held his own," but is far more comfortable than in the early stages of his treatment. How long he may live we can not tell, but we have no expectation that the final collapse will be caused by either cystitis or retention. It is better to have a separate catheter for each case, and to change to new ones often, not using them after they become spongy and soft. Oil should not be used, but a little vaseline of superfine, white quality. Care should be taken that none of the vaseline is rubbed into the eye of the instrument.

A stream of clear, cold water should be run for some time through the instrument after each use, the outside thoroughly washed with cold water and soap, and the instrument kept in a folded, clean towel. Occasional soaking in a bichloride solution is desirable, but thorough cleanliness of all instruments used is the important feature.

We shall find that in some cases of vesical calculus where the patient is old and feeble and unwilling to incur the usual risk of a radical operation, much may be done to prolong life and render existence fairly comfortable and even enjoyable by this method of treatment. If the stone be smooth and moderately nonirritating, its natural tendency to growth may be greatly diminished by removing often all the residual substances which if left inevitably promote its growth by slow accretion. After the washing a small medicated solution suited to the acid or alkaline condition of the secretions is beneficial. I have seen, in consultation with Dr. W. C. Burke of South Norwalk, one of our consulting staff, a case which for some years has be-treated by him in this manner daily. The patient is a nervous dyspeptic with decided opinions of his own, objects to an operation as long as he can live comfortably without it, transacts a good deal of business, and seems to hold his own pretty well at the age of about 70. Might not some of us who consider ourselves quite sensible incline to delay in such a case where delay does not seem to be dangerous?

A proper diet for the class of patients we have been considering is of more use than medicine. The stimulating meat, and coffee, and whisky régime which so many of them desire is an abomination for these cases. The second childhood does best on the diet of the first.

The rheumatic, paralytic, epileptic, and generally crippled old men in our Homes would be far better off to substitute for three-fourths of the meat they use easily digested cereals, soups, fruit, and, above all, milk.

I have thought the foregoing worthy of record, not for the purpose of showing any brilliant results of doubtful and hazardous operations, of which we have here but few, but to emphasize the importance of the patient and smaller services we may render to prolong life, and render existence comfortable and desirable.

Each applicant before being admitted will be required to execute, before an officer having a seal, a formal application, giving (if male) domestic and military history, nature and degree of disability, which will be attested by a practicing physician in good standing, and certificate of identification of at least two persons as to citizenship. If the applicant is a wife, proof of marriage. If a widow, proof of service of her husband and her widowhood must accompany the application, as also evidence as to her identity and citizenship. On receipt of these, due notice will be returned as to acceptance or otherwise. Discharge papers and pension certificates must accompany the application and will be retained in the office of the Home during membership.

Third. No person will be admitted who may be receiving a pension in excess of $12 per month: Provided, however, That such applicant may, by reason of advanced age or other infirmities, be admitted, conditioned upon paying out of such pension such sum as may be required for his or her special care and attention. It is further provided that such application shall, before being accepted, be referred to the executive committee of the board of trustees for their action.

Fourth. Members receiving a pension of $6 or upward will be required to pay for all clothing, tobacco, etc., but such member will not be bound by this rule if he is providing for dependent family.

Fifth. Insane persons will not be admitted, and the surgeon of the Home shall be the sole judge of the fitness of such applicants.

Sixth. Nonpensioners, having requisite qualification for membership, will, in the event of being crowded, be given preference in the order of admission, and members who are in receipt of pensions may, in the discretion of the board of trustees, be discharged or granted leave of absence to make room for those who are without pension and other means of support.

Seventh. Discharged members of the National Home (Marion Branch) will not be admitted until the expiration of two months from the date of such discharge, except as otherwise ordered by the board of trustees.

Eighth. It is expected that all persons admitted to the Home will cheerfully accord the management their support in the enforcement of such rules as may be laid down for their guidance, and to perform such reasonable service as may be required and is warranted by their physical condition.

All necessary blanks will be furnished on application to James R. Carnahan, president of the board of trustees, Indianapolis, Ind., to whom all correspondence relative to admission should be addressed. These rules shall be in force until such time as they may be changed by the board of trustees of the Home.

LAFAYETTE, IND., March 2, 1896.

On motion it was decided that in case of all male members of the Home, except those whose wives are with them, the commandant should retain all pensions in excess of $8 per month. In the case of female members of the Home, all in excess of $6 per month. In case a husband and wife are both within the Home the commandant is to retain all in excess of $12 per month. The sums thus retained are to be sent to those dependent on such pensioners for support. And in case such pensioners have no one depending upon them for support it shall be turned into the treasury of the Home.

By order of the board.

54TH CONGRESS, 2d Session. } HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES. { DOCUMENT No. 274.

BRANCH HOMES FOR DISABLED VOLUNTEER SOLDIERS.

LETTER

THE SECRETARY OF WAR,

TRANSMITTING

THE REPORT OF THE INSPECTOR-GENERAL OF THE ARMY OF THE ANNUAL INSPECTION OF THE SEVERAL BRANCHES OF THE NATIONAL HOME FOR DISABLED VOLUNTEER SOLDIERS.

FEBRUARY 9, 1897.—Referred to the Committee on Military Affairs and ordered to be printed.

WAR DEPARTMENT,
Washington, D. C., February 6, 1897.

SIR: I have the honor to transmit herewith the accompanying report by the Inspector-General of the Army of the annual inspection of the several Branches of the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers, made in compliance with the provisions of the act of Congress approved August 18, 1894.

Very respectfully,

DANIEL S. LAMONT,
Secretary of War.

The SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WAR DEPARTMENT,
INSPECTOR-GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Washington, D. C., February 4, 1897.

SIR: I have the honor to submit the following report of the annual inspection of the several Branches of the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers under the provisions of the act of Congress approved August 18, 1894; during which personal visits were made from July 21 to November 1, 1896, and the preliminary and subsequent work lasted from early summer until now. The duty imposed entailed an inspection of the entire plant valued at not less than $7,500,000; its financial departments, with their intricate methods and accounts and vouchers representing nearly $5,000,000; its supply departments, with their great amount and endless variety of property and stores, valued at hundreds of thousands of dollars; its medical departments, with their several thousand sick; its complex and bulky system of records and papers; its numerous buildings from cellar to garret; its large and constantly increasing population of over 17,000 men; and involved a travel of several thousand miles from the Atlantic to the Pacific shore in a midsummer, when men and animals were daily reported in the neighboring cities as overcome by the heat, and at times it was thought best not to inspect the men in line nor subject them to exposure. It is hardly best to give an account here of the minutiae of this inspection, so reference is made to the appendixes, as has been customary in former reports. The work is not an insignificant undertaking.

Special attention is invited to the report of Col. Dallas Bache, Assistant Surgeon-General United States Army, who assisted in the inspection of the Southern Branch with a view to a more thorough knowledge of its medical and hygienic features. As to the wisdom of such assistance occasionally in the inspection, if not in the permanent control, of such a Home for disabled men, a perusal of Colonel Bache's excellent report will afford the best demonstration. It is understood the desirability of such services has received some attention, and they have been offered to the Home authorities, though not yet adopted for the Home. The accountant of the department assisted throughout this inspection, especially with papers and accounts. The law requires this inspection to be thorough. The assistance of a medical and a financial expert and of an analyst for food seemed specially important and readily accessible; and the benefit to be derived from such special knowledge and experience, where utilized, is evident. If such assistance for the inspection is deemed objectionable by Congress, it is hoped its pleasure will be indicated in the premises.

In collecting and summarizing data at the Branch Homes occasional difficulties have been met; but the effort to obtain it invites attention sometimes to where it may be needed; and when the information and statistics are habitually received accurately and promptly, the inspection is greatly facilitated and its complete thoroughness insured. In such a simple matter, for instance, as the number of barracks or storehouses, or the number of persons present, confusing statements have been given.

The Branches are generally in good condition and the grounds admirably kept, and some of the buildings are models of neatness and order and design. How to improve or replace those that are not deserves constant attention. The question of cleanliness will be recognized at once as deserving attention, whether in grounds, buildings, bedding, person, or clothes; and the more public the place the more probable the success. Food and proper ventilation are the first essentials of health; and the former seems rather more satisfactorily met than the latter, though both are successfully supplied at some Branches, except as vitiated by overcrowding. In no particular is deterioration noted. Wherever any change is being effected it seems an improvement; and the earnestness and zeal with which the task and duty assigned these Homes are being met deserve warm commendation.

DISBURSEMENTS.

Amount appropriated for the support of the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1896	$2,514,846.00
Including for special construction	173,500.00
Leaving for maintenance	2,341,346.00
To this was added—
From posthumous sources	43,674.74
From sales and other sources	61,859.33
From disallowances	982.62
Making a total of	2,447,862.69

From this amount there was expended to September 30, 1896:
For maintenance—
By disbursing officers	$2,198,002.16
By Treasury settlements	134.89
By allowances	2,160.41
	2,200,297.46
For posthumous repayments	22,841.63
		2,223,139.09
Balance		224,723.60
Of this balance there was undrawn from the Treasury		104,865.11
Surplus funds turned in by general treasurer		99,764.31
Remaining in hands of treasurers		20,094.18
		224,723.60
Of the amount appropriated for special construction		173,500.00
There was expended		173,257.46
Leaving unexpended		242.54
Distributed as follows:
Turned into Treasury	$21.37
In treasurer's hands	221.17
		242.54

While the amount of unexpended balances held by the general treasurer is much smaller than the amount held at the corresponding date last year, there does not seem to be any reason why any funds not needed for current monthly expenditures should be held, if these funds are regarded as public funds; for not only has the Secretary of the Treasury, under authority vested in him by law, directed that such funds should be redeposited in the Treasury promptly after the close of the fiscal year, but Congress as late as May 28, 1896, amended section 3621, Revised Statutes, to include "disbursing officers having moneys in their possession not required for current expenditure" in the enactment that "they shall pay the same to the Treasurer, an assistant treasurer, or some public depositary of the United States, without delay, and in all cases within thirty days of their receipt."

The general treasurer also carries a balance of cash on hand, and does not make all his payments by check, as required by the general laws governing the disbursement of public money; nor are some of his disbursements of funds relating to the several Branches approved, as apparently required by Treasury regulations; nor is the law requiring that funds shall be drawn from the Treasury only in favor of the person entitled to the payment always observed.

Estimates and appropriations.

The following statement presents a summary of the estimates and appropriations for the support of the Home and the amount unexpended of such appropriations during the past three years, as shown by the records to December 31, 1896:

Fiscal year.	Estimates of Board of Managers.	Appropriated by Congress.	Unexpended balances.
1894	$2,620,348.41	$2,379,872.99	$183,741.03
1895	2,530,131.70	[1]2,447,531.74	247,691.30
1896	2,711,326.06	2,514,846.00	224,966.14
Total	7,861,806.17	7,342,150.73	656,398.47

[1]This amount includes $123,058.74 appropriated from posthumous funds that were lying idle in the hands of Branch treasurers.

Per capita expense.

The reports of previous years show the cost per capita based on the amount expended for maintenance for the fiscal year 1894 as $141.41 and for 1895 as $128.78. The amount expended for maintenance for the fiscal year 1896, as shown by the accounts to September 30, 1896, appears to be $2,200,297.47, and the average present 17,451, making the cost per capita for that year $126.08. This does not include the amounts expended from the post fund, such as the pay of the band, pension clerks, and other items, which at other than the National Homes go to increase their cost. A comparison between the cost per capita under the several heads show a slight increase over 1895 in the cost of clothing, subsistence, and current expenses, and a decrease in repairs, hospital, farm and household, and the general appropriation for salaries and incidental expenses.

The care and economy exercised in the disbursements of these funds were everywhere in evidence; and if the expenditures of the post fund, which last year aggregated nearly $458,000, were as efficiently supervised, possibly similar results might follow.

Deposit of funds.

The various laws and regulations relating to the deposit of public funds looking to their safe-keeping, give preference to the placing of such funds in a United States subtreasury. The wisdom of such a rule is apparent from the frequent announcements of the closing of other depositories. While under the laws requiring bonds to be given to secure the balances, no loss may ultimately occur, much inconvenience is possible by even the temporary locking up of such funds until the depositories' affairs can be adjusted. In two instances the funds of the Home are kept in national banks in the same city in which a subtreasury is located. While it may be necessary to keep the balances of the post fund, owing to its daily cash receipts, in a local depository, possibly the balances of the general and pension funds might be placed with the assistant treasurers. These balances frequently exceed $500,000, and the idle pension balance of one of the Branches alone is apparently over $80,000.

It is again noted that the general treasurer does not always test by collection the checks remitted to him by the Branch treasurers, but merely indorses and returns them to the drawer. Experience has shown the necessity of the regulations which require that all checks transferring funds should not only be deposited, but should be remitted direct to the depositary to be placed to the credit of the receiving officer. In many instances, idle balances were found in the hands of the Branch treasurers, possibly due to the transfer to those officers of funds not needed nor requested for present disbursement, as for special construction; and in some cases, where such excess under one head was noted, a deficiency under another head existed.

Special funds.

The accounts relating to the various funds held by the president of the Board of Managers, outside of and additional to those held by the general treasurer, were inspected, and show but little change since last report. To the balance reported at last inspection ($67,046.13) interest on the Ward-fund bonds, amounting to $1,848.27, was added; and from these amounts the principal disbursements were $274 from the Stinson legacy for a clock at the Marion Branch dining hall, and $4,014.87 from the Ward fund, covering $3,019 for cold storage at the Pacific Branch, $300 for lease of gas land at the Marion Branch, and $350 for services in closing General Franklin's accounts as acting treasurer and preparing bills for Congress.

The balance on October 20, 1896, was as follows:

Ward fund		$60,208.07
Stinson legacy		442.58
Butler settlement		2,354.88
Improvement fund, Western Branch		1,600.00
Total		64,605.53
Distributed as follows:
North Carolina bonds	$10,000
Tennessee bonds	33,300
Virginia bonds	15,000
		58,300.00
Phœnix Bank, Hartford, Conn		3,950.65
Cash on hand		2,354.88
Total		64,605.53

Post fund.

It was noted at some of the Homes that a great deal of the work on the post accounts arose from the furnishing of transportation to members going on furlough, and at others, where arrangements had been made with the railroad companies to issue the usual half-fare ticket to the member on presenting evidence of his membership, the Home treasurer's office was saved much labor. Is it not practicable to extend the latter methods to all the Branches? At one Branch they were forced to it, because the supply of coupons was exhausted, and no inconvenience to the members was reported. It should not be difficult to show the railroad officials the advantages of a cash system over one involving bills, vouchers, and accounts.

The provisions of law authorizing the Home to procure from the Ordnance Department ammunition for the morning and evening gun, and for firing squads, did not seem to be known at some of the Branches, and they were purchasing powder and cartridges for such purposes from their post fund. A preference for buying stores for themselves can, of course, hardly dominate such questions.

SUPPLY DEPARTMENTS.

Barracks.

The barracks are very satisfactory at some places, though not at others; but recent constructions are generally excellent and their appointments meet the most modern views. The overcrowding noted in previous reports did not seem to have decreased during the past year. Indeed, why should it? A resolute endeavor would be necessary to stop it. Enough dormitories have perhaps been built during this Administration to empty the so-called "gopher holes" and dark and questionable sleeping places; but the pressure for any sort of a place within the Homes has not ceased, and some sort of provision seems essential. At one Home the upright lockers standing between beds were being replaced by the old-time boxes that fit under the beds and admit of greater crowding, though already the proper allowance of air and space seemed trenched upon; and the sleeping in basements has not lessened. Where electric lighting has been introduced, the air possibly should be less vitiated than in dormitories lit by gas and without ventilating chimneys or louvers.

Perhaps enough has been said in reports from year to year as to either the successes attained or the failures marked. Plumbing and cleanliness are generally good, and the bedding is improving and carefully watched, though decidedly superior at some Branches than at others; and there should be fewer bedbugs: but ventilation and bathing facilities leave much room for criticism. Something more than water and soap seems required at several Branches: and what a bather should be given as toweling may seem insignificant: but when it is utterly inadequate to dry the person, or is a roller towel already used a score of times for the hands and face, evidently bathing can not be tempting. And a towel for one or more dozen men, and apparently not always changed daily, is hardly a liberal allowance.

Complete information as to cost of barracks per cubic foot, or some other adopted unit of measure, has not been obtained; and comparison between Branches of the economical methods and work, or with outside work, can not be made, however suggestive or desirable.

Bedsteads. The endurance and cheapness of an iron bunk and its importance in the life of a member in an institution established for disabled men, who certainly will grow feebler with increasing years, would seem to fairly warrant the purchase of nothing less than a 3-foot bunk hereafter. The reasons for a cleanly, comfortable, creditable bed and bedding are too patent to need argument. Some may think the old way and supplies are good enough, though the Government can do better without undue expense or effort, for such men as are collected in these Homes; but it is submitted that where improvement is practicable it should be made. A narrow cot, a flimsy mattress, bugs, counterpanes with holes, a pair of sheets per month, the makeshifts for warmth and comfort, the absence of foot rugs or slippers, and the storage of wearing apparel and other articles under the bedding may be less or no more usual now than ten years ago; but if the opposite condition were made universal, no matter how gradually, evidently there is something about it that does not seem undesirable. The labor, care, and expense are not excessive; and some of the Branches have proved how success can be attained in most of these particulars. The 3-foot bunk seems needed, not only for comfort, but as some protection against the vitiated air in such dormitories as are habitually overcrowded. It is believed that much that is unhealthful or objectionable in this could be remedied inexpensively if a reliable and experienced medical director were assigned to duty with these old soldiers under ordinary military supervision and esprit de corps.

Food. Some of the dining halls and kitchens seem the perfection of cleanliness and are excellently managed, and the worst are not discreditable, and it is believed they never were. The food is generally of good quality, well cooked and ample; and these Homes present a striking example of what can be accomplished by economical and skillful methods, which deserve the attention of all interested in messing large bodies of men. With such neatness and attractiveness even the plainest food appeals to the palate. If more is possible under the circumstances, it can be left to the zealous and intelligent efforts of the officers in charge to discover it and the best means to meet it.

The immense quantities in which subsistence supplies are purchased by these Branches, amounting to many thousand pounds per month, should secure the most favorable terms. The extremes in contract prices prevailing during the last quarter of the year are indicated in the following articles:

Articles.	Branch.	Price per 100 pounds.
		Minimum.	Maximum.
Flour	Western	$1.40
	Southern		$2.25
Coffee	Eastern	16.75
	Pacific		21.65
Tea	do	14.45
	Northwestern		32.00
Bacon	Central	6.37
	Western		8.53

It seems fair that grade and quality should be alike for all, but such differences may be due to transportation, quality, brand, or other causes. In one instance, two of the Branches purchased tea in the same market at a difference of $5 per 100 pounds, which seemed to more than offset difference in cost of transportation; and in another, three Branches bought their oleomargarine in the same city, the one nearest by over 500 miles paying over $1 more per 100 pounds than the one most remote from that market. Praise is due the officials for what they have already accomplished, and their continued efforts and watchful care are a guaranty that the interests of the Government may not suffer. The average cost per capita for subsistence was about $56 for the past year.

The bowls in use appeared to be a cheap and brittle crockery, costing about one-third as much and the breakage being about five times as great as in the Army.

Property.

As the expenditure of money became more regular in conforming to the rules regulating the deposit and disbursement of public funds, it seemed desirable to devote more attention than had previously been possible to the business methods relating to property. A call was made for the necessary statement, somewhat similar to that used for funds or to that used for property in the Army, in advance of the visit, but they generally had not been prepared prior to my arrival; and possibly some disinclination may exist to furnishing these statements, as there was to submitting certain funds when these inspections began. Unless such inspections meet with cheerful alacrity and ready assistance and a receptive spirit from all, the difficulties are unnecessarily increased and the fullest success restricted. A telegraphic call was also made for certain samples of food, to be simultaneously submitted for expert chemical analysis: but these matters are held in abeyance, as it has seemed best to take up seriatim in this inspection what pressed for attention and make it as thorough and complete as the opportunities and the limited means at hand permitted, but stop short where the opposition would clearly compel an imperfect inspection. With a patient and decided effort, it is not doubted that this public duty will ultimately be correctly adjusted, and apparently while progressing toward this end it is accomplishing all that was expected by those who established it. The readiness of this Department to comply with the behests of Congress concerning this duty seems sufficiently evident, whether to discontinue or proceed with it. The question presented seems to be simply what the best methods and the public interests require: whether lax or exact methods are desired and satisfactory; whether those usual with Government accountability or for a private corporation are desired. In short, whether money appropriated by Congress shall be expended for the purposes for which it was appropriated; and Government money shall be expended in the Government way. Whatever the law indicates is decided upon, it is the duty of this Department to try to help execute.

A simple, clear, uniform, and rigid system of accountability and responsibility for both money and property, and in the distribution and performance of duty, is of course essential in so large and expensive an institution; and in some points it seems hardly to have been attained. For instance, the amount of property in actual existence in store or use, but not on the quartermaster's bulky volumes, has already invited remarks, and seems excessive for surplus stores, which indeed should never be allowed.

The value of the property classed as imperishable (which does not include articles consumed in the using, such as subsistence, medicines, etc.), may be estimated from the statement that nearly $200,000 worth of such property had been condemned during the year. Are not values in property as much a responsibility as values in money, and should not the same accountability extend over each, as they are convertible each for the other? And should there not be a property return submitted at stated periods accounting for all property received and expended, just as is now done for funds, and as is done in the Army for both funds and property? Such a return seems to be required to reconcile the apparent differences between the reports of the issuing and receiving officers.

Property and stores seem to have received good care and supervision considering their scattered and inadequate storage places and these business methods.

Clothing. The price of clothing is changed from year to year, dependent upon the cost of manufacture; yet in charging to the members the value of clothing not accounted for by them, the value of the clothing at the date it was received was not charged, but they are expected to pay the price fixed by regulations in 1883. Should not the members receive the benefit of the reduced price, as in the sale of subsistence to officers and others?

Shop accounts. The shop accounts have been receiving some attention, with a view to improvement. Under the new methods the shop appears to be charged with the value of the material issued and the cost of service, and credited with the value of the work done, based upon the probable rate of pay for such services outside the Home. Thus a member who was paid 35 cents per day would have his services rated at from $1 to $1.50 per day, and other rates accordingly, and so the profit to the shop is apparently a matter of estimate. This possibly accounts for some of the varying per cent of profits on the stated value of articles fabricated in the shops of the several Branches, as follows:

	Average profit.
Eastern Branch	0.033
Pacific Branch	.052
Central Branch	.081
Northwestern Branch	.128
Marion Branch	.200
Southern Branch	.208
Western Branch	.427

The bakery at the Pacific Branch shows a small loss, while that at the Western shows a gain of 38 per cent. All the shops at the Eastern Branch closed out without gain or loss, except the soap shop, at which a gain of 47 per cent is reported, while the soap shop at Marion reports only 9 per cent, and at the Western nearly 75 per cent. While these shop accounts may be interesting to keep, they do not seem to have much practical value, as the profits stated are not actual gains, but theoretical estimates, and no loss in the value or quantity of the material used need appear.

MEDICAL DEPARTMENTS.

Hospitals. These institutions come high in importance, and possibly next to the dining halls and kitchens in perfection of construction at some of the old Branches, where the admirable dormitories predominating at the newest seldom appear; but here too the limit of space has been reached, and the buildings and rooms added from time to time to the medical departments indicate their growing need. With an average daily sick of over 2,400, resources are taxed to the utmost in giving well-deserved care to all sufferers. Where women nurses have been employed, improvement has been effected in the service. The suggestion of divorcing the Army and Navy Hospital at Hot Springs, Ark., from the active force and devoting it to the care of these disabled veterans is submitted for consideration. The sick and the helpless and the feeble need our first attention; and the lack of a central medical authority is much felt, and uniformity of administration and methods has suffered in consequence.

Medicines. It is important that all drugs and preparations procured for these old veterans should be the best attainable, purchased from reliable dealers by experts, if possible, with facilities to test their purity and potency, and no old stock or deteriorated drugs should be accepted. The combined list of medicines used at the different Branches seems large enough to embrace every variety in the market. The Home officials have not as yet availed themselves of the privilege of purchasing army medical supplies under the act of June 11, 1896, but the law may be too recent for immediate results. They are not limited to the 223 articles on the army list, nor even to the 600 or more medicines they are now using if more are needed to cure the sick, and if there are any articles it is desirable the Home should obtain through this means under reasonable regulations the law now seems to authorize it. From the contracts on file in this office it appears that nearly 1,500 gallons of alcohol were contracted for at the various Branches at an average of $2.40 per gallon, and nearly 5,000 gallons of whisky at an average of $2.14 per gallon. As the Government does not pay the internal-revenue tax of $1.10 per gallon, the medical department of the Army is possibly enabled to purchase articles subject to that tax at lower rates.

The dead. There were 1,171 deaths during the year, of which 206 occurred outside of the Home, giving a slightly greater rate of mortality than reported for the preceding year. Nearly 80 per cent of these men were buried at the Home cemeteries, which, with the present rate of interment, are rivaling our national cemeteries, and may deserve to be placed on an equal footing, like that at the Southern Branch or at the Soldiers' Home for regulars; thus leaving it to the officials of the Home to care for the living in their charge and permitting another branch of the public service already established, and performing its duty equally well, to take care of the last resting place of our dead. It is unnecessary to say at which Branches this change would be the greatest boon; but would it not be acceptable and decorous at most of them?

ADMINISTRATION.

Officers.

The officials have shown commendable zeal and efficiency in conducting affairs at the Branch Homes, and their efforts are praiseworthy; though occasionally there is lack of uniformity in methods or responsibility. Who should have direct charge of work and property and tools and where the personal touch of the governor, doctor, treasurer, or quartermaster, or some subordinate of either, excludes the others, are matters which have received attention at more than one Home, and deserve still more. Uncertainty in such matters is undesirable. Perhaps the varying quality and harmony among the officers at the several Branches make uniformity throughout the whole Home difficult; but the greatest practical efficiency at each seems eminently desirable. It would be beneficial if the division of duties among the officers at the Branches assimilated as nearly as possible to that of an Army post, which long experience has demonstrated is best for an aggregation of old soldiers. This natural division gives the commandant an assistant to take charge of the sick, of the well, and of the material (whether money or property). The original law authorized such a quartet in a governor, deputy governor, treasurer, and doctor. One of the troubles at the Branches seems founded on the failure to follow the wise provision of the organic law and the natural distribution of the essential duties under whatever titles may be chosen. The Dayton and Milwaukee Branches have officers performing adjutant or inspection duties with marked success and benefit. The newer Branches already need another officer, and if one could be assigned to this class of duties it would be in the direction possibly most needed.

Members.

The average number of officers and members reported present during the year was 17,451, which is an increase of 974 over the number reported for the previous year, and an average of 4,233, or 19.5 per cent, was constantly absent, making the total number of members present and absent during the year 21,684. The per cent of constant absentees for the two preceding years was 18.46 for the fiscal year 1895 and 19.10 for 1894; so it seems about 19 per cent of the men carried on the rolls are not living at the Home.

Among some State Homes there is an active movement for removing names of unaided absentees which cumber the rolls and files indefinitely, and give privileges which may appear sometimes to militate against those who have never received any benefit from the Home before; and it seems no hardship to drop men who apparently are not in need of its benefits.

Pensioners.

By far the greater number of the members are pensioners. At the close of the year over 82 per cent of the members on the rolls, or 18,531, were pensioners, who received pensions through all intermediate grades from $6 to $72 per month. The amount paid them during the year was nearly $2,500,000; and there was a balance held to their credit by the treasurers amounting to over $200,000 and representing the savings of 3,149 men, of whom 171 had been transferred to insane asylums and 108 were not within reach as their addresses or residences were not known. These funds are now lying idle in depositories. Active soldiers are given the right to deposit funds with the United States, and it seems reasonable and fair to give these disabled ones a similar privilege.

Discipline.

The discipline is generally acceptable, though if the number of trials may be taken as a measure of judgment, there has been a deterioration as compared with the previous year. During the past year about 27 per cent of the average number of members present were tried for breaches of discipline, which is 4 per cent more than for the preceding year. Liquor seems to be the cause of most offenses. A good many worries come to the innocent and unoffending three-fourths of an institution, when the other fourth persist in over-indulgence; and the struggle of the Branch Homes against intemperance is liable to be in evidence. The efforts at one Branch in suppressing the haunts of vice in the vicinity of the Home and removing temptation from the feeble-minded and disabled seem to have met with exceptional success and borne good fruit and are worthy of emulation. At one Branch no intoxicating liquors are sold on the grounds.

Amusements.

Something more than mere food, shelter, and clothing seems due these men, and until adequately supplied perhaps the Homes are not all they should be. Even the active army devotes set times to manly and military sports. The proper occupation, and even the innocent amusement, of so large an aggregation of men without the refining presence of equal numbers of women and children has received considerable, and deserves more, attention and effort. To keep their interest enlisted and attention engaged in all worthy matters may be so natural as not to require any special effort; but the need must be recognized in this as in every home in the land. Some places seem to lack little conveniences that render them comfortable; and Congressional appropriations seem to have given no church to any Branches. The need of a proper place for divine worship is most felt at the younger Branches, particularly the Pacific; where an unsightly frame, that would make a poor barn at most, is used for the purpose. Even the beer halls lack something or appear grosser than is essential to such profitable institutions.

Outdoor relief.

Years ago attention was invited to the unseemly sleeping places and overcrowding of hundreds of these veterans at some of the Branches. Since then enough buildings have been erected either by State or national expenditure to provide for this surplus population, but little or no relief is shown in this objectionable feature. Surely all the members should be housed like men, and the congested condition of the Home and the constantly increasing throng of needy and worthy men pressing to its doors for shelter, food, and care calls for some prompt measure of relief. If the temporary character of an institution limited to a single generation were persistently recognized throughout its entire system, possibly the amounts expended would go much further in affording relief to the disabled.

Under the present pressure for relief, three methods suggest themselves: First, to increase the present plant; second, to build new Branches; and third, to provide for the members at their private homes. It is respectfully submitted that all three are pressingly needed. The mere building of barracks is not all that is necessary. Other incidental expenses follow as a matter of course. The barracks furnish only the shelter; and the kitchens, the hospitals, the storehouses, and other necessary adjuncts are now crowded beyond their capacity and may need to be correspondingly increased. In the $500,000 expended from post and general funds in permanent improvements during the last four fiscal years, including 1897, apparently some three-fifths have not been for dormitories. A new Branch on a comprehensive plan capable of development would doubtless in time relieve some of the pressure. But either adding to old or building new Branches will consume time; and as stated in a previous report we can not build as fast as grim want grows upon the thousands who are already appealing for relief, nor even fast enough to meet the present wants of men that should appeal to our sense of honor and patriotism. Their wants are for to day, not a year hence, when some of the buildings may be completed.

We need not ask who is to be benefited, and when. If unworthy, nothing should be bestowed; if worthy, the paraphernalia of an expensive Home the sufferer is too late to enter is useless to him. It does not come like relief to the disabled if they ask for bread and are offered a stone. The simple question is, What is the best and most prompt and economical method of extending needed and deserved relief to all these actually disabled old soldiers, and render it unnecessary to unduly overcrowd them, or confine relief to a favored few? Thousands of dollars put into brick and wood for future and growing needs may be very good. But the unexpended balances for the past three years amounted to over $600,000, and might bring comfort now in their day of need and in such wintry weather to be enjoyed while still alive. Some say that the maximum membership of the Home will probably be reached in from eight to ten years, and the buildings are larger now than may be needed after a score of years. Would it therefore be wise to let these men continue to suffer while we attempt to build barracks or new Branches for all, even during the most crowded winter? The men seeking the shelter of the Home to-day do so generally not from choice, but are driven to it by distress. There are many members now in the Home who have expressed in letters to this office the hope that such relief would be given them so they could return to their families and leave a place for some poor comrade now without shelter or home. Perhaps it may be due or permissible to present their petition with some special earnestness.

It has been practically demonstrated in some of the States and at the regular Home that it is possible to provide the aged and disabled soldiers with relief at their own homes. There are effective agencies employed for the distribution of this relief through the town, the county, the State, or through Homes; showing that a widespread desire exists to ameliorate the condition of these worthy veterans in this manner. By this direct distribution of the fund there is no expense for costly barracks, ornamentation of grounds, maintenance of bands, theatrical companies, and a small army of officials; but the old soldier gets it all in the midst of his home associations, his wife, his children, and his friends. To those who are without these associations the National Home offers its sheltering care; but why should those who can have them be denied them, and at an additional cost to the Government? Doubtless a plan can be found, if desired, by which extravagance can be avoided; and Congress can at all times limit the appropriation. The overcrowding at the Homes may not be creditable, and the exclusion of so many deserving men entirely from these benefits seems severe. Is there any other method to fully meet this duty, except away from these Branches? The generosity of Congress to the old veterans in this and all matters is a characteristic of our times. Nothing greater can be asked. But is there not a pressing need to have the old law establishing outdoor relief duly recognized during this severe season and these hard times? It has been practically demonstrated how such relief can be economically and efficiently managed whenever its benefits are extended again properly to the National Home.

If it is deemed best to build a new Branch, would it not be best to locate one in the South, where less expensive and more speedily constructed buildings may be erected and the household expenses be kept down without loss of comfort to the men?

Changes noted.

It may not be inappropriate to refer at this time to some of the changes which have occurred and their trend. The net cost per capita, based upon the amounts appropriated for maintenance, not including receipts from sales and other sources, has been reduced during the past four years over 22½ per cent; while the average present has been increased during the same period about 19 per cent. The active interest taken by Congress in the affairs of the Home is shown by the enactment of laws requiring the Secretary of War to exercise the same supervision over all receipts and disbursements of the Home as for the Army, and providing for a general treasurer, who should not be a member of the Board of Managers, and who should be bonded to the United States, and the bonding of the Branch treasurers to him; the fixing of the salaries of the officers and employees of the Board; the more prompt rendition of accounts; the classification of all employees; the consolidation of appropriations for clothing under one head; the right to use funds received from sales; the use of penalty envelopes; the shipment of certain stores direct to the place where used; the transfer of the posthumous fund, $152,232.63, then lying idle, and the surplus subsequently accruing, to the general fund; the limiting of the disbursements to the amounts appropriated therefor; the prohibition of expenditures from the general fund for new buildings without Congressional authority; the payment of mileage to officers instead of actual expenses; the annual inspection under the Secretary of War of the disbursements, management, discipline, records, and condition of the Home; the issue by the Ordnance Department of the Army, of ammunition, etc., for the morning and evening gun and for firing squads; and the right to purchase medical and hospital supplies from the Medical Department of the Army; and in addition to these, a series of rules and regulations for the audit of the accounts with forms for accounts current and vouchers were prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury under authority of law of long standing.

As a result of this legislation and executive action it certainly seems that a more strict and prompt accounting has been obtained, and a greater economy in the use of public funds, without detriment, but with positive benefit to the service for which they have been so generously appropriated. This ought to be satisfactory to all concerned.

In conclusion, I beg to invite attention to the need of clerical assistance in handling the vast amount of work connected with this institution. At times it seems that all the clerks in this office are engaged on Soldiers' Home matters to the exclusion of their former duties, and for months during inspection Sundays and nights are occupied, though their additional duties scarcely receive any outside recognition. The work so done may have borne the fruit intended by those who established it, but it should be fairly provided for.

Respectfully submitted.

J. C. BRECKINRIDGE,
Inspector-General.

The SECRETARY OF WAR.

APPENDIX A.

No. 1.—Report of an Inspection of the Eastern Branch, made July 21, 1896.

There has been no change in the officers of this Branch during the year. They seemed to be impressed with the responsibility of their duties and to endeavor to perform them to the best of their ability. In a former report it appeared that the commissary officer expended and controlled cash which was carried on the treasurer's books. As to property, some overlapping of direct control and methods of business seems to have existed.

DISBURSEMENTS.

The accounts and disbursements of the treasurer were examined from October 21, 1895, the date of last inspection, to July 21, 1896, inclusive, involving $493,210.62, pertaining to the general, pension, and post funds. The expenditures, as shown by vouchers and transfers, amounted to $421,345.23, leaving a balance on hand of $71,865.39, which consisted of $996.43 cash in the hands of the treasurer, and $70,868.96 on deposit in bank.

General fund.

During the past fiscal year the treasurer received on account of the general fund $249,577.35, which includes $3,308.78 received from posthumous sources, and $7,468.57 from sales. The expenditures for the same period were $231,538.51, of which nearly one-fourth was disbursed in currency. At the date of inspection there were $20,266.40 on deposit and $374.51 cash on hand pertaining to this fund. The excess of 10 cents was due to an error in drawing a check for payment of a voucher.

Improvements and repairs.

The only new building reported made during the year was the new frame barrack, at a cost of $6,983. It can accommodate 125 men and is occupied by Company H, and therefore costs $55.86 per capita, which can be compared with prices at other Branches. The boggy nature of the ground usually requires piling for foundation. Possibly the present hospital would answer much better for barracks, in which men do not remain so constantly; and a modern hospital with the best scientific construction might wisely be erected. No new constructions have been authorized for the present fiscal year, except the building of a new barn, for which $2,800 was appropriated. A new coal shed at the wharf at Randolph, Me., for the use of the Home is much needed to replace the one destroyed by the freshet last spring. The amount expended on repairs during the year is reported at $16,318.92. The most considerable repairs upon one structure were made on the old bakery building, which was converted into quarters for convalescents.

Pension fund.

From this fund $246,913.72 was disbursed during the year, leaving a balance of $26,351.87 due the pensioners at the close of the year. The United States bonds ought many years ago with the idle balance of this fund were sold nd the proceeds, $8,620, deposited with the Granite National Bank of ugusta, Me., to the credit of the treasurer on account of the pension ind. It would seem the pensioners or the Home should receive some enefit from it. The treasurer reports that the Shawmut National ank of Boston, Mass., in which is kept the account with the general ind, charges the Home for the collection of checks, and so to avoid his expense the checks are sent through the Granite National Bank of ugusta. Why should not the accounts of the general and pension inds, at least, be kept with the United States sub-treasurers? At the lose of the year there were 2,044 pensioners on the rolls at this Branch, gainst 1,868 the year previous. An average of $32.27 was paid each ensioner for the last quarter of the fiscal year. The funds of which he treasurer is the custodian belonging to insane and other pensioners re not inconsiderable. At date of inspection the treasurer's balance o the credit of this fund was $11.53 over the amount shown by his ecords as due the account from him.

Post fund.

The receipts from sales during the year at the Home store, restaurant, and beer hall were $49,516.75, and the revenues from the theater $1,385.41; and the expenditures were $21,524.78 for stock, and $24,116.20 for clerk and help hire nd other items. At the close of the year the treasurer held $15,349.42 o the credit of this fund. At date of inspection he had $14,332.07, or 4.02 more than the amount necessary to close his account.

The insurance on the opera house, chapel, store stock, and Keeley lubhouse was paid from this fund; also the salary of the Keeley doctor t $80 per month, and postage stamps for the use of non-pensioners.

Purchases.

Purchases in open market are made upon requisition of the quartermaster, approved by the governor, for such supplies as are required and authorized in the chedule furnished by the president of the Board of Managers for the reasurer's guidance. Those made by contract are usually made monthly s far as practicable in case of imperishable articles, and weekly or ftener in case of perishable articles. The principal supplies of food or the last quarter of the fiscal year were bought in Maine, Massachuetts, and New York. Flour was obtained from Auburn, Me.; fresh eef, ham, salt pork, and potatoes from Gardiner, Me.; corn beef, bacon, nd sugar from Augusta, Me.; coffee, tea, fresh fish, butter, and lima eans from Boston, Mass.; codfish from Gloucester, Mass.; navy beans rom Rochester, N. Y., and sirup from New York City. This Branch ays more for fresh beef and less for coffee than any of the others.

Employees.

The number of employees reported authorized during the year under the general fund were 3 officers, 20 noncommissioned officers, 341 members, and 49 civilians, or total of 413, which is to the average present for the year as 1 to 4.5. Io members worked without pay during the year, except as a penalty.

ADMINISTRATION.

Population.

The average number of officers and members present during the year was 1,855, which is an increase of 78 over the average of the previous year; and an average f 539, or 22.5 per cent, was constantly absent. At date of inspection, the total population living on the reservation consisted of 1,914 souls, including civilian employees, women, and children; and 653 members were absent. There were 103 vacant beds in barracks and 15 in hospital, which does not seem large, considering the number of absentees. The overcrowding in some of the old dormitories has been mentioned in former reports. The vertical lockers which replaced the boxes gave more floor space by separating the beds, but are now being taken out of the sleeping rooms. The appearance of the men at review was commendable.

Discipline.

Discipline seems fairly well maintained, though a slight increase is reported in the number of trials as compared with the previous year. Nearly one-half of all offenses committed consist of inebriety, and over one-fourth of absence without leave. The punishments comprise labor without pay, generally police duty, and restrictions in liberties.

Men who ask for discharge before the expiration of six months after admission are reported as absent without leave for sixty days and are then dropped from the rolls. If an old soldier's temporary necessities force him to seek the shelter of the Home, and before the expiration of six months circumstances should favor him so that he could support himself or no longer become a charge upon the Home, and thus give place to one more needy than he, should not such an one be commended and encouraged rather than have his record discredited by the charge of "absent without leave?"

The authorized "furlough register" does not seem well adapted for its purpose. It is suggested that the system of keeping each man's record on a separate card to be filed alphabetically, after the manner adopted by the War Department for all its records with such satisfactory results, would be more simple and expeditious. When a man returns from furlough, his card with his record on it is withdrawn to another file box to be returned to the active file when he again goes on furlough, which file alone engages the clerk's attention and shows at any time the number and names of those then on furlough. The advantages of this system could be extended to other records in the offices of the adjutant and the surgeon.

The State register contained at date of inspection only the names of members admitted since about four years ago, and was about a month in arrears.

Amusements.

Facilities for amusement and recreation consist of reading room and library, smoking and card room, billiard and pool room, deer park, concerts, and theater. Of these the concerts seem best liked.

The library and reading room were in good condition. Books may be taken from the library on presentation of a card and retained fourteen days. Books of fiction are in greatest demand, and it seems that an average of nearly 16 books was read by each member during the year.

The band is maintained during the entire year, with an average membership of 17, all of whom are civilians. The annual cost of maintaining the band, including subsistence and other allowances of the musicians, averaged $390.09 per man. The concerts are reported well attended, and there are no charges for admission. The musicians are quartered in the restaurant building, which was built from the post fund, and they are subsisted in the general dining room and receive the same allowance of clothing as the members of the Branch, but no fuel.

The opera house was in excellent condition. All the leading theatrical companies that come east of Portland usually give performances here. The expenses are met from the post fund. Members are taxed a nominal charge for admission, but the receipts from this source cover nearly one-fifth of the expense.

The basement of the library building is used as billiard, pool, and card room, and was in good condition. It is frequented at all times from morning till evening, except on Sundays. There are no charges for the use of the tables.

The Grand Army post at this Branch holds its meetings in the opera house.

Religious services. Catholic and Protestant services are held every Sunday in the Home chapel, which was built within the past few years, and special services are held when required. The ministers receive each $65 per month, and do not live at the Home. They also visit the sick when necessary and officiate at funerals, and on some occasions the governor officiates. Divine services are reported to be attended by a larger proportion than is found in outside communities.

Farm. The farm is under the direct charge of the governor. About 500 acres are reported under cultivation, and the following buildings are used for farm purposes: 7 barns, of which 2 are used for horses, 3 for cows, 1 for vehicles, and 1 for hay; 2 sheds for carts and tools; and 4 buildings for horseshoeing, harness maker, wheelwright, and quarters for teamsters. They were all in good condition. Ten carriages and sleighs, or pungs, and 28 wagons and sleds are kept for use by the Home. The stock on hand June 30, 1896, was valued at $5,680, and consisted of 16 horses, 58 cows, 2 oxen, 1 bull, 49 calves or heifers, and 40 deer and bears. The principal products are milk, hay, and ensilage, the former valued at $7,889.25, and the hay and ensilage at $5,705. Milk seems to be credited to the farm at the rate of 24 cents per gallon, though it is reported that the price of milk by the quantity in the nearest town is only from 18 to 20 cents per gallon—a difference of 20 or 30 per cent. A comparison of prices of some articles at the several Branches is suggestive of the differences in their surroundings; and the care and improvement of a herd is not always so successful as here.

SUPPLY DEPARTMENTS.

Buildings. The barracks were generally clean and in good repair; that occupied by Company G was undergoing repairs. There were some signs of leaks, and perhaps more modern barracks might improve in design and construction upon the older or altered ones. The dormitories are crowded, and some of the companies are scattered in parts of several buildings.

No record is kept of the amount expended on each building. Where the estimate or expense on a building does not give its size, any comparison of the economical work and methods is difficult between the Branches or for work outside; and information as to cost per cubic foot or some other adopted unit of measure or comparison has not yet been fully received.

The general washroom in the basement seemed less inviting than the water-closet and bathroom, though the appearance of the bath tubs could be improved by a coating of enamel paint. The bath towels were noticeably small and thin. Toilet paper is found in general use throughout the other Homes, and all might be treated fairly alike.

Bedsteads and bedding.

The beds in use are of various patterns—iron cots with woven-wire bottom, about 2½ feet wide and 6¼ feet long. The average supply of bedding per man consists of a cotton mattress weighing 14 pounds, three woolen blankets, two linen sheets, one cotton pillow and slip, and one bedspread or counterpane. Sheets and pillow slips are said to be washed each week, and blankets and counterpanes aired frequently out of doors when necessary. Some of the latter seemed to be in need of washing.

Supplies.

The supplies seemed of good quality (though there was some criticism about the coffee and C sugar) and of sufficient quantity; but the storage places are undesirable and too scattered, and in some cases supplies pertaining to different departments are stored in the same places. Some of the quartermaster property, for instance, is stored in a room in rear of the quartermaster's office, in cellar of Company D, in engineer's and carpenter's shops, hospital, paint shop, etc., and subsistence supplies are stored in basement and cellar under the main dining room, in cellar of Company D, and in meat shop. No damage to the supplies, however, is reported on account of storage; and with such scattered stores it may be unnecessary to question whether better police and order in some rooms would be possible. The furniture and other property of the Home is not all marked, but all is reported as taken up as public property on the books under the various heads and kind of stores. Property and stores are usually issued upon properly approved requisitions, though some stores, like coal, are issued without requisition. The closest supervision of such matters is apt to be beneficial to the public interest.

The engineer makes monthly report to the quartermaster of the coal used by the boilers. The number of tons used in January was reported as 420, February 362, March 387, April 190, and June 271, leaving a balance on hand, acording to the records, of 100 tons. No report for May was shown the inspector.

Shop accounts.

If these accounts are deemed necessary and are to be regarded of value, they should be assigned to one responsible officer, and he should be furnished with all the data affecting them. Last year's accounts were apparently entered from memoranda. Repairs made on verbal orders do not appear, and apparently the internal vouchers do not show all the internal transactions. The double set of time books required seem to entail a good deal of clerical work.

Clothing.

A clothing account is kept with each member of the Home, the various articles being issued according to regulations and charged to each man, who is held accountable for each and every article until worn out. When on furlough his clothing is held for him until his return, but if he be absent twelve months it is returned to the quartermaster's department and, if suitable, reissued or put in condition for reissue. No account seems to be kept of second-hand clothing or clothing awaiting condemnation. Cast-off clothing, unfit for further use, is condemned and sold as rags, except old shoes, which are destroyed, and buttons, which are cut off and returned to the Central Branch depot.

The sales of rags during the past year comprised 31,780 pounds woolen, 1,925 pounds cotton, and 1,370 pounds bedding. The prices obtained per pound were 5 cents for 14,460 pounds, 4½ cents for 19,245 pounds, and 1¾ cents for 1,370 pounds, the total receipts amounting to $1,613.02.

Laundry.

The members of each company are required to send their clothing to the laundry on Sunday mornings, and each member is permitted to send one shirt, one pair of drawers, and a pair of socks, and other clothing if necessary. The average number of pieces laundered per month is reported to be slightly over 29,000. Members wash their handkerchiefs themselves, and a number wash their own socks, shirts, or drawers in a room with the necessary appliances for that purpose. The wash list seems to indicate that counterpanes are in use about a year and the small hand towel a week without laundering. The dryer does not seem to work well at times.

Fire department.

The apparatus for the protection against fire seemed in good condition. The fire organization consists of fifteen men, who are required to respond to the fire alarm sounded by a whistle on the machine shop, and are said to be able to respond in from two to five minutes. During the past year a fire occurred from the range in the main kitchen, which caused a damage amounting to $50 before extinguished. No other fires are reported for the past twenty years.

Engineer department.

The chief engineer at this Home has charge of the machine shop, all boilers, plumbing, repairs of all kinds, except carpenter's work, hydrants, and hose, and has been on duty here for four and one-half years. Thirty-six men, or less, varying with the season, are employed under him as plumbers, steam fitters, stone masons, laborers, tinsmith, coal passers, and firemen.

The system of water supply and of drainage and sewerage is reported satisfactory.

Dining hall and kitchen.

These were in fair condition and police; but the range and steam-kettle facilities seem insufficient, and tables have to be set twice for each meal as at the other Branches. The food is generally acceptable in quantity and quality. The daily consumption of food and cost for the months of December, 1895, and June, 1896, are exhibited in Tables 27 and 28. Dining room and kitchen work is performed by 53 men, who constitute the permanent force for this duty, and there are no additional temporary details, as at other Branches.

There are 6,589 pieces of crockery reported in daily use in the main kitchen. The percentage of breakage of each kind during the past year ranged from one-third for vinegar bottles to 63 for bowls. The breakage is said to be due principally to handling in setting tables twice for each meal and to poor quality of the ware.

Swill and garbage are sold to the highest bidder by annual contract. The price obtained last year was $50 per month.

Thirty-three members are reported living in the vicinity of the Home, to whom a month's supply of rations is issued in advance at an average cost of the ration for the previous month, or about $5.40 per man. Clothing is also issued to these members under the same rules as apply to those within the Home.

MEDICAL DEPARTMENT.

The hospital consists of a brick building and two frame pavilions connected by covered passages, and a small building adjacent thereto serves as quarters for convalescents. Cleanliness was observed on every side.

The hospital basements are occupied by morgue, crematories, steam boilers for heating, and fan for ventilation, laboratory, and storage, and the attics are used as storage rooms and attendants' quarters. Each ward is supplied with set bath tubs with hot and cold water, and patients are required to bathe once each week, unless otherwise ordered by the surgeon. Some are bathed daily. Ventilation is effected by a steam fan which exhausts the foul air, and fresh air is admitted through stacks after being heated by passing over steam radiators. The large metal cylinders standing at different heights in the wards are a marked feature here.

The average daily sick during the year has been 278 in hospital, 30 in convalescent quarters, and 69 at sick call. There were 607 patients admitted to the hospital and 52 to the convalescent quarters, and 236 cases were discharged from the former as cured and 3 from the latter. The total number of cases treated during the year was 2,505, and each case was treated an average of 43 days and about 44.7 per cent resulted in a cure. Acute pulmonary affections and inflammatory rheumatism are reported the principal diseases of local origin, due frequently to climatic conditions. There were no infectious or contagious diseases during the year beyond 5 sporadic cases of erysipelas and 1 of influenza.

The death rate is reported greater than for the previous year, and was 50.91 per 1,000 of the average present and absent. and 40.22 per 1,000 of the whole number cared for. Of the 122 deaths, 91 occurred in hospital, 4 in other parts of the reservation, and 27 on furlough. The causes assigned are 119 natural, 1 suicide, and 2 accidents. The average age at death was over one year less than reported for the previous year.

Eighty of the deceased members were buried at the Home cemetery, which is kept in excellent order. Funerals at the Home cost $10.49 each, not including care of cemetery and graves, which are made almost in solid rock. Coffins are made by contract at Augusta, Me., at a cost of $3.50 each. The deceased are buried in uniform clothing. No allowance is made for the funeral expenses of members dying outside of the Home, as is done at the Home for regulars.

There are 82 hospital employees, of whom 70 are members and 12 civilians. The former serve as hospital stewards, ward masters, barbers, bread cutters, cooks, dishwashers, drivers of hearse, elevator attendants, funeral escort, gravediggers, hall cleaners, nurses, orderlies, porters, readers to blind, waiters, and wound dressers; and the latter as assistant surgeons, matrons, internes, druggists, and nurses. The ratio of these employees to the total number of patients treated is as 1 to about 30, and to the average daily sick as 1 to nearly 5.

Medicines are obtained from the quartermaster's department upon the surgeon's requisition approved by the governor. They are then issued to patients at surgeon's call upon verbal orders of the surgeon, and to patients in hospital upon his written orders, which are preserved. After issue by the quartermaster's department no further record is kept of medicines. The hospital records were in good order and kept as required; but the sick-call record could be improved for historical or statistical purposes.

Facilities to care for the insane consist of one grated ward with three cells for close confinement. It is cheerful and sunny, and its windows afford a view of the busiest part of the camp. Occasionally the ward is crowded, and there is no inclosed court for outdoor exercise of these unfortunates. The average annual number of insane at this Home is 41, and about 18 are sent yearly to the asylum.

Sixteen members are reported totally blind, and 26 with an impaired eyesight so as to be unable to read.

No. 2.—Report of Inspection of the Northwestern Branch, made August 4, 1896.

The officers are efficient and zealous in the discharge of their duties, and there has been no change in their personnel since last inspection.

DISBURSEMENTS.

The accounts and disbursements of the treasurer were inspected from November 11, 1895, the date of last inspection, to July 31, 1896, and involved $525,947.50, pertaining to the general, pension, and post funds. The expenditures, as shown by vouchers and transfers, amounted to $483.800.99, leaving a balance on hand of $42,146.51, which consisted of $348.44 cash on hand pertaining to the post fund and $41,798.07 on deposit in the First National Bank of Milwaukee.

General fund.

During the past fiscal year the treasurer received on account of the general fund $281,900.03, consisting of $270,625.01 from Congressional appropriations and $11,275.02 from sales and other sources. The expenditures for the same period were $258,674.03, which was all disbursed by check. At some of the other Homes it is noted that considerable sums of this fund are still disbursed in currency. At date of inspection there was a balance of $3,520.58 on deposit to the credit of this fund. The accounts and records of this office are very neatly and intelligently kept.

Improvements and repairs.

This Branch erected during the year a new headquarters building and a quartermaster and commissary storehouse at an expenditure of $13,803.10. These buildings meet a long-felt want. No improvements are contemplated or have been authorized for the present fiscal year, but the following are reported needed for the year ending June 30, 1898, viz: Additional electric-light plant, $9,500; two water-tube boilers, $12,000; and improving old hospital building, now used for shops and storage purposes, $6,000. The amount expended on repairs during the year is reported as $19,856.56. The most considerable repairs upon one structure were made upon the convalescent barracks at an expense of about $1,000, which is a specially tidy and comfortable building, with plenty of light and air, and the occupants seem to be specially cheerful and well cared for.

Pension fund.

The treasurer paid out during the year on account of pensions $280,716.66, and had a balance of $19,343.08 due the pensioners at the close of the year. The average paid each pensioner during the last quarter was $31.66. On June 30, 1896, there were 2,238 pensioners on the rolls at this Branch against 2,078 a year previous, of whom 1,917 were present and 321 absent. Twenty-four had been absent over one year. At the close of the year there were 224 pensioners who had balances to their credit. Of these 1 had over $1,000, 8 between $500 and $1,000 each, 44 between $100 and $500 each, and 171 less than $100 each. The addresses of 19 pensioners, who had balances to their credit amounting to $658.17, were not known; and 8 pensioners, with a total credit of $381.50, had been transferred to an insane asylum. At date of inspection, July 31, 1896, the balance to the credit of this fund was $26,290.18, including the proceeds of a United States bond for $800 sold during the year.

Post fund.

The receipts from sales during the year at the Home store, restaurant, and beer hall were $51,060.41, and the expenditures for stock $26,646.69. The assets reported at the close of the year were $9,684.09 cash and $1,442.62 merchandise. At date of inspection, July 31, 1896, the treasurer had in his charge $12,335.75 to the credit of this account.

The cash book of this fund was ruled in columns to show the receipts and disbursements from each source each day, thus making a very full and satisfactory record and involving much less labor than the method in use at some other Branches, where the record was spread over three and four times the space.

It was noted that funds received from sales of transportation to members are held by the transportation clerk until from $200 to $300 are in his hands before it is turned over to the treasurer, who does not take the amount up on his cash book until the end of the month. Evidently a more frequent regular settlement and smaller accumulation of undeposited cash is a better business method.

The checks on sales at the beer hall seem to be satisfactory and the business carefully conducted. The cash register at the store and the returns do not always agree, but the balance is largely in favor of the returns. Both places were found in commendable order and police. It might be well if the best business methods found at one Branch were uniformly extended to all.

Purchases.

Purchases are practically all made under contract, and only a few of small value are made in open market, when it is impracticable to enter into contract. The principal articles of food for the last quarter of the fiscal year were all purchased in Milwaukee, which is but a few miles from the Home.

Employees.

The number of employees reported authorized during the year under the general fund were 6 officers, 29 non-commissioned officers, 926 members, and 40 civilians, or a total of 1,001, which is to the average present as 1 to 2.3, though the average reported employed is as 1 to nearly 5.

An average of 66 men daily worked during the year on various details without pay, but not as a penalty.

ADMINISTRATION.

Population.

The 2,313 average present is a gain of 83 over last year; the average constantly absent was 382, or 14.2 per cent. The highest number present during the year was 2,436 on January 8 and 9, 1896, and the lowest 2,116, on July 21 and 22, 1895, so that the greatest overcrowding is habitually when natural ventilation is poorest. At date of inspection 2,344 officers and members, including 58 temporary members were present at the Home, which, with the civilian employees living on the reservation, and women and children, made the total population present 2,446 persons; and 487 members were absent. The number of vacant beds was 58 in barracks and 28 in hospital, which is about 18 per 100 of the members then absent.

It is believed best to see the members in a body as the quickest, if not the only, way to judge of the general condition of the clothing and other elements essential to their comfort and contentment. Snow prevented their turning out on two previous occasions, and owing to the intense heat it was now omitted, and an inspection was made indoors.

Discipline.

Discipline is maintained by the non-commissioned officers and the Home police. Judging from the number of trials, discipline seems to have improved. The decrease in the number of trials was about 5 per cent, as compared with the preceding year. One-half of all offenses committed are due to drink, and one-sixth absence without leave.

The punishments attached comprise labor from ten to sixty days and forfeiture of pass privileges; and for incorrigibles, dishonorable discharge. Sentences of labor may be commuted in the discretion of the governor at the rate of 20 cents per day. From this source $503 was received, which was paid by 106 members. These funds are held by the chief clerk, under receipt to the sergeant of the guard, who reports the amount at the end of the month to the treasurer, who then receipts to the chief clerk for the amount collected and credits it to the post fund.

Amusements.

Facilities for amusement include theater, billiard room, card room, band, library, beer hall, boating, skating, and entertainments by members. Theater, billiards, and cards seem best liked. Bowling was tried several years ago, but the alley was abandoned from want of use. The library and reading room were not only in good condition and police, but seemed a creditable and economical structure in full use throughout, both in basement and above. At the close of the year there were 7,809 volumes on hand, which shows nice improvement. Books may be taken from the library, one at a time, but must be returned within two weeks in good condition. Books of fiction, history, travels, explorations, and adventures are reported in greatest demand, and the books read average about 14 per member for the past year. The Home also subscribes for 103 papers and 22 periodicals, at apparently full rates, and received 25 papers and 4 periodicals gratuitously.

The band is maintained during the entire year with an average membership of 18, all of whom are civilians. The cost of maintenance during the year, including subsistence and other allowances, averaged $339.86 per musician. The concerts are reported well attended and there are no charges for admission. The musicians are quartered in a small building set apart for the purpose and receive one suit of uniform a year, and rations the same as members of the Home.

The second floor of memorial hall serves the purpose of a theater. It was in good condition, but is reported to be dangerous in case of fire, on account of insufficient exits. The performances given are chiefly comedies and there is no charge for admission, and generally two performances of each play are given to accommodate all the members. Fifteen performances were given during the year at an expense of $4,250. Nothing like all the members attend the theater, play billiards, etc., and the question whether any payment should be made and how adjusted has received various decisions at different times and places. The theater is occasionally used by public speakers addressing members of the Home.

The basement of the social hall building is used for billiards and pool and was in good condition. There are no charges for the use of the tables, and they are in nearly constant use when the room is open, from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m.

The card room is in the basement of the library building and contains sixteen tables and one long table for checkers.

The seven boats on the lake are at the disposal of members free of charge, but civilians pay 5 cents each per hour for their use. The receipts from this source were $64.70 for the year, and the expenditures $24.87, so the plant seems maintained upon a very small charge.

Keeley League.

This society numbers 252 and holds weekly meetings in its club room. Its gain in membership during the year was 61, who took the cure for the first time, and 34 took the cure a second and 11 a third time. The loss during the same time was 88, of whom 23 relapsed. The cost of taking the cure for the first time is reported as $23.75, for medicine, lodge, club dues, and initiation fee. It is reported that care is exercised in having members take the cure voluntarily, and no inducements are given nor encouragement beyond the necessary information. The total receipts for the year were $2,580.32, the expenditures $1,916.75, of which $1,521.60 was for medicine, and the balance on hand was $1,085.21. The accounts are kept by the post-fund clerk and the funds by the treasurer of the Branch, who pays the bills on the approval of the governor. To Dr. Comfort, the assistant surgeon of the Home, $25 per month was paid for services, and the amount of dues collected was paid to the treasurer of the league.

In addition to this league there are two other societies among the members—Veteran Post No. 8, G. A. R., with a membership of 207, and Cushing Naval Veteran Association, with a membership of 42—both holding their meetings in the social-hall building. These organizations are said to have a good effect upon discipline.

The Methodist Church and Women's Christian Temperance Union are mentioned as showing a special interest in the members.

Religious services. These are held five and six times each week in the Home chapel, which has a capacity of 400 and is reported suitable for the purpose. There are two chaplains, a Roman Catholic and a Protestant Episcopal, who receive each a compensation of $41.66 per month. The Protestant chaplain lives at the Home. In addition to divine services, the chaplains officiate at funerals and give spiritual comfort to the sick and dying. Religious services are reported well attended.

Farm. It is reported the farm contains 150 acres under cultivation, and comprises the following buildings: One farmer's quarters and wood shed, 3 horse stables, 1 large hay barn with tool and implement house in one end and grain bins in the other, 1 carriage and vehicle house, 1 blacksmith shop with teamsters' quarters overhead, 2 hog barns, 1 two-compartment house, 1 wagon shed with straw loft overhead, 1 implement shed, 1 dwelling used as drivers' quarters, 1 corncrib, 1 very dilapidated dwelling near cemetery, 1 two-compartment icehouse, and two small icehouses and tool shed. A number of these buildings require reshingling, otherwise they are in serviceable condition. The transportation facilities of the Home consist of 15 vehicles, such as a carriage, ambulances, wagons, carts, etc., and 22 horses. Six of the latter are used for duty on the farm and about the grounds. Besides these the farm keeps 62 cows, 18 calves and yearlings, 22 sheep and 19 lambs, and furnishes stabling for 7 private vehicles and 10 private horses. The stock on hand June 30, 1896, was valued at $4,197.

The products for the year are reported as valued at $8,434.17, of which $3,808.62 was for 30,469 gallons of milk, which is credited to the farm at the rate of 12½ cents per gallon. A nominal account seems to be kept of this milk and that purchased. At one of the other Homes where cows are kept on the farm, the rate is 24 cents per gallon. The farm land here is not suitable for raising potatoes, but cabbage, hay, and other articles raised are reported as good as can be bought.

Four hundred pounds of live chickens were purchased and expended each month during the last year. They were reported as turned over to farm and thence to hospital on requisition. There did not appear to be any report of farm chickens since September 30, 1895, when the report showed 130 on hand.

SUPPLY DEPARTMENT.

Buildings. The baracks were well policed and in good repair, and their condition as to comfort and sanitation is reported good, though the ventilation, which is regulated by windows and doors, does not seem to be satisfactory in every respect. They are heated by steam and lit by gas and electricity. The concentration of the steam plant, for which $27,300 was appropriated in a prior year, has progressed far enough for some of the old space to be now used for other purposes. Six of the 12 barracks at this Branch have basements, of which 3 are used as storerooms, etc., and 3 as dormitories; and 3 barracks have an attic used as dormitory, baggage room, and for bath tubs, respectively. There were 342 men sleeping in basements, and 69 in attics, and 129 in scattered places not originally built for sleeping in. The attics are reported as good as the barracks with respect to ventilation, etc., but the basements have more or less dampness, and less light and ventilation than the barracks, and are generally objectionable. The construction of these veterans' Homes should contradict the idea that any old thing is good enough for us soldiers.

No record is kept of the amount expended on each building, though such data seems essential to the best and most economical administration of construction and repair.

Bedsteads and bedding. The bedsteads are 6⅓ feet long by 2½ feet wide, and the mattress in use is cotton and reported to weigh 13 pounds. The average supply of bedding per man consists of 1 counterpane, 4 blankets, 3 sheets, 1 pillow, and 2 pillow slips. This supply seems to be more liberal than reported at the Eastern Branch, which is in a higher latitude. Dormitory windows are thrown open at 6 a. m., and kept open until the rooms and bedding are aired. The locker in use here is 3 feet high, 2 feet wide, and 1 foot deep. Bedsteads, bedding, and lockers were reported in good condition.

Supplies. The erection of a new storehouse during the year has relieved the pressure for room to a great extent, though the necessity of recourse to basements does not seem to have been obviated, but basements, however dark, dank, and inaccessible are rather better for property than men, though there is a fair-sized battalion in them here.

The supplies seem of good quality, and sufficient in quantity. The current supplies of quartermaster stores on hand June 30, 1896, were valued at $7,671.81, and of commissary stores $4,447.82. Coal is weighed when received, but not when issued, and a requisition is issued at the end of each month for the amount of coal purchased during the month. The record of amount on hand deserves some other and closer test. What statement and verification and supervision of the property received, issued, and remaining on hand throughout the Branch Home is wise or needed has attracted some attention. It is understood that no returns whatever are desired or demanded of such public property for this general purpose and use, under the instructions of the officers of the Board of Managers. The supervision of higher authority of property expended and hygienic questions are matters now of first moment, and deserve conclusive settlement. Furniture and other public property are not all marked, but taken up on the property books. The value of property condemned during the year is exhibited in the tables appended.

Clothing.

The value of clothing on hand July 1, 1895, is reported as $10,178.74, and that received during the year from depot as $25,308.30, and from other places as $6,573.05, giving a total accountability of $42,060.09. The value of the clothing issued during the year is reported as $29,753.77, leaving clothing to the value of $12,306.32 on hand at the close of the year. The issue of clothing is regulated according to the table of allowances, and clothing worn the required length of time is exchanged for new, garment for garment, if worn out; but if still serviceable, it is worn until unfit for further use. This appears a most economical arrangement for supplying the individual wants.

Condemned clothing is sold as rags. From this source $1,063.53 was realized during the past year. The prices obtained per pound were: For all wool, $0.0825 to $0.10; all cotton, $0.01; all wool seams, $0.0175 to $0.0225; mixed cotton, $0.0025 to $0.0075; socks, $0.0725 to $0.08; blouse linings, $0.003 to $0.0075; canton flannel drawers, $0.0175 to $0.0225; linen towels, $0.0225; shirts, K. W., $0.015; hats, $0.0225 to $0.03; all wool linings, $0.0375; and cotton and wool seams, $0.025.

The company commanders report at the end of the fiscal year the clothing in the possession of the men, and also all Home property in the barracks. This is a practical, disinterested, and much-needed count of stock, which deserves universal adoption. An attempted verification of something in the clothing accounts displayed lack of agreement, and the reasons given hardly seemed to reach the root of the matter satisfactorily. Whether or no account was kept of clothing taken away by men going on furlough, or there was no time to review the company commanders' reports, or caps and great coats were condemned years ago and dropped from the records, and subsequently issued but not taken up on the books, the stores should agree with the returns, and the several persons in actual charge of property should have correct lists and knowledge of its destruction. The keeping of the average price list involves much labor, but does not appear to be of much practical value. An earnest effort seems to have been made to improve the system of shop accounts, and some results, theoretical or otherwise, may be obtained to compensate for the labor involved. At this Branch a shop for cleaning the clothes of the members is maintained which apparently adds not only to the appearance of the men, but also to economy in clothing, and a similar one might well be established at the other Branches.

Laundry.

Clothing is sent to the laundry at specified times, in charge of duly authorized men with duplicate wash lists, which are verified by count, the laundry clerk giving receipt as the laundry comes in and taking receipt as it goes out. Each member is permitted to send to the laundry, weekly, one shirt, one pair drawers, and one pair socks, and as occasion may require, a blouse, trousers, vest, or overalls. The average pieces of wearing apparel reported laundried per month during the past year were 7,165 shirts, 7,668 drawers, and 6,828 socks, 132 trousers, 14 blouses, and 6 vests. This is less than a change of clothes per week. The expense of the laundry during the year was $1,440 for the services of 20 employees, and $1,000 for soap chips, an average of a little over $1.05 per man; but doubtless many of the men have their laundry done outside the Home.

Fire department.

The fire department is reported adequate and in good condition, and examined monthly. One engineer and five hosemen are quartered at the engine house, ready to respond to an alarm. There is also an auxiliary force, consisting of all civilian firemen employed at the Home, who are regularly practiced in fire drill. The Home is also connected with the fire department of Milwaukee. There was no fire during the year. The last considerable fire reported occurred in 1876 and caused about $5,000 damage. A smaller fire in 1872 resulted in a loss of about $100.

Engineer department.

The chief engineer at this Home has general supervision of construction, sewerage, electric, gas, and water supplies, plumbing, steam fitting and heating, machinery and boiler plant, and has been on duty here for twenty-six years. Seventy-two men are employed under him as steam fitters, firemen, plumbers, masons, builders, hosemen, coal passers, lamplighters, etc. His department seems in good condition, and the system of water supply and sewerage satisfactory.

There are eleven shops at this Home—known as the bakery, carpenter, engineer, harness, linen, paint, printing, shoe, soap, tailor, and tin—the accounts of which are under the quartermaster.

Dining hall and kitchen.

These presented a neat appearance, and the facilities for cooking and serving meals are reported ample, though tables have to be set twice for each meal. The food seemed well cooked and ample in quantity. From the reports furnished it appears that during the month of December, 1895, the daily issues to the dining hall averaged 3.11 pounds per man, at a cost of $0.122; and during June, 1896, 2.86 pounds, at a cost of $0.118. To the hospital the issues during the month of December averaged 4.41 pounds per man, at a cost of $0.16; and during June 4.12 pounds, at a cost of $0.147.

Swill and garbage are sold under contract at the rate of $20 per month. The amount is estimated at 18,000 pounds per month.

There are 4,650 pieces of crockery reported in daily use, and 15,216 were received during the year and 7,552 broken, the breakage of bowls and dinner plates amounting to over 3,000 each. The percentage of breakage ranged from 2 for pepper and mustard pots to 84 for vegetable dishes.

None of the members of the Home receive outdoor relief in subsistence or other allowances.

MEDICAL DEPARTMENT.

The hospital consists of 1 central building for offices, dining room, and kitchen, and 3 two-story wings connected by corridors and used as wards, all of veneered Milwaukee brick. The north half of the west wing is used for the convalescents, in addition to those in the separate barrack. The insane ward and a company are under this roof. The room where the boilers were removed from is being nicely fitted up for other use.

The capacity of the hospital for patients is 169, and of the quarters for convalescents 103. Everything in and about the hospital was in good police. The hospital basements are used for storage and baggage and by extra-duty men and a few patients, and the attics for storage and aviary. There are 10 bath tubs in the hospital, and patients are required to bathe once a week, or oftener when necessary. Ventilation is effected by roof ventilators, fireplaces, and windows.

The average daily sick during the year was 172 in hospital, 91 in convalescent quarters, and 75 at sick call. There were 693 patients admitted to the hospital during the year and 70 to the convalescent quarters, and 546 were discharged from the former and 114 from the latter as cured. The total number of patients treated during the year was 3,072, and each case was treated an average of forty-two days.

There were no cases of contagious or infectious diseases during the year except erysipelas, and no diseases of local origin are reported.

The death rate for the year was 50.46 per 1,000 of the average present and absent, and 39.78 per 1,000 of the whole number cared for, and is about the same as reported for the previous year. Of the 136 deaths, 111 occurred in hospital, 6 in other parts of the reservation, and 19 away from the Home. The causes assigned are 128 natural and 8 the result of accidents. The average age at death was 66.1 years; for the previous year it was 64.8 years.

One hundred and seventeen of the deceased members were buried at the Home cemetery. They are buried in the Home uniform, and a coffin made in Milwaukee at a cost of $7.50. No allowance is made for funeral expenses of members dying outside of the Home, unless they are buried at the Home. The cost of a funeral is reported at $16.65.

There are 138 hospital employees, of whom 121 are members and 17 civilians. The former serve in the capacity of hospital stewards, ward masters, barber, bread cutters, cooks, dishwashers, drivers, funeral escort, gravediggers, hall cleaners, nurses, orderlies, reader to blind, waiters, and wound dressers, and the latter as assistant surgeon, internes, nurses, matron, druggist, and cleaner. The ratio of these employees to the total number of patients treated is as 1 to nearly 22.5, and to the average daily sick as 1 to about 2.5.

Medicines are obtained from the quartermaster's department upon requisition, and issued to the patients upon the doctor's prescriptions and at sick call. No account, except of whisky and wines, is kept at the hospital of medicines received from quartermaster.

Facilities to care for the insane consist of a restraint ward of 12 beds, closet and bath, and what is called the untidy ward of 31 beds, with two small rooms and one padded room. There is one strait-jacket, but no cells for close confinement. The average annual number of insane for the past three years has been 45, while the number sent to an insane asylum has averaged 9 per annum for the same period.

Nine members of this Branch are reported totally blind and 58 with an impaired eyesight, so as to be unable to read, and all require more or less attendance.

Many of the records are duplicates of those kept by other officers, and it would seem as if the system could be simplified and made uniform throughout all its branches.

Money and valuables found on unconscious members brought to the hospital are taken by the assistant surgeon, hospital steward, or ward masters to the surgeon in charge, by whom they are kept in a safe. No record is kept of what is turned over. The surgeon holds the pension money of the men in the hospital, and pays the same to them in small sums, as needed by them.

The medical storeroom is in the cellar of the hospital building, and it seems dry and clean. Whisky is issued in 5-gallon lots, about 15 gallons per week; wine by the gallon, 2 to 4 per week; beer by the case, 3 dozen. No account is kept at the hospital of second-hand clothing on hand.

No. 3.—Report of an Inspection of the Pacific Branch, made August 16, 1896.

There has been no change in the officers since last inspection. The general condition of the Home and the administration of the various departments speak well for their efficiency and ability.

DISBURSEMENTS.

The accounts and disbursements of the treasurer were inspected from November 30, 1895, the date of last inspection, to August 15, 1896, and involved $340,167.52, pertaining to the general, pension, and post funds. The expenditures, as shown by vouchers and transfers, amounted to $317,278.64, leaving a balance on hand of $22,888.88, which was all on deposit in the Los Angeles National Bank, except $43 of the post fund cash on hand.

General fund.

During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1896, the treasurer received on account of the general fund $262,150.53, of which $254,905.34 was from Congressional appropriations. The expenditures for the same period were $233,734.31, of which over one-fifth was disbursed in currency. At date of inspection there was a balance of $7,436.40 on deposit to the credit of this fund.

Improvements and repairs.

The principal improvements made at this Branch during the past year were an additional barrack, a main kitchen, and electric-light plant.

The contracts for the main kitchen amount to	$18,939
And sundry bills to	80
Total cost	19,019

The appropriation for the building was only $16,000; so the balance was paid by General Franklin from the Ward fund, $3,019.

The appropriation for the electric plant was $10,000, of which $9,969 was paid the contractor and $30.60 for sundry bills, leaving 40 cents unexpended.

The appropriation for the barrack was $22,500. The original contract was for $20,153, but supplemental contracts were made adding $2,161.10 to this amount, and sundry bills were charged amounting to $184.90, leaving $1 of the appropriation unexpended.

The plant is reported to give good service, but not of sufficient capacity for the work needed. The electric lights seem to be too high.

A trolley for carrying the beef and mutton to and from the cold-storage rooms is suggested, as the present method is very laborious; the receiving point and scales are so distant from the storage rooms.

The improvements authorized for the present year are a boiler house and stack, $9,200, and an additional barrack, $22,500, for which a contract for $20,376 has been made. This includes all plumbing, heating apparatus, electric work, etc., complete. The building is to be two stories of 13 feet, and an attic of average height of 8 feet. The central building will be 45 by 45 feet, with two wings 26 by 72 feet each, with no basement. Its normal capacity will be about 100, and the abnormal from 185 to 200.

The improvements reported needed for the year ending June 30, 1898, are estimated at over $100,000, and include two additional barracks, quarters for treasurer, chief clerk, and female nurses, large shop building, permanent bakery, permanent pumping plant, chapel, and assembly hall. The amount expended on repairs during the year is reported as $19,195.42. The most considerable repairs upon one structure were made upon the pumping plant, at an expense of $1,790. The water problem is hardly satisfactorily solved yet at this Branch, and other matters may naturally be held meanwhile in abeyance.

Pension fund.

The treasurer paid out during the year on account of pensions $168,037.30, and had a balance of $10,242.53 due the pensioners at the close of the year. The average paid each pensioner during the last quarter was $34.11. On June 30, 1896, there were 1,372 pensioners on the rolls at this Branch, against 1,113 a year previous, of whom 1,165 were present and 207 absent, 90 being absent over one year. At the close of the year there were 151 pensioners who had balances to their credit. Of these, 2 had between $500 and $1,000 each; 28 between $100 and $500 each; and 121 had less than $100 each. The address of one pensioner who had $100 to his credit was not known; and 3 pensioners, with a total amount of $78 to their credit, had been transferred to an insane asylum. At date of inspection the balance to the credit of this fund was $9,355.30.

Post fund.

The receipts from sales during the year at the beer hall and Home store and restaurant were $17,535.52, and the expenditures for stock $9,717.41. The assets reported at the close of the year were $5,095.40 cash, and $2,052.56 merchandise. At date of inspection, August 15, 1896, the treasurer had in his charge $6,097.18.

The post-fund buildings are not convenient nor suitable for their purpose. The unsightly beer hall was originally constructed for a store, and the store and restaurant for a waiting station, post office, and lunch counter. There are few or none of the usual checks on the receipts from sales, and reliance is placed on the men in charge and the supervision of the treasurer, who makes monthly inventories of stock and property. The receipts at the beer hall are not turned over to the treasurer as so much received each day, but so much received for each barrel, varying from $25.25 to $25.75 per barrel in August. During three days in that month one barrel was sold each day, and yielded exactly the same amount. The system adopted at some other Branches appears more businesslike and commendable.

Purchases.

Purchases are made by the treasurer, as regulated by the supply schedule of the Board of Managers. Contracts are made for everything practicable which can be foreseen.

The principal articles of food, as flour, beef, potatoes, coffee, tea, sugar, bacon, etc., for the last quarter of the fiscal year were purchased in Los Angeles; fresh fish were procured from San Diego, and sirup from Santa Monica.

Employees.

The average number of men reported employed during the year under the general fund were 3 officers, 14 non-commissioned officers, 241 members, and 31 civilians, or a total of 289, which is about one-fifth of the average present. An average of 77 men per day were on fatigue duty, cleaning grounds and dining room and kitchen duty without pay, but not as a penalty.

Dining-room service is performed by detail for a week at a time and recurs about every four and a half months. Substitutes may be hired for $1.50, which is paid to the dining-room sergeant, by whom the substitute is hired. About 75 men are detailed each week, and from 30 to 35 of these hire substitutes.

Some system of detail and substitutes for dining-room duty seems to prevail at several Branches, and uniformity, supervision, and regular record seems needed, so the best practice will prevail everywhere. Perhaps one officer or the post council could take cognizance of all hiring of duty and see that all expenditures are duly recorded and conform to services properly rendered. Experienced and proficient workers.

room orderlies, nurses, etc., can usually render better service than can be expected from too frequent changes and grumbling workers, and to give the man in charge some opportunity for selection of a capable man of proper temper and habits may sometimes prove more beneficial than blindly following the roster. Good management, watchful care, and a kindly, contented spirit sometimes seems needed all round; and it must be known where and how the best success has been attained, and whether the same methods can be adopted or improved upon elsewhere.

ADMINISTRATION.

Population.

The average number of officers and members present during the year was 1,408, which is an increase of 175 over the number reported for the preceding year; and an average of 362, or 20.5 per cent was constantly absent. At date of inspection, 1,585 officers and members, including 17 temporary members, were present at the Home, which, with the civilian employees, women and children living on the reservation, made the total population present 1,627; and 391 members were absent.

The number of vacant beds was 10 in barracks and 3 in hospital, which is a little over 3 per 100 of the members then absent.

The men presented a fine appearance at the review, and showed evidence of good care.

Discipline.

Discipline seems well maintained, and a considerable decrease is noted in the number of trials during the past year as compared with the previous year, despite the increase in membership, and only about 15 per cent of the average present were tried. Over two thirds of all trials were for drunkenness and absence without leave. The penalties attached include reprimands and caution, labor without pay, if the offender is under 64 years of age and not too much disabled, and in extreme cases, discharge from the Home.

Discipline is enforced by the company officers and Home police and the officers or foremen of the various departments. Disorderly or insubordinate men are cautioned, and if the disturbance continues, sent to the guardhouse, which was a model in order, neatness, and ventilation.

Amusements.

The library is located on the second floor of the administration building, and seems well arranged and satisfactorily conducted, but is rather distant from the barracks. At the close of the year it contained 1,727 volumes. Books may be taken from the library for one week and renewed at the expiration of that period. Books of fiction and magazine literature are reported in greatest demand, and it seems that an average of about 11 books was read by each member during the past year. This Home did not subscribe for any paper or periodicals, but received a liberal supply gratuitously.

The band was maintained during the entire year with an average membership of 11 musicians, 8 of whom are civilians. The cost of maintenance for the year, including subsistence and other allowances of civilians, has averaged $321.71 per musician and $2.51 per member, which enables some comparison of per capita cost and benefit to be made between the several Branches.

The band plays each afternoon on the balcony of the dining hall. The musicians receive the same rations as members, but no clothing. Their quarters are steam heated. There was some complaint as to the extreme paucity of patriotic, familiar, or Anglo-Saxon music, though none as to the excellent rendition of the selections.

There is no building at this Branch deserving the name of theater, and no theatrical performances are given. The small, unattractive, and unsuitable assembly hall (so called), which seats about 250, is used for entertainments, religious services, Grand Army and society meetings, and other assembly purposes. No expenses were incurred during the year for performances. When any are given, an admission charge of 10 or 15 cents is collected by the company performing. Thirteen performances were given for which admission was charged, and three were free.

Such an amusement building as was recently erected at Dayton and such a church as was built at Leavenworth would be a godsend here. A suitable hall is certainly badly needed here, and would be much appreciated by the men.

There is no billiard hall nor tables, except one in the Keeley Club. Cards are played in barracks and hospital; in the former about twenty-five tables and in the latter two tables are used for that purpose. A chessboard and men are provided in the library.

A small collection of animals assembled within screened inclosures attract considerable interest and furnish some amusement; indeed, it frequently becomes the center of a cluster of intent spectators.

Keeley Club. This club has a membership of 51, and holds weekly meetings in a room in the hospital basement specially fitted up for the purpose. Its gain in membership during the year was 25, who took the cure for the first time, and 2 took the cure a second time. The loss from all causes was 48, of whom 39 were dropped for nonpayment of dues. The cost of taking the treatment, whether for the first or second time, is $15, and $2.30 additional for initiation. The receipts of the club during the year were $632.05, and the expenses were $24.83 in excess of the receipts. No inducements are given members to take the treatment. Occasionally a dissipated member is advised to investigate the matter, and graduates of the cure sometimes persuade others who have the drink habit to take the treatment.

In addition to the Keeley Club, there are two Grand Army posts, one Union Veteran Legion, one naval organization, and a singing club at this Home, with a total membership of 400. These societies meet weekly in the assembly hall, except the singing club, which meets in the band quarters, and are said to have an excellent effect upon the discipline of the Home. Their influence is in the direction of restraining members whose habits are bad, encouraging good conduct and observance of the rules, and giving a valued support to the administration of the Branch.

Religious services. Divine services are held every Sunday morning and afternoon in the assembly hall or hospital, and other services are held on week days, the total number, including prayer meetings and services by volunteers, aggregating about 250 for the year. The chaplains regularly employed by the Home are a Roman Catholic and a Protestant, who receive each a compensation of $20 per month, and $5 for officiating at funerals, and do not live on the reservation. Each chaplain manifests an interest in the religious welfare of the members. They also visit the sick frequently. Religious services are reported well attended.

Farm. The farm contains 469 acres under cultivation, and comprises the following buildings: 1 house for farm hands, a barn and shed for stock and carriages, 2 hay barns, 4 corncribs, a chicken house, slaughterhouse, 1 house for breeding hogs, 3 hog sheds, a milk house, cow shed, tool house, nursery building, and hothouse. The horse barn and 2 hay barns are in fair condition; all others are reported in poor condition.

The transportation of the Home consists of 24 public vehicles, carts, etc., and 19 horses and 2 mules. Besides these, the farm keeps 23 cows and 225 pigs, and furnishes stabling for 7 private vehicles and 4 private horses. The farm stock on hand June 30, 1896, was valued at $4,735. The products for the year furnished the mess were estimated at a value of $9,002.07, including $2,276.64 for 14,229 gallons of milk, which is credited to the farm at 16 cents per gallon. The value of the crop raised and consumed on the farm is reported as $2,787.10, and of the products sold as $154.13. The quality of the crop compares favorably with that purchased, and no Branch has the appearance of greater interest or success in the department.

One hundred and ninety acres of land were leased for one year from November 19, 1895, by authority of the Board of Managers, for one-third crop to the Home.

Adjutant's office.

The records and files in this office were up to date and properly indexed, and showed care and system. The data required by the "application blotter" seemed to be voluminous and might be postponed until the applicant was admitted, when it is all repeated in the historical register, such as height, complexion, color of eyes, of hair, religion, ability to read or write, matters which apparently could have no bearing on his eligibility for admission.

SUPPLY DEPARTMENTS.

Buildings.

There are seven barracks at this Branch, all well policed and in good repair, except as to painting and floors; and their condition as to comfort and sanitation is reported good, though the system of ventilation, which is effected by open fireplaces and foul air ducts leading to air shafts, does not work equally well in bright and damp or foggy weather. They are heated by steam and lighted by electricity. The latter is not quite adequate, owing to necessary economy of power. It is understood the new barracks now under construction may have no basement nor chimneys, as they may be useless and cost more. The barracks were originally constructed for 100 men each; but are now occupied by an average of 187 each. This change was effected by increasing the number in the wards, using smoking and reading rooms for beds, and occupying the attics. All of the barracks have attics, and three have basements which are used as storerooms. The attics seem popular enough among the members, and have been decidedly improved as dormitories, though at first they had no special provisions for ventilation, and were not so well lighted nor heated. Lavatories, fire escapes, additional windows, ceilings, etc., have made a marked difference in their appearance and comfort.

There are 17 bath tubs in the barracks with an average number of 77 men to each tub, and there are 23 men to each hopper and 32 to each urinal. The scarcity of water, without regard to its quality, increasingly affects this question, and attention is invited to the system mentioned by Colonel Bache in his report upon the Southern Branch, as it is said to be equally efficacious with the expenditure of half the quantity of water.

Bedsteads and bedding.

The bedsteads are single, iron cots, with woven wire mattresses, 6 feet 2 inches by 2 feet 6 inches. The mattress in use is cotton and reported to weigh 16 pounds. The average supply of bedding per man consists of 1 cotton mattress, 3 blankets, 3 sheets, 1 counterpane, 1 pillow, and 2 pillow-cases. The bedding is aired daily. The locker in use is 3 feet high, 2 wide, and 1 deep, and has a drawer in top and shelves below inclosed with panel door. Bedsteads, bedding, and lockers were reported in good condition. This being a new Branch, everything of a semi-permanent character is in excellent condition. It may be better that no more such narrow bedsteads and mattresses be purchased, but the hospital size (3 feet broad) be used throughout the camp during the declining days of these elderly men.

Supplies.

There are no storehouses at this Branch, and all quartermaster, subsistence, and medical supplies are stored in basements. These storage places are as little objectionable as could be expected for basements, and are far less objectionable for stores than for humans, and less objectionable than basements where members sleep by the score or hundred at other Branches. Inventories are taken annually of quartermaster stores, quarterly of clothing, and monthly of commissary stores, and verified by the property clerk or the quartermaster-sergeant. It is just as well not to have any excessive stock on hand. Furniture and other property of the Home is not all marked, but taken up as public property, and the quartermaster has no receipt from officers and others for property continuously in their possession, though he reports that he has a complete record of the same. Unserviceable property is disposed of by inspection and condemnation, and sale or destruction. The value of property condemned during the year is exhibited in the tables appended.

The bill of fare is made up quarterly by the treasurer, and is adhered to except under a failure to receive supplies. Weekly issues are made of sugar, tea, coffee, and groceries generally, and daily issues of beef and vegetables. The dining-room sergeant has charge of these stores and issues to the chief cook the amount required for each day. He also has supervision of the meals and cooking. The swill and refuse are carried to barrels near the kitchen. These barrels are carried each day to the farm, emptied and brought back, sometimes uncleaned. The admirable tidiness about the handling of the refuse, which is so evident at some of the branches, has hardly been attained yet at this, but the management and arrangements about the general mess have greatly improved recently.

Clothing.

All clothing issued, whether new or secondhand, is charged in the clothing ledger to the member receiving it. In case of failure on his part to account for it, when called upon to do so, he is dealt with according to the laws and regulations of April 30, 1883, applicable to such cases. The allowance of clothing and the exchange of old clothing for new are governed by the regulations. No clothing is allowed to be taken away by members who go on furlough, except by order of the governor, nor do men become entitled to issue during absence. Condemned clothing is sold as rags or destroyed. There were 5,882 pounds of rags sold during the year at one-half cent per pound.

The clothing accounts at this Branch seem very complete. All clothing received at the Home is taken up and carried, until dropped by action of an inspector. The surgeon reports all clothing destroyed by his order, or used for burial of the dead, and if a member leaves the Home with clothing, and while absent is dropped from the rolls, a board of survey reports the amount of clothing taken and these reports are all held for the action of an inspector. Clothing is not issued unless the clothing proposed to be turned in is not fit for further wear, though record is made of clothing exchanged. Clothing fit for further wear, received from effects of dead or discharged men, is issued to men temporarily at post or exchanged with men not entitled to new clothing. The storeroom was in good condition and articles were conveniently and carefully arranged. A satisfactory test was made of certain articles reported on hand.

Laundry.

Soiled clothing and bedding are collected from companies and hospital under the supervision of noncommissioned officers on Saturdays, and sent to the laundry and returned on Fridays. Duplicate check lists are kept and verified. The average number of pieces laundered per month is reported as 9,990, of which 4,280 are shirts, 3,687 drawers, and 1,152 socks (pairs). There are 12 men employed in the laundry, to whom a compensation of $1,181.79 was paid during the year for services. The following is the reported cost per week for washing of clothing.

Steam power	$33.00
Labor	27.37
Sal soda	4.50
Lye	8.11
Total	72.98

During the week of the inspection 7,137 pieces of clothing were washed, making the expense of washing, exclusive of steam power, a fraction over one-half cent per piece. It is estimated that 200 members do their own washing wholly or partly, or have it done for them outside the laundry.

The number of dryers is reported as not sufficient for the growing needs of the camp. At least two more are needed, also an additional washer and a wringer. It is found that some Branches have not the same machinery as others. The supply of towels is reported as not sufficient; that members sometimes use pillow-cases for that purpose. The laundry was in good police and the work well done.

Fire department.

Protection against fire consists of 25 fire hydrants, 2,000 feet fire hose, fire extinguishers and grenades distributed in buildings, and a volunteer fire brigade. The hose is carried on a temporary wagon, and a suitable hose cart seems needed. The fire brigade consists of 125 men with a chief and assistants, made up of small organizations in each inhabited building, and is able to throw a stream of water on a fire, except at remote buildings, within three minutes after an alarm in daytime. The apparatus is tested usually two or three times a month, except when the water is scarce. There were no fires during the past year for which the fire department was called out. The only serious fire at this Branch occurred in 1893, when the governor's residence was completely destroyed, causing a loss of $8,000. The frame buildings here demand a particularly good fire service.

Engineer department.

The duties of the chief engineer pertain to the supervision of all construction, machinery, plumbing, repairs, etc., and he has general charge of the shops, and receives orders from the quartermaster at the treasurer's office, where he reports daily for instruction. He has been on duty here about seven years. Forty-eight men are employed under him as blacksmiths, painters, tinsmith, carpenters, engineers, plumber, coal passers, laborers, steam fitter, and clerk.

There are eleven shops at this Branch known as the bakery, carpenter, engineer, harness, horseshoeing, printing, paint, shoe, soap, tailor, and tin, the accounts of which are under the charge of the treasurer and acting quartermaster.

Material for the shops is charged to the shop account at cost price, and credited at same rate from the shop book for quantity used and service as to time employed at average rate of pay. The annual report of the shops, made to the Board of Managers, is made from the internal vouchers, and "repairs" is charged with a sufficient amount to make up the difference between the amount expended for labor and material taken from the shop account, and the amount as shown by the internal vouchers, but the cost of service as shown by the shop accounts do not agree with the actual amount expended as appears on the pay rolls.

The shops are somewhat scattered and in temporary places, and it would seem more desirable if they were located in one suitable and presentable building.

The drainage is reported good, and the sewage, mixed with some fresh water, is carried to the vegetable garden for irrigation. The chief engineer is competent and attentive to his duties.

Water supply.

The question of water is a serious problem at this Branch. The supply is limited and not adequate to the present demands, owing to two dry seasons. Water is obtained from two distinct sources—wells and a flowing stream in one of the mountain canyons. The wells and pumps are located in the low land on the Home territory, about half a mile from the headquarters building. There are three wells—one large well 75 feet deep and two new wells 89 feet deep each. The pumps in use are a deep-well pump, with a capacity of 125 gallons, and a Worthington pump with a capacity of 160 gallons per minute. There is said to be no special difference in the quality of the water pumped from the mountains or that pumped from the wells. It contains much sand and grit, which injures and obstructs valves and cuts surfaces and wears cylinders and pump rods. There is so much scale that boilers must be cleaned every two weeks or so. A settling reservoir or a filtration system may possibly cure this. It is understood that the question of an improved water service has been brought to the attention of the Board of Managers. Large expenditures have been made to receive and hold the expected water from the canyon, but the water is not received, if there now, in the quantity needed, so recourse is had to wells and pumps; and yet, with this addition, it is insufficient, even if of the best quality, and great economy has to be observed in its daily use at the Home, and the sewage is utilized for irrigation. It would seem but proper before any further expenditures were made looking to improve the water supply that careful study and tests and detailed plans and estimates again should be made by experts in these matters. Mistakes in such matters are costly, and it is not unimportant there to get the matter fixed just right.

Dining hall and kitchen.

The kitchen is so new that of course it was in good condition, but in the dining hall the floor is considerably worn, and the plastering of the walls more or less cracked. Both places were in good police. Facilities for cooking and serving meals are reported ample, though tables have to be set twice for each meal, and several tables three times. Twenty-two men are permanently employed in the kitchen and five in the dining hall; and 72 are temporarily detailed, the details being made by the acting adjutant on the first of each month by roster from the several companies. From the reports furnished it seems that during the month of December, 1895, the daily issues to the dining hall averaged 3.25 pounds per man at a cost of $0.127, and during June, 1896, 3.84 pounds at a cost of $0.128. The issues to the hospital averaged during December 5.51 pounds per man at a cost of $0.211, and during June 5.84 pounds at a cost of $0.199.

There are 5,760 pieces of crockery, costing $326.99, reported in daily use. The per. cent of breakage for the year ranged from 10 for salt cellars and mustard pots to 90 for water pitchers.

The tea did not seem to be of good quality, and more time seems needed at meals before waiters remove the dishes. Complaint was also made of the poor quality and distribution of ice recently used for drinking water. The flavor of artificial ice sometimes is unpleasant; and this cold storage and ice plant is new and hardly working as well at first as those at the Dayton and Southern Branches now do.

None of the members of this Home receive outdoor relief in subsistence or other allowances, but several letters have been received asking for it, and it works so well at the regular Home that it seems to deserve consideration here.

MEDICAL DEPARTMENT.

The hospital is composed of four buildings connected by inclosed corridors, viz, administration building, north and south wings, and kitchen and dining hall, and with two lavatories. Its capacity for patients, without crowding, is 146. The convalescent company is quartered in one of the dormitories of Barrack No. 7, and part of the attics of the north wing of the hospital. Other parts of the attics are used as dormitories for the employees, and the basements of the hospital are used for storage. Great care seems to be taken to keep the hospital in a neat and clean condition. There are four bathrooms in the hospital, and an average of 40 patients to each bath tub. Patients are required to bathe weekly, and have the assistance of a nurse, if necessary. There are gratings in the floor for the purpose of ventilation, leading into wooden conduits, and a ventilating stack built of brick.

It seems questionable whether a water-closet should be introduced into a sick ward, as has been done at one Branch.

The average daily sick during the year was 94 in hospital, 66 in convalescent company, and 31 at sick call. There were 418 patients admitted to the hospital during the year, and 222 to the convalescent company; and 63 were discharged from the hospital as cured. The total number of patients treated during the year was 774, and each case was under treatment an average of seventy-seven days. There were no cases of contagious or infectious diseases, nor diseases of local origin reported for the year.

The death rate for the year was 46.89 per 1,000 of the average present and absent, and 38.04 per 1,000 of the whole number cared for, and is higher than reported for the preceding year. Of the 83 deaths, 68 occurred in hospital, 1 in barracks, and 14 outside of the reservation. The causes assigned are 74 natural, 2 suicide, and 7 the result of accidents. The average age at death is reported at 64⅝ years against 61 the year before.

Seventy-four of the deceased members were buried at the Home cemetery. They are buried in the Home uniform, consisting of blouse, trousers, undershirt, drawers, and socks, and in coffins made in San Francisco at a cost of $8.45 each. Coffins can be made at the Home cheaper. The cost of a funeral is reported as $15. No allowance is made for funeral expenses of members dying outside of the Home.

A more careful and closer index to the hospital records might add to their value. Money and valuables are permitted to be kept by the patients but may be turned over to the surgeon, who gives no receipts for money or articles received by him. The sick-call blotter kept at this Branch seems to be of more value than the regular sick-call record.

There are 74 hospital employees, of whom 66 are members and 8 civilians. The former serve in the capacity of druggist, hospital steward, ward masters, cooks, dishwashers, funeral escort, nurses, waiters, etc., and the latter as assistant surgeons, matron, interne, and female nurses. The ratio of these employees to the total number of patients treated is as 1 to about 10.5 and to the average daily sick as 1 to about 2.6.

Medicines are obtained from the quartermaster's department, which apparently issues in large quantities upon monthly requisitions, and issued to the patients upon the doctor's prescription. The drug storeroom was not in very good police.

There are no facilities at this Branch for the proper care of incurable or violent insane, and all such are sent at once to an asylum, after having been adjudged insane by commissioners appointed by a civil court. Seven were sent to the asylum at Highlands, Cal., during the year. Twenty-six members showed indications of disordered minds during the year, of whom 7 were considered permanently insane and 19 temporarily. The insane are quartered in hospital wards and attic, and there are 2 cells for close confinement and one strait-jacket.

Nine members at this Branch are reported totally blind, and 18 with impaired eyesight so as to be unable to read. Members requiring treatment for diseases of the eye are attended by a specialist regularly detailed as assistant surgeon.

No. 4.—Report of an Inspection of the Western Branch, made August 31, 1896.

The officers are efficient and painstaking, and exercise a watchful care over the interests of the Home. There has been no change in their personnel since last inspection.

DISBURSEMENTS.

The accounts and disbursements of the treasurer were inspected from November 19, 1895, the date of the last inspection, to August 31, 1896, and involved $635,519.19, pertaining to the general, pension, post, and improvement funds. The expenditures, as shown by vouchers and transfers, amounted to $568,779.68, leaving a balance on hand of $66,739.51, which consisted of $234.17 cash on hand and $66,505.34 on deposit in the First National Bank of Leavenworth.

General fund.

During the past fiscal year the treasurer received on account of this fund $327,273.88, consisting of $295,980.60 congressional appropriations and $31,293.28 receipts from sales and other sources. The expenditures for the same period were $232,580.50 by check and $70,129.76 in currency. At date of inspection there was a balance of $36,432.28 on deposit to the credit of this fund.

Improvement and repairs.

No special improvements were authorized or made during the past year, but during the present year a building for the insane, long needed, if it will secure better quarters and care than the basement gave they formerly occupied, is contemplated and under construction at a cost of $5,300, and to renew and cover the steam pipes and connections, for which $7,514.75 was appropriated. The improvements reported needed for the year ending June 30, 1898, are a quartermaster's building, water filter, and building two barracks, a guardhouse, and steam boilers, at a total estimated cost of $87,400. The amount expended on repairs during the past year is reported as $26,012.48.

Nothing was received by the treasurer during the year on account of the western improvement fund. At date of last inspection, November 19, 1895, he had $840.68 on hand, of which $582.80 was disbursed during the year. The October pay roll from this fund embraced a civilian florist and 5 laborers, 2 guards, 1 machinist, 1 rodman, and 1 civil engineer, members.

The roadway leading by the most direct way from the barracks of "C," "F," "M" and "A" companies to the dining hall was paved with irregular blocks of stone, and seemed very rough.

Pension fund.

The treasurer paid out during the year on account of pensions $321,230.79, and had a balance of $16,170.55, due the pensioners at the close of the year. The average paid each pensioner during the last quarter of the year was $35.36. On June 30, 1896, there were 2,456 pensioners on the rolls at this Branch, against 2,177 a year previous, of whom 1,725 were present and 731 absent, the longest absence being four years. There were 74 pensioners, at the close of the year, who had balances to their credit. Of these, 4 had between $500 and $1,000 each; 42 between $100 and $500 each; and 28 less than $100 each. The addresses of 11 pensioners, who had a total of $450 to their credit, were not known; and 34 pensioners, with a total of $4,536.75 to their credit, had been transferred to an insane asylum. At date of inspection, August 31, 1896, the funds on hand, pertaining to pensions, were found to be $21,204.22, which were on deposit in bank.

Post fund.

The receipts from sales during the year at the Home store, restaurant, and beer hall were $38,060.31, and the expenditures $20,709.74, of which $19,501.79 was for stock and $1,207.95 for employees and incidentals. Receipts from other sources under this fund were $5,268.64, and expenditures $19,015.66. The assets reported at the close of the year were $9,983.42 cash and $2,719.82 merchandise. Goods for the store are bought on competitive bids. Some vouchers for payments from this fund sent to Hartford last April had not been returned, thus leaving the disbursing officer without any evidence of payment to present for inspection. The pay roll for July, 1896, amounted to $797.90.

At date of inspection, August 31, 1896, the treasurer had in his charge $8,845.13 pertaining to this fund.

The business of the post fund is almost entirely transacted in the basements of two barracks, and this Home has no separate buildings for store or beer hall, as found at other branches. Large upper rooms over the dining room might answer for a canteen, library, and amusement room, if properly divided, when no longer needed for a theater. They are miserable abortions when used as dormitories. These basements are not considered convenient nor suitable. There are, however, several buildings at the Branch erected in whole or part from the post fund, namely, chapel, band leader's residence, two band stands, and member's workshop. The last named is a structure designed for men who delight in passing their time making all sorts of fancy articles or working on some pet invention or scheme.

The brick plant, which was established some years ago under this fund and has furnished considerable material for paving and building, does not seem to have been profitable during the year. The reports show the receipts from the sale of brick to have been $3,850.50, and the expenditures $4,123.26. The accounts relating to it seemed to be in a confused condition. The inventory for June takes up 22,887 tiling brick as "not heretofore reported." Fifty thousand brick for the foundation of the new boilers were sold to the general fund at $6 per thousand, and 112,000 tiling brick for repairs of hospital basement and kitchen scullery at $20 per thousand, while 53 cents per thousand was paid from the general fund for hauling 400,000 brick from the brickyard to various places on the Home grounds.

The brick plant, which was inventoried June 30, 1896, at $3,500, after a credit on account of depreciation of $10,000, was sold on July 24, 1896, for $2,500, possession to be given immediately and allowed to operate until December 1, 1896. Five per cent of brick made to be left on the ground as rent and for use of clay, and all the plant to be removed March 1, 1897.

Purchases.

Purchases for staple article used by the Home are usually made under contracts for three, six, nine, or twelve months. Open-market purchases are made in cases of emergency, where the articles are not covered by contract or the amount involved is less than $100. The principal articles of food for the last quarter of the fiscal year were purchased in Kansas City and Leavenworth. Flour, coffee, potatoes, fish (salt and fresh, except fresh white), beans, sirup, cheese, and sugar were obtained from the latter city, and beef (fresh and corned), tea, bacon, pork, fresh whitefish, ham, and butterine from the former city.

Employees.

The daily number of employees averaged 355, and included 5 officers, 25 non-commissioned officers, 285 members, and 40 civilians. The maximum employed at one time was 379 and the minimum 308. About 41,724 days' work was performed without pay, but not as a penalty, by an average daily number of 114 members, who were detailed for dining-room or kitchen duty or picking garden products on the farm.

ADMINISTRATION.

Population.

The average number of officers and members present during the year was 2,340, which is a gain of 79 over the number reported for the preceding year, and an average of 784, or 25.1 per cent, was constantly absent. The highest number present during the year was 2,531, on February 21, 1896, and the lowest 2,211, on July 1, 1895. At date of inspection the total population consisted of 2,455 persons, including temporary members, women and children, and 846 members were absent.

The transients or "temporary at post" add over seventy-five per cent to the average present to make the total cared for. Neither the transients nor the continuous absentees may be so marked a feature of this new post as some of the others, but in considering the statistics concerning the men it is apt to enlist attention everywhere.

There were no vacant beds reported in barracks or hospital at date of inspection.

The members presented a commendable appearance at inspection.

The broad pavements and beautiful site of this Home affords a rare opportunity for interesting ceremonies. Only the useful is given much place at these inspections, where it is important to see the men and several suits of their clothing and have some test of the discipline and orderliness. But on a flag day there was a very noticeable ceremony here, when children mingled with the veterans, and the impressive features of the occasion have been most widely commended.

Discipline.

Discipline is enforced by company captains and the corporal in charge of each ward, and by the guard, consisting of 1 lieutenant, 2 sergeants, 2 corporals, and 13 privates. Over 82 per cent, or 1,932 members, were reported as not tried during the year.

The penalties attached comprise extra duty without pay from thirty to sixty days, light labor, and limits of the Home grounds. Fines are not imposed, and members 64 years old and over are not required to work outside under sentence.

Amusements.

Among the facilities for amusements are mentioned billiard and card tables, checkers, dominoes, theater, opera, minstrels, band concerts, boating, fishing, books, papers, and magazines, "old men's workshop," which seems growing into quite a feature and novelty, requiring some management and isolation perhaps; and quoits, with championship rules and regular organization. Of these comic opera, minstrels, and melodrama, and quoits, seem best liked.

The deer park has been abolished. The proper encouragement and arrangements for outdoor occupation in summer and indoor in winter has received considerable attention and deserves complete success at all the Branches. The active army is perhaps making more progress in this direction at present than the disabled veterans.

The library is situated in the upper story of the Ward Memorial Building. It is well lighted, roomy, clean, and tidy, and serves the purpose of a reading room as well as library.

At the close of the year there were 8,062 volumes on hand. Books may be taken from the library for a period of ten days, but must be returned in good order. Books of fiction, history, and biography, in the order named, are in greatest demand, and the books read averaged over 11 per member for the past year.

The band is maintained throughout the year, though with a considerably reduced strength during winter. Each year about October 15 the band is usually reduced to six or seven, exclusive of the leader, who is permanently employed, and in April of each year or thereabout the band is reorganized with a full membership. The number of musicians in the band throughout the year averaged $14\frac{7}{12}$. The cost of maintenance during the year, including subsistence and other allowances of civilians, has averaged $393.09 per musician and $2.45 per member. The bands appear to have been the most acceptable and successful amusement at these Homes, and it may be only fair if the Government should contribute as much to their support as it does to that of a regimental band. The musicians are quartered in a room on the first floor of one of the barracks, except the leader, who lives in a house built for his use and supplied with steam heat from the boiler house, but receives no clothing or rations. The other musicians are each furnished with a blouse and one pair of trousers, and eat at the general table with the members. Their subsistence is paid for by the post fund.

The second floor of the general dining hall is fitted up as a theater. It was in good condition, but does not seem suitable for that purpose, the seats, of which there are 1,300, being on a level, and the stage necessarily low on account of a low ceiling, and the acoustic properties are said to be poor. The entertainments given comprise concerts, lectures, melodrama, minstrels, and general theatrical performances. No admission is charged to members, but outsiders pay 25 cents. The revenue from this source was $45.50 for the year. Sixteen performances were given, at a cost of $2,147.50.

The success of the amusement building recently erected at Dayton, in addition to its handsome theater and church, may fill a long felt want and will be watched with interest. The mental and social side of humanity deserves considerate attention at every Home and receives it about in equal proportion at each Branch.

The billiard room is in the Keeley clubroom in the basement of the Ward Memorial Hall, and contains one billiard and one pool table. The tables are not reported in frequent use, which may be due to their location, though there is some little playing nearly every day except Sundays. There is no charge for these games. The billiard room is also used for card playing, though the latter is indulged in mainly in barracks and hospital, where about 75 card tables are in use. Perhaps cards are the most common amusement at the Homes.

The Home owns six boats, which may be used free of charge by members. Civilians pay 25 cents per hour for one person and 5 cents extra for each additional person. Disorderly or hazardous conduct is strictly prohibited. The receipts from this source were $40.20 for the year and the expenses $18.67.

There is also a quoit club at the Home and a quoiting ground in the ravine in rear of the barracks. This game is very popular.

Keeley League.

This society numbers 1,046, and holds weekly meetings in the basement of Ward Memorial Hall. Its gain in membership during the year was 72, who took the cure for the first time; and there were 20 who took it a second, and 4 a third time. The loss during the year was 72 by relapse and expulsion. The total cost of medicines in taking the cure is reported as $15 for alcoholism and $22.10 for morphinism. The total receipts during the year were $3,231.90, which, with the balance of $114.36 on hand July 1, 1895, made $3,346.26 available for disbursement. The expenditures were $2,547.29, leaving a balance on hand of $798.97. The funds are deposited in the First National Bank of Leavenworth, and its accounts are kept separate and distinct from other funds. It is reported that the members take the cure of their own volition, and no inducements are held out except the encouragement engendered by the redeemed men themselves or the moral suasion which every sober, right-thinking man exerts to save his brother from a drunkard's grave.

In addition to the Veterans' Keeley League there is a Grand Army of the Republic post (Brennan Post, No. 380) at the Home, with a membership of 300, which meets twice a month in the basement of the Ward Memorial Hall. Great interest is manifested in the welfare of these organizations by the members, and they are said to have a good effect upon the discipline of the Home.

Religious services.

Divine services are held in the two auditoriums of the chapel, or Immanuel Church, as it is known, each chaplain having his own auditorium. The Protestant chaplain, who receives a compensation of $100 per month and quarters, fuel, light, and forage and stabling for one horse, held services regularly three times each week, with occasional extra services, and officiated at all funerals of members not of the Catholic faith. He also visited the sick frequently and performed acts of kindness for them, such as letter-writing, etc. The Catholic chaplain, who receives $65 per month and forage and stabling for one horse, but does not live at the Home, held services twice each week and benediction each Friday evening; also services during Lent and on other occasions. He visited the sick in hospital frequently, officiated at funerals of Catholic members, and attended a number of society meetings and other gatherings tending to the happiness and well-being of the members. The auditoriums have a capacity of 300 each, and services are reported well attended.

The church is comparatively new, and quite artistic from chimes to basement, and adds to the appearance and decorous spirit of the institution. It solves the problem better than usual where several denominations worship under one roof; and it is submitted that every Home should have some such place of worship.

Farm.

The farm has 90 acres under cultivation, 60 less than reported last year, and contains the following buildings: A frame for storing vegetables, a tool shed, and a large, handsome brick barn and stable, all in good condition except the tool shed. The transportation consists of 16 vehicles and carts and 16 horses. Two of the vehicles were presented to the Home—a phaeton donated by the Veterans' Keeley League, and a wagon known as the Pullman coach, presented by S. F. Scott, of Kansas City, and used for hauling the sick. The Veterans' Keeley League also presented a team of horses for use of the sick. There are no other animals kept on the farm, but stabling is provided for 10 private horses and 6 carriages, 5 buggies, and 2 phaetons. The value of the farm stock on hand June 30, 1896, was estimated at $1,200. The products for the year are valued at $1,545.61, which was all used on the table except $10.84 sold, and are reported of as good quality as can be purchased outside, excepting potatoes, which are poorer. The appropriation for the farm was $8,000, but this was used also to maintain the stock and to supplement the improvement fund in the care and ornamentation of the grounds, and also to provide for the teaming about the place. This year the farm is managed by the Home. Last year the value of the products of the farm was reported as $5,704.06, of which $5,303.26 was turned into the commissary department on an appropriation of $9,700.

SUPPLY DEPARTMENTS.

Buildings.

The buildings were in good police and repair and seemed well designed. There are 13 barracks, all constructed of brick, with basements and metal roof, and reported in good condition as to comfort and sanitation, and evidently receive constant and close attention. They are heated by steam and lighted by gas, and ventilation is effected by 2 large ventilating shafts extending from ground to roof, and each ward contains 6 wall ventilators, near floor, and 2 registers, 1 near ceiling and the other near floor. The system of heating, lighting, and ventilation is reported satisfactory. As the barracks are such an important element in the lives of the members, it may be due to especially commend the plan and care of these, except the use of the basements for human habitation. Few, if any, of the Branches excel the average of these. Marion and Santa Monica have not reached the dimensions of this Branch, and are still under construction. These barracks were originally constructed for 124 men, but are at present occupied by an average of 165 men each. This was made possible by placing beds in the ward aisles and occupying 8 of the basements for sleeping purposes. The other 5 basements are used for Home store, property, etc. At date of inspection 271 men were reported sleeping in basements, 229 in aisles, and 10 in other places. The basements do not seem to have as much light or ventilation as the regular dormitories, and they are reported damp at times in wet weather, though there seems to be no difference as to heat. One of the basements is used for the paint shop, which seems dangerous on account of the inflammable material therein. There are 2 bath tubs and 5 toilet rooms and urinals in each barrack. The supply of toweling, toilet paper, etc., is specially well administered.

Bedsteads and bedding.

The bedsteads are iron with spring bottoms, 2½ by 6½ feet, and the mattress in use is cotton, and reported to weigh from 8 to 11 pounds. This is less than reported at some of the other Branches. The variety reported was unexpectedly great, though the transition from a ridiculously thin pad to a serviceable mattress compelled some difference. It is to be hoped that a broader, and therefore more comfortable, bedstead will alone be bought hereafter. The uncomfortable narrow one, like the former flimsy pad, is evidently not good enough now for disabled veterans, even if they were good enough twenty years ago. The average supply of bedding per man consists of 1 mattress, 1 pillow, 2 pillow cases, 3 sheets, 3 blankets, and 1 counterpane. Each man is required to keep his cot clean, and air and dust his bedding daily. The locker in use is 3 feet high, 2 wide, and 1 deep, with 1 drawer and 2 shelves. Bedsteads, bedding, and lockers were reported in good condition.

Supplies.

There are no storehouses at this Branch, and supplies are stored in basements. The quartermaster supplies occupy basements of four barracks and two rooms at the carpenter shop; medical supplies are in a basement room of the hospital, and subsistence supplies are stored in the basement of the dining hall, which seems admirably adapted for the purpose. Inventories of quartermaster property are reported as taken semiannually and of subsistence stores quarterly. Furniture and other property of the Home is reported marked as far as practicable, and the quartermaster has memorandum receipts from officers for property continually in their possession. Supplies are taken up on inspection reports approved by the governor and issued on proper requisitions, except coal, which is charged as expended when received. No record is kept of its distribution. Unserviceable property is condemned and destroyed or sold. The supplies seemed generally of good quality and ample for the needs of the Home.

Clothing.

The clothing, as soon as received from the depot, is taken up in the cumbrous property book, and issued to members on approved requisitions. Credit is given them for articles turned in. The contrast between the paper work required for the men in a company to get two such pieces of property as tobacco and socks seems phenomenal. One requires as many signatures for each man as the other does for the company. It would be well if the system of accountability and responsibility for property were established on a better basis, with constant supervision.

If the clothing turned in is not worn out it is cleaned, pressed, and taken up as second-hand clothing and reissued to readmitted members or members returning from furlough whose clothing has been turned in. In certain cases members are permitted to wear clothing on furlough, and they are not held accountable for clothing taken with them when the time from date of issue of such clothing to date of return from furlough is equal to the time prescribed for the wear of the articles. Clothing taken with permission by furloughed members is entered in pencil on the credit side of the clothing book as temporary memoranda. Clothing in use is not carried on the property ledgers.

Four towels of linen crash, 22 by 36 inches, are issued to each member. This seems to be an advance on other methods and in the interest of cleanliness.

Cast-off clothing is condemned, cut into rags, baled, and sold. The receipts from this source for the year were $1,126.59. The following are the amounts sold and prices per pound obtained: 1,802 pounds blouses, and 1,434 pounds dress coats, each 9 cents per pound; 296 pounds great coats, and 3,635 pounds kersey trousers, each 11 cents; 2,296 pounds wool socks, 8 cents per pound; 1,482 pounds blouse trimmings, 1,202 pounds sheet linen, and 2,213 pounds trouser trimmings, each 3 cents per pound; 2,262 pounds white linings, 3¾ cents per pound; and 2,335 pounds C. F. drawers, 2½ cents per pound.

The shop account inventories do not always agree with the property account.

Laundry. Soiled clothing and bedding are sent each Monday to the laundry and returned on Thursdays and Fridays, accompanied by lists which are verified and receipted at each end. Members are permitted to send all their soiled clothing and bedding. The following are the average number of pieces of each kind reported laundried per month: 1,654 aprons, 120 blankets, 85 blouses, 438 counterpanes, 8,984 drawers, 402 handkerchiefs, 52 overalls, 10,556 pillowcases, 10,482 sheets, 7,700 shirts, 1,924 socks (pairs), 78 tablecloths, 5,470 towels, 250 trousers, 94 waiters' jackets, 108 dress coats, 194 vests, 387 napkins, 40 waiters' caps, 14 bibbs, 78 gloves, and 374 sundry articles.

The number of pieces laundried during August, 1896, is reported as 56,045, against 51,921 for the corresponding month of the preceding year.

The laundry was in good condition and police.

Fire department. Small structures, not unlike old-time sentry boxes, containing fire plug and hose, with nozzle connected with the water main, are scattered at suitable intervals between barracks and about the grounds, and can throw a stream of water to the highest parts of adjacent buildings within 400 feet of the box. In addition, fire extinguishers are on each floor of barracks. The fire department seems well organized and the firemen can respond in a few minutes after the alarm is sounded. No fires occurred during the past year, and none have been reported for previous years, except that of a small stable in 1886. The apparatus is reported frequently tested, and the hose no longer in the best condition, owing to age.

Engineer department. The chief engineer, who has been on duty here for nearly eleven years, has charge of the boiler house, steam and gas fitting, engineer, and tin shops, and looks after the heating of the Home. In addition to the shops under charge of the engineer, there are a carpenter, paint, printing, shoe, soap, and a tailor shop, the accounts of which are under the charge of the quartermaster. There are 48 men employed under the chief engineer.

The boiler house is a large, substantial brick structure, 140 by 42 feet, with a 190-foot smokestack. It contains four boilers, two of 250 horsepower each, and two of 350 horsepower each, used for heating the Home, and supplying hot water for kitchen and bathrooms. There is also a steam pump in the boiler house, by means of which the water supply may be raised to 160 pounds if necessary. The engineer department seemed in good condition. The sewage of the Home passes from each building to sewer pipes in the tunnel and empties into the Missouri River. The mingling of tubes in the tunnel and leading thence into inhabited buildings has received some criticism.

Dining hall and kitchen.

These give a most favorable impression in every respect, and are kept in admirable order. The dining hall seems spacious and the shelving and other conveniences adequate; but the growth of the Branch has outgrown the hall, and the 30 tables, each of which seats 36 persons, have to be set twice for each meal. The good order and management is intelligent, considerate, and effective. The kitchen is in the rear of the dining hall, and is equipped with a large range of a capacity of 1,300 pounds of food, 6 boilers with a total capacity of 480 gallons, 5 steamers holding together 15 bushels, and 5 coffee boilers of 50 gallons each. The facilities for cooking and serving meals are reported ample. Sixteen men are permanently employed in the kitchen and six in the dining hall, and there is an additional dining-room detail of 72 men, to which every member is subject, though he is permitted to hire a substitute or commute through the sergeant. Details are made for one week and average about 3 per annum for each member. During the week ending August 29, 1896, there were 16,952 rations reported issued to both general and hospital messes, costing $1,847.34. Deducting from this $50.38 for supplies furnished by farm, and adding $149.37 for bakery and $126.65 for pay, the cost of the ration was $0.1223, or without the farm account $0.1252.

Swill and garbage are given to a civilian for the hauling.

There are 11,470 pieces of crockery reported in daily use. The per cent of breakage for the year ranged from 10 for mustard pots to 71 for bowls.

None of the members receive outdoor relief in subsistence.

MEDICAL DEPARTMENT.

The hospital is a long brick structure with basement and attic, composed of a central or administrative building of three stories, and two wings on either side of two stories each. A third wing is directly in rear of the administrative building, and broad balconies, on a level with each floor, surround the hospital. It was in excellent condition and has room for 200 patients, exclusive of insane wards and the old men's building, which have a capacity of 40 and 49, respectively, and of quarters for convalescents, with a capacity of 109. The east basements of the hospital are used as a dormitory for employees, and the west basements as storerooms. The attics are used as quarters for women nurses and wards for patients. There are nine bath tubs in the hospital, and patients are required to bathe on entering, and weekly thereafter, or oftener if necessary.

The average daily sick during the year has been 177.96 in hospital, 90.60 in convalescent company, and 25 at sick call. There were 871 patients admitted to the hospital during the year, and 2[illegible]1 to the convalescent company; and 660 were discharged from the hospital as cured, and 40 from the convalescent company. The total number of patients treated during the year was 4,479, and, exclusive of sick-call cases, each case in hospital was 71.50 days under treatment, and in convalescent company 136.14 days. Malarial fever, of which there were 88 cases during the year, seems to be the principal disease of local origin.

'he death rate for the year was 52.49 per 1,000 present and absent, l 39.93 per 1,000 of the whole number cared for, and is slightly higher n reported for the preceding year. Of the 164 deaths, 130 occurred iospital, 7 in convalescent quarters, 1 elsewhere on the reservation, l 26 died outside of the Home. The causes assigned are 158 natural, rom violence, 2 from suicide, and 3 the result of accidents. The rage age at death was 63.08 years, against 61 for the previous year.)ne hundred and thirty-eight of the deceased members were buried :he Home cemetery. They are buried in their Home uniform and a in made at the Home at a cost of $3.46. The use of a caisson instead a hearse is a feature at this Home and seems very appropriate. The t of a funeral at the Home is reported as $7.80, and no allowances made for funeral expenses of members dying outside.

'here are 90 hospital employees, of whom 77 are members and 13 il ans. The former serve in the capacity of hospital steward, barber, ks, driver, grave digger, nurses, reader to blind, ward masters, bread ter, dishwashers, funeral escort, hall cleaners, orderlies, waiters, and ind dresser, and the latter as surgeon, and assistant surgeons, matron, ggist, interne, and women nurses. The ratio of these employees to total number of patients treated is as 1 to nearly 50, and to the rage daily sick as 1 to about 3.3.

Iedicines are obtained upon properly approved requisitions made ekly upon the quartermaster's department, and issued to patients on the surgeon's prescriptions. No record is kept of medicines after eipt. Whisky is issued to the hospital by the barrel. There are 443 'erent kinds of drugs, etc., reported in use in the dispensary, and the ount expended for them during the past year was $4,200.90.

'he inadequacy of facilities to care for the insane has been mentioned a previous report. Basements with poor light and ventilation and erless surroundings are hardly calculated to improve insane patients ere were 57 members showing indications of disordered minds dur the year, of whom 40 were considered permanently insane and 13 :e sent to St. Elizabeth's Asylum. The insane at this Branch aver- 44 per annum, and about 15 are sent annually to the asylum. There no cells for close confinement.

'hirteen members are reported totally blind, and 27 with an impaired sight so as to be unable to read; 11 of these are cared for in hos- al, 15 are quartered in Barrack C, and the others in different barracks. 'he required records of the hospital were in good order and neatly ot.

. 5.—Report of an Inspection of the Marion Branch, made September 8, 1896.

'here has been no change in the officers, and the Home showed dence of excellent administration.

DISBURSEMENTS.

'he accounts and disbursements of the treasurer were inspected n November 2, 1895, the date of the last inspection, to September 7, 6, and involved $449,067.78, pertaining to the general, pension, and t funds. The expenditures, as shown by vouchers and transfers, ounted to $413,449.64, leaving a balance on hand of $35,618.14, of ich $34,506.25 was on deposit in the Indiana National Bank of lianapolis, and $1,111.89 cash on hand.

General fund.

During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1896, the treasurer received on account of this fund $225,179.05, of which $221,421.10 were from Congressional appropriations and $3,757.95 from sales. The expenditures for the same period were $211,621.74, which was all disbursed by checks. At date of inspection there was a balance of $27,415.86 pertaining to this fund, which was all on deposit, except $35.01 cash in the hands of the treasurer.

The inventories of effects of deceased members are not filed with the treasurer, as in other Branches, but the amount is taken up from a memorandum handed in to the treasurer's office by a member of the council of administration. Often there is no report, and an examination between some of the reports and the amounts taken up showed minor discrepancies. Possibly this would not occur if the usual course were followed.

Vouchers given for cash for sales to officers and others do not always show the amount turned over to the treasurer.

Improvements and repairs.

The principal improvements made during the past year consist of two additional barracks, new dining hall, and standpipe, at a cost of $74,972.76. The improvements authorized for the present year, and already under way, are three additional barracks, a new boiler house, gas well and connections, and lease of additional grounds, and $74,800 has been appropriated for the purpose. The estimates for the year ending June 30, 1898, include a gate lodge, new barn, greenhouse, and electric-light plant, and $19,500 is asked for these improvements. The cost of repairs made during the year was $9,954.87. The most considerable repairs upon one structure consisted in painting walls of hospital and replacing window screens and floors in corridors, etc. Three hundred dollars was paid for lease of some land, for which there did not seem to be any appropriation. Five thousand dollars was appropriated this year for a natural-gas well and connections, and $10,000 is asked for an electric-light plant for next year.

Pension fund.

The treasurer paid out during the year on account of pensions $186,428.90, and had a balance of $1,876.68 due the pensioners at the close of the year. The average paid each pensioner during the last quarter was $30.67. On June 30, 1896, there were 1,544 pensioners on the rolls of this Branch, against 1,355 a year previous, of whom 1,175 were present and 369 absent; 6 being absent over one year. There were no pensioners on the rolls with balances to their credit whose addresses were unknown; and there were 4 who had between $100 and $500 to their credit each, and 48 with less than $100 each. Six of these, who have a total of $161.05 to their credit, have been transferred to an insane asylum. One clerk, at an annual salary of $240, paid from the post fund, is employed on pension business. At date of inspection, September 7, 1896, the balance to the credit of this fund was $2,882.33, which was on deposit in bank, except $350.70 cash on hand. The policy of this Branch seems to be to let the men have their pension money more freely than at other Branches, and no harm seems to arise from it.

Post fund.

The receipts from sales during the year at the Home store were $19,005.15, and the expenditures for stock $12,112.57. There is no beer hall nor restaurant at this Branch. The assets reported at the close of the year were $3,435.69 cash and $5,834.33 merchandise. At date of inspection the treasurer had in his charge $5,319.95, which was on deposit except $726.18 cash on hand. This amount of cash on hand was reported as due to the distance from the depository at Indianapolis, Ind. It would be a convenience if a bank in Marion could be made an authorized depository for at least a part of this fund.

The Home store is reported convenient and suitable for the purpose. It was erected from old lumber taken from buildings on the grounds when the Home was first started. The revenues of the post fund at this Home are not so large as at some of the other Branches, and very little can be expended for improvements. No buildings have been erected from this fund, but nearly $3,000 was expended for scenery, seats, furniture, range, etc., of the Stinson Memorial Building. A cash register is in use at the store. This fund is also charged with the expense of bringing money from Indianapolis by express to pay pensions. The amount due for transportation is ascertained at the end of the quarter by going over the book and picking out the items not paid. A general account, showing the amount received and expended day by day on this account, would seem advisable.

Purchases.

Purchases are nearly all made by contract or agreement. In cases of emergency purchases are made in open market by the treasurer, who calls upon different dealers and places the order with those giving the lowest figures, quality considered. The principal articles of food for the last quarter of the year were obtained from a number of markets, as, for instance, fresh beef, corn beef, bacon, and ham, from Chicago; coffee and sugar, A and C, from Cincinnati; granulated sugar, cheese, and fresh mackerel from Dayton; butter from Kansas City; flour, potatoes, fresh fish, and navy beans from Marion; salt pork from Hammond, Ind., and tea from Marion and Chicago.

Employees.

The number of employees during the year under the general fund averaged 3 officers, 16 non-commissioned officers, 195 members, and 45 civilians, who received a total compensation of $47,473.47. Their daily pay is reported as follows:

	Maximum.	Minimum.	Average.
Officers	$7.63	$5.55	$6.50
Non-commissioned officers	1.33	.40	.86
Members	1.00	.16	.58
Civilians	4.16	.66	2.41

An average of only one member per day worked without pay during the year, not as a penalty, distributing medicines in hospital.

ADMINISTRATION.

Population.

The average number of officers and members present during the year was 1,422, which is an increase of 213 over the number reported for the preceding year, and an average of 364, or 20.4 per cent, was constantly absent. The growth is shown from year to year as follows: 1893, 150; 1894, 144, and 1895, 145. The total number cared for was 2,503, against 2,160 the previous year. At date of inspection the population of the Home consisted of 1,595 persons, including temporary members, women, and children, and 488 members were absent. The number of vacant beds reported was 75 in barracks and 20 in hospital. At the inspection there were 792 men in line, including officers, members, and band, and 715 were excused by reason of sickness or extra and other duty. The men presented an excellent appearance and seemed well disciplined.

Discipline.

Compared with the previous year, there is a decrease of 172 in the number of members tried for breaches of discipline against the rules and regulations of the Home; the percentage last year of men tried to average present being about 40, but only 22 this year. About one-third of the total number of trials was for fence jumping, and less than one-fourth for drunkenness. The penalties attached usually consist of labor without pay, or confinement to the limits of the camp. Printed rules relating to discipline are posted in all wards, and violations are reported to the company captains, who correct the disorder, or call in the guard and have the offending member taken to the guardhouse. There are also four guards stationed within the camp, who are instructed to preserve order on the grounds and guard public property. Twenty-one members were dishonorably discharged during the year, and 75 were dropped from the rolls for desertion or absence without leave. Other losses during the year were 269 by discharge, 188 by transfer, 81 by death, and 11 by commitment to insane asylum, making a total loss of 645.

Amusements.

Facilities for amusements comprise theater, billiards, band, and library. Of these the band concerts given under its efficient leader seem to be best liked by the members. The Stinson Memorial Hall, which was completed during the year, has added greatly to the facilities for amusement, though its exterior architecture was apparently marred by changes of plans during the progress of construction.

The library was in good condition and contained at the close of the year 2,264 volumes. It also serves as a reading room. Books may be taken from the library by members of the Home on presentation of a library card. There were 16,879 books taken from the library during the year, and 11,000 were reported read in the reading room, which gives an average of nearly 20 books read by each member. Fiction and history of the civil war are reported in greatest demand.

The band is maintained during the entire year with an average membership of 22 musicians, of whom 19 are civilians. At date of inspection there were 17 civilians in band. The cost of maintenance during the year, including subsistence and other allowances of civilians, has averaged $326.90 per musician, and $5.06 per member present. The band practices daily, except Sunday, and the concerts are free to all. The civilian musicians are quartered in part of one of the barracks, and receive clothing and rations the same as members.

The Stinson Memorial Hall serves the purpose of a theater, and was in excellent condition, and has a seating capacity of 500. It is also used for divine services. There were 7 free performances given during the year, at an expense of $25, and 14 paid performances, at an expense of $700, which is met from the post fund. An admission of 5 and 10 cents is charged to members and of 50 cents to others, bringing a revenue of $454.85, perhaps the largest revenue in proportion to the expense for this amusement of any of the Branches, which marks good management in the first year after opening.

The billiard hall is located over the new dining room, where the upper story seems delightfully arranged for comfortable sociability. It contains 1 pool and 3 billiard tables, which are almost constantly in use from 8 a. m. to 9 p. m., except Saturday afternoons and Sundays. There is no charge for the use of the tables. Cards are played by members in the barracks, which contain about 2 tables in each ward, and are reported to offer ample opportunity for all who desire to play.

Chloride of Gold Club.

This club has a membership of 125 and meets once in two weeks in its room over the kitchen. Its gain in membership during the year was 44, who took the cure for the first time; and 4 took the cure a second time. The loss in membership during the year was 35, of whom 4 died, 3 resigned, and 4 were transferred to other Branches or abandoned treatment; and 25 relapsed. The cost of taking the cure, whether for the first or second time, is $15. The receipts during the year were $757.35 and the expenses $644.39; and the balance reported on hand at the close of the year was $406.60. No inducements are given members to take the treatment. The accounts are kept separate and distinct from other funds by the treasurer of the Home. The attempts to cure intemperance in these ways, as a disease rather than a vice, seems to be given this social feature and a hall at all the Branches.

In addition to this club there are six other societies, viz, Union Veteran Legion, Encampment No. 90, 137 members; Union Temperance League, 250 members; Tom Bennett Post, No. 546, G. A. R., 64 members; The Christian Union, 250 members, and League of the Sacred Heart, 40 members. All but the last named have regular meetings in the assembly hall in basement of barracks No. 1. The League of the Sacred Heart meets in the chapel, but not regularly. These societies are said to have a good effect upon the discipline of the Home.

Religious services.

There is no chapel built wholly for the purpose of worship. Divine services are held twice each week by each chaplain in the Stinson Memorial Hall. There are two chaplains, a Protestant and a Catholic, who each receive a compensation of $50 per month, but do not live at the Home. The Protestant chaplain held 104 services and the Catholic about 200. They also visit the sick about three times each week and officiate at funeral services, and the Protestant chaplain acts as librarian. The services are reported fairly well attended.

Farm.

The farm contains 75 acres under cultivation, an increase of 5 acres over last year, and comprises three buildings: A barn, a carriage house, and a hay shed. These buildings are reported in bad condition and old, and were on the farm when the Home was organized. The transportation of the Home consists of 1 surrey, 1 carriage, 1 ambulance, 1 messenger wagon, 7 wagons for use around Home and on the farm, and 1 cart; total, 12; and 12 horses. There are no other animals owned by the Home, but stabling is furnished for 6 private vehicles and 6 private horses. The farm stock on hand June 30, 1896, was valued at $540. The value of the farm products furnished the commissary department is reported as $1,474.18, and that fed to the stock, $166.55. Last year it was $624, and $62.60 was received from the sale of products. The quality of the crop is reported to be as good as what was purchased. The appropriation for the farm was $6,000, which embraces the expense of maintaining the teams and drivers for the teaming about the Home and the ornamentation and care of the grounds.

SUPPLY DEPARTMENTS.

Buildings.

The buildings at this Branch are new and more are being constantly added, and they were in neat order and well policed. The barracks are all brick structures with basements and attics and slate roofs, and no Home can show a better model nor buildings better kept. Ventilation is effected by two air flues from basement to roof, connecting with each dormitory, and by open fireplaces and transoms. They are heated by gas in open fireplaces in all dormitories, and one is also heated with hot air. During extreme cold weather the fireplaces are insufficient. Some of the cellars have been remarkably damp. The nature of the neighboring soil suggests carefully considered and extensive subsoil drainage. Light is supplied by natural gas, five double pendent burners hanging from the ceiling of each dormitory and one in each hall, but it is reported poor, though the Welsbach burner seems to improve the light. The barracks are occupied by about 50 per cent more than they were originally intended for, and there are about 90 men to a bath tub and 25 to each hopper and urinal. The basements are not used for sleeping purposes, which may be numbered among the kindly blessings of this and some of the other Homes. One is occupied as mess for clerks and the others are used as shops and for other purposes. The attics are used for sleeping purposes and storerooms, principally for personal baggage, and one as a practice room by the band. The attics at this Branch, as at Santa Monica, seem to be considered by the Home people to be as desirable as the regular dormitories, and those sleeping in them are said to prefer them on account of the quietness.

Bedsteads and bedding.

The bedsteads are 6½ feet long and 2½ feet wide, with woven-wire mattresses. The hospital bedsteads are one-half foot wider, and, therefore, decidedly more comfortable, and might wisely be gradually introduced as the adopted pattern for all. The barrack mattress, which replaced the ridiculously thin pad, is reported to weigh 17½ pounds, and the hospital 20 pounds, and both are made of cotton. The average supply of bedding per man consists of 2 pillowcases, 3 sheets, 3 blankets, 1 counterpane, 1 mattress, and 1 pillow. Bunks and mattresses are examined once each week by a man regularly detailed for such work, and the effect on cleanliness and freedom from bugs needs no comment; and all bedding is aired at least weekly, and a general house cleaning occurs twice each year. The locker in use is 28 inches high, 24 wide, and 13 deep, and has 1 shelf inside and an outside door with cupboard turn, and gives satisfaction. Bedsteads, bedding, and lockers were reported in good condition. It seems a pity that so many of the recent purchases should appear insufficient in size.

Supplies.

There is but one storehouse at this Branch, a brick structure used for both quartermaster and subsistence supplies and property, and the Home must be expected to outgrow it. It was in good condition, but of insufficient capacity, and the attics of two barracks and a basement have to be used also for quartermaster stores. Part of the subsistence and quartermaster supplies are stored together in the basement of the storehouse. Quartermaster inventories are reported as taken annually, except of clothing, and subsistence stores quarterly, and verified by the quartermaster-sergeant and property clerk. Furniture and other property of the Home is not all marked, but taken up as public property on the property ledger. Unserviceable property is condemned and disposed of as directed by the inspector. The value and amount of property condemned are exhibited in the tables appended. The supplies seemed of good quality and ample. The broom and mop stands and the fancy blacking benches noticed at this Branch may deserve mention. The former cost $3.41 and the latter $8.95 each. They are decorative and handy, instead of playing "poor puss wants a corner," as mops and brooms usually do, quite unsuccessfully. Three grades of beef are bought at .05¼, .06, and .06½ per pound. The first and third qualities are delivered on the same date and the second on intermediate dates.

Clothing.

Clothing when received is entered on the property ledger and issued on properly signed requisitions to members, who are then charged with it on the individual clothing ledger. The number of signatures required to clothe the command might excite remark in any organized body of men. New clothing is not issued unless the old clothing turned in is sufficiently worn out and unfit for further use and has been worn the prescribed time. When a member has been absent one year his clothing, with the exception of hat, greatcoat, and dress coat (if the term of using same has not expired), is distributed. Such as is found fit for reissue is taken up on the ledger and the rest placed on second hand shelf for issue, except that worn out, which is set aside for condemnation. The imperishable-property account shows only the clothing on hand for issue. Condemned clothing, of which no record is kept, is cut up and sold for rags, except shirts and drawers, which are issued for mops, and suspenders, shoes completely worn out, caps, and slippers, which are destroyed; shoes that have fair uppers are sold. Some complaint was made of delay in receiving shoes, so that second-hand shoes had to be repaired from time to time and reissued. It was stated that 600 men there required shoes, but that 310 pairs were on the way. The shoes wear well, and some will stand their half soles if nails rather than pegs are used.

The clothing condemned during the year cost originally $13,114.83, and gave 8,850 pounds of rags. No sale was effected during the year, though proposals had been invited. There was but one bidder, his offer amounting to $541.35, and ranging from 30 cents per 100 pounds for cotton lining to 13 cents per pound for sky-blue seamless; but for some unknown reason the Home authorities had not heard from him at date of inspection.

Laundry.

All soiled underclothes are washed once a week, the clothing being sent from companies and hospital on stated days to the laundry; and there is no amount fixed of what each member may send. The average number of pieces of clothing laundered per month is reported as 9,330, of which 3,892 are shirts, 3,663 drawers, 1,131 pairs of socks, 27 trousers, 567 waiters' coats, 46 overalls, and 4 blouses. About 5 per cent of the members have their washing done outside, and about 60 per cent wash their own socks. There are 15 men employed in the laundry.

Fire department.

The steel standpipe erected at the Home during the year is reported to hold 238,000 gallons of water and to be kept full at all times, giving a sufficient pressure to throw water over the highest buildings. The water question here is pressing, as at other Branches. The fire apparatus consists of a large hose reel, with 1,000 feet of 2½-inch hose and small hose on hangers, in the halls of all buildings from basements to attics. The large hose is tested every thirty days and the small hose every ninety days, and both were reported in good condition and adequate. The fire company consists of 16 members, who meet every Saturday, and are said to be able to respond in case of fire in from one to five minutes. A small fire occurred on December 15, 1895, at the laundry boiler room, which was extinguished in two and one-half minutes and caused a loss of only about $1. The only other fire at this Branch occurred in 1894 at the guardhouse, where the roof caught fire from the stovepipe. The fire company had a stream of water on the building in seven minutes, though the alarm was given at 2 a. m., and the ground was covered with snow and ice. The damage was about $10.

Engineer department.

The chief engineer has been on duty at the Home for about seven years, and has charge of all shops, pumping station, gas, and water-supply plants and superintends the erection of all buildings. Forty-five men are employed under him.

There are but six shops at this Branch, the carpenter, paint, and pipe shops located in barrack basement, the tailor and shoe shop in the storehouse, and the blacksmith shop in a separate building. The carpenter and paint shops are not considered suitably located under barracks. The quartermaster has charge of the shop accounts. Repairs are made on requisition approved by the governor and sent to the chief engineer through the quartermaster's department, though when immediate attention is needed the governor is consulted and issues the necessary orders to the engineer. A new system of shop accounts was being inaugurated here so as to show a profit or loss in each account.

The water supply is pumped from 7 gravel wells 87 feet deep and from 1 well 345 feet deep, and distributed by standpipe pressure. The gravel wells are not reported satisfactory. The sewerage is in good condition.

Dining hall and kitchen.

The dining hall, which has but recently been completed, and the kitchen were in good order and police; and the facilities for cooking and serving meals are reported ample, except that two boiling kettles are required. The shining coffee hopper is an illustration how this young Home is rivaling the best of the old ones in the absolute cleanliness and painstaking care of its management; and the design, construction, accessories, and care of the buildings here show the progress of the Branches to this, which is the latest built in brick. The appearance and conduct of the members seem to reflect the excellence of their surroundings. The dining hall has a capacity of 1,272, which was more than adequate for present use, and under the prevailing system of setting tables twice at the Homes the provision here promises to be as adequate as any. The permanent employees average 22 in kitchen and 5 in dining hall, and 42 are detailed each week for temporary duty in the dining room. The food seems well cooked and ample. During the week ending August 29, 1896, there were 10,534 rations expended in kitchen and hospital, or an average per day of 1,504$\frac{4}{7}$, which cost $1,370.76. Adding to this $109.33 for value of products of farm furnished and $116.57 for labor, the total cost was $1,596.66, which gives an average cost per ration of 15$\frac{8}{10}$ cents, or 14$\frac{7}{8}$ cents without the farm products. The average cost of the hospital ration was about 6 cents higher than that of the general dining hall.

Swill and garbage were sold last year under contract at $17 per month. The amount is estimated at 30 tons per month. This year it is given for the hauling, as it is stated no contract could be obtained.

There are 2,136 pieces of crockery reported in daily use. The per cent of breakage is reported as ranging from four-tenths for salt cellars to 67 for water pitchers.

The new type of dining-room tables, manufactured for the new mess hall, cost $6.50 each. They are a simple novelty and certainly look surprisingly satisfactory when new. Eighty-nine cast-iron table legs on hand were sold to the contractor for these tables at 70 cents each.

Nineteen members of this Branch receive outdoor relief in subsistence and clothing, at an expense per month of $106.40 for the former and $24.98 for the latter.

MEDICAL DEPARTMENT.

The hospital consists of an administration building, with a wing on each side for wards, and a building in rear, constituting the kitchen and dining room. The convalescents are quartered in wards 1 and 2 of barracks No. 4. The capacity of the hospital for patients is 224, and of the convalescent company, 64. The hospital attics are used as dormitories for the employees, and the basements are used for storage purposes and heating apparatus, except the basement beneath the kitchen and dining room, which is used as a scullery. There is a bath tub for the upper and one for the lower wards in each wing, with an average of 56 patients to each tub. Patients are given a bath as soon as admitted to the hospital, and weekly thereafter unless exempted by the physician. Patients confined to their beds receive a sponge bath weekly. The hospital was in good condition and well policed throughout. The placing of an elevator between the first and second stories was being considered. Such improvements would seem to be always desirable here as at Dayton.

The average daily sick during the year has been 213 in hospital, 53 in convalescent company, and 85 at sick call. There were 535 patients admitted to the hospital during the year, and 200 to the convalescent company, and 159 were discharged from the hospital as cured and 5 from the convalescent company. The total number of patients treated during the year was 2,598, including sick call, and each case in hospital and convalescent company was an average of 181.6 days under treatment. There were no cases of contagious or infectious diseases during the year; but there were 86 cases of malaria, which seems to be due to local conditions.

The death rate for the year was 45.35 per 1,000 of the average present and absent, and 32.36 per 1,000 of the whole number cared for, and is lower than reported for the previous year. Of the 81 deaths at this branch, 61 died in hospital, 4 elsewhere on the reservation, and 16 outside of the Home. The causes assigned are 76 natural, 1 from violence, 1 by suicide, and 3 the result of accidents. The average age at death is reported at 61.28 years, against 60.3 for the year before.

Sixty-six of the deceased members were buried at the Home cemetery. Members are buried in blouse, uniform trousers, hospital shirt, drawers, and socks, and in a coffin made at the Home at a cost, with box, of $4.96. The cost of a funeral is reported as $8.93, and no allowance is made for funeral expenses of members dying outside of the Home.

There are 52 hospital employees, of whom 37 are members and 15 civilians. The former serve in the capacity of ward masters, barbers, bread cutters, cooks, dishwashers, gravediggers, hall cleaners, nurses, and the latter as assistant surgeons, matron, druggist, nurses, and cooks. The ratio of these employees to the total number of patients treated is as 1 to about 50, and to the average daily sick as 1 to 6.7.

Medicines are obtained from the quartermaster's department upon requisitions made at least once in every two weeks and issued to patients upon the surgeon's order. There are 234 different drugs and preparations used in the dispensary, and the amount expended for them during the year was $5,820.86. Money and valuables found on patients when admitted are taken in charge by the head nurse, who deposits them in the surgeon's safe, keeping a record of the amount in a book for that purpose, and pays the money out on the request of the patients.

Facilities to care for the insane are reported insufficient, and the violently insane are confined in cells in the guardhouse and cared for by the guard. All others are cared for by the nurses in hospital. Twenty-seven members showed indications of disordered minds during the year, all of whom were considered permanently afflicted, and eleven were sent to the Government Insane Asylum in the District of Columbia. The average annual number of insane at this Home is reported 15.6, and an average of 6.3 is sent annually to the insane asylum.

Ten members of this Branch are reported totally blind and 13 with an impaired eyesight so as to be unable to read. They are quartered in hospital and given such assistance as may be needed.

The surgeon of this Branch makes a weekly sanitary inspection report to the governor.

No. 6.—Report of an Inspection of the Central Branch, made September 14, 1896.

The officers of this Branch are Col. J. B. Thomas, governor; Capt. Milton McCoy, treasurer; Capt. James C. Michie, quartermaster; Maj. J. S. Galbraith, commissary of subsistence; Maj. Carl Berlin, adjutant-general; Dr. David C. Huffman, surgeon; Rev. Ezekiel Light, Protestant chaplain; Rev. C. S. Kemper, Catholic chaplain; Maj. John W. Byron, inspector.

There has been no change in the officers since last inspection, and their duties have been performed with the same zeal and thoroughness noted in a previous report. This is the largest of the Branches; the ratio of the annual pay of its officers and non-commissioned officers to the membership is 5.62, and the amount disbursed is .049. The question of neatness, discipline, good order, and contentment, which can not be measured by pounds or dollars, is of very great importance, and is too apt to receive ineffective or inadequate attention in such a large aggregation of men, already past middle age, and marked by the absence of women and children, and the interests and occupation of industrial life. Ultimately this, as all other questions seriously affecting the Home, must rest upon the governor to a great extent. Tact, discretion, and judgment necessarily find a marked illustration here. Perhaps the same number or proportion of members of no other Home have been promoted to offices of trust as from this. In organizing the offices at a growing Branch it may be that the position of adjutant and inspector can be made practically useful and beneficial, and demonstrate that the men are as carefully looked after and deemed of at least as much importance as the property or money. Perhaps the presence of a deputy governor at some of these Homes, a title recognized in the organic law, would be desirable, or at least admissible.

DISBURSEMENTS.

Treasurer.

The accounts and disbursements of the treasurer were inspected from October 28, 1895, the date of last inspection, to September 14, 1896, and involved $1,647,922.27, pertaining to the general, pension, and post funds. The expenditures, as shown by vouchers and transfers, amounted to $1,388,773.59, leaving a balance on hand of $259,148.68, which was all on deposit in bank, except $1,418.66 cash on hand, of which $1,350 was post-fund money. The constant balance kept on hand at the store and beer hall seemed large, though absolutely necessary.

The expenses of the general depot located at this Branch Home for the manufacture of clothing and the printing of blanks are paid by the treasurer of this Branch with funds furnished him by the general treasurer, but the transactions do not appear in the accounts of the officer who made the actual payments, but in the accounts of the general treasurer, and the receipts to the vouchers thus paid fail to report, as required by regulation, the depository upon which drawn, and the number of the check that was issued to the payee of the voucher, and the payee is obliged to acknowledge the payment from an officer by a check on a depository of which he has no knowledge. Evidently the close connection between the voucher and the check, which it is always wise to establish, is not accomplished. Thorough inspection of this depot's methods and expenditures are not facilitated by these obscure and roundabout methods. The officer on the ground (the Branch treasurer) who pays these vouchers should be compelled to enter them in his accounts and let the records show the whole and actual transaction. All the business he does is under the general treasurer's bond to the United States, and the present confusion seems entirely unnecessary. A sort of irresponsible performance of duty and supervision exercised by those on the spot and hypothetically direct payments by a distant disbursing officer seems unbusiness-like and tangled up.

General fund.

During the year ending June 30, 1896, the treasurer received on account of the general fund $580,757.88, of which $525,122.34 were from Congressional appropriations. The expenditures for the same period were $568,683.53, which was all disbursed by check. At date of inspection there was a balance of $17,998.15 on deposit to the credit of this fund and $14.01 cash on hand.

It has become the general rule at the Homes to issue a check only on a receipted voucher. This seems entirely safe, and insures the prompt return of vouchers in proper form, and where it is not always followed at this Branch a full and satisfactory inspection is defeated, owing to the absence of some vouchers for which credit is claimed.

Improvements and repairs.

The only improvement reported made during the past year from the general fund was the erection of a gas house, at a cost of $6,419.67, and no permanent improvements were under way at date of inspection nor are any contemplated or authorized for the present year. Those reported needed for the year ending June 30, 1898, are an addition to the central boiler house, brick water-closet, addition to electric-light plant, extension of tunnel, a new barrack, and hospital out-ward. The amount expended on repairs during the year is reported as $56,894.48. The most considerable repairs upon one structure were made upon the nurses' cottage, at a cost of $1,935.89. The original inferior design and construction of the barracks here made the introduction of new ones of healthful and comfortable design very desirable. An exhaustive report upon the history and qualities of these migratory and transformed structures, accompanied by a well-considered plan to replace or supplement them with creditable ones, is required as a proper guide to Congressional action. Haphazzard or ill-planned or not well considered work of such magnitude and affecting so many people might be extravagant or unwise. Plans and cost were asked for in such form as would enable comparison with buildings for similar purposes elsewhere, but have not been received.

Pension fund.

The treasurer paid out during the year on account of pensions $745,898.29, and had a balance of $106,835.09 due the pensioners at the close of the year. The average paid each pensioner during the last quarter of the year was $35.61.

On June 30, 1896, there were 5,237 pensioners on the rolls at this Branch, against 4,958 a year previous. At the close of the year there were 824 pensioners on the rolls who had balances to their credit. Of these 5 had over $1,000 each, 31 between $500 and $1,000 each, and 219 between $100 and $500 each, and 569 less than $100 each. The addresses of 19 pensioners, who had $371.22 to their credit, were unknown, and 66 with a total amount of $7,489.96 to their credit had been transferred to an insane asylum. Six clerks at a combined salary of $1,980 per annum, paid from the post fund, are employed on pension work. The treasurer of this Branch suggests that the expenses incurred in the transaction of pension business be met from the surplus accruing from posthumous sources. At date of inspection September 14, 1896, the balance to the credit of this fund was $231,299.15. This large balance was deposited in a Dayton and New York national bank, and included the proceeds of $80,000 United States bonds sold by order of the Board of Managers. This amount of bonds represents the idle balance of this fund. The steady increment of this almost disregarded fund in the system of supervision suggests that authority be given for the deposit with the assistant treasurer in New York of all such sums over $10,000 where their safety would seem assured.

Post fund.

The receipts from sales during the year at the Home store, beer hall, and hotel and restaurant were $139,401.92, and the expenditures for stock $81,213.85. The cash reported on hand July 1, 1895, was $7,833.08 and $12,316.40 merchandise, and at the close of the year $5,042.99 cash and $16,078.68 merchandise, showing a gross profit of $61,950.35, and a net gain of $972.19. At date of inspection, September 14, 1896, the treasurer had in his charge $9,837.37 pertaining to this fund.

The largest revenues are derived from the beer hall, where 226,498 gallons of beer were sold during the year at one pint for 5 cents, and at a profit of nearly 150 per cent. The hotel does not seem to pay expenses, and seems to be classed with the theater as essentially expensive, though it appears that something near self-support should be possible. The employees under this fund averaged 2 non-commissioned officers, 82 members, and 44 civilians, whose average daily compensation was 80 cents for non-commissioned officers, 31 cents for members, and 90 cents for the civilians. The buildings occupied for post-fund purposes are reported convenient and suitable, and all were constructed originally for their present uses except the beer hall, which was built for the commissary department. The expenses of heating and lighting the post-fund buildings, heretofore paid from the post fund at an estimated cost, seem now paid entirely from the general fund, except for the coal used for cooking at the hotel.

Purchases.

Purchases are made by the treasurer under schedule regulations prescribed by the Board of Managers. The principal articles of food purchased under contract during the last quarter of the year were obtained from the following places: Flour, coffee, bacon, codfish, ham, and sugar from Dayton; fresh beef, oleomargarine, and sirup from Kansas City; tea from Boston; potatoes from Petosky, Mich.; fresh fish from Detroit; mackerel from Cincinnati; navy beans from Marion; lima beans from Xenia, and cheese from Chicago. Although the rations for flour and fresh beef were higher than at some of the other Homes, the other contracts seemed very favorable, and the average expense of maintaining a man here is less than at other Branches, as might be anticipated at the largest and centrally situated Home. The cheapest post in the Army for maintaining a cavalry soldier is Fort Riley, Kans.

Employees.

The number of employees reported authorized during the year under the general fund were 8 officers, 71 non-commissioned officers, 2,008 members, and 78 civilians; total, 2,165; and the average daily number employed were 8 officers, 51 non-commissioned officers, 824 members, and 61 civilians; total, 944.

ADMINISTRATION.

Population.

The average number of officers and members present during the year was 4,982, which is an increase of 215 over the number reported for the preceding year, and an average of 785, or 13.6 per cent, was constantly absent. The highest number present during the year was 5,162 on December 22, 1895, and the lowest 4,723 on July 1, 1895; and the total cared for during the year was 7,141 against 6,732 for the previous year. Their average age is reported as 62+ years, which is an increase of about 2 over the age reported for the preceding year. At date of inspection, 5,212 officers and members, including 39 temporary members, were present at the Home, and 811 were absent. Adding to these the civilian employees and members of families, including women and children, the total population present was 5,298 persons.

The number of vacant beds at date of inspection was 12 in the hospital and none in barracks.

Inspection.

September 13, 1896, there were 2,759 men in line, including officers, members, and band, and 2,414 were reported absent from review, but present in camp, of whom 938 were sick, 1,043 on extra and other duty, and 433 excused. The advantage in any inspection of getting both a general and detailed view is readily recognized; and it is never more important than when considering the comfort, condition, and care of men. Every effort has been made to see the men at meal time, in mass, or at their beds, whether sick or well, and nowhere has their appearance been more effective and borne such testimony concerning their condition, surroundings, and treatment, as when thus brought all together so they can be seen face to face—an essential of effective inspection, it becomes an imperative demonstration of the excellence of the Branches. The absentees from camp on the day of the review were reported as follows: With leave or on pass, 765; without leave, 46; total, 811.

Discipline.

Compared with the previous year there was a decrease of over 150 in the number of trials, and 3,617 members, or about 73 per cent of the average present, were not tried, against 3,252 reported for the preceding year. Of the total number of members tried, 887 were tried once, 288 twice, and 182 more than twice. Nearly one-third of all offenses were committed by these 182 members, and about half of all offenses were due to intemperance, or for absence without leave, and fence jumping. The penalties attached are usually work without pay, and restriction of passes, which, as a rule, are conditioned on good behavior. Fines are not imposed. There were 1,357 members in confinement during the year and 18 in confinement at date of inspection, and 299 members were dropped from the rolls for desertion or absence without leave. Discipline is enforced through company captains in barracks, and through the captain of the guard on the grounds.

Amusements.

These embrace theater, concerts, library, boating, billiards, and other games. Light plays—billiards, cards, and checkers—seem to be best liked by the members. The library and reading room were in good condition. The latter has a seating capacity of about one hundred and is reported usually filled with members. The library is not seated. There were 661 volumes presented to the library during the year, and 237 were purchased; and at the close of the year it contained 19,794. The number of books taken from the library during the year average a little over nine per member. The Home subscribed for 65 papers and 25 periodicals, and received quarterly 131 papers and 8 periodicals.

The band was maintained during the entire year with an average strength of 32 musicians, of whom 28 were civilians. The cost of maintenance for the year, including subsistence and other allowances of civilians, averaged $360.17 per musician. The band practices daily, except Sundays, and concerts are free to all. The civilian musicians are quartered in barracks and receive the same allowance of clothing and rations as members of the Home.

The theater is in the memorial hall and was in good condition. In addition to theatrical purposes, it is used for lectures, soldiers' reunions, and other assemblies. Thirty paid performances were given during the year at an expense of $6,990, and 14 free performances at a cost of $325. An admission charge of 5 and 10 cents is made to members, and of 25 and 50 cents to others. The revenue from this source was $3,007.50. The average attendance has been about 1,000, though the seating capacity is 1,500.

The billiard hall is being removed from the second floor of the laundry building, which is some distance from the center of the camp. There are four billiard and three pool tables in use, and no charge is made for these games. The billiard room is open daily except Sundays, and was in good condition. There was no card room or tables for cards, checkers, and like games; but they may be, and are, played in barracks, hospital wards, and Gold Club room. Facilities for playing cards are reported insufficient. The Home owns seven boats which may be used free of charge. The amusement room is reported as inspected by a commissioned officer weekly and oftener. At the date of inspection the new amusement hall built from the post fund was nearly ready for occupancy. It is a commodious building, finely finished in the natural wood, and frescoed ceilings. The first floor, divided by a hall, was used for a billiard room on one side, with balconies on the upper stories leading to small card rooms on each side, and on the other side is a fine, well-lighted reading room, and above this is a handsome hall arranged for society meetings. Its location is convenient, and adds another feature to this already attractive Home. The cost of the building was about $16,000 including $1,000 for fresco work. There is talk of a ten-pin alley or other improvements in the basement.

Wherrel or Gold Club.

This club has a membership of 210, and holds monthly meetings in its clubroom from April to September and bi-monthly from October to March. Its gain in membership during the year was 9, who took the cure for the first time; and 5 took the cure a second time. The treatment is not given a third time. The loss in membership was 14, of which 3 died and 11 relapsed. The cost of taking the cure for the first time is reported $15, and for the second time nothing. The receipts of the club during the year were $97.80 and the expenses $230.04, and there was a balance of $956.64 on hand at the close of the year. The funds are kept by the treasurer with the post fund, but the records are kept separate and distinct. Members needing the treatment, who have will power left, are advised to take it, and encouraged in every reasonable way. The secretary and janitor of the club are paid from the post fund; also, a payment for gold cure medicine was noted.

The following four societies are reported among the members: Grand Army of the Republic, 237 members; Union Veteran Union, 60 members; Union Veteran League, 208 members; and Naval Veterans, 52 members. These societies meet weekly and are reported to be no aid to discipline.

Religious services.

There are two chaplains at the Branch, a Protestant and a Catholic, the former holding divine services tri-weekly and the latter daily. Both are furnished quarters and live on the reservation, and receive a salary of $125 and $103.33⅓ per month, respectively. Services are reported well attended, and are held in the chapel and sometimes in memorial hall. The chaplains also visit the sick in hospital and members in barracks, the Catholic chaplain making daily visits to the sick and the Protestant on alternate days.

Farm.

The farm contains 285 acres under cultivation, and comprises the following buildings: A frame hogpen; a frame building for hog feeder, and one for dairyman; a frame dairy barn and stable; 4 cattle sheds and box stalls; a frame grain storeroom with vegetable cellar; a carriage house and stable; a frame stable for farm teams; a frame corncrib; a frame cleaning house, and a brick slaughterhouse. These buildings were all reported in fairly good condition. The transportation of the Home consists of 25 vehicles, carriages, wagons, carts, sleighs, etc., and 30 public animals. There are also kept on the farm 21 cows, 36 pigs, and some deer and bear in the park; and stabling is furnished for 7 private horses and 15 private vehicles. The farm stock on hand June 30, 1896, was valued at $2,950. The number of employees on the farm average 14 members and 2 civilians. The products of the farm are valued at $9,766.78, of which $5,558.76 was furnished to the table, $2,532.19 fed to the stock, and $1,675.83 sold. The supplies furnished the mess include 18,162 gallons of milk, credited at 10.10 cents per gallon, which is over 3 cents per gallon less than it can be purchased by the quantity in the nearest town. The quality of the crop compares very favorably with that purchased. Potatoes are not raised on the farm. The amount expended from the appropriation for the farm for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1896, to September 30, was $16,356.46, but this included the cost of maintaining all the stock at the Home, the pay of teamsters, harness maker, and stablemen, and the care and ornamentation of the grounds.

SUPPLY DEPARTMENT.

Buildings.

There are 32 barracks at this Branch, 17 frame and 15 brick, ranging in quality from the excellent one joined with the store to almost shanties, illy ventilated, designed, and constructed. All were well policed and generally in fair repair. They were reported in good sanitary condition, though the system of ventilation, which is effected in most barracks by windows and doors only, is not satisfactory in every respect, and under the floor it is still less, and this promises to be imitated in the new California barracks. They are all heated by steam and lighted by gas, except barrack No. 21, which is also supplied with electric lights. The system of heating and lighting is reported satisfactory. These 32 barracks were said to be originally intended for 3,855 men, but are now occupied by 4,385, or one-seventh more. None of the barracks have basements, but 12 have cellars which are principally used for storing property, and only one has an attic, which is used for baggage. There are no bath tubs in the barracks, except in barrack No. 30, but there is a general bath house, and members are required to bathe once weekly. There are 82 toilet rooms and 134 urinals in barracks, located in wings and corners of building. The average number of men to each urinal is 32, and to each hopper 25. The best general bathroom and latrine is probably at the Eastern Branch. A new latrine is estimated for at the Central, and where there are so many men something more decorous and suitable should be built than any plan shown there.

Bedsteads and bedding.

The bedsteads are iron with wire mattresses, 6 feet 6 inches by 2 feet 6 inches. There are two styles of mattresses in use, said to weigh 13 and 17 pounds. The average supply of bedding per man consists of 3 blankets, 3 sheets, 1 mattress, 1 pillow, 2 pillowcases, and 1 counterpane. The bedding is aired out of doors and washed when necessary. The lockers in use are small cupboards of two sizes, the larger of which is best liked. Bedsteads, bedding, and lockers were reported in good condition.

Supplies.

There are three storehouses, one brick, one stone, and one frame in good repair, but of insufficient capacity, and supplies have to be stored in sheds and cellars. Inventories are taken quarterly and annually, and verified by the quartermaster and the commissary of subsistence. Furniture and other property of the Home is not all marked, but all is reported as accounted for as public property. Unserviceable property is disposed of by sale or destruction after condemnation. The property condemned during the year cost originally $86,026.12, and $2,559.07 was received from the sale of condemned property. The large quantity of quartermaster stores on hand at the close of the fiscal year, $26,835.78, has attracted attention. The amount is a little less than that reported last year. but it is more than the value of the combined stock of four other branches having nearly twice the population; it may be possible to further reduce the stock without detriment to the efficiency of the service. Seldom are such Government stores improved by storage. Limited purchase and steady use under their long-term contracts is apt to be economical.

Clothing.

An individual clothing account is kept with all members; and issues are made in accordance with the terms fixed in the allowance tables, with individual papers requiring thousands of signatures, but the accuracy and efficiency of the whole system depending upon the faithfulness and qualities of the quartermaster's employee in charge of the matter. No exchanges are made until the articles are sufficiently worn, and their use is not infrequently prolonged after the term fixed in the allowance table by making repairs. Members who go on furlough are not allowed to take clothing with them except by order of the governor. Cast-off clothing is sold as rags. Pains are taken to prepare the rags for the trade so good competition may be obtained, at most of the Branches. The receipts here from this source were $1,780.98 for the year. The following are the amounts sold and prices obtained per pound: 776 pounds linen rags, at $0.07; 12,014 pounds mixed rags, at $0.0075; 6,622 pounds seamless sky blue, at $0.11; 4,539 pounds seamless dark blue, at $0.065; 5,969 pounds wool seams, at $0.03; 3,410 pounds wool socks, at $0.075; 5,728 pounds white cotton, at $0.01; 2,912 pounds linen sheets and pillowcases, at $0.02; and 990 pounds linen counterpanes, at $0.02. These rags include all parts of the uniform clothing except rubber boots, shoes, and hats, for which $64.91 was received. Gloves are not issued to the members here, nor is account kept of such as are issued at other Branches to men transferred here.

Laundry.

Soiled clothing is put up in bundles in each barrack and sent to the laundry on Monday morning, and each man is permitted to send one set of underclothes per week and bedding when necessary. The average number of pieces each kind of clothing reported laundered per month is 78,660, con-ting of 12,866 aprons, 25 dress coats, 828 handkerchiefs, 3,814 white kets, 210 trousers, 171 blouses, 26,169 drawers, 27,926 shirts, 6,478 cks, 50 vests, and 123 overalls and jumpers. In looking over the sh lists of one of the companies for seven consecutive weeks, the tire absence of socks from the lists was noticeable, and it seemed at bed sheets and pillowcases were washed but once in two weeks.

l Home clothing is washed at the laundry, except that some men sh their own underclothes and socks. An average of 40 men was ported employed in the laundry, and the pay roll during the year ounted to $4,014,59.

gineer department. The chief engineer has been on duty at the Home for thirteen years, and has charge of the heating, lighting, water, and sewerage systems. Eighty-eight men e employed under him, 77 of whom are members, as blacksmiths, gineers, firemen, gas makers, gasfitters, plumbers, and laborers.
ders for repairs are issued to the chief engineer from the governor's ice, and the shop accounts are under the charge of the quartermaster.
change is being made in methods of keeping and reporting these counts. Their utility and accuracy at some of the Branches has emed at least doubtful.

The systems of water supply and sewerage and drainage have received ich attention and require it, and after the improvement in recent ars are reported satisfactory.

The electric plant at this Branch was installed May 12, 1894. The stem in use is the Edison "three-wire system." The plant consists two 60-kilowatt dynamos, voltage 125, set to run at 110 volts. The gine in use is a high-speed engine, set to run 235 revolutions a nute, and is rated at 145 horsepower. There are about 1,800 16-ndlepower lamps on the circuit, also 18 arc lamps of 1,200-candle-wer each, and 8 fan motors of one-eighth horsepower each.

The Home fire company consists of the entire force of the engineer partment, and is under the immediate charge and direction of the ief engineer. The fire apparatus was reported adequate and in good ndition. No fire worth mentioning has occurred since October 17, 92, when the laundry was burned.

Dining hall and kitchen. These were both in good condition and well policed. The facilities for cooking and serving meals are reported ample, though tables have to be set twice for each meal, en since the annex was built. The upstairs room, originally intended another dining room, is now used as an excessively large dormitory, which it appears as unsuited as it could have been for a dining
om. Most of the men sleeping about the mess hall seemed illy located.
is space seems better used at the other Branches. Fifty-seven men e permanently employed in the kitchen and 125 in the dining hall, d 220 are additionally detailed for dining-room duty, the details ing made by the adjutant through company captains. From the ports furnished it seems that during the month of December, 1895, e daily issues to the dining hall averaged 3.57 pounds per man at a st of $0.146, and during June, 1896, 3.71 pounds at a cost of $0.147.
e issues to the hospital averaged during December 5.32 pounds per an at a cost of $0.156, and during June 6.13 pounds at a cost of $0.153.
e weights above given are gross weights and include corn cobs, elon rinds, etc. The issue of milk for the week ending September , 1896, amounted to 1,974 gallons, of which 590 went to the general ess, or 4,326 men; 1,221 to the hospital, or 792 men; 50 to clerks' mess, or 48 men; 37¼ to employees, or 102 men; 20 to bakery, and 55¾ were sold.

The sales of commissary stores to officers and members, and the making up of the individual vouchers in duplicate, are reported as taking up about one-half the time of the persons employed in this department. Subsistence was sold during July to 68 persons, and that number is reported as below the average.

Swill and garbage, including bones, grease, etc., are sold to the highest bidder. From this source $4,967.16 were received during the year, or $413.93 per month, and it is estimated that the refuse averages about 190,000 pounds per month.

There are 11,482 pieces of crockery reported in daily use, consisting of 2,014 coffee bowls, 234 pepper bottles, 332 vinegar bottles, 236 sirup pitchers, 1,982 vegetable dishes, 308 meat platters, 334 deep round plates, 4,058 dinner plates, 364 bread plates, 583 cheese plates, 572 butter plates, 230 mustard pots, and 235 saltcellars. The per cent of breakage reported for the year ranged from 1 for saltcellars to 74 for bowls. The percentage of the breakage seems large, and as it is reported to be largely due to frequent and hurried handling of the ware, would it not be possible to avoid this trouble by providing two sets of dishes, so setting the second tables would not unduly hurry the dish-washers?

MEDICAL DEPARTMENT.

The hospital is composed of the following structures: A modern building containing executive office, kitchen, dining room, seven wards; and dispensing department; one double 2-story brick; one 2-story brick, five 1-story frames, and a nurses' cottage, and has a capacity of 646 beds for patients. The so-called convalescents occupy the first floor of barracks 15 and 28, and all of barracks Nos. 21, 24, and 26. Their quarters have a capacity of 355 beds. The basements of the hospital are used as storage and baggage rooms, and furnish a limited number of sleeping quarters near the morgue for employees. The ventilation of the basement did not seem to be well established. The attics of the hospital annex are also used as dormitories for employees. The attics in the main hospital are reported not in use. There are bath tubs in each ward with from 28 to 40 patients to each tub. Ventilation is effected by open grates with natural-gas fires and by hot and cold air flues with registers.

The average daily sick during the year has been 605 in hospital, 340 in so-called convalescent companies, and 115 at sick call. There were 2,037 patients admitted to the hospital, and 559 to the convalescent companies, 66.67 per cent of whom were discharged from the hospital as cured, and 10 per cent from the convalescent companies. The total number of patients treated during the year was 6,193, and each case was under treatment an average of fifteen days.

The death rate for the year was 65.55 per 1,000 of the average present and absent, and 52.93 per 1,000 of the whole number cared for, and is higher than reported for the preceding year. Of the 378 deaths, 307 occurred in hospital, 2 in convalescent quarters, 11 elsewhere on the reservation, and 58 outside of the Home. The causes assigned of those who died at the Home are 317 natural, 2 suicide, and 1 the result of accident. The average age at death is reported 66.54 years, which is very slightly higher than for the previous year.

Three hundred and six of the deceased members were buried at the Home cemetery. They are buried in a new uniform, underclothes, and shroud, and a coffin made at the Home carpenter shop at a cost of $3.52. The cost of a funeral is reported as $6.78. The creditable monuments and general condition of the graveyard show a becoming interest in the departed. It is the duty of another branch of the public service to care for our deceased fellow-soldiers—and it does it well, as well as the Home cares for the living—and it would possibly be better to have national cemeteries near these Homes, where so many hundreds are dying, and let each branch of the public service attend to its special duty, which it can do.

At the other Homes the cost of the telegram notifying friends of the death of a member is paid by the Home, but here the cost is taken out of the effects of the deceased if there are sufficient funds found. The files of the inventories of the effects of deceased men were not found complete.

There are 199 hospital employees, of whom 172 are members and 27 civilians. The former serve in the capacity of hospital steward, ward masters, cooks, dishwashers, house cleaners, nurses, reader to blind, waiters, etc., and the latter as assistant surgeons, matron, internes, druggists, nurses, cooks, janitress, and laundresses. The ratio of these employees to the total number of patients treated is as 1 to about 31, and to the average daily sick as 1 to about 5.3. To have special nursing or waiting on done and paid for by one patient for another as a customary matter appears a questionable or inferior system.

Medicines are obtained from the quartermaster department on weekly requisitions of the surgeon approved by the governor, and issued to patients upon the doctor's prescriptions. No record seems to be kept of medicines after they are received in considerable bulk at the hospital to show amount on hand or dispensed, though much labor is expended in duplicating records kept elsewhere. The surplus medicines not on the quartermaster papers at the Home fill the druggist's shelves and are visible in the laboratory and storeroom. Money in possession of members brought to the hospital is taken by the hospital steward and turned over to the surgeon, who puts it in his safe in an envelope marked with the owner's name, date of receipt, and date of repayments. If a large amount is received, the larger part of it is turned over to the treasurer as a special deposit. There are 225 different drugs and preparations reported in use, and $13,556.01 was expended for drugs during the year. As instances of the medicines used, 1,000 pounds magnesium sulphate, 300 pounds carbolic acid, 46 ounces of morphine, 100 pounds potassium bromide, and 46 barrels whisky are mentioned.

The facilities to properly care for the insane at this Branch are not considered complete. They are quartered in 1-story frame wards in rear of main hospital, and there are six cells for close confinement and but one strait-jacket. There were 290 members showing signs of insanity during the year, of whom 80 per cent were considered permanently insane and 20 per cent temporarily, and 10 were reported violent. The average number of insane at this Home has been 155, and about 40 are sent annually to the Government Insane Asylum in the District of Columbia. During the past year 32 were sent there. Many sent from other Branches are said ultimately to drift to Hampton.

Forty-six members at this Branch are reported totally blind and 193 with impaired eyesight so as to be unable to read. The blind are quartered in hospital and first floor of barracks No. 15. The eye, ear, and throat clinic is a feature of this Branch, and members are sometimes sent from the others for this special treatment.

No. 7.—Report of an Inspection of the Southern Branch, made October 2, 1896.

The growing population of this Branch, now second in size, would suggest the appointment of an additional officer, say a deputy governor, as mentioned in the organic act, or an adjutant and inspector, like those at Dayton or Milwaukee. The logical division of duties among the governor's subordinates is to give one the care of the personnel, another the material, another the money, and a fourth the sick. There is an evident weakness at some Branches in this respect. Dr. E. L. Welling succeeded Dr. W. W. L. Phillips as surgeon of this Branch during the year.

DISBURSEMENTS.

The accounts and disbursements of the treasurer were inspected from December 14, 1895, the date of last inspection, to September 30, 1896, and involved $918,335.68, pertaining to the general, pension, and post funds. The expenditures, as shown by vouchers and transfers, amounted to $819,722.22, leaving a balance on hand of $98,613.46, which was all on deposit in the Norfolk National Bank, except $75 cash on hand. All checks coming into the hands of the treasurer should be promptly deposited, and checks should be issued only in favor of the person entitled to the payment.

The treasurer, by an indorsement on his checks, seems to defeat the object had in view by the Comptroller's circular of May 20, 1896, paragraph 4, in accepting as satisfactory to him an indorsement on the check other than that of the payee of the check.

General fund.

During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1896, the Branch treasurer received from the general treasurer on account of the general fund $387,128.32 and from other sources $15,017.43. The expenditures for the same period were $376,710.74, of which $303,730.18 were expended by check and $72,980.56 in currency. At date of inspection there was a balance of $57,591 on deposit to the credit of this fund.

The infrequent report of funds found on the persons of deceased members in the reports of the council of administration was noticeable, but it was understood that small amounts were not turned over to the treasurer, but were allowed to remain with the clothes of the members to be turned over to their relatives or sold at auction.

Improvements and repairs.

The principal improvements made at this Branch during the year were the erection of two frame barracks of a capacity of 200 men each at a cost of over $26,500, not including the payments to a superintendent of construction and for plans, specifications, and inspection of heating, plumbing, etc., and services of a civil engineer at $20 per day, while but $25,000 was appropriated therefor; and the erection of a frame guardhouse, for which $4,000 was appropriated, but this appropriation, though largely supplemented from the post fund, was exhausted before the building was ready for occupancy, and at the date of the inspection the old guardhouse was still in use, and no appropriation has been asked to complete the building this year. Usually the Congressional appropriation is regarded as the limit for the cost of a building. The disbursements from the post fund are not yet submitted to the administrative supervision of the War Department, and some payments from it seem to be outside the object for which such funds are raised, and some for services and travel expenses seem made with a liberal hand. The mingling of these funds with Congressional appropriations tends to confusion and inaccuracy.

The improvements authorized for the present year are sewage pumping works, including building; reservoir, machinery, pipes, ventilating chimney, and other items, for which $26,000 has been appropriated; a new gasoline lighting plant, to cost $6,000; an addition to the present latrine, $3,500, and an appropriation was made to reimburse the post fund for the amount advanced by it for additional boilers, $4,200. The estimate submitted by the Board of Managers to Congress for these boilers was $3,500.

The pumping station and reservoir were in course of construction at date of inspection.

For the coming year ending June 30, 1898, two additional barracks, at an estimated cost of $15,500 each; 30 closets in the hospital, at a cost of $1,500, and enlarging the ice plant, $5,500, are reported as needed by the Branch authorities, but the Board of Managers approve only the last item.

The amount expended on repairs during the year is reported as $27,925.40. The most considerable repairs upon one structure were made upon the main building at an expense of $2,541.21.

Pension fund.

The treasurer paid out during the year on account of pensions $475,463.36, and had a balance of $29,376.70 due the pensioners at the close of the year. The average paid each pensioner during the last quarter was $34.04. On June 30, 1896, there were 3,640 pensioners on the rolls at this Branch against 3,168 a year previous. The exact number of these pensioners present at the Home at that time is reported not known. Thirty-one of the pensioners were reported absent over one year. At the close of the year there were 275 pensioners on the rolls who had balances to their credit, of whom 2 had over $1,000 each; 6 between $500 and $1,000 each; 41 between $100 and $500 each, and 226 less than $100 each. The addresses of 56 pensioners who had a total of $2,916.38 to their credit were not known, and 12 pensioners, with a total amount of $1,257.63 to their credit, had been transferred to an insane asylum.

At date of inspection, October 2, 1896, the treasurer had a balance of $27,706.35 pertaining to this fund, all on deposit.

Post fund.

The receipts from sales during the year at the Home store, hotel and restaurant, and beer hall were $60,755.09 and the expenditures for stock $28,709.29. The assets at the beginning of the year were $28,074.97 cash and $6,033.56 merchandise, and at the close, $9,110.34 cash and $6,968.26 merchandise.

At date of inspection, September 30, 1896, the balance to the credit of this fund was $13,315.36.

From this statement it appears that all the profits on sales, $32,980.50, and $18,029.93 of the assets at the beginning of the year were expended.

The cost of laying a sewer and the placing of electric lamps and fixtures in the new barracks was charged to this fund; also the labor and material in extension of the hospital kitchen, heating and ventilating the kitchen, and alterations in the hospital pavilion, and other work connected with the new barracks and guardhouse, including $1,200 for six months' services of a superintendent of construction and $352.61 for his traveling expenses, and all the cost of procuring currency from a local bank on Norfolk checks for the payment of pensions.

The post-fund buildings are reported convenient and suited to their purpose, and, with the exception of the theater, were constructed for their present uses. The theater building was originally intended for use as a mess hall and general kitchen on the first floor, with a theater on the second, but, a new mess hall and general kitchen being subsequently provided, the building was changed so that the theater now occupies the main section from the ground up and the remainder is occupied as a store in the one part and smoking room in the other. The other buildings pertaining to the post fund, namely, beer hall, chapel, greenhouse, pavilion, restaurant, and social hall, are used for the purposes indicated by their names, except the pavilion, which is used as a meeting place for the Grand Army of the Republic and other societies, and the social hall, which is used as a club room by the Keeley League.

At the beer hall the Milwaukee checks are used, but the system is not so closely supervised.

At the store no check is kept. The storekeeper keeps an account of his sales, but no comparison is made with cash turned in.

Purchases.

All staple articles regularly used are reported as obtained by contract awarded after due advertisement inviting proposals for three, six, or twelve months' supplies. In general, supplies of a perishable nature, or those subject to frequent change of price, mainly groceries, are reported as obtained under contracts for three months; subsistence stores of a less perishable character are obtained under contract for six months; and manufacturing or construction material is included in the twelve months' contracts. Green fruits, vegetables, articles of special manufacture, and such supplies as are infrequently required, are purchased in open market in quantities not exceeding $100, and generally after personal or written inquiry as to price, etc., from two or more dealers or producers. The principal articles of food for the last quarter of the year were purchased in the following places: Flour, Fort Wayne, Ind.; fresh beef, corned beef, and bacon, Norfolk; coffee, Richmond; mackerel, sirup, and sugar, New York City; salt pork and ham, Washington; tea, New York City and Washington; potatoes, navy beans, and cheese, Hampton, Va.; fresh fish, Phœbus, Va.; codfish, Boston; lima beans and oleomargarine, Baltimore.

Employees.

The average number of persons reported employed under the general fund during the year was 5 officers, 18 non-commissioned officers, 428 members, and 57 civilians, which is the same as the number reported authorized. Their daily pay is given as follows:

	Maximum.	Minimum.	Average.
Officers	$7.673	$3.333	$5.625
Non-commissioned officers	1.667	.500	.667
Members	2	.167	.276
Civilians	4.167	.333	.801

An average of 70 men per day worked during the year as waiters without pay, but not as a penalty.

ADMINISTRATION.

Population.

The average number of officers and members reported present during the year in the official statement furnished in connection with the inspection was 3,084, which is an increase of 84 over the number reported for the preceding year; and an average of 1,129 was constantly absent. In a previous statement the average present was given as 3,131, and this figure appeared subsequently in the report of the Board of Managers. Discrepancies and lack of promptness in the data furnished for the inspection add much to its difficulties.

At the date of inspection, 3,400 officers and members, including 56 temporary members were present at the Home, which with the civilian employees and women and children make a total population of 3,465 persons. The number of vacant beds at date of inspection was 5 in barracks and 10 in hospital.

Discipline.

The reports show a considerable increase in the number of trials during the past year as compared with those of the preceding year. Of the average (3,131) present it is reported 1,405 members, or nearly 45 per cent, were tried for offenses against the rules and regulations of the Home. Of this number 262 were reported tried twice and 406 more than twice during the year. Last year these figures were but 31 and 54, respectively. Nearly one-half of all trials were for drunkenness and over one-fourth for absence without leave and fence jumping. Only those on whom sentence is passed are entered on the offender's docket. The penalties attached include restrictions to the camp and police duty in periods varying with the number and gravity of the offenses. Incorrigible cases are dishonorably discharged. Discipline is enforced by the company officers, the janitors in charge of public buildings, and the Home guard, and drunken or disorderly persons, whether members or civilians, are at once arrested and confined or brought before the commandant. A police corporal and guard are stationed at each gate, and on the pier where all boats are required to land, with instructions to let no members out without a pass, and to arrest all returning under the influence of liquor; also to search for liquor and prevent intoxicated civilians and disorderly characters from entering the grounds.

The pass privileges seem consistent with a good and reasonable discipline. All members upon admission are allowed daily passes, good from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. After six months' good conduct they are entitled to weekly passes, good from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m. (except Sundays), and renewable weekly until violated. After one year's clear record they are given a red card, good from 6 a. m. to 9 p. m. (except Sundays), until revoked for misconduct. Violation of the rules forfeits pass privileges according to the extent of the offense.

A small expenditure would improve the facility for filing papers in the vault attached to the governor's office.

Amusements.

Facilities for amusements comprise theatrical performances, lectures, library, concerts, base ball, boating, billiards, pool, cards, and other games. Among the amusement rooms are a billiard and pool room, a smoking and card room, a social hall for the Temperance League, and a reading room. The room where chess, checkers, etc., are made a specialty seems unique in its success and the quiet pleasure and pastime it affords. Base ball and theatrical performances seem best liked by the members, but each amusement room is reported thronged from opening to closing hours.

The library was in good condition and seems satisfactorily conducted. During the year the library received 258 volumes by donation and 3 by purchase, and at the close of the year it contained 10,363 volumes. Books taken from the library must be returned in good condition within two weeks. Books of fiction are reported in greatest demand, and it seems that an average of nearly 17 books was read by each member during the past year.

The band was maintained during the entire year with an average membership of 25 musicans, 22 of whom are civilians. The leader of the band is a member of the Home. The cost of maintenance for the year, including subsistence and other allowances of civilians, averaged about $295.79 per musician. The band practices two or three times per week, and there are no charges for admission to concerts. The civilian musicians are quartered in 6 small, one-room cottages, and receive the same allowances as members of the Home.

The theater at this Branch has a seating capacity of 1,400, and was in good condition. The building is principally used for theatrical performances, minstrelsy, lectures, and concerts, though encampments of the G. A. R., celebrations of anniversaries by soldier organizations, Sunday-school exhibitions, and other public meetings are also held there. There were 17 paid performances given during the year at an expense of $4,550; and 32 free performances at an expense of $5,152.15. The charges of admission are 25 cents for reserved seats in parquet, 10 cents for balcony, and 5 cents for gallery for members; others have to pay $1 for reserved seats, and 75, 50, and 25 cents for general admission, according to location of seats. The revenues from this source for the past year were $3,410.41. Performances usually draw a full house.

The billiard hall is annexed to the theater, and was in good condition. It contains 3 billiard tables and 1 pool table; and there is another pool table in the Keeley Social Hall. There are no charges for these games, and the tables are in use daily from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m., except Sundays. One large room adjoining the theater is used as a card and smoking room. There are 24 card tables, 7 checker tables, and 3 chess tables, and facilities are reported ample for all who desire to play these games. There are also 4 boats belonging to the Home, which may be used free of charge by members, and about 40 boats belonging to the members individually.

Keeley Club.

This club has a membership of 94 and holds its meetings in the social hall, weekly in winter and semi-monthly in summer. No gain in membership is reported for the year, as there has not been a doctor employed since June 30, 1895. The loss was 65 by relapse. The cost of taking the treatment is reported as $22.30. The club receipts for the year were $165.72; and the expenses $144, for the services of janitor; and there was a balance on hand at the close of the year of $197.27. The treasurer has charge of the funds, and keeps the accounts separate and distinct from other funds.

In addition to the Keeley League, there are 5 Grand Army posts, 1 Union Veteran Legion, 1 Union Veteran Union, and Ex-prisoners of War Society at this Branch, with a total membership of slightly over 600. There is a large inclosed pavilion at the Home, with a capacity of about 200, which is used by these military organizations and fitted up for their especial use. In season it is also used by excursion parties for dancing and other purposes, for which a fee of $3 is charged. These societies are said to have a good effect upon discipline and promote good order.

Religious services.

Divine services are held in the Home chapel, which has a capacity of 500. There are two chaplains, a Baptist, who occasionally exchanges pulpits with other denominations, and a Catholic. The former lives at the Home and receives a compensation of $100 per month, and the latter receives $41.67 per month, but resides outside of the reservation. The Protestant chaplain held 517 services during the year and officiated at 127 funerals, and the Catholic held 355 services and officiated at 56 funerals; and both made daily visits to the sick. The congregations are large, and the chapel at times filled to its utmost capacity.

Farm.

The farm contains about 80 acres under cultivation, and comprises the following frame buildings: Mess house and quarters for foreman; sleeping quarters for employees; tool house; barn (capacity for 60 cows); shed for carts, wagons, and farm implements; shed for mules; piggery for brood sows, and butcher shop.

The quarters for employees, cow barn, and butcher shop were built by the Home and are in good condition. The other buildings are reported in poor condition, except the quarters of foreman and piggery, which are fair.

The transportation of the Home consists of 26 wagons, carts, trucks, etc., and 6 vehicles classed as carriages, 8 horses, and 13 mules. Besides these, there are 29 cows, 2 bulls, 12 heifers or calves, and 93 pigs owned by the Home, and stabling is furnished for 13 private carriages, 10 private horses, and 1 cow.

The farm stock on hand June 30, 1896, was valued at $2,975.

Considerable loss was sustained during the year by an epidemic of hog cholera, which carried off 2 boars, 26 brood sows, and 142 hogs and pigs.

The appropriation for the farm was $13,000, and the value of the farm to the Home for the year was reported to be—

Vegetables	$685.64
Milk	4,530.96
Beef, pork, etc	2,611.87
Total to commissary	7,828.47
Teaming	3,301.25
Fed to stock	2,555.00
Sales	472.15
Total	14,156.87

Milk is credited to the farm at the rate of 17⅔ cents per gallon, which is said to be less than milk can be bought for in quantity at the nearest town. Why can not the milk required for the restaurant be purchased under the same contract as for the Home mess, instead of paying 25 cents per gallon?

The appearance of the cows seemed inferior, which was said to be usual in this section.

Last year milk was charged at 21¾ cents per gallon.

The yield of the farm products is reported small. Some goes to the hospital and some is sold to the officers and others, but none of the garden truck goes to the general mess.

SUPPLY DEPARTMENTS.

Buildings.

Eighteen buildings are used as barracks, not including the bakery, repair shop, and engine house, which are used in part as dormitories. Three of the barracks, the main building, and companies I and K have basements, and the convalescent company and company I have attics, which are all used as dormitories, the basements by 124 men and the attics by 139 men. The attics are not lined or plastered inside and during the heated term or the cold winter months the men often suffer from extreme temperatures. The basements seem no better and their poor ventilation frequently renders the air foul, stifling, and unhealthy. Thirteen of the barracks were originally constructed as such, one was a female seminary, one a hospital (which might wisely be replaced by a modern and healthful structure), one a boiler house and kitchen, one a guard-house, and one was a private residence, built prior to the late war. They are all heated by steam, except the repair shop and engine house by stoves; and fifteen are lit by gas, including the bakery, three by electricity, including the two new barracks erected during the year, and one, which was formerly a private residence, by gas and candles. The repair shop and engine house still use oil. Some of these buildings are old and their sanitary condition and ventilation are reported poor, though they were generally in good police. All, except company H, are provided with bath tubs, hoppers, and urinals, but there is a latrine for general use of twenty-four hoppers and urinals.

No record has been kept of amount expended on each building.

Bedsteads and bedding.

The bedsteads in use are iron, 6 feet 6 inches long and 2 feet 6 inches wide, with woven wire mattress. The hospital bed is 6 inches wider. The mattress in use in barracks is said to weigh about 17 pounds, and in hospital, 26 pounds. The average supply of bedding per man consists of 1 cotton mattress, 3 blankets, 1 pillow, 2 sheets, 2 pillowcases, and 1 counterpane. Bedding is aired when necessary, and sheets and pillowcases sent to the laundry weekly. The locker in use is plain wood, painted, 2½ feet high, 2 feet wide, and 1 foot deep, and is hinged with a door, and has two shelves. Beds, bedding, and lockers were reported in good condition.

Supplies.

There is no regular storehouse for quartermaster stores, the lower floor of one of the frame barrack buildings and the cellars under the Home store and of barracks of I, K, and L companies being used for the purpose. These storage places are in different parts of the Home grounds, which scatters the property and makes it inconvenient in issuing and properly caring for same.

The subsistence stores are in a brick storehouse used exclusively for that purpose, and the medical supplies are stored in the basement of the hospital.

Inventories are reported as taken annually of quartermaster stores and monthly of commissary stores. Furniture and other property of the Home is not all marked, but taken up as public property. Unserviceable property is disposed of as directed by the inspector-general of the Home on inventory and inspection reports.

Clothing.

Circular order, dated Hartford, Conn., April 30, 1883, governs the system of accountability, allowance, exchange, etc., of clothing. Articles that are good and considered serviceable after the expiration of the term fixed in the allowance table are not exchanged, but must be retained in use by the members to whom they were issued until worn out. Cast-off clothing is sold to the highest bidder for the fiscal year after due advertisement. The receipts from this source for the year were $952.73 for old clothing and $121.14 for old blankets. Cotton and linen articles are used for cleaning purposes, there being no other means to obtain material for this use, and wool shirts are used as mop rags.

The company commanders present an inventory on June 30 of the clothing on hand, but no use appears to be made of these inventories, nor is there any record kept of clothing taken from the Home and not returned. The methods in use will not permit of the readiest verification of the clothing account. The dress coats of the present issue received at this Home do not seem of as good quality or of the same color as those last received; and shoes received from the manufactory appeared of inferior quality and finish to the sample sent.

Laundry.

Company bed linen and clothing is sent to the laundry on Saturdays, and hospital clothing on Mondays. Members, however, take their own clothing to the laundry properly marked with a laundry number, and are ordinarily allowed three pieces a week, though no objection is made if they have occasionally washed more. The following is the average number of pieces of each kind of clothing reported laundered per month: 955 aprons, 313 blankets, 162 blouses, 381 counterpanes, 7,865 pairs drawers, 52 handkerchiefs, 13 pairs overalls, 13,561 pillow cases, 13,447 sheets, 9,277 shirts, 1,535 pairs socks, 79 tablecloths, 173 hand towels, 3,207 roller towels, 304 pairs trousers, 74 dress coats, 47 vests, 504 waiters' jackets, 73 pieces canvas, and 72 mattress covers.

There were 17 men employed in the laundry, and the amount expended during the year for laundry work done at the Home was $1,716, and for work done outside $109.14.

No blanks are used to show the quantity received from each company. When men use their own underwear it is washed for them.

Engineer department.

The chief engineer has been on duty at the Home over ten years, and has charge of all machinery pertaining to steam, water, gas, and other works. The engineer shop, in the basement of Company K barracks, does not seem suitably located; it is so dark that lamps are used most of the time. Thirty-five men are employed under the chief engineer as assistant engineers, steam fitters, mason, janitors, boiler cleaner, plumber, firemen, coal passers, and laborers. During the winter months there is an increase of 5 firemen and 1 coal passer.

The system of drainage, sewerage, and water supply is under process of improvement and reported in good condition. Water is obtained from the Newport News Water Company.

Fire department.

The fire apparatus is reported adequate and in good condition, and tested once in three months. The fire company consists of 16 men, who respond at once to the alarm, and are able to throw a stream of water on a fire in from three to ten minutes, according to the location. There was no fire during the year, and the last reported occurred April 13, 1884, when the stable burned down.

Dining hall and kitchen.

These were in good condition, neatly kept, and a success. Facilities for cooking and serving meals are reported ample, though tables have to be set twice for each meal, and a few tables frequently a third time. There are 22 tables, each seating 56 persons. Thirty-three men are permanently employed in the kitchen and 29 in the dining hall, and 53 are temporarily detailed in addition as helpers to the regular waiters. Details are made weekly, and no one is exempted from this duty except the noncommissioned staff and those excused by the surgeon. Pensioners physically disqualified must furnish a substitute. Substitutes are paid $2 direct by the detailed man. The average tour of this service is about once per annum and refers only to members who take their meals in the main dining room.

Swill and garbage are fed to the hogs, and what remains is sold when a purchaser can be found; otherwise it is used as fertilizer on the farm. During the past year 1,738 barrels were sold at 30 cents per barrel of 30 gallons each, yielding a revenue of $521.40.

The amount of crockery reported in daily use consists of 1,729 bowls, 618 vegetable dishes, 557 meat platters, 379 butter plates, 589 cheese plates, 348 bread plates, 3,422 dinner plates, 2,355 soup plates, 308 water pitchers, 235 molasses pitchers, 174 cups, and 371 saucers. The per cent of breakage reported ranges from less than 1 for soup plates to 81 for bowls. Breakage is said to be due principally to the quality of the material and improper nesting.

Five members of this Branch receive outdoor relief in subsistence at an average cost of $6.19 each per month.

The food seemed properly cooked and of good quality and ample.

Each officer may purchase commissaries worth the amount advanced by him, but must settle his account and buy its full value before the end of the month. This seems to be reasonable, and accords with the practice in the Army, except that no advances are there required nor percentage added. Members may not purchase from time to time from the commissary to the amount advanced by them, as the officers do, but must take out the full amount of their credit at once, except only the amount of beef paid for.

The clerical work in this department could possibly be much reduced if the sales of commissary supplies were reported on an abstract instead of on individual vouchers. It is understood the Treasury Department would as readily accept such abstract from the National Homes as it does now from the Army.

The commissary-sergeant makes up the requisition for the general mess, and for the hospital mess the matron and sergeant send a pass book, with note of such articles as they may want, to the commissary-sergeant, who adds or strikes out as he may have articles on hand. He then fills the blanks, and, after the requisitions have been filled, sends them to the officers for signature.

Shop accounts.

A new system of shop accounts was in use from July 1, 1896. Under this system the shop is charged with the amount paid for the service, but it is credited with an assumed market rate of the value of such service. In the carpenter shop, for instance, it may be the service paid is about 41⅔ cents per day, though it is valued at from $1.06 to $1.67 per day. Perhaps each shop will show a profit, on paper, to its credit at the close of the year. The labor expended in keeping these books appears more evident than the advantage of the system.

MEDICAL DEPARTMENT.

The hospital consists of a main building and a double annex containing four wards, and has a capacity for about 400 patients, though the overcrowding of the Home has compelled the department to receive and care for over 500 patients. The convalescents are quartered in a series of buildings termed the "convalescent company," which are old and might well be remodeled. The hospital attics are used as regular wards, and the basement of the east wing as "unclean ward," and of the west wing as storeroom. The hospital was in a neat condition. Each ward has a bathroom containing one bath tub. There are about 40 patients to each bath tub, and they are required to bathe once weekly. Ventilation is effected by air shafts and ventilators.

The average daily sick during the year has been 338 in hospital, 231 in convalescent company, and 233 at sick call. There were 542 patients admitted to the hospital during the year, and 256 to the convalescent company; and 382 were discharged from the hospital as cured, and 30 from the convalescent company. The total number of patients reported treated during the year was 1,125, and each case was treated an average of seven days, which is very small as compared with some of the other Branches. The surgeon of the Home reports an epidemic of erysipelas during the year, and four cases of typhoid fever.

The death rate for the year was 49.9 per 1,000 of the average present and absent, and 41.68 per 1,000 of the whole number cared for, and is less than reported for the previous year. Of the 207 deaths, 159 occurred in hospital, 1 in the convalescent company, 1 elsewhere on the reservation, and 46 outside of the Home. The causes assigned are 157 natural, 1 from violence, 3 from suicide, and 1 the result of accident. The average age at death is reported 62 years, against 66.25 the year before.

One hundred and fifty-four of the deceased members were buried at the Home cemetery. Members are buried in a shroud furnished by the hospital and underclothes taken from their effects, and, if they are taken away for burial, in a new suit of clothes furnished by the quartermaster's department. The coffin is made at the Home carpenter shop at a cost of $1.41.

There are 108 hospital employees, of whom 91 are members and 17 civilians. The former serve as hospital steward, ward masters, nurses, waiters, scrubbers, and general laborers, and the latter as surgeons, female nurses, and druggist. The ratio of these employees to the total number of patients treated is as 1 to about 10.4 and to the average daily sick as one to about 7.4.

Medicines are obtained from the quartermaster's department by requisition, and issued to patients on the surgeons' prescriptions. There are 457 different drugs and preparations reported in use, of which 343 were bought during the year at a cost of $3,904.72. The stock of medicines in the quartermaster's hands was small, while that in the hands of the surgeon seemed large. Whisky is issued by the gallon once a week; 79 gallons were issued during the three months ending September 30, 1896; of brandy, 4 gallons were issued during the same period, and 15 gallons of sherry wine in two months. All liniments, tinctures, ointments, and sirups are made by the druggist, who keeps a record of medicines on hand, and states he takes an inventory every 15 days and puts up about 2,800 prescriptions per month.

There seemed to be no record of hospital property kept, and the storeroom where property not in use is kept will probably be in better police as the hospital steward becomes acquainted with his duties. The records of the hospital do not show the usual care and attention given them. Some members in the hospital hire from among the convalescents nurses for their personal use and pay them at the rate of $4 per month. Some of the blind have such nurses.

Facilities for the proper care of the insane are inadequate, and an isolated building for their exclusive occupancy seems needed. They are now placed in a basement ward and guarded and cared for by attendants and nurses. There are also 3 cells for close confinement, and 2 strait-jackets, but no padded cells. There were 45 members reported permanently insane during the year, and about 27 temporarily, and 15 were sent to the insane asylum, including 4 returned. During the previous year 3 were transferred there, and 4 are reported as the average number sent annually to the asylum.

Thirteen members at this Branch are reported totally blind, and 25 have impaired eyesight so as to be unable to read. Six have to be led around. The blind are quartered in the annex connected with the hospital by a covered way.

No. 8.—Report of a Medical Inspection of the Southern Branch, made by Col. D. Bache.

Washington, D. C., November 5, 1896.

Sir: I have the honor to report that under the letter of instructions of the Secretary of War, October 15, 1896, I reached the Southern Branch of the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers, near Hampton, Va., on the morning of October 28, and proceeded at once to the medical inspection outlined in your letter of October 19. This investigation, together with special inquiries arising in its course, occupied the greater part of five days, terminating November 1.

The barracks, adjuncts, tents, mess hall, kitchen, bakery, laundry, places of recreation, hospital, detached latrines, and sewage pumping stations were visited, and every facility for inquiry was afforded me by the governor of the Home, who accompanied me throughout, except in the inspection of the hospital. The companies were present in their quarters, so that their personal appearance could be observed; and finally I joined the governor in his inspection of the command upon Sunday morning.

Before entering into details it is proper to say here that I was strongly impressed with the unquestionable order and comfort of this large aggregation of complex invalid life, for which successful result unusual organizing and administrative ability, with continued diligence, was and is required.

As is already known to you, the most serious and pressing difficulty under which this Home labors is the intense overcrowding. Were the barracks all suitable in original provision and equipment, still the numerical excess of at least 20 per cent over any proper occupancy would be a severe and unreasonable test, so that when this rising overflow has filled the attics and basements of well or poorly designed buildings, and occupied many structures not originally intended for any such purpose, the density of some of the local populations makes a startling appeal.

Under these conditions of pressure it is perfectly useless and immaterial to cite figures of floor area and cubic air space, because no two buildings, nor the same building in its divisions, will give the same figures of allowance, and for the added reason that in the great majority of instances no correct ventilation has ever been attempted. So, too, as to any record of the allowance per capita of bath tubs, hoppers, and urinals.

Between an air space of 320 and 1,078 cubic feet per man there are a score of variations, and the allowance of bath tubs fluctuates between a maximum of 1 to 29 men (29 men in the new barrack of Company N) and a minimum of 1 to 189 men in Company E; of hoppers between 1 to every 14½ men in Company N, and to 112 occupants in Company L.

Passing beyond a criticism of widely unequal parts, it seems sufficient to state that the best hygienic conditions unquestionably exist in the two new frame barracks occupied by companies M and N, and that these barracks also represent in most respects the type of the most suitable as well as the most economical barrack construction for any contemplated additions. They will give the best results for estimated occupancy, and will suffer less in bearing any burden of general overcrowding.

As might be expected under the less favorable conditions cited in buildings hastily adapted to a dense occupancy, and with insufficient means for correction and repair, I found many utterly unsuitable and unsanitary bath tubs, water-closets, and urinals; as to which appliances under faulty conditions it may be said that the wiser method is to separate them from the dwelling altogether. All such plumbing, unless of suitable material, well done and well kept, is soon offensive and rapidly unwholesome. Much has been done in the construction of the out-of-door latrines, to relieve the indoor demand for such facilities, but these can not be safely multiplied for an infirm and inactive population requiring the least possible exposure and exertion.

Were it not for this latter consideration I would advocate without hesitation, not for the latrines, which must be reasonably dispersed, but for the bathing, a central bath house for the Home. In this the stall rain bath of hot and cold water should be the prominent feature and constitute the principal means of ablution, a swimming pool being added if practicable. The bath tub should be subordinated, and but a very small number would be required, for selected and designated cases.

I am, however, inclined to think, under all the conditions presented or likely to develop, that such a central bath house, to which a large percentage of the Home members might be sent with regularity, supplemented by one or two bath tubs attached to each company barrack for the use of such cases as might be assigned by the medical officer, would satisfy the demands of a most difficult problem. The advantages of the central over the dispersed methods, even when the latter is ordinarily sufficient, are gains in regularity, in order, in cleanliness, and generally those of unified control.

The two sewage pumps, the second of which is under construction, should deal safely with all the liquid waste of the institution.

The messing arrangements appeared admirable, and the meal which I inspected was well prepared, of good quality, and ample. The bread was notably good. The inadequate size of the mess hall is already known to you, and any expansion a subject of convenience, the only sanitary reference ensuing from the exposure of the men waiting for the second and third sittings.

The men inspected in the barracks, as well as in review, were clean, and their clothing and bedding neat and in order.

THE HOSPITAL.

This building, a large and well-planned structure of brick, has a normal ward capacity of about 145 beds, with an actual ward occupancy of 195 beds. Besides these, there are in the ward attics 84 beds, and in the general basement 46 beds, a total in hospital of 325 patients. The excess of occupancy over allowance is therefore 180.

To the hospital two separate frame pavilions of one story and attic each are attached as an annex. The wards in this occupy both floors, and have in them 165 patients. The excess of occupancy, even were the propriety of using the attics unquestioned, is 91 beds. The total excess in the entire hospital is therefore 271 patients.

Here again, with double the number of inmates which the hospital should serve, the cleanliness, order, and comfort were most creditable to the management.

The hospital staff consists of 1 surgeon, who is the chief medical officer of the Home; 1 principal, and 3 other assistants. The service is performed by 1 matron; 13 female nurses, of whom four are trained; 1 steward, 1 clerk, 1 pharmacist, 2 assistants, and 97 members of the Home selected for the purpose. The number of cooks is 11, included in the quota of members, which also includes 2 laundrymen. Five other members of the Home are independently employed by patients.

So far as I could observe, the treatment of the sick was well ordered and judicious, their own appearance, and that of all bedding, clothing, and appliances, satisfactory. The diet, and special diet under observation, was liberal and carefully prepared.

The brick hospital proper is heated by steam, direct indirect; but the special system of ward ventilation designed, by aspiration through circular protected openings under alternate beds, has long been in disuse and the various ducts neglected. I found that the air of the occupied basement passed readily through the opened cold-air boxes into the ward above at the position of the radiators. Whether this system of ventilation proved inefficient or was abandoned without sufficient cause I am unable to determine, but unless it is restored the floor openings should be sealed, and the cold-air ducts secured against the existing very obvious evil. It should not be difficult in the mild climate of this Home to ventilate any building without undue chill to the inmates.

The number of patients treated in the hospital during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1896, was 567, the deaths numbering 163. The ratio of death should be calculated from its relation to the whole number of the members of the Home, its average strength, and not as among the hospital admissions alone. The chief causes of death were consumption, valvular disease of the heart, paresis, interstitial nephritis or Bright's disease, and pneumonia. Alcoholism is assigned as the cause of much gastric disease, and an important factor throughout. There was a small outbreak of erysipelas, but infection is not as pronounced as might be inferred from the overcrowding, and its absence is creditable to the medical management.

Of the 490 beds in hospital 26 were vacant November 4.

These simple figures represent an immense mass of the most interesting pathological material, of which systematic scientific use should be made. This now depends not upon organization, but upon individual and fragmentary industry.

The number of water-closets in the hospital is 31, of bath tubs 17, and of urinals 12; an allowance sufficient for the proper occupancy but insufficient for the increase of patients. No addition to this allowance is wise and none is recommended.

RECORDS, SUPPLIES, ETC.

The registration of patients, as affording a continuous medical history of any individual, is, in my judgment, defective, inasmuch as it does not complete the record, nor by reference to other entries assist the search. The much simpler continuous record in use in the Army, suitably modified, would prove much more satisfactory and far less cumbersome. This outline record should be expanded by a medical history contributed by case books, charts, and minutes of autopsy, records not systematically kept at this Home, and not dependent upon the individual interest and industry of the house surgeons.

The medical supplies are obtained in the same general manner as the supplies of other departments, through approved requisitions upon the treasurer; and there is an indefinite table of such supply included in the general consolidated lists. This table needs severe revision in the interest of precision of supply, correct nomenclature and classification, and economy of use. These will be best attained by a table of supply modeled upon that of the Army, and like that table supplemented by rules for requisitions and proper property disposal. By these means, and independent of the varying judgment of a chief medical officer, a hospital would be fully supplied, not only with the ordinary remedies and stores, but with dressings, instruments, and appliances for sincere and advanced medical work. This provision should include a chemical and bacteriological set in rooms fitted for such work and a suitable operating room fully equipped. What is now left to individual and desultory effort, with varying result, would be advanced to systematic treatment, with a resulting gain in efficiency and economy of administration. It is easy to appreciate the advance upon well-directed lines of sustained effort.

SURGEON'S CALL.

The number attending sick call at the time of inspection was about one hundred, but, as might be anticipated, these figures are liable to much fluctuation and great increase. The room in which this important duty is performed is entirely unsuitable for the purpose, and the method of identifying the applicant for treatment, by cards intrusted to the individual, is loose and unsatisfactory. These cards must frequently be lost or mislaid and can serve no purpose of accurate record. There seems no reason why the company sick book should not be used, and the sick of each organization marched to the designated place by a non-commissioned officer. This would contribute to better control, and the record would be continuous and intelligible.

There is required for this military function a large, well-lighted, comfortable room, with adjoining space for a small dispensary and minor surgical operations. No attendance except upon those sick in quarters should be required of the medical officer in charge of surgeon's call, unless there is need of some minor assignment in the hospital.

THE CONVALESCENT COMPANY.

There seems no need for this separate organization. It is simply an aggregation of the more permanently disabled and answers no practical purpose of filtration as between the quarters and the hospital. The members of this company are not convalescents in any special sense, and in my judgment they would be much better off if distributed among the regular companies than they are collected in a separate building, which is really one of the most objectionable at the Home. It is wiser for discipline and all administration to have a member, if slightly or temporarily disabled, in a barrack, under his company officers; or, if more seriously sick, in the hospital under the surgeon, than to establish any intermediate stage with a dual control, under any theory of differentiation of the sick.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

The most imperative sanitary need of this Home is new construction; for the barracks such additions as will house the estimated excess of twenty per cent, about 600 members, and for the hospital an addition to accommodate 100 beds. The most suitable barrack construction is represented by the frame buildings occupied by companies M and N; for these are not only of wiser sanitary design and appointment, but they promise, at a minimum cost of erection, a sufficient endurance for the probable active life of the Home—twenty-five years.

The construction of a central bathing establishment, upon some such lines as advised, will relieve the barracks of the extra burden of bathing now imposed, and new barrack plans might well consider the reduction of the number of bath tubs to a sufficient allotment for special cases.

I am also of the opinion that additions to the hospital accommodation should be of the same inexpensive construction; but to include, besides the wards, suitable space for laboratory and operative work. To relieve the hospital of urgent pressure, such as the present reprehensible sick occupancy of dark and unsanitary basements, all insane members requiring constant care or restraint should be transferred to the Government Asylum for the Insane, and this separation should be maintained.

Again, as these Homes are to all intents and purposes large hospitals, of which the barracks are but the wards, and the hospital proper only a place of marked and final absorption, it is increasingly plain and of the greatest importance that the medical administration should be as exact and intelligent as can be attained. To this end it is essential that the chief medical officer should be selected for active administrative ability, for professional knowledge and practical value, and that none but young men of hospital experience and accredited attainments be assigned as assistants. Judging from a necessarily short observation I think that care has been used in the appointment of this latter class, and that the results are most creditable.

To attain the full value of the experience offered by this large congregation of men of advanced years and varied infirmities, to collect and codify rare and interesting data and results, the most precise records should be maintained, and but little should remain for individual choice and activity.

The method of hospital supply is now too indirect and the responsibility so distributed that accurate and intimate knowledge of what is required and what has been used does not rest in any one individual. Whether the present method of obtaining medical supplies is continued or not there should be a precise and well-considered table of supply prepared and strictly enforced.

Finally, and as a recommendation upon which all medical and sanitary suggestions converge, I advise most emphatically either that a competent medical associate be authorized by legislation upon the Board of Managers, through whom all sanitary and medical matters should proceed, and upon whom reliance could be placed for thorough medical inspection of all Home Branches or such equivalent association of medical control and advice with the Board as will secure a central and uniform medical administration. When this uninterrupted medical direction is assured, all medical and sanitary questions will be readily solved.

Very respectfully,

DALLAS BACHE,
Colonel, Assistant Surgeon-General, United States Army.

Brig. Gen. J. C. BRECKINRIDGE,
Inspector-General U. S. A., Washington, D. C.

No. 9.—GENERAL DEPOT.

This depot is located at the Central Branch, and is in charge of Mrs. E. L. Miller, as superintendent. The systematic order and neatness that everywhere prevailed was creditable, and the familiarity of the superintendent with all the details of the various shops and records evinced the personal interest and attention she gave to the performance of her duties.

At this depot is manufactured the uniform clothing, underwear, bedding, and blank forms for distribution to the several Branches of the Home. It is located in one of the main buildings, well lighted, and occupying a floor space of nearly 41,000 square feet, divided into a tailor shop, knitting shop, suspender shop, underwear and bedding shop, printing office, bookbindery, and warerooms, while part of a cellar under one of the barrack buildings is used as a storeroom for the crockery yet on hand.

A force of 34 persons, consisting of the superintendent and 33 members of the Home, is reported as the daily average number of salaried employees—as clerks, foremen, laborers, packers, cutters, trimmers, suspender makers, and sewing-machine operators—to whom was paid during the year $7,874.55, at rates from $125 per month down to 30 cents per day. In addition to these, a number of persons are employed on piecework, the daily average reported as 71 members and 126 civilians; the civilians are mainly women of the families of old soldiers living in the vicinity of the Home. These are employed in the manufacture of uniform clothing, underwear, and bedding. The amount paid them during the year was $37,563.27. The amounts paid the civilians for making dress and great coats was $1 each; for blouses and vests, 50 cents each; for shirts, 25 cents; trousers, 35 cents; sheets, 3 cents; and pillowcases, 2 cents. To the members employed on uniform clothing the rates were from 10 to 30 per cent less.

The materials are purchased principally on contracts made by the general treasurer at Hartford, Conn., and the treasurer of the Central Branch, and all open-market purchases are made by the last-named officer, by whom all the actual disbursements are made from special remittances made to him from the general treasurer, in whose name the receipts are taken and in whose accounts the vouchers are filed as though made by him. The uniform rule in all other Government disbursements that requires the voucher to be connected directly with the check by which it is paid has been developed by long experience to be of the highest importance and such practice is clearly required by the Comptroller's circular of May 20, 1896.

The reports from the shop accounts show improvement and are more consistent in details. If the values of the different fabricated articles were based upon the actual cost of the materials used, and not upon the cost of the goods during a prior year, it would possibly lead to a clearer accounting and a statement of the actual value of the clothing on hand. The present method was doubtless adopted as the more simple.

From the reports submitted by the several branches it appears that—

The value at last report, July 1, 1895, of clothing on hand was	$75,460.72
Received during the year from depot	198,497.17
Received during the year from other places	40,952.69
Total	314,810.58
Clothing issued during the year	242,139.64
Leaving on hand June 30, 1896	72,670.94

Reports from the depot show as follows:

Clothing and bedding:
On hand July 1, 1895	$123,942.41
Fabricated during year	171,738.55
Total	295,680.96
Transferred during year	224,436.44
On hand June 30, 1896		71,244.52
		143,915.46

Clothing and bedding material:
On hand July 1, 1895	$30,619.63
Purchased	118,125.52
Total	148,745.15
Expended and transferred	109,352.48
On hand June 30, 1896		$39,392.67
Total value of clothing, bedding, and material on hand June 30, 1896		183,308.13

The clothing seemed to be substantially made and of good quality, though it was stated at some of the Branches that the quality of the dark-blue cloth used for blouses was not of as good quality as the former issue. The trousers seem to be cut on patterns suitable for younger men than those found at the Homes, and the tailors at nearly all the Branches stated that much of their work was the shortening the length of the leg, as the men, to get the proper girth, had to take sizes too long. A little longer over the hips would possibly add to the comfort of the wearers. If the blouses were not cut so low in the neck would it not give the men a more trim and soldierly appearance? and adding white collars and gloves to the authorized allowance, as is done in the Army, would encourage cleanliness in appearance. The only recreation possible to many of the old veterans is that of walking, so special attention is invited to their shoes. It should be possible to keep the Branches better supplied with a somewhat better class of shoes, and Regulars are now given barrack shoes also, which would be a very acceptable addition to the allowance of these veterans. Quite a variation was noted in the reported weight of the mattresses at the Branches, but it is understood that hereafter all mattresses will be made at this depot.

Under the law crockery and tableware are required to be shipped direct from the contractors to the Homes where needed. A balance of old stock, however, remained on hand at the depot when the law went into effect. This balance has been reduced $3,302.74 during the year, leaving $1,569.96 on hand June 30, 1896. The principal articles on hand are sirup pitchers, mustard pots, bedpans, table forks and spoons.

In the printing office three members are employed at an average monthly salary of $48.89, or $586.66 per annum.

There is so much variance between the report and the statements submitted with reference to the transactions of the printing office that it is thought best to make no reference to either, but attention is invited to the recommendation in last year's report, that the expense of this office be paid from one appropriation rather than distributed among the appropriations for the seven branches.
